"After dropping bombs which were seen to burst among the vehicles, setting a number of fires, our aircraft descended to low altitude and stopped several more vehicles by machine-gun fire. A successful bombing raid was also carried out on Tripoli (Libyan Capital.")

Mersa Brega is about 150 miles south of Bengasi, from which the British forces have retired. It lies northeast of El Agheila, which was the most advanced point of the British Libyan drive.

The Italo-German force, estimated at about 20,000 men, smuggled somehow into Libya—probably by way of Italian held Tripoli—was believed to face a smaller British force which withdrew westward and was believed ready to make a stand at Derna, 224 miles east of Bengasi, which has a good fresh water supply.

Of their setback in Libya, the British said the withdrawal from Bengasi was "in pursuance of the policy of waiting to choose our own battlefield....Bengasi is indefensible from a military point of view and it has not been used by us as a port."

An Elastic Defence.

LONDON, April 4.—(CP).— Informed Britons, commenting on the withdrawal from Bengasi, described it to-day as part of an "elastic" defence" against what is regarded as the start of a gigantic Axis pincher movement aimed eventually at Suez, with the other prong threatening Yugoslavia and Greece.

The General public was surprised by the Germans' ability to get a considerable armored force past the Mediterranean fleet. Since Jan. 1 the Admiralty has announced the sinking of 109,000 tons of Axis shipping by British submarines in the Mediterranean and observers said it was reasonable to assume that some carried German troops.

London newspapers greeted the Mountains Chief Slav Hope

Campaign Of Fierce Guerilla Fighting Long Been Laid

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 4.—(AP).—If war engulfs Yugoslavia, it will be a mountain war with fierce guerrilla fighting the chief tactic of the defenders.

Yugoslavia's peasant army of 1,200,000 men—outnumbered and outgunned by Italy and Germany—believes one mountain is worth 10,000 soldiers. Thus this kingdom's real resistance would be in the hills, where the motorized equipment of the Axis would be of restricted use.

Rugged highlands criss-crossed by precipitous ranges make up four-fifths of Yugoslavia's 96,000 square-mile area.

Only one-fifth is level enough for Germany's blitzkrieg operations on wheels and the Yugoslav general staff has planned its strategy with that in mind.

Long ago the Yugoslav generals, heirs to a fierce military tradition running back 1,000 years, laid plans in case of an attack by Italian and German armies.

Yugoslavia's army would fight only a delaying battle in the northern sector.

Early to-day the government announced that Belgrade, the Croat capital of Zagreb, and the Slovene capital of Ljubljana would not be defended.

Belgrade is about 50 miles from Rumania, Zagreb about 50 miles from Hungary and Ljubljana about 20 miles from Italy and Germany. With Germany's mechanized divisions massed on the Yugoslav frontier in Rumania, Hungary and Old Austria, the Yugoslav general staff expects those cities would be quickly captured

The war would be taken to the hills then and there it likely would resemble the five-months war in Albania between Greece and Italy, military experts said.

The Yugoslavs intend to have a hand in that fight, too, if war comes to their kingdom. Military leaders say Yugoslav forces would be hurled immediately into Albania to at-

Wavell Sticks To Key Issue

Loss Of Bengasi Matter Of Prestige Alone

NEW YORK, April 4 — (CP). — The New York Herald Tribune said editorially to-day that the British withdrawal from Bengasi definitely is a reverse to Britain but "is another reassuring evidence of the British ability to stick to the main issues."

"The original attack on Cyrenaica was launched for the vital strategic purpose of making Egypt secure; for that it was not necessary to go to Bengasi, nor is it necessary to hold Bengasi now. It was the spectacular successes of the Libyan campaign which led the British on to take the whole of the Cyrenaican colony; having done so, they then had a

Sea Dotted With Drowned Italians – Most Since Jutland

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, April 4 (AP)—Italian casualties in the battle of the Ionian Sea probably were the heaviest of any single naval engagement since the Battle of Jutland, British naval authorities said today.

Thus, they asserted, the original British estimate of 3,000 Italians lost in the engagement last weekend may actually be considerably higher.

In the Battle of Jutland Britain lost 6,274 officers and men and the Germans 2,545. However, this battle was on a much larger scale than the Ionian Sea engagement, in both the number of ships engaged and those sunk.

At Jutland German losses were one battleship, one battle cruise, four light cruisers and five torpedo craft; and the British losses three battle cruisers, three cruisers and eight torpedo craft.

In the Ionian engagement the Italians lost three cruisers and two destroyers for sure and possibly another destroyer, while a battleship was at least heavily damaged. Britan lost only one plane.

In contrast to the Italian casualties, British casualties were confined to the crew of the one naval plane.

"Thousands of bodies of Italians were floating in the sea on the morning after the Italian cruisers Pola, Fiume and Zara were sunk," officers of the cruiser Gloucester said upon returning to this port.

"They were strung over a 15-mile stretch off Cape Matapan," said one officer. "Most of them floated face-down in big cork lifejackets.

Italian Mutiny?

London, April 4 (CP Cable)

THE Independent Free French News Agency said today that reports reaching it via Stockholm suggest there has been a mutiny in the Italian fleet because of the presence of Nazi sailors aboard Italian warships sunk in last week's battle off Cape Matapan.

Even Huns Kept Wondering

How Long Before Blow At Slavia, Chief Query

BERLIN, April 4—(AP). — How much longer the Nazis will take to reveal their plans is an unaswered question on the lips of many Germans as the clouds from Yugoslavia begin to cast longer shadows onto their Balkan "Lebensraum."

So-called British and United States efforts to stiffen the kingdom's back became front page news in the morning press, which was without comment, however.

While officials still were silent regarding Germany's position toward Yugoslavia, the press began charging her with agrressive designs on Austria.

Germans generally think the time is ripening for a clear-cut decision one way or another.

Farm Trouble Looms Major Debate

Budget After Easter, Excess Profits Tax To Be Explained

OTTAWA, April 4—(CP).—With all urgent money bills cleared from the order paper, farmers' problems loom as the major subject of discussion in the House of Commons from now until the Easter adjournment.

The Government's controversial wheat acreage reduction program will get a further airing through discussion of the estimate of $35,000,000 for carrying it out, and general agricultural conditions across Canada will come in for comment during debate on the want of confidence motion proposed by Mark Senn (Con., Haldimand).

Last night the House voted $213,544,000 to clean up accounts in the fiscal year which ended March 31. War expenses claimed $135,000,000 in a supplementary war appropriation bill, and ordinary governmental services $78,544,000 in ordinary supplementary estimates.

These sums, together with the main war appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1940-41 and main non-war estimates passed last session, brought the total voted for the year to more than $1,300,000,000.

The war appropriation bill for the new fiscal year which started April 1 calls for an expenditure of that amount for war purposes alone in 1941-42.

Youth's Hand Is Badly Cut

BANCROFT, April 4—(ENS). — Gordon McAlpine, 17 - year - old youth had his left hand nearly severed on Thursday when his father swung an axe and accidentally hit the boy's hand. They were felling a large pine tree, and as they were clearing some of the small branches from the bottom, the elder McAlpine swung at a twig as Gordon reached for it.

The boy's hand was in a mangled condition when the father applied a tourniquet and took him three miles to Maynooth station, from which he was taken to Bancroft by car. He arrived in a weakened condition, but Dr. S. S. Lumb attending, said he thought the hand could be saved, though the fingers will probably be stiff as all the bones and tendon had been cut.

el, "is to ask the court to relieve me of my responsibility and allow me to retire."

Judge McGibbon acceded to the request and complimented the Toronto lawyer on the manner in which he had conducted the defence in the Nicholls case.

Gallow was provided with paper and pencils to take notes and was allowed to sit at the barrister's table, flanked by Sergt. John Thompson and Constable John Stevenson of the city police.

The evidence consisted of the recital once again of the chain of evidence adduced by the crown in the cases of Burns and Nicholls.

J. H. Jamison, C.D.S. manager, John McConnell, caretaker of the store, and Mary McGrath, cashier repeated their evidence as to conditions in the store on the Saturday night before the burglary and as to what was found afterward. Lorne Henderson, head of the criminal investigation department of the T. Eaton Company, once more reported receiving a ledger card with a heel print on it from Mr. Jamison and turning it over to Detective Tong and Francis Asta told of seeing a maroon car stop near the C.D.S. store on the early morning of February 2 and a man with a bag run out to it and get it.

Identifies Gallow.

"Gallow was the first man I noticed in the car," said Everett Osborne, C.P.R. sectionman at Bowmanville in his evidence as the maroon car he had seen near the C.P.R. tool house at Bowmanville on the afternoon before the burglary here. "He was sitting in the back seat on the left hand side."

"Any doubt of that?" asked Mr. Common.

"I don't think so."

"You are not going to say that I am one of the men you saw in the car at thta time?" asked Gallow in cross-examination.

"I am saying so," replied the witness who went on to testify that Gallow was wearing a cap and had dark clothes. Osborne said that he had been shown seven or eight pictures by police and that he had picked out three of them as strongly similar to three of the four men he had seen in the car on that afternoon.

At this stage the court adjourned for luncheon.

tempt to sweep the Fascist armies into the Adriatic with Greek assistance.

As for the Germans, the Yugoslav generals expect these four definite Nazi thrusts in the event of war:

1. From Hungary through the flat Banat region to Belgrade.

2. From the Rumanian frontier, where the Nazis are reported concentrating across from the Yugoslav town of Bela Crkva to Belgrade.

3. From Bulgaria toward the strategic centre of Nis, a key to the Vardar River valley leading to Greece. The Vardar Valley saw some of the most bitter battles of the First Great War.

4. A main attack from Kyustendil, Southern Bulgaria, through mountain passes in an attempt to capture Skoplje and cut off Yugoslavia from Greece and the British forces there.

Large numbers of Yugoslav soldiers are concentrated along the southern Yugoslav-Bulgarian frontier across from Kyustendil to defend the mountain passes and keep open the channel between Greece and Yugoslavia.

Military observers don't expect the campaign—if war comes—to be in the grand manner.

There would be no great armies locked in struggle; no static warfare.

It would be a war of rapid movement by comparatively small forces —and Yugoslavia in that decision took a leaf from the war in mountainous Norway which began a year ago next Wednesday.

As a result of study of the Norway campaign and with expectation that its conditions would be repeated here to a great degree, the general staff decided to decentralize the army command in care of war.

Much of the initiative would be left to officers of the lower ranks —small unit commanders—and they have been schooled to lead their forces in the event they were cut off from headquarters.

base which gave them a powerful offensive initiative.

"They could go on to Tripoli, they could threaten Sicily, they could switch their effort into the Balkans. For the first two Bengasi would have provided a vital base. But for the third it was of no value. They chose the third; and their yielding of Bengasi is interesting confirmation of the thoroughness with which they have done so. They are not diverting men or effort for prestige reasons from what they have taken as their main task.

"If you cannot do everything, it is solid generalship to waste nothing on non-essentials. The swift loss of Bengasi is a reverse, but one may read in it something of the same judgment and steadiness which, at home, have enabled the British to watch the indiscriminate devastation of their cities night after night without once veering from their own methodical course of avoiding militarily valueless reprisals, or husbanding their reserves, or pounding systematically away at the weakest spots in the enemy's war potential of never being diverted from the main issue. It is a valuable military quality."

2 Destroyers Scuttled.

LONDON, April 4 — (CP). — The scuttling of two Italian destroyers by their crews in the Red Sea was announced by the Admiralty to-night.

Order Post to Yield.

LONDON, April 4 — (AP). — Reuters News Agency reported from Eritrea to-day that the British command had demanded the surrender of Massaua, Red Sea port, and expected a reply to-day.

3,000 Already Captured

KHARTOUM, Anglo - Egyptian Sudan, April 4 — (AP). — British forces advancing southeast of occupied Asmara, capital of Eritrea, have made contact with the main body of retreating Italians and have taken 3,000 prisoners with many more being rounded up, advices from the front said today.

The imperial forces were said to have caught up with the Fascists at Adi Ugri, 40 miles southeast of Asmara on the highway leading toward the Ethipoian frontier. Mopping up operations between there and the Eritrean capital were under way.

At Adi Ugri, 180 British troops who had been held prisoner by the Italians were released and taken to Asmara.

Some observers predicted the early fall of Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital, despite the known presence of heavy Italian forces between the city and British troops driving westward along the Addis Ababa-Jibuti railroad.

The biggest Fascist concentrations were reported along the Awash River, 100 miles east of Addis Ababa.

Along with this thurst and the drive from Eritrea, other British and native columns are pressing toward the Ethiopian capital from the north, south and east.

The Italian garrison at Massaua seemed prepared to fight a delaying action as the main Fascist forces from Eritrea retreat south along the Aduwa and Adigrat roads.

yesterday Germany was aware Britain had concentrated "a considerable number" of troops in Greece near the Yugoslav border.)

The staff of the Italian legation remained ready for hasty departure.

Francesco Giorgio Mamell, the Italian minister, paid two short visits yesterday to Yugoslav Foreign Minister Momtchilo Nincic, but there was no indication that these talks or previous conversations Mamell held with government leaders had had any effect in shaping Yugoslav policy.

A Worry For Italy

The newspaper Vreme printed dispatches from Rome saying Italy's chief interest in preserving peace with Yugoslavia was due to the fact that a large percentage of her military and civic supplies—particularly oil from Rumania—flow through this country.

The government was strengthened in the face of the mounting crisis by decision yesterday of Vladimir Macek, Croat party leader, to accept the post of vice-premier in the new cabinet.

The communique announcing that Belgrade, Gagreb and Ljubiana would be proclaimed open cities said that "all interested belligerents would be informed of the decision in the usual way "if the efforts of the Royal Government for peace fail and a state of war occurs."

German circles have predicted that Nazi troops could occupy Belgrade, a city of 270,000 within 48 hours after crossing the frontier.

"It would indeed be unthinkable that any civilized nation would become a party to a treaty containing any such provision or that it would subscribe to any so-called principle of International Law which would permit foreign vessels to be brought to its harbors and roadsteads and there wilfully damaged and wrecked in violation of law and to the detriment of navigation and even the safety of its harbors without restraint or hindrance by the local sovereign."

Hull added that auxiliary machinery in one of the German ships was smashed and propelling machinery deliberately wrecked.

"If the scuttling and burning of ships in other harbors of this continent," he added, "may be regarded as indicative of what might be expected in our ports, it is difficult to see how your government could expect this government to be oblivious to the situation presented."

Of the Italian ships taken over in ports of Continental United States, Hull said 25 of them were so badly damaged that extensive repairs would be necessary to render possible their navigation.

Tamblyn, it was learned that transfer to an instruction post has deprived the squadron of the leadership of the belligerent, legless Sqdn.-Ldr. Douglas Bader, whose daring exploits in the air made him almost a legend both in the R.A.F. and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Tamblyn was a tall, businesslike fighter who first learned about flying as a grease monkey at at Saskatchewan airport, where be borrowed money to make his first flight.

Awarded D.F.C.

In December he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry in operations against the enemy. At that time he had shot down at least five hostile aircraft.

Tamblyn was an aeronautic disciple of Bader, who never stopped praising the fighting spirit and ability of the Canadians. Many times Bader expressed hope he would be left in charge of the squadron, which he still described as "all Canadian," though in reality Dominion fliers comprise less than 75 per cent.

And most of these are new lads who have been sent to fill vacancies caused by the loss of original veterans of the squadron such as W. L. McKnight of Calgary, J. B. Latta of Victoria, and M. K. Brown of Kincardine, Ont. — youths who made individual reputations in the lop-sided Battle of France and again over London last Autumn.

Of the original squadron only Flying Oficer R. D. Grassick of London, Ont., and Flt.-Lt. P. S. Turner of Toronto remain. They are both veterans of many scrambles and more than 15 planes.

Even the squadron adjutant, Flying Officer Peter Macdonald of Halifax, N.S., who has lived in England since the last war, has been transferred. Macdonald, who helped form the outfit into an operational unit, now is helping organize the training of an R.A.F. Cadet Corps.

At least 12 Canadian members of the squadron lost their lives, while six are listed as missing and two are prisoners. For their work the outfit won six D.F.C.'s, one Bar to that decoration, and one Distinguished Service Order.

Following the night's attacks on England, a lone raider dropped bombs on a southeast coast town at dawn. No casualties were reported.

A single-plane attack during the night on a home county village, however, brought a toll of 8 killed and a number injured.

The Air Ministry said the total plane loss for the Axis in March was 268 planes, with Italy alone losing 178 in the Middle East campaign. Britain's losses were placed at 70 for the month. The total Nazi plane loss to the end of March was 4,342 planes, the air ministry said, while the R.A.F. lost 1,821 in the same period.

Some Guns For Greece

The new allocations for new equipment, now under study, embraced army, navy and agricultural items, the President said.

He did not break down the $500,000,000, except to recall he had already mentioned some of it would go for 75 millimetre guns for Greece.

The President said he had also allocated an indefinite amount for repair in American ports of damaged merchant ships. He added, however, that none of this is for repair of Axis vessels taken last weekend or for any British warships. He said no Allied war vessels had put in United States ports for repairs.

In reply to a question about his conference yesterday with the Yugoslavian minister, the President confirmed that aid for that country had been mentioned.

He said Yugoslavia had requested certain types of defence materials and the United States was endeavoring to find out if they could be supplied.

Gallant Soldier Borne To Rest By His Comrades

Borne by eight sergeants and attended by officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers, the remains of Lt.-Col. G. G. Winterbottom, M.C. (Bar), D.C.M., were laid to rest in Little Lake Cemetery on Thursday afternoon.

As the shadows crept across the Union Jack covering the coffin, civilians uncovered their heads and soldiers presented arms in respect for the memory of a warrior three times decorated for gallantry in the field. A firing party fired a salute and the Last Post was heard from the hill across the flat. It was over and a soldier of another war had passed on.

At the home of Col. Winterbottom, friends gathered in silence to honor him in death, and many heard Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Church speak of his virtues, by the public address system which had been installed in the grounds to enable those who could not be accommodated inside to hear.

A semi-military funeral was conduted, but because of wartime regulations governing, the regiment was not turned out.

Col. Winterbottom has been termed Peterborough's most distinguished soldier, and his record ranks with the greatest this country has produced. He was born in Stockdale, Ontario, but had lived in Peterborough for the past 22 years. Survivors are his sorrowing wife, the former Myrtle Sedgwick, one daughter Anne, one brother Louis of Seattle, Washington, and one sister Mrs. Elva Cook of Oregon.

The active pall-bearers were Sgts. Harold Hamblin, Harold Robson, Drummond White, Nelson Stanger, Bob Weir, G. McKinnon, Gar Poole and N. Gell.

Officers attending, besides Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., and the senior officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers, included Col. L. T. McGlaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O., of Bowmanville, Lt.-Col. George Weeks and Lt.-Col. Ivan Moore of Lindsay, Lt.-Col. Caldwell, O.B.E., Major H. K. Clifton, Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., and many others.

Service Program For Easter Is Completed

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 (ENS) —Plans for their pre-Easter services were made by the members of Campbellford and vicinity ministerial Association when they met for their monthly meeting at the home of Rev. Herbert Bryant.

The schedule of services decided upon by members was so arranged that each denomination would have one evening in the week preceeding Easter and in each case a visiting minister will be in charge. The first service on Monday, April 7, will be at the Baptist Church, with Rev. G. N. Maxwell, the speaker, on Tuesday evening Rev. H. Bryant will speak at the Free Methodist Church, on Wednesday Rev. C. S. Reddick will be the speaker at Christ Church. On Thursday evening the Oberammergau play will be presented by illustrated slides at the Salvation Army Citadel. Adjutant Ken Graham will be assisted at this service by Rev. T. S. Gault. Friday evening has been left open for the sacred cantata, "Darkness and Dawn," which will be rendered in St. John's Church by the United Church choir.

Want Large Attendance

A strong plea for a large attendance at these services was made by the association which urge citizens to remember in their prayers. "The tens of thousands in the British Isles who have no church to attend this season, yet who are taking our place in the front line, willingly sacrificing their al lfor liberty and freedom which we in Canada enjoy. Let us show our appreciation (for this freedom by assembling in God's House and sharing in these services of Holy Week."

Rev. J. A. Plant of Norham who was a guest at the meeting delivered an interesting paper on "Jesus' attitude to present day domestic life." Rev. Eugene Beech of Roseneath was also a guest of the afternoon, and Rev. T. S. Gault, the president, presided.

Croll On a Cycle

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 4 (CP Cable)—Mounted on a motor-bike, Lieut. David A. Croll is having the time of his busy life these days with his new unit—the Second Division Reconnaissance Battalion, Canadian army.

Croll, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Windsor-Walkerville and Mayor of Windsor, who was granted leave of absence to join the army as a private, was assigned to the rough and tough "Recce" outfit after completing an Intelligence Officers course at a British school. He likes the fast pace his unit sets.

Home Nursing Class Has 11 New Members

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 (ENS) —The Home Nursing class which began here a week ago has jumped from 28 to 39 members for its second class in the series being conducted by the Canadian Red Cross Society. As a result of the unexpectedly large attendance the two nurses in charge, Mrs. Preston Hall and Mrs. Frank Midgley, have decided to divide the class into two parts. The first will be from 7:15 to 8:15 and the second from 8:15 to 9:15 each Monday in the C.W.L. rooms. This change has been found necessary so that each of the girls will have an opportunity to do their share of the practical work.

Lecturer this week was Dr. H. B. Longmore, M.D., who gave an interesting talk on emergencies in the home including such items as burns, fractures and hemorrhages.

Marmora News

Mr. W L. Rigg was called to Toronto on Friday owing to the death of a sister.

Mr. Ralph Campion of Peterborough is spending a week's vacation at his home here.

Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell is attending Synod committee meetings in Kingston this week.

The illustrated lecture "A trip through Palestine" was given in Deloro Hall Monday evening under auspices of St. Paul's Sunday School. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell manipulated the lantern and the reading was given by W. J. Cottrell.

Masons Enjoy Indoor Picnic

Over two hundred members of the Masonic order turned out to the annual indoor picnic at the Y.M.-C.A. building Thursday night and enjoyed one of the most eventful evenings of this kind since the inceptio nof this annual program in 1934, when General Secretary G. H. Roper proposed this original idea to the officers of the three Blue lodges of the city. The program contained some new ideas and the swimming exhibition proved to be a most attractive innovation. The swimming pool was packed with a most enthusiastic crowd of spectators, all men, a rather unusual group in these days, even in the Y.M.C.A. The work of the group of young ladies from the Y.W.C.A. was keenly appreciated. Mrs. Hazel Dunsford was in charge and ably directed their program at the microphone. Al. Marshall gave a demonstration of his winning style, and the Junior Swimming Club showed a typical workout program. Gord. Minty and Stan Shields were in charge of swimming display.

In volleyball, Corinthian and Peterborough lodges proved to be too much for the Royal Arthur team who lacked one good spiker. Corinthian and Peterborough tied in games, Corinthian getting the decision on total points scored. The winning team was Stan Payne, captain, Walker Jones, Jim Wharry, Don Loucks, Jack Gillespie and Herb Cranford. Al Clark handled the whistle to everybody's satisfaction.

A team composed of Harry Vass, A. Anderson, P. McNamee, L. Barry and Ed. Downing from Peterborough lodge won the bowling, and Peterborough also won the billiards competition; Tom Craig, Ben McMaster, R. J. Knox and Fred Rappe composing the winning team. A number of bridge enthusiasts enjoyed a quiet game in the men's club room.

Ross Dobbin presided at the social hour, and recognition of the winners. A number of visiting brethren were present. The 1941 picnic will go down in the records as "one of the best."

W. H. Hill won the blanket drawn, the proceeds of which go to the British Masonic War Victims' Fund.

SAFETY MEASURES BEING TAUGHT THROUGH FORMATION OF CLUBS

Port Hope Lions Planning Safety Club

PORT HOPE, April 4 — (ENS).— Lion Russel Osborne of the Bowmanville Lions Club came as a guest to the regular meeting of the Port Hope Lions Club on Thursday evening and was instrumental in awakening the club's interest in a children's safety club. The Bowmanville Safety Club was sponsored by the Bowmanville Lions Club and is now the foremost club in the province. As sponsors of the Bowmanville Lions Club the local Lions feel their efforts in Port Hope should be even more outstanding when Lion Bill Oliver gets things moving. He was appointed chairman of the committee to investigate the topic.

Lion Osborne related the Safety Club is favorably looked upon by police, and that when the children of to-day are shortly driving cars the are already familiar with safety rules.

COBOURG

Gilbert Wicks Transferred To Customs Dept.

COBOURG, April 4.— (ENS). — Gilbert Wicks, a familiar figure in the transportation end of the local freight delivery here, will be seen no more in the guise of the friendly expressman.

Mr. Wicks, after 20 years on the C.P.R. express wagons and trucks, has received notice of his appointment to the local custom house and began his new duties this week.

Mr. Wicks has been replaced for a while at least by Mr. H. Gallagher on the express delivery truck.

Bewdley Parties Prove Real Fund Raisers

BEWDLEY, April 4 — (ENS). — On Tuesday evening another progressive euchre party was held at the Rice Lake Inn, when Percy Fair again offered his hospitality for war fund purposes.

Instead of a charge being made, gifts of new clothing were brought and packed in a box to be sent overseas through the I.O.D.E., and a large box was well filled with interesting-looking parcels. Among the gifts was a beautiful quilt made and donated by the W.A. of St. Anne's Anglican Church.

Eleven tables of euchre were played and as fourteen prizes had been donated there were that many lucky people. The six highest ladies and six highest gentlemen were the recipients, also the lowest counting lady and gentleman. They each in turn took their choice of the lovely prizes, among which were a ticket for six-bottle cartons of soft drinks, fancy biscuits, chocolates, a ticket for four quarts of motor oil, and nice dishes. The ladies receiving these were: Mrs. Jack Orrell, Mrs. W. Kennedy, Mrs. Holdaway, Mrs. Harold McAllister, Mrs. McClung, Mrs. F. McConnell and Mrs. G. V. Ducette. The gentlemen were: Keith Halstead, Harold McAllister, W. G. McClung, Don Sidey, Gordon Bullock, R. S. Hancock, and Murray Manley.

The donation of these prizes is gratefully acknowledged and the donors were the Coca-Cola Company, the Port Hope Wholesale, the Sanders Hardware, Port Hope, Roberts Bros., Port Hope, John Steen, Port Hope, Harry Klintworth, Bewdley, Mrs. H. Gos, Bewdley, Mrs. G. V. Ducette, Bewdley, also Miss Alice Dillon and Percy Fair.

Lunch was served at the close and a short time spent in dancing. Tickets were sold on a coffee table, to be drawn at a B.W.V. dance to be held at Mr. Fair's on April 16.

The citizens of Bewdley have been making a worthy effort in the drive for war funds this winter, and so far a total of $76 has been raised, fifty dollars of it from euchres and dance and twenty-six dollars on two quilts made by the village ladies.

In the early part of the winter Mr. and Mrs. W. Kennedy gave a party at the Kennedy Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Holdaway have given one at their hotel, and Mr. Fair has had several at Rice Lake In.

B.W.V. Euchre.

On Friday evening Mr. Holdaway was the genial host of a euchre party at his hotel in and of the B.W.V. Fund. Six tables of progressive euchre were played. First prizes went to Mrs. Don Sidey and Charlie Coulson, second to Mrs. W. Kennedy and Wal. McClung, and consolations to Miss Mae Barkwell and Robert Hancock.

An interesting feature of the evening was a draw on a quilt made by the ladies of the village. Mae Barkwell was chosen to draw the lucky ticket from the container, and it was quite amusing when she drew her own ticket.

Lunch was served and a social time spent after.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Don Sidey, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Coulson, Mr. and Mrs. Walt McClung, Mr. and Mrs. Orra Barkwell, Miss Mae Barkwell, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Manley, Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon, Mrs. Harry Goss, Mrs. W. Kennedy, Miss Alice Dillon, P. Fair, Mrs. Fred McConnell, Mrs. G. V. Ducette, Pete Sidey, Robert Hancock, John Nurse, and Mr. and Mrs. Holdaway.

Quite a number from this community attended the shower and dance in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Jeant Varcoe and Lloyd Campbell at Campbellcroft Hall.

PORT HOPE

Hope Farmers To Hold Rally

PORT HOPE, April 4 — (ENS).— J. F. Heyland, president of the Durham County Federation of Agriculture will address Hope Township farmers on Monday evening when topics of interest to farmers in general will be discussed. The meeting is one of six township meetings planned for the coming week.

Other meetings are: Darlington, Hampton Town Hall, Tuesday; Cavan, Cavan Town Hall, Wednesday; Clarke, Orono Town Hall, Thursday; Manvers, Bethany Town Hall, Friday; Cartwright, Blackstock Community Hall, Friday.

COBOURG

Plant Employees Honor Herbert Fulton

COBOURG, April 4 (ENS)—Cobourg Dyeing Company employees bid farewell to one of the company's former executives here last night at a banquet in the new Royal Hotel. The farewell supper was tendered to Mr. Herb Fulton who is leaving Cobourg and returning to his native land, the United States. A jointly sponsored gesture of Godspeed by Mr. J. A. Midgley of the new Royal Hotel and the fellow workmen of the departing guest the supper was a huge success.

Presented With Ring

Following a full course meal, Mr. Midgley who tendered a ring to the departing executive as a token of remembrance from his friends and employees and spoke with deep feeling regarding the leave-taking of Mr. Fulton.

Mr. Fulton in reply spoke of the regard he had for Canadians in general and the people of Cobourg in particular. His association at the Dye Works with his employees had been of the finest he had ever known. He felt the keenest regret at his departure. He would miss his many friends not only at the factory but in the town generally. He had come to Cobourg a complete stranger but his reception from the start had been of the finest nature. He would cherish the token that had been given him until the end of his days he said.

Following his farewell speech Mr. Fulton sang a solo at the request of the gathering and later joined in with Mr. Midgley in a duet singing the popular number "On Moonlight Bay."

A Pleasant Program

Other guest soloists were Jack Mowatt, William McBride and Mr. Priestly. A colorful reminder of the present stirring times was a duet given by George Campbell and Frank Pearse, both Gunners in the 4th Light A.A. Battery who had arrived home on week-end leave from Petawawa shortly before. They took as their selection the army favorite "Kiss Me Goodnight Sergeant-Major." The piano accompanist was Mr. John Henley and in between solos the guests sang in true banquet style. One of their numbers was the familiar "There'll Always Be an England" and the entire company of more than thirty members rose to their feet to give vocal honor to the patriotic air. The banquet room was done in war time manner being decorated in flags with red, white and blue streamers. While the gathering began and ended with the National Anthem.

More, More Bombers

LONDON, April 4.—(CP Cable) —Britain produced more bombers and fighters in March than in any other month of the war, the Evening News said to-day.

The output wass aid to have included "large numbers" of Stirling, Halifax, and Manchester bombers, and Whirlwind and Tornado fighters in addition to the latest Spitfire, Hurricane, Defiant and Fulmar models.

Serves Her Country Again

Mrs. Mary McDermott of Newcastle, England, is pictured as she started her new job, that of a conductress, a job which she also held in the last war. She lost her husband last year and at present has two sons serving with the British forces. Women like Mrs. McDermott are one of the reasons why the British morale is so high, during the present conflict.

About To Dismantle Seized Slot Machines Town Employees Find They Contain Nickels

PORT HOPE, April 4 — (ENS).— There's money in slot machines, town employees found out on Thursday, even though they have been confiscated by police. Smashing up six machines recently seized from local business men, workmen found a number of nickels in the slots. Following a court session the machines were held the prescribed length of time in which an appeal could be laid, and were then dismantled.

In the Town Hall workmen took off the glass tops and looked into the interior to see what made them go. A maze of springs and wires was discovered, which the workmen felt was too bad to smash up. However, the letter of the law had to be obeyed, and now the mechanism no longer works.

COBOURG

C.W.L. Engaged In War Work

COBOURG, April 4.—(ENS)—The annual meeting of the Cobourg Sub-Division of the Catholic Women's League took place Tuesday evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Miss Mary O'Rourke, president, was in the chair, and there was a large number of members.

The reports of secretary and treasurer were read, showing a great activity for the past year, especially in war work. The money for the different work was raised by teas, bridge and euchre parties and a rummage sale. There was also a collection taken up for the boxes sent to 67 boys in uniform at Christmas, which amounted to $137.50.

Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Kelly; President, Miss B. Bulger; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. H. Quinn; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. W. Cavanagh; Treasurer, Miss M. O'Rourke; Recording Secretary, Miss M. Maher; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. J. Buller; Councillors: Mrs. Burge, Mrs. E. Flesch, Mrs. S. McCaig, Mrs. E. McMahon, Mrs. J. Oulahen, Mrs. E. Walker.

Following the election, Rev. Dr. Kelly spoke to the women and praised their work and urged them to continue in this worthy cause for God and country.

Plans were made for a drive for new members to take place after Easter, under the convenership of Mrs. H. Quinn, 1st vice-president.

The next meeting will be held May 6, when the newly elected officers will plan their activities for the coming year.

Peru is expanding its highway construction program.

COBOURG

RCAF Member Facing Assault Charge

COBOURG, April 4 — (ENS). — The local police court calendar was not particularly loaded with cases here yesterday when two different cases were heard.

John Gillett and Aubrey Campbell pleaded guilty to charges of stealing scrap metal and were remanded for a week for sentence.

Constable F. L. Atkinson of Brighton laid the charge.

In the other case, Sgt. William Baron of the R.C.A.F. at Jarvis, was arraigned on a charge of occasioning actual bodily harm to a female. He was remanded until Tuesday after pleading not guilty. The member of the R.C.A.F. was arrested in Jarvis and brought back to Cobourg by Chief of Police W. J. Carey. He was allowed bail.

Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell presided.

A Pleasant Party

PORT HOPE, April 4.—(ENS).— A surprise party was held Thursday evening for Miss Winette Halford on the occasion of her birthday. About twenty-five friends gathered at Winette's home to extend their best wishes and give her a lovely chenille bedspread.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed.

"WHY DO YOU CATCH COLD?"

Robt. G. Jackson, M.D. Now in his 84th year

A cold is evidence of a wrong internal condition. It is Nature's device to throw off poisonous irritants from the body. These irritants we need not have because we do not need to follow the wrong food habits that cause them.

I have had only one cold in 28 years, in England, August 1913, where my living regime was not easily carried out. Formerly I had frequent colds at all seasons.

I have been able to avoid colds since that time because my foods have consisted largely of fruits, vegetables, nuts, milk, my alkaline beverage Kofy Sub and one or another of my three wholegrain cereals, Dr. Jackson Meal (formerly Roman Meal), Bekus-Puddy and Lishus. All these foods have natural protective qualities. They help build resistance, and maintain the system, including elimination in a healthy condition.

If colds attack you frequently, I urge you to give my cereals (any one or all) and my delicious alkaline beverage Kofy Sub a thorough trial . . . a month at least. And include in your diet as many as possible of the natural foods above mentioned. If you are interested in the subject of food and health, send for my free booklet "A Glorious Achievement". Address, Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., 547 Vine Ave., Toronto.

Feel Sorry For Them

Two hundred school boys in Rome demonstrated in front of the United States Embassy in that city. The Japanese foreign minister, Yosuke Matsuoka, was in the city at the time and he had appeared at the Plaza Venezia along with Mussolini. So the young fellows still going to school were probably moved by the feeling that they should do something out of the ordinary. Something rather daring.

They desired evidently to show that they did not like United States because the policy of that country has been definitely anti-Axis for some time. It did not used to be turned that way, but it came out in the open particularly when Mussolini shoved Italy into the war and when President Roosevelt likened Mussolini to the one who had stabbed a friend in the back. That remark was so close to the truth that it went home in the minds of the Italian people.

These school boys in Rome are fed daily on what the Italian government and its controlled press and radio see fit to hand to them. Possibly they have believed all they heard about Mussolini rebuilding the old Roman Empire, and they were filled to the gills with the hope that they indeed were entering the stage where they were to be the future citizens of an empire which was indeed great. It is quite possible to understand that school boy enthusiasm would lead them to do something or other out of the ordinary. So they picked on the United States Embassy at the place where they would spew out a little of their amateurish wrath.

Actually we have no way of knowing what information these boys possessed regarding United States. It may be they have never had access to figures or statistics which would tell them how many millions of their people had left Italy to go to that country. And they had gone because they desired to enter a free country where they would have a much better chance for making a living. The school boys might have heard that many of them did very well and that all of them were fairly treated, and in that way United States had proved a haven to millions of Italians.

It may be also a fact that the school boys of Rome have not yet had the black truth forced into their young heads that their nation is through, defeated; that the thing they called the empire has been riddled, and that thousands upon thousands of their adult population have been sacrificed on the altar of Mussolini's pompous ambition.

So they had their silly little parade or demonstration in front of the U.S. Embassy buildings. They may have shaken their little fists or used their little tongues to shout out some threats which sounded impressive to them. They have a deal to learn yet, and their country is taking them along the hard road toward greater knowledge. No—we do not feel angry with those school boys at Rome, but it is impossible not to feel sorry for them.

Probably The Truth

There was one item of news which did not occupy much space, but it said a great deal. It told that Gen. Dusan Simovic, now Prime Minister of Yugoslavia, has acknowledged in a Greek newspaper printed in Athens that heroic Greek resistance pointed the way for a stiffening of his country's attitude toward the Axis powers.

And that might well have been the case. The Greeks were actually the first to take a positive and direct offensive action against the Italians. They had demonstrated what they could do some weeks before General Wavell unloosed his army of the Nile to take the Graziani forces to pieces.

It is quite likely that Yugoslavia would be more impressed by what Greece had been able to do than by what the British might do. The reason for that statement is that Greece was even less in strength than Yugoslavia, Greece having a population of but 7,000,000 while Yugoslavia is credited with 16,000,000. If a nation the size of Greece could stand up and fight Italy and inflict such losses and disaster to Italian arms, then it would appear that Yugoslavia need not live in fear and need not knuckle down to the demands of the Axis powers. It is a simple and direct statement from the Prime Minister of Yugoslavia, and yet it has every evidence of being founded in fact and spoken in sincerity.

Invited To Get Out

Germany and Italy made a joint demand on the United States Government for the return of seized shipping to their respective governments and also for the release of the crews which had been placed under arrest.

The seized vessels had been taken over by United States because they were being sabotaged, and United States law says that cannot be tolerated.

The answer has come in part at least, and it is splendidly direct. Just this: That Italy immediately recall Admiral Alberto Lais, Italian naval attache in Washington, because he was connected with the sabotaging of the Italian merchant ships in United States ports.

The U.S. note, handed to the Italian ambassador, said flatly that Admiral was "persona non grata" to the government at Washington, and that in plain English means that he is not acceptable and is no longer desired around the premises.

So for the moment Italy at least has its answer and it has been couched in such plain language that it can be taken for granted that Uncle Sam is not bluffing.

The Report Suppressed

The Newfoundland Government has received a report of the special court of inquiry which investigated the wrecking of the plane on which Sir Frederick Banting was a passenger. But apparently that is as far as the report is going to go, and one government official stated: "It has been decided that publication of the report would not be in the public interest."

It is also stated that the findings "deal exclusively with purely technical considerations affecting the immediate and underlying causes of the accident."

Certainly—that is what one would expect. And it is those "immediate and underlying causes of the accident" about which the people of the Dominion desire to know. Reports have been so widespread about the way in which the engines went dead that the public needs assurance that nothing in the nature of the alleged sabotage had been attempted. The report is rightly enough the property of the Newfoundland government, but what took place is of supreme interest to the people of Canada.

What Will He Do?

C. O. Fairbank, member of the Ontario Legislature from Lambton East, believes that industry should be decentralized in this province instead of being piled into what are known as industrial centres.

A sensible thing to say, but in the report of the address there is nothing to indicate what Mr. Fairbank intends to do about it. And we are inclined to wonder what there is that he might do.

The same thing has been spoken of many times but the situation remains where it was. Our larger centres keep on getting larger and the smaller ones in too many instances keep on getting smaller.

There is a force at work which is speeding that process, and it has not been checked, nor do we see how it can be. We mean the number of non-profit railway branches on which service is being abandoned and where in many places the tracks are being torn up to make it final.

Few industries care to go where they cannot have railway facilities. Many of them may use trucking service for much of their lighter business, but for long hauls and heavy material they want railway service. Within the last two or three years there have been a considerable number of these smaller places which have definitely lost their standing as having adequate rail connection, and that is an added handicap when the placing of an industry is concerned. We fear Mr. Fairbank expressed something which was not more than a fond hope.

The Head Of The House

Those who will take the 1941 census in Canada are receiving instructions, and apparently there is some column or space to be filled in which sets forth who is the "head of the house."

Bit ticklish in some places. And it is a question which has never been entirely settled. So it calls for tact in good measure and that is why they are trying to groom the census-takers in advance. They will be paid five cents per name and we suppose the idea is to see that they earn their money.

Looking over reports of these instructions we find that it is considered right to report the husband as the "head" of the house because on him is supposed to fall the chief responsibility for its maintenance. He may be a little squirt, and not at all formidable in appearance, and he may even be timid about answering the door when the enumerator calls. But he has that preferred position reserved for him in advance. He is the "head of the house"—at least he is when the census man calls. In the reflected glory of that short-lived eminence he may find some crumbs of satisfaction.

Still Waiting

It was stated that the Queen Elizabeth Way, seventy-four miles from Toronto to Niagara, had cost $180,000 per mile. It is the last word in construction, has lighting, boulevards and shrubs and all the fixings.

The argument is raised that when such super-highways are built at such a cost the money to pay for them comes from all the people of the province, the majority of whom never see or use that particular road.

There are a good many places in the province where lesser communities have waited a long time for road connection, and they have not got it yet. We are thinking at the moment of that particular section between Apsley and Paudash Lake on the way to Bancroft. From Bancroft out to Paudash there is a good road, but that uncompleted portion on to Apsley crimps the use of the new section. The rest of the road is little better than a trail, and a mighty poor trail at that. The district has waited long and rather patiently for something to be done. And is still waiting.

Why Not Settle It?

The city of Chatham reports that petitions are in circulation asking that the City Council bring in daylight saving time there on April 27 and continuing it until September 28.

We understood that daylight saving time was something which was closely connected with our war effort through the conservation of electrical energy. In Peterborough we were prepared to revert to standard time last fall but the order was given to remain on daylight time, and we have lived that way through the winter.

Right now when the stress of war is with us looks to be the right time to settle the business and do away with the poor system of being off and being on daylight time. If concerted and simplifying action is to be taken it should come from the Federal government, for that is the seat of authority from which our war effort is being directed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Milk Board has ordered an increase in price in a good many Ontario centres, but how much of the total increase to the consumer actually gets back to the farmer is another question.

The safest decision for an Italian admiral would be to run his boat into the garage and leave it there until the roads were safer.

The Formidable, British aircraft carrier, arrived at Alexandria without a scratch on her. There must have been a crossing of the wires as Rome announced this vessel had been struck three times and had departed with a limp.

The city of Asmara, surrendered to the British by the Italians, has been an Italian city since 1889. Mussolini had nothing to do with securing it in the first place but he had everything to do with losing it.

President Hutchins of Chicago University said: "If the British, Greeks and Chinese are our allies, it is immoral to let them die for us. We should have been in the war from the first." He might also have added the people of Yugoslavia, as the list of the Allies is growing.

SYRUP

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Wee Angus, Pete and Dan and Joe, knew just the proper place to go, they told that all to me; for this was syrup time they said, and they were fixed to go ahead, they'd tap each standing tree.

¶ They labored for a day or so, it seemed that sap was running slow, had little for their toil; of sap at last they had a pail, they knew their system could not fail, and they were going to boil.

¶ They lugged in yet another pail, and it looked weak and rather frail, it tasted rather queer; but they were bent on boiling down, with syrup they'd supply the town, then do it every year.

¶ They boiled the stuff most all away, it didn't seem to want to stay, it wasn't getting thick; and when you tasted of the stuff, it wasn't nearly sweet enough, might even make you sick.

¶ I asked them of the trees they tapped, they had the neighborhood all mapped, they'd show me every one; I followed them from there to here, and thought their business rather queer, and laughed at what they'd done.

¶ An elm tree first on the list, a beech tree which had not been missed, a basswood tree in turn; these lads may know a lot of stuff, and yet it's hardly quite enough—there's something yet to learn.

Not Repeating Errors Made In The Last War

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Selective Service's administration is somewhat criticized for deferring a considerably larger proportion of military eligibles than draft boards did at the time of Uncle Sam's entrance into the last world war.

Chas. P. Stewart

"Humph," snorts Major Joseph F. Battley of the system's Washington headquarters, in answer to this fault-finding. "Selective Service means intelligent selection. It means also the selection of those best fitted to maintain our armed forces by continued performances of necessary civilian tasks."

Major Battley's a specialist on the subject. He's occupational adviser at Selective Service headquarters, as well as chief of the assistant war secretary office's Selective Service section. He's addicted to expressions like a contemptuous "Humph!" He's blunt almost to brusqueness. He doesn't chat long, however, without revealing an innate kindliness, sense of humor and understanding beneath his air of professional austerity. And his practical patriotism has behind it a background of approximately 25 years' service with the armed forces and more than eight years of study and planning in connection with the Selectice Service system.

"The immediate and increasingly urgent requirement for national defence," continues the major, "is speedier production of military material and supplies. As this need grows and the supply of skilled workers is depleted, it can only be met by calling on the boys who can handle a monkey wrench—the boys on the farms and in the small towns.

GOOD JUDGMENT NEEDED

"For this reason, and because the United States may have to become the breadbasket as well as the arsenal of embattled democracy, local boards in such vicinities should be extremely careful not to make military selection of lads whose skill or aptitude will soon be sorely needed in factories or on the land. While this isn't to say that all mechanics or farm boys should be deferred, it is to say that good judgment's called for. We mustn't cripple the country's industrially and agriculturally defensive capacity, in trying to build up its armed forces. Soldiers have to have arms, food and clothes as well as training.

"And serious consideration's being given to decentralizing production of aircraft, ordnance and military material generally. The trend isn't only to farm out the manufacture of parts and accessories to shops in our smaller cities and towns; it likewise is to build new plants in such localities—for safety from sabotage, for convenience in transportation and to provide employment for rural labor in slack seasons.

"Much already has been done in that direction in connection with aircraft production. Assembly plants are being set up in the central states, to which parts are being shipped from our large eastern, midwestern and western industrial centres.

"Having set these smaller plants a-going, we've got to have hands to man 'em."

Replying to complaint that today's local boards are freer with deferments than the last war's boards were, the major quotes Provost Marshal General Crowder, who administered that draft, to the effect that there was an alarming curtailment of production in certain fields in the spring of 1918, because boards then were too strict in interpreting the terms "necessary enterprise"—that is, jobs that men had better have been left at home to attend to.

LAST WAR'S MISTAKES

"Why, during the first world war," recalls the major, "it was necessary to furlough certain men from our armed forces, who were indispensible to agriculture and industry, to enable 'em to return to their civil pursuits, to prevent a supply breakdown.

"We mustn't repeat the last war's mistakes. We must see that essential men remain at the production of the things our soldiers and civilians can't do without, possibly."

Then there's the item of dependency. It generally is assumed that dependents are a Selective Service registrant's wife and children exclusively; if he hasn't got 'em, he hasn't any dependants to entitle him to deferment. "It's liable to be the other way about," comments Major Battley. "Quite often a farmer, in particular, is dependent upon his son or sons to help him till his acres, because he can't afford to hire men to replace them."

A Bit of Nonsense

In a Circle

"I say, Smith," exclaimed Jones, "where's that silk umbrella I lent you?"

"I found it was my own, so I kept it," replied Smith.

"You dont' say so. And here I've been dodging old Robinson for three weeks, thinking it was his."

SURPRISE!

"Darling! Close your eyes, pinch your nose and guess what daddy's bought!"

Letters To The Editor

Ed. Note: Two more letters were received today, but there was not a line to indicate who had written them. It is not possible to publish a letter when the name of the writer is not known. We have many times drawn attention to this rule. It is purely a waste of time writing a letter and giving no name and address. Unless the paper knows with whom it is dealing, there is not even a small chance of the letter appearing in print.—Ed. Examiner.

BETTER PRICES NEEDED

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—A recent editorial dealing with the possibility of placing farm prices on a level with other prices, was headed thus: "Is There A Solution?"

For a number of years back, many city residents, newspapers and even farm magazines, have tried to make farmers believe that their low prices are due to lack of world markets. Even when reliable authority assured them that about ten per cent of most farm produce was exported, they harped on "that Canadian prices are set abroad." It was just an excuse for low prices at home.

It is amusing to note how certain catch-phrases are repeated by our city friends who do not trouble to think things out for themselves. One of the silliest and one used by those who should know better is that farming is a way of living. What does it mean anyway? I expect they are trying to delude the farmers into believing that they should not try to make too much money, that they should try to 'grub' along without such luxuries as hydro power, that they need not worry about paying off the inevitable mortgage, or making provision for the time when they have not strength to work the farm and the children have all gone to the city. Is there no 'way of living' in the city?

Then all during the depression years, the farmer was constantly reminded that the working man in the city, his "chief customer," was not able to pay much for farm foods and prices must be low. At the same time hundreds of families, even with ten or twenty per cent reduction in salaries or incomes, were better off than before and the companies dealing in farm produce paid bigger dividends than ever.

Now farmers are urged to show their patriotism by raising and selling their goods below costs. Some brilliant (?) minds have raised the slogan, 'Let the farmer buy more machinery' when the men are leaving the farms. Truly, it is amazing the free advice handed out from urban quarters, but always the advantage is for the manufacturer, the middle man, or the consumer.

So what is the solution? It should not be difficult, with high and higher wages and salaries, with urban dwellers spending millions every year on such luxuries as alcoholic drinks, cigarettes, cosmetics, shows and a dozen other unnecessities in war time. The solution is higher prices for farm produce here in Canada. Made necessary by rising urban produce prices.

I wonder if those who sneer at such a suggestion understand how serious the situation is on farms! Especially angered at repeated attempts of city men or companies to gain control of the marketing of farm produce through an iniquitous grading system, farmers and their families are building up a high wall of resentment against the cities and towns. They are asking what is being done with the low grades of cream, eggs, meat, etc., that are increasing fast. Does the lower grade of cream go into the same churn as the special, are the lowest grades of eggs offered for sale in all the stores, and what becomes of the low grades of pigs, cattle and poultry?

In many neighborhoods girls and boys laugh at the ludicrous attempts of the so-called farm magazines to paint glowing pictures of what profits may be gathered from the raising of pigs and poultry if they are fed such and so, at the government issued bulletins urging them to be more efficient, at the advice of all and sundry on how to stick to the farms. They laugh, and go their way, by hundreds, to replace those who are whining about long hours, low wages and uncongenial work in the cities. The young men are enlisting.

They are the young farm people of today who think straight and who can see no benefit to Canada in becoming slaves of the greed and selfishness of men who want to make easy money at the expense of others.

It is necessary that our city friends realize it is poor patriotism to squeal when prices rise a cent or two to give the farmer a little more for his produce. It is good patriotism to find out who makes greater profit, the farmer, or some of their own ilk, the city middle man.

NO DISTINCTION

dEitor Examiner:

Sir,—In my last letter I contended that Paul divides the human race into "Jews, Gentiles and Church of God." (I Cor. 10:33), and added, "Why dosen't he mention Israelites?" "Subscriber" objects to this by pointing out that Gentiles is really "Greeks," and then adds, "Is one then to conclude that the apostle only knew of three peoples in the world,—'Jews, Greeks and Church of God'?"

My answer is, yes, exactly; bearing in mind that Greek simply means "foreigner" or "Gentile." Surely Subscriber does not wish us to believe that Paul had in mind only citizens of the Greek peninsula. If so, then salvation does not reach beyond Jews and those from Greece, for we read, "The gospel is the power of God unto salvation....to the Jew first and also to the Greek." (Rom. 1:16) According to Subscriber's reasoning there is no salvation for Gentiles who are not Greeks!

Again: "There is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich to all that call upon Him." (Rom. 10:12). Paul says he preached repentance and faith to "both Jews and Greeks" (Acts 20). Subscriber would have us believe that this means Paul preached to only members of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin and those Gentiles who were from Greece!

Surely it is clear that "Greek" is simply "Gentile" in contrast with Jew. (Consult any good Bible dictionary on this point.)

So again I ask, why doesn't he include Israelite in I Cor. 10:21? Because the term Jews embraces Israelites, and refers to all those of Abraham's seed, in contrast with the Gentiles.

In Acts 2:36 Peter charges the murder of Christ to "all the House of Israel," yet we know from Jno. 18:14, 15 that it was the Jews who cried "Away with Him," and pressed Pilate for the death sentence. How could Peter so speak if the pre-captivity distinction still prevailed,—i.e. "the House of Israel" applied to the ten tribes only. No, Mr. Editor, after the Cross that distinction disappeared.

This will be my final letter on the subject, as I see little value of prolonging the controversy.

Nicholls Given Four Years In Penitentiary

Declaring that he did not believe the accused's story of how he came into possession of the money found on him, Judge J. A. McGibbon in the County Judge's Criminal Court on Thursday afternoon found Thomas Nicholls, 36, of Windsor, guilty of breaking and entering the Canadian Department Store here and stealing $4,000 in cheques and cash.

Nicholls was sentenced to four years in Kingston Penitentiary, despite a strong plea for leniency by his counsel, Mannis Frankel.

He was the second of four suspects to be convicted of the C.D.S. break-in, Lawrence Burns having received a similar sentence on the previous day.

In his judgment in which he reviewed the evidence at some length, Judge McGibbon declared that the most damning evidence against Nicholls came in the testimony of Professor Joslyn Rogers that the metallic particles found between the bills and in the envelope containing the money that had been found on Nicholls was identical in metallic content to the material of the C. D.S. safe. "Science is playing a very important part in the detection of crime these days," said Judge McGibbon, "and I think Professor Rogers is to be congratulated upon the results achieved."

Disbelieves Accused.

"Nichols says he received the money from Burns," said His Honor. "I don't believe his story as to how he came into possession of that money. I can't and I don't believe him."

"Chief Newhall gives positive evidence that he identifies Nicholls as one of the men he saw near the C. D.S. Store on the night in question, that he saw him standing with two other men. I must decide whether I am to believe Chief Newhall's evidence or the evidence given by Nicholls that he had not been there. I accept the evidence given by Chief Newhall as to the identity of the accused," said Judge McGibbon, "and I hold that Nicholls was in Peterborough on that occasion."

In conclusion, Judge McGibbon said that he was of the opinion that the chain of circumstantial evidence adduced by the Crown had been so strong that it could not be ignored, and that therefore there would be a conviction.

"I move for sentence," said W. B. Common, K.C., special Crown prosecutor.

"Have you anything to say, Nicholls, before I pass sentence on you?" asked Judge McGibbon.

"No, I have nothing to say, Your Honor," was Nicholls' laconic reply.

Mr. Frankel made an earnest plea for leniency for the accused, informing the court that Nicholls was suffering from tuberculosis and that he had planned to get married. Defence counsel urged a reformatory term for the accused, stressing the fact that the penitentiary was a breeding place for crime.

"A father can often do more with a backward offspring by kindness than being too harsh," said Frankel. "I feel certain that this will be the last time Nicholls will ever appear in any court on any charge."

Not Court's Fault.

"It is not my fault or the fault of the court that you are in this unhappy predicament," Judge McGibbon said to the prisoner. He referred to the associations Nicholls had had with Burns in the penitentiary, remarking that he had found it happen a great many times that men came out of the penitentiary and started in again to break the law. "Those associates of yours will get you into trouble, but they never get you out," he said.

"You have not been fair to your family, Nicholls; you have not been fair to that girl who has stuck to ou. Men of your age and physique should be in uniform instead of trying to pull down things at home while other men are fighting to uphold law and order and democracy. You will be sentenced to four years in the Kingston Penitentiary."

When the afternoon session of the court opened, Mr. Common briefly cross-examined Nicholls in regard to the $50 he said he had received from Burns.

"You are not suggesting that the Toronto police scorched the money that was found on your"

"Certainly not."

Nicholls admitted that he had been in trouble on three previous occasions, the first time in Findley, Ohio, where he was sentenced to from one to 20 years for operating an automobile without the consent of the owner and served 26 months of that sentence.

Mr. Frankel closed the defence with the evidence of Nicholls.

"I respectfully submit," he said in his argument to the court, "that to make a conviction on this evidence would be to stretch one's imagination to the extreme."

"The witness, Chief Newhall, has stated that he saw Nicholls with two other men near the C.D.S. Store on the night before the break-in," said Mr. Frankel. "I don't think I need to dwell very strongly on that evidence. I believe the court has taken certain cognizance of that evidence—especially in connection with the cross-examination."

Says Explanation Reasonable.

Defence counsel said that the only evidence the defence had to meet was in regard to the metallic particles found in the bills on Nicholls pqerson when he was arrested. "The accused has given a reasonable explanation as to his possession of that money. He has been a fair and honest witness all the way through."

"The Crown's case," said Mr. Common, "is largely circumstantial, practically wholly so. To succeed, circumstantial evidence must be consistent with the guilt of the accused and inconsistent with any other rational conclusion."

The special Crown prosecutor then briefly reviewed some of the salient points in the evidence.

Steamer Downs Hun With Mast

LONDON, April 4 — (CP).—The steamship Jamaica Producer claimed yesterday to be the first ship to bring down a Nazi bomber with her mast. The ship is of 5,300 gross tons, built for the banana trade and owned by Jamaica Banana Producers.

It was disclosed that the ship deliberately fouled the bomber with her mast on March 11, when a Heinkel "gliding low," suddenly "throttled up 40 yards away."

The account said the ship's helm was put hard over with the intention of fouling the enemy with the foremast or at least of upsetting his plan of attack.

"As soon as the ship began to swing, the Heinkel opened fire and at the same time began to climb steeply," the account said. "The enemy's fire was returned, the chief officer manning the gun in face of the enemy's close-range fire.

"The German pilot, seeing he might not clear, atempted to swerve but fouled the foremast with his tail. The wireless aerial and pieces of the plane crashed to the deck.

"Those on the deck saw the Heinkel sideslip round the stern. A moment later a huge column of water spouted up as it dived into the sea."

Carless Driving Charge Extended

TORONTO, April 4. — (CP). — Several amendments to the Highway Traffic Act were introduced in the Ontario Legislature on Wednesday by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, who said they were the result of the annual technical recommendations of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

One amendment prohibits the operation of motor vehicles on lighted streets with cowl or parking lights and another permits ambulances and police vehicles to carry moveable spot lights.

The authority given police to enter any place where motor cars are stored is extended in another amendment to places where bicycles are stored. Careless driving, a charge hitherto confined to motor cars, is extended to include other vehicles.

Bicycles are recognized in an amendment which states that no second-hand dealer may sell one from which the serial number has been erased.

Councils of cities and towns are given authority to set a speed limit of from 15 to 30 miles an hour for parks and exhibition grounds. Under the old Act a speed of 15 miles an hour is allowed.

178 Italians Downed

LONDON, April 4.— (CP)— The Ministry of Information estimated today that 178 Italian planes were destroyed during March in the Middle East.

It said 125 were shot down by Royal Air Force and Dominion pilots, 21 by anti-aircraft gunfire and 32 were destroyed on the ground.

Berlin Sea Loss Figures Held Fantastic

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP).—Lowering war clouds in the Balkans tend to obscure, but do not hide, a dispute between London and Berlin over progress of the war in the Atlantic.

Against a British announcement that shipping losses by enemy action had dwindled to 59,000 tons in the week ending March 23, Berlin "informed circles" have put out a claim that 367,000 tons of vital British cargo space were destroyed in the Atlantic that same week.

The trends of the war in the Atlantic which these figures reveal or conceal will do more to shape world destiny than the Balkan tumult, whatever its upshot.

Aimed at Balkans.

If the German figure were anywhere near correct, it would certainly be the heaviest blow struck at Britain since France was knocked out of the war. For its timing as well as its seemingly fantastic exaggeration, however, the Berlin outgiving is subject to suspicion.

Perhaps it was intended to affect the strained situation in the Balkans or the question of Japanese co-operation with the Axis team to divert United States attention from he sea siege in the Atlantic.

Could Yugoslavia, Turkey or even Greece be convinced at this moment that German claims of smashing destruction of British sea tonnage are true, it might greatly influence their policy-making.

Bolster Italian Morale.

Certainly Berlin does not expect to gain much in Britain by exaggerating Atlantic successes; nor is it probable that American aid-for-Britain policy would be keyed to anything less than accurate information from London day by day.

The Berlin claim may also be aimed at bolstering Italian morale. That morale has been suffering severe blows in the form of naval losses. The Fascist press is seeking to prepare its readers for compete collapse of Italy's African empire except in Western North Africa.

The full significance of the British army in North Africa has been gasi, important port in Libya, cannot be evaluated pending further developments. It indicates anew, however, that the bulk of the British army in North Africa has been transferred to Greece because of the Balkan crisis.

Flashlight bulbs are in such demand in Italy, because of blackouts, factories cannot fill all orders.

A Duce Impression

Rome, April 4. (AP)

VIRGINIO GAYDA, Fascist editorial spokesman, claimed today that Hitler and Mussolini had reached agreements with Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka on Japan's action in event the United States engages in hostilities against the Axis "even without formal declaration of war."

At a press conference with German and Italian reporters, Matsuoka said he had had "several talks with Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano on questions of the most pressing importance."

He described the conversation with Mussolini yesterday as "a frank exchange of views on all problems interesting to the two countries and the world." This interview, he said, made "a deep impression" on him.

Sellout Crowds Looming In West's Opener

WINNIPEG, April 4.— (CP). — Coach Lorne (Baldy) Northcott of Winnipeg Rangers promised to-day that Western Canada's entrants in the Memorial Cup final will be a "good" sextet and indicated that if Saskatoon Quakers are to beat Rangers in the western final opening here to-night they'll have to be a stronger team than last year's Kenora Thistles.

Speaking of Thistles who lost in the Memorial Cup final to Oshawa Generals a year ago, Northcott said Rangers are a better balanced and heavier team."

"I think Kenora might have been better in goal but we are better on defence. Our forwards are about the same calibre but heavier. Our club weighs 165 and 170. We have a pretty fair hockey club."

The Quakers have a record equally as impressive as the Winnipegers and carry 11 players who were with the club a year ago. Quakers, however, average 156 pounds, with several forwards on the light side.

Coach Russ McQuarrie, juvenile coach and hockey executive, who is master-minding for Quakers, said when the team left Saskatoon last night that with the exception of Harold Laycoe, key defenceman and captain, the team is in good physical trim.

Laycoe suffered an attack of tonsilitis that kept him in hospital during three of Quakers' games against Edmonton Athletic Club.

Coach Northcott said ticket demand for the first of the best-of-seven series is the "best so far this year. We look forward to a sell-out." The rink's capacity is 5,000.

Barons Favored To Win Title

CLEVELAND, April 4—(AP). — Cleveland Barons packed all the good luck charms they could find today before entraining with the Hershey Bears to continue their American League hockey championship playoffs in Hershey Saturday night.

Highly favored after making it two straight last night with a 3-1 victory, the Ohioans are determined to wind up the three-out-of-five series on Hershey ice. The Barons collected all the good-luck tokens because they haven't won a game on Hershey ice this season.

In last night's game, after a rough first period, both teams scored in the second. Don Deacon tallied for Cleveland and Bobby Kirk for the invaders.

Then the Barons swept through the Hershey defence for two goals in the early part of the third period. Ossie Asmundson scored on a high drive from 30 feet out and Bun Cook converted on one of his pet close-in lift shots.

SPORTS - DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It's to be an All-American final for the Stanley Cup this season. The Boston Bruins who were apparently down for the final count after they lost to the Leafs in Boston last Saturday night have fought their way back from the brink of elimination and last night disposed of the threatening Leafs by winning 2 goals to 1 in the seventh game of the series, taking the decision 4 games to 3. And so the preliminary stages of the Stanley Cup classic have run true to form at least to this extent that in all three series the team higher up in the bracket defeated the club lower down. Boston who finished first disposed of the second place Leafs, Detroit who copped the third slot killed off the Rangers who had wound up fourth and the Black Hawks who ended the regular campaign on the fifth rung triumphed over the Canadiens who had finished up one peg lower down.

* * * * * *

It was a narrow margin for the Bruins but nevertheless they wound up the series like champions. After they had lost Bill Cowley after the first game and Bauer was hurt they were slaughtered 7 to 2 by the Leafs in the third game and their chances had apparently gone haywire. But they fought back like the good club they are, winning three out of the last four games, all of which by the way finished with the same score 2 to 1. They played cagey hockey after that 7-2 walloping and although Leafs did manage to win one more in overtime, the Bruins grabbed off the other three, two of them on Toronto ice and the other, the final, won by the Boston crew last night before their home town fans. It was the first time the Bruins had ever triumphed over the Leafs in a prelimnary Stanley Cup round.

* * * * * *

Last night's game seems to have been of exactly the same pattern as the three last games between the two clubs. Neither outfit threw caution to the winds. They played careful hockey all the way and after each club had scored once in the first period they battled tooth and tail until Mel Hill's goal in the final session meant victory for the Bruins. It was a nice break for Hill the clutch scorer in other seasons, but playing only a minor role this season until the last two games when Bruins switched him to centre on the Wiseman-Conacher line and the shift worked like magic. Some of the Leafs fell down badly in this Boston series. Stanowski failed to live up to his all-star rating and Syl Apps after his first showing in the third game did not look like a ball of fire after that. Bucko McDonald who got the only Toronto goal last night has probably been their most consistently effective player of the series.

Only One Delegate

The sad condition into which baseball in Eastern Ontario has got is illustrated by the following from Ken Colling's column in the Belleville sheet: "The twenty-third annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association will be held in the King Edward Hotel in Toronto Saturday, but how the picture has changed in the past two decades. We well remember one annual meeting about ten or twelve years ago when the voting power from leagues in Eastern Ontario was so strong they swept everything into office and voted down proposals they did not fancy like chaff before the wind. But 'them thar days' just ain't no more and unless we have been sadly misinformed the only official delegate to represent a league from the entire Eastern Ontario zone will be R. A. Elliott, of Deloro, who announced to this corner recently he would be making his annual trek to the annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association and will no doubt enter the North Hastings League into the intermediate "B" series, as has been Mr. Elliott's practice for some years past."

* * * * * *

"The outlook for baseball is anything but promising in the area from Oshawa to Kingston," continues the article. "There is an outside chance senior clubs may be operating in Peterborough and Oshawa, but the once-flourishing Lake Shore League seems to be floundering on the rocks of despair, owing to so many of the league players having enlisted in Canada's fighting forces. A proposal was forwarded to the Lake Shore executive suggesting Bowmanville, Port Hope and Cobourg organize and play a series with Peterborough and Oshawa. If this plan had been accepted, then interests in Belleville were planning to reorganize the baseball picture locally and seek affiliation in this proposed senior league. However, that plan is so remote now that the only salvation to assure a little baseball in the Bay of Quinte district is to have the South Hastings League function and capitalize on the fact their sponsors would have the only baseball available for miles around."

Basketball fans should find a visit to the Y.M.C.A. gym Saturday night for the final game in the City Basketball League well worth while. The finalists, the Quaffers and the Bees are two high-scoring outfits who turn on the heat early and keep throwing all night with the result that when the two clash tomorrow night for the city championship and the Kemp trophy there should be plenty of fireworks with Doug McPherson and Joe Stewart doing the bulk of the gunning for the Quaffers and Jimmy Thorburn and Pete McArthur leading the attack for the Bees. The fact that all four sharpshooters were members of the Outboard Marines O.A.B.A. squad this season will add a little spice to the affray. The two teams are very evenly balanced and they should put on a show that will keep the fans on their toes all the way through.

The Wings Or The Bruins?

And now it will be Detroit Red Wings or the Boston Bruins for the Stanley Cup. A good many commentators seem to like Detroit's chances, figuring that the Bruins have been well softened in their series with the Leafs while the Wings have been resting up and are in the best of shape for the final test. We however are going to string along with the Bruins. They may be tired but they do not play until Sunday and by that time the Ross men should have summoned up enough reserve power to carry them through the last round. The Boston crew showed they have lots of intestinal fortitude by beating off the Leafs just when it looked as if the Toronto entry had them down for keeps and we will be surprised if they don't beat the stubborn Red Wings. It may be a tense, hard-fought series but the Bruins are tough enough to take it.

Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard is coming around to our way of thinking about military replacements. He comments thusly: "The O.H.A. notified Kingston officials that Owen Sound had two soldier replacements on the team. Tommy Dunne, who played goal for London in the Senior A at the start of the season, is taking the place of Roger Neath, who was called up by the R.C.A.F. and is now stationed in Toronto, while Alvie Wilson of Collingwood is replacing Reg Stanley, who is in the Grey-Simcoe Battery at Camp Borden. The Canadian Hockey Association will change its military rule before next winter as it left too many loop-holes this year and caused wholesale packing of teams with players who were members of teams previously eliminated in playdowns. Capt. James Sutherland, Kingston's grand old hockey general, will attend the Canadian hockey meeting in Calgary on April 12 when a new wartime rule will be adopted."

Eastern Team Takes 3-1 Lead In First

OTTAWA, April 4—(CP).—Sydney's scrappy Millionaires, carrying Maritime hopes in the Allan Cup hockey wars, waited today with Montreal Royals to learn revamped plans of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for the remainder of their Eastern Canada final series which opened here last night with a 3-3 tie.

Original plans called for Sydney, which is using Ottawa as home ice, to meet Royals in the second and third fixture of the best-of-five round Saturday and Monday nights at Montreal. Shortly after their overtime battle last night, however, the teams were informed the Montreal Forum would not be available Monday.

Pre-game favorites, Royals had to show their best to catch the fleet Millionaires, who seldom stopped pressing in a wide-open game that kept nearly 5,000 fans howling all the way. Pete Morin, with his second tally of the night, did the trick three minutes after the third period started.

The clash was called a draw—and, as far as the series goes, no contest—after 10 minutes' wild overtime.

Goals spaced seven minutes apart gave Sydney a 2-0 edge in the initial stanza. Defenceman Remi van Daele got the first and Bobby Walton beat Goalie Bill Durnan on the other.

Walton took a double relay from Snall and Van Daele to score another a minute after Morin punched in Royals' first marker in the second period.

Two seconds before the frame ended Johnny Acheson broke through with Pal Raymond and McConnell to fool Goalie Bill Dickie in the Sydney net, leaving the score 3-2 for the Maritimers.

BRUINS ROAR INTO CUP FINALS WITH 2-1 VICTORY OVER LEAFS

"Sudden Death" Mel Hill Is Hero Again

BOSTON, April 4—(CP). — Boston's powerful Bruins, who dominated the regular National Hockey League season, roared into the Stanley Cup final with a 2-1 victory last night over a fighting Toronto Maple Leaf squad that forced them to battle to he last second of the seventh game.

To win, Bruins called on their opportunist extraordinary, Mel "Sudden Death" Hill, who earned hockey fame in 1939 by scoring the winning goal in three overtime tussles with New York Rangers.

The Winnipeg-born forward, playing centre for the first time in his career, scored at 14:17 of the third period, breaking up a 1-1 tie that had last from late in the first period, and giving Goalie Frankie Brimsek all the margin he needed to hold off the Toronto sharpshooters to the end.

Hill, who has been little used this season because his eyes have been troubling him, got his chance to star when Coach Cooney Weiland decided in the sixth game of the series to use him in place of the injured Bill Cowley on his Roy Conacher-Eddie Wiseman line. Hill more than justified the choice, keeping lightning Billy Taylor out of the scoring column for two games, and then emerging the series' hero last night.

16,000 See the Victory

A crowd of 16,200 who had sat in grim silence as minute after minute of the close third period ticked away, broke into frenzied cheering as Hill, eluding his check deep in the Toronto zone, skated in from the boards and let go a 35-footer that that flashed across Broad's chest into the top corner of the net. Wiseman got an assist on that goal, and both Hill and Wiseman had a hand in Boston's first goal, by Bill Hollett, that wiped out Toronto's first-period lead scored by Bucko McDonald. Both Hollett and McDonald netted long shots that were deflected off opposing defencemen's legs.

Bruins now go on to face Detroit Red Wings in the four-of-seven cup final that opens here Sunday night.

The game cost Conny Smythe, Leafs' peppery manager, a fine of $100 for going out on the ice. He bounced over the boards and raced to centre ice when his young centre, Pete Langelle, was clipped by Jack Crawford in the second period. Crawford drew a major penalty, but he had been off only 2½ minutes when he was followed by Billy Taylor of the Leafs for a like banishment because he drew blood from Art Jackson's skull.

Start And Finish At Baston

The series began and ended in Boston. Bruins scored a 3-0 shutout in the first game, then lost 5-3 in the second game, also played here. Then they shifted to Toronto where Leafs won 7-2 and Bruins won 2-1. The fifth game, in Boston was a 2-1 overtime victory for Leafs; the sixth a 2-1 victory for Boston at Toronto and the seventh again a 2-1 Boston victory.

The first two games of the Cup final will be played in Boston Sunday and Tuesday, with the teams returning to Detroit for the next two matches. Remaining games, as necessary, will alternate between Boston and Detroit.

Art Ross, manager of the Bruins, held a slight hope that Cowley may get back into action toward the end of the series.

Markham Aces Trounce Bolton 6 to 4

TORONTO, April 4. — Charlie Hempstead's Markham Aces made a successful start toward completing defence of the O.H.A. Junior C championship they won last year by turning back Bolton 6-4 at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. It was the first game of a three-of-five final series, second of which will be played at the Gardens next Tuesday.

A little smoother in their efforts, the defending champions built a 5-1 lead in the first two periods, but had to fight desperately to stave off Bolton's brisk bid for victory in the final period. Bolton outscored the winners 3-1 in the closing chapter.

Bob Bangay scored twice, and Clark, Lawrie, B. Harper and Rowe netted singles for the winners. Jones bagged a pair for Bolton, with Gibson and Fisher getting the others. Netminders J. Harper and Charlie Dempster, former Young Rangers and Marlboro goalies, were outstanding.

Bolton—Goal, Dempster; defence, Fisher and Burnett; centre, Jones; wings, Gibson and Scarrow; subs, Patterson, Miller, Adams, Bridgman, Grifiths, Stacey.

Markham — Goal, J. Harper; defence, B. Harper and H. Bangay; centre, R. Bangay; wings, Lawrie and Rowe; subs, Murphy, Northcote, Clark, Sabiston, Baker, Coburn.

An Oversize Egg

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4.—(ENS).—Although it was the 1st of April a certain goose in West Seymour wasn't fooling when it presented its owner with an oversize egg. The specimen was brought to town by James MacDowell who declared it was unusual for such a large egg (1 pound 1 oz.) to contain but a single yoke. It was almost twice the size of a normal egg and measured 9½ inches around the middle and 14½" over the ends. It was laid by a Toulouse goose.

Who Are The 'Great' Pitchers In The Major Leagues

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, April 3—If you were asked to name the best pitchers in the major leagues you'd tally with Bob Feller, Buck Newsom, Bucky Walters and Claude Passeau, and you'd be just about airtight in your claims.

For, certainly, they are the best pitchers—today!

In that "today" lie the claims of 14 others, who are about to start another campaign. It is these others, we say, who are the best pitchers in baseball.

They are the veterans who have consistently pitched winning ball, year after year. Their records prove they are the "cream of the crop."

Feller Ace of All?

With the exception of Feller, who has the jump on most of his competitors because he is starring as such an early age and thus may set all kinds of records before he is through, today's pitchers still have many games to win to rank in a class with such "great" performers as Lefty Grove, already winner of 293 (count 'em) games; Ted Lyons, who has bagged 233 decisions; Red Ruffing, victor in 229 productions; Carl Hubbell, victorious 227 times, and many others.

A look-see at the list of veterans still being considered in pitching plans for the 1941 campaign reveals that several of the "stars," specifically, Paul Derringer of the Reds, Fred Fitzsimmons of the Dodgers, Mel Harder of the Indians, Tom Bridges of the Tigers, Lefty Gomez of the Yanks and Lon Warneke of the Cardinals, are being counted on not only as helpers but as regular starters.

Root in 19th Year

And, this despite the fact that each has won more than 150 games in their careers which have stretched over more than 10 years in the majors.

Take the case of a few. There's Charley Root of the Cubs, now 42 years old. Root has won 163 games while losing 153. He's been in the majors 18 years. He should reach the select circle of 200 winners this year. Larry French of the Cubs, only 33 years old, could make the 200 circle with 21 wins. Harder, only 32 but a veteran of 13 years with the Tribe, still needs 29 victories for the select circle of 200 winners.

Grove, the outstanding hurler of the group, should reach the class of 300 winners this year. All he needs is seven more victories. He is 41 years old.

Dizzy Dean, prior to his arm trouble, bid fair to become one of the greatest pitchers of all time. He has won 150 games in 10 years and is only 30 years old. But Dean, from all appearances, is on the downgrade for good.

Records Show Class

Freddy Fitzsimmons, 39-year-old Dodger, not only has compiled 208 wins in his career but last season, his 16th in the majors, he topped the whole Dodger staff!

Lefty Gomez, only 31 years old, may come back for the Yanks this year. He has won 169 games in 11 seasons.

A glance at the records of the veteran pitching stars discloses that with a few exceptions, they have been members of only one or two clubs throughout their careers. Outfielders and infielders may be vagabonds, but pitchers stay put. Bridges, Gomez, Harder, Lyons and Hubbell have spent their time but with one club. Hubbell started with the Tigers, but he has no record with that club.

An attached table gives you some idea of what this group of pitchers has done thus far. Some of their records will be hard to match, even by the Newsoms, the Walters and perhaps the Fellers.

Name	Age	Yrs.	W.	L.
Bridges	35	11	162	111
Dean	30	10	150	83
Derringer	35	10	168	149
Fitzsimmons	39	16	208	141
French	33	12	177	153
Gomez	31	11	168	92
Grove	41	16	293	134
Hadley	36	15	156	159
Harder	32	13	171	136
Hubbell	37	13	227	133
Lyons	40	18	233	219
Root	42	16	193	153
Ruffing	35	17	229	203
Warneke	31	11	160	95

Favor Sea Gulls Over Spitfires

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 4.—(CP)—Atlantic City Sea Gulls of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League, a team that thrives on rough-and-tumble hockey and easily was the toughest team in the league this season, ruled slight favorites today to defeat Windsor (Ont.) Spitfires, Mcihigan-Ontario League champions, in the opening game tonight of a best-of-three international series for the Hamilton B. Wills trophy.

The Gulls, managed by Bert Corbeau, never were shut out during their regular 65-game schedule, finishing the regular season in third place behind the league champions, Washington, and the runner-up Baltimore Orioles.

Paced by Harry Dick, a giant 200-pound defenceman, who spent more than 200 minutes in the penalty box to lead the league in that department, and whose forte is breaking up enemy scoring plays, Atlantic City battled to a tie with Washington in the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States round robin tournament last week. The Gulls became finalists when Redvers Mackenie, Washington coach, announced that this team had decided to disband.

Drizzle Delays Leafs' Training

AVON PARK, Fla., April 4. — It was all quiet on the baseball front here yesterday, as a steady downpour all morning turned into an afternoon drizzle that confined Toronto Maple Leafs' activities to the hotel lobby.

It was an off day on the Leafs' schedule anyway, so no real damage was done. It gave Art Jones and Al Rubeling an extra day to heal their leg injuries.

To-day the Leafs tackle Kansas City Blues in their ninth training game, Walter Lanfranconi and probably Carl Fischer will look after the pitching duties. Eddie Gillette, part of the rookie pitching syndicate that Lena Blackburne brought to camp for a trial, will get his chance against the citrus kings on Sunday afternoon. Tom Sweeney, the other half of the combination, returned to his Florence, N.J., home on Wednesday.

Joe Vance, who reported along with Ed Selway, was delighted to be back with the Leafs. He feels that he can still win in the International League and was pleased with his rescue from Birmingham.

ENTIRELY WITH BRITAIN

NEW DELHI—(CP).—Sympathies of India are entirely with Britain and not a single Indian would wish victory for the Axis powers, declared Hindu Liberal Leader H. N. Kunzru.

Brade Is Champ Middleweight

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 4—(CP).—Sgt. W. T. Brade, Winnipeg, hard-slugging Westerner, who held a string of Canadian amateur boxing titles, won the middleweight championship in the 2nd Canadian Division boxing finals with a first-round technical knockout over L.-Cpl. Wibb Ayers of London, Ont.

The match was the headline event of the tournament.

The winner was a bantamweight on the Canadian boxing team at the British Empire games in Australia and held the Canadian bantam, feather and lightweight titles. He now is with a field regiment and Ayers with a field ambulance.

The light-heavyweight title was won by Pte. Len Rashett of Tweed, Ont., serving with a Quebec infantry regiment. He defeated Pte. A. G. Burcomb of Guelph, Ont., member of a field ambulance unit, by a decision in three rounds.

Pte. Jack Pedan of Toronto, with a Central Ontario infantry regiment, dodged terrific roundhouse swings of Pte. T. P. Lee, Calgary, member of a mobile Bath unit, and poked away at his husky opponent to take the heavyweight championship by a three-round decision.

A second-round technical knockout over Cpl. Jack Barry of Detroit won Pte. P. E. Thibault of Montreal the lightweight crown. Both belong to a Quebec infantry regiment.

Pte. Joe Wellman of Niagara Falls, Ont., with a reconnaissance battalion, was awarded the welterweight crown when the other finalist, Bdr. Steve Cameron of London, Ont., couldn't fight because of an injured hand.

L.-Cpl. Benny Carbonette of Ottawa won the bantam crown without a final fight when no opponent was available. The little Ottawan took on Pte. Euclid Parisien of Montreal in the featherweight final but lost when the fight was stopped in the second round.

Steers, Heifers Close Steady; Hogs Regain 15

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP). — Prices on steers and heifers closed steady on the Livestock Market here this week after an early weakness. Butcher cows were unsaleable at the close after a 25 cent drop. Veal calves were steady while dressed hogs recovered a 15 cent decline. Lambs were down 25 to 35 cents cwt., while sheep held steady.

Steers and heifers opened 15 cents lower, but recovered later in the week. Weighty steers sold at $8 to $9.50. Butcher steers closed at $7.50 and $8.85 and butcher heifers at $7 to $8.25 with a few at $8.50. Fed calves were slow at $8.75 to $10. Butcher cows were mostly $4.75 to $6.50 on closing sales after early tops of $7. Canners and cutters sold at $3.25 to $4.75. Bulls were weaker at $5.25 to $6.60 cwt. Good light Western stockers sold at $7.50 up to $7.75, with other stockers downward to $6. Good milkers and Springers were steady at $80 to $90 each.

Veal calves were unchanged at $11 to $12 for choice with a large number of common to medium selling slowly at $6 to $10 cwt.

Hogs opened at $8.35 live and $11 to $11.15 dressed. The close was at $8.35 live and 11.15 to $11.25 dressed. Sows sold at $7.50 to $7.75 on a dressed basis.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 2,300 Westerns. Early sales were at $11 to $11.15 for Westerns of top quality. The lamb market was badly overloaded and many of the Westerns were of poor quality. Closing prices for top lambs were $10.50 to $11, with others downward to $9. Sheep were stead at $3 to $6 for locals with light Western ewes at $6.50.

house it would be impossible to bring down the budget for the new year before the Easter recess which starts next Wednesday. He announced, however, that he would make a statement on proposed amendments to the excess profits tax to put an end to uncertainty for many taxpayers as to where they stood on their operations.

That act now imposes a tax of 75 per cent on all profits in excess of a pre-war normal and it is understood the amendments have to do with the determination of what the pre-war normal profits shall be for different types of business.

The general run of taxpayers will have to wait for the budget to learn what additional sums they will be required to contribute to meet Canada's wartime financial obligations.

A sharp protest was registered by Opposition Leader Hanson against the modification of statute law by order-in-council; and John Blackmore, New Democracy Leader, voiced his suspicions that production of beet sugar in Canada was being unduly curtailed.

The senate heard further repercussions of government leader Dandurand's recent statement to the effect that, before Dunkirk, British industrialists were not anxious to see Canadian industry get into war production. Conservative Leader Meighen moved for production of communications passing between the Canadian and British governments on the subject.

The upper house passed the motion after Senator Dandurand said the documents could not be produced without the consent of the British government and Senator Meighen insisted that the British government be asked for its consent.

Wants Some Airing

Mr. Hanson's complaint centred mainly on an order-in-council passed last November, suspending the operation of a clause in the consolidated revenue and audit act designed to secure treasury control over expenditures. He also cited other orders-in-council affecting statute law which, he said, should have been brought before parliament.

"An important section of the statutes of this country, intended to protect the public treasury, has been flouted at a time when the people's representatives were in session and could correct the position if it absolutely needed to be corrected," said Mr. Hanson.

He agreed statutes might be found too rigid for wartime emergences but complained the government was making too great use of the powers given it by the war measures act.

"The war measures act has set aside the constitution of this country under this government," he said, "and I do submit, in all fairness, that it ought not to be used for all the purposes for which it has been used."

Mr. Ilsley replied that the order-in-council affecting the Consolidated Revenue and Audit Act was necessary to avoid "administrative chaos." He said there was no question of the government's power to act by order-in-council and he was satisfied of the wisdom of the action taken.

Sees Less Sugar Acreage.

Mr. Blackmore's speech on sugar was prompted by instructions issued by th sugar beet factory in his constituency of Lethbridge to reduce sugar beet acreage in that area by 1,300 acres because the factory had a stock of unsold sugar.

Canada, he contended, should increase its beet sugar production in order to make itself independent of imports—not curtail production. Beet sugar was the equal of cane sugar in all respects. He questioned the necessity of recent increases in the price of sugar.

"It would certainly appear, first that the Canadian government is selling Canada into bondage in the matter of Canada's sugar supply," said Mr. Blackmore.

"Secondly, someone is bartering Canada's birthright for worse than a mess of pottage and betraying her future for dross as base as the famous 30 pieces of silver.

"Third, any nation that must buy from abroad any necessity of life, is, in respect of that necessity, a potential slave of external circumstances.

"Fourth, the interests that control our sugar supply, once our beet sugar industry is destroyed, can raise the price to any level. Their unprincipled cupidity dictates and forces Canadians to pay that figure as they did after the last war.

"Fifth, the sugar situation looms through the storm clouds as one of the blackest and most imminent threats to Canadian economic freedom."

Defences For Temiscouata?

J. F. Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata) clashed with Defence Minister Ralston for the second time this session when he asked what steps were being taken to provide for the defence of his own constituency.

Col. Ralston said defence plans were a military secret but adequate arrangements were being made to meet any attack on Temiscouata county or any other part of Canada.

To this Mr. Pouliot retorted that defences were only secret when they existed. He intimated that he had in mind a possible successor to Col. Ralston if one were necessary. He did not name the man, but said he had a good military record and was the best organizer in the country.

Answering a question from Douglas Ross (Con., Toronto-St. Paul's), Munitions Minister Howe said the Government's airplane production policy was to keep every factory busy on the planes it was producing now, or on other types to come into production soon. Airplane manufacturers knew where they stood.

"There is only one uncertainty," he said. "It relates to the development of a new type of engine in the United States, and we expect to have that determined shortly."

bending them down to make an opening big enough to let them out. A brick wall still separated the two pairs of prisoners, but, apparently working at that from both sides, a hole was soon made through the wall and the four men were together in a corridor that gave access to a ground floor window opening on to the north jail yard. They were working on the bars at this window, and had almost succeeded in making an opening big enough to escape when Wood discovered them.

A number of hack saws were found, two of them shoved down into the socks of one of the prisoners. These had been used to cut the cell bars and also the iron bars on the window.

An automobile was reported seen waiting outside the jail, and it is assumed that the prisoners were counting on assistance to make a getaway once they got outside.

Soon after the attempted jail break was frustrated police arrested five Toronto people, two men, Marvin Rosenfarb and Noel George Sharon and three women, Mary Rogers, Ivy Pryde, and Helen House in a local hotel, and after questioning they were locked up on a charge of vagrancy.

Obituaries

WILLIAM HILL.

HASTINGS, April 4.—(ENS). — The community lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death on Thursday morning of William Hill, who passed away at his late residence on Albert street, Hastings, in his eighty-fourth year.

He had been in failing health for some time, but during the past few weeks his condition became more critical.

A life-long resident of Hastings, the late Mr. Hill was born in Asphodel township in October, 1857, but, at the age of two years, came to Hastings, where he has since resided.

He leaves to mourn his passing two daughters and five sons, Mrs. Gertrude Lingegrover of Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Earl Hahn of Hastings; George of Glenshaw, Pa.; Walter of Chicago, Ill., Bruce of Pittsburg, Pa.; Tom of Phoenix, Ariz., and Lynn at home.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Saturday, at 2 p.m., conducted by the Rev. D. K. Perrie and assisted by the Rev. J. E. Glover, with interment in the Trent Valley cemetery.

MRS. F. G. BAILEY

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4. — (ENS)—This town lost another of its well-known citizens with the passing of Margaret Anne Begg, wife of Freeman G. Bailey, who died at her Centre Street residence early Tuesday morning.

The late Mrs. Bailey was born in Seymour Township sixty years ago and has resided in this vicinity practically all her life. She was married to her now grieving husband here thirty-six years ago. A member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Mrs. Bailey had for many years taken an energetic part in the work of various women's organizations and up to the time of her death had maintained a keen interest in various charitable societies.

Although she had been in failing health for some time her sudden passing as the result of a stroke early Monday evening, was distinct shock to both family and friends.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Gerald of Peterborough and Keith with the 3rd Field Park Co., R.C.E., Debert, N.S. A sister, Mrs. Sarah Boyle, St. Catharines and two brothers, John of Seymour and James of Cramahe also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted from the family residence on Centre street at 2:30 Friday afternoon by Rev. D. K. Perrie, Hastings, and interment will be at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

FRACTURES ANKLE.

Stew. Heffernan of the well-known swimming, diving and gymnastic team of Heffernan and Hayes, was unfortunate enough to fracture an ankle during a gymnastic display put on for the benefit of the trainees at the local military training centre Wednesday night. A group of gymnasts from the Y.M.C.A. were staging an exhibition of tumbling in the Salvation Army hut and Heffernan in executing a back somersault landed off balance and twisted his ankle so badly that the bone was fractured.

SAVED THE DAY

Stan McLeod, chairman of the House Committee of Kinsmen Club was in the doghouse Thursday night when it was found the Empress Hotel could not accommodate the club because of a slip on the part of some Kinsmen members. The Hotel Champlain arranged a banquet and McLeod was forgiven when the waitresses walked out with plates of home-made buns, hot out of the oven, and hot muffins as well. The tea-bone steaks smothered in mushrooms completed the picture and the party was a real success.

RICHARD REDMOND

The funeral of Richard Thomas Redmond took place from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Dr. Grant and also addressed the congregation who attended to pay tribute to a life long resident of this district.

Possessed of a kindly and charitable disposition Mr. Redmond had made a host of friends during his lifetime, and his passing will be regretted by many whom he befriended and helped in his own quiet way.

After the services his remains were laid to rest beside his parents in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery, the services conducted by Rev. J. Houlihan.

Pallbearers were John Gillespie, John T. O'Connell, Mathew Clancy, Dennis O'Toole, William J. Grady, Pierce Powers.

TERESA BEST

Funeral of Teresa Best took place from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home on Thursday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Requiem Mass was chanted by Rev. Earl Grant, who also delivered a very eloquent sermon to the relatives and friends who came to pay their last respects to one who had during her life made a host of friends, both in Peterborough and Lindsay.

Floral and spiritual tokens also added silent tribute.

After services at the Cathedral the cortege proceeded to St. Mary's Cemetery, Lindsay, where she was laid to rest in the family plot, and services conducted by Rev. Edward Welsh.

Pall-bearers were Fergus O'Brien, George Daley, Charles Carson, Gerard O'Brien, M. J. Duffus, and Leland Wade.

Changes Plea To Guilty As Court Opens

William Bradd, third of the four men charged with burglarizing the Canadian Department store here on February 2, changed his plea to guilty this morning and Judge McGibbon sentenced him to five years in the Kingston penitentiary.

Mannis Frankel, defence counsel, asked that the penalty should be the same as that given Lawrence Burns and Thomas Nicholls, a four-year term, but Judge McGibbon refused. "I cannot ignore his record" he said, "I have a duty to to the public."

Lengthy Record

The record as read by W. B. Common, K.C., special crown prosecutor, showed that Bradd had first got into trouble at Bracebridge in 1927, when he received a six-months sentence for breaking and entering. The list of sentences after that first occasion included several terms in Kingston Penitentiary, with convictions at Hamilton, St. Catharines and Ottawa. Among the charges were escaping from the Ontario Reformatory and of an attempted jail break at St. Catharines. The list included about a dozen charges since 1927.

When court opened this morning Mr. Common said he was ready to proceed with the case of William Bradd.

Mr. Frankel asked that the charge should be read so that Bradd might plead.

"He had already pleaded not guilty," said udge McGibbon.

"He wishes to change his plea and enter a plea of guilty" said Mr. Frankel.

"The accused must plead in person" said Mr. Common. The charge was accordingly re-read and Bradd said "guilty."

Mr. Common then read Bradd's record to the court.

"For the purposes of the record" said Mr. Frankel "the evidence already heard in the case of Tom Nicholls in which the name of Bradd was involved is consented to as being evidence in this case."

Pleads for Four Years

"With a record such as this young man has" said defence counsel, "the least said the better. However, two associates of the accused involved in this case each received four years, and I don't think the crown would object very much if he received a similar sentence. The accused wishes to apologize to the court for the way he acted yesterday. He was under tention at the time."

"This is a terrible record for a boy of 28 years" said Judge McGibbon, after Bradd had informed the court that he was 28 years old, had been born in Hamilton, and his parents were dead.

"When I left school, and I didn't go very long," said Bradd "the depression was on and there was no way I could work. From the first time I was arrested I was never given a chance. I wasn't put on probation at that time."

"The great trouble with you, Bradd, is the company you keep. It pulls you down. I believe you have some ability but you have been applying it in the wrong place" remarked Judge McGibbon.

"I can't ignore this record" he continued, "I do hope that one day you will come to your senses and arrive at the conclusion that this kind of life does not pay."

"My record is the whole thing that doesn't give me a chance" said Bradd, "It is against me when I try to get work"

"You could tell them the truth" Judge McGibbon said.

"Then they don't want me" replied the accused.

"Did you try to enlist?" No.

"Your country wants you" said His Honor. "You are sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary."

"May I urge your Honor to make it four years," said Mr. Frankel.

"I have a duty to the public and this boy's record is too bad" replied Judge McGibbon.

When Bradd was brought before the court yesterday afternoon after Nicholls had been convicted and sentenced, he asked that he should be tried by a judge and jury, and there was quite a scene in the court for a while.

Mannis Frankel, in addressing Judge McGibbon, said that unfortunately all four men had not been tried together. As a result of the system followed Bradd felt that he had been found guilty before he had been tried. "He is now asking to go before a jury or before another judge," said defence counsel.

"This case will be tried on its merits," returned Judge McGibbon. "I have not tried Bradd yet. The grounds you have stated are not sufficient to justify granting your request."

"I am going to dismiss my lawyer and put no defence up. You can railroad me or not," exclaimed Bradd.

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty," snapped the accused.

"What is your position now, Mr. Frankel?"

"I have no standing at present," replied the Toronto counsel. "All that remains for me is to ask Your Honor to permit me to withdraw."

Judge McGibbon ordered a brief recess to give counsel a chance to talk over the situation over with Bradd.

What the prisoner was brought back into court, Judge McGibbon again asked Mr. Frankel what his position was then.

"Just about the same as before," was the reply. "The accused says you are already prejudiced against him and that he cannot get a fair trial and he therefore desires to be tried by another judge."

"I feel you are prejudiced against me before I start," said Bradd.

"You come into this court with a chip on your shoulder, young man," replied Judge McGibbon. "You will get a fair trial on the merits of the case."

"Is there no way in which I can be tried by judge and jury?"

"None," replied Judge McGibbon, who remarked that he was going to give Bradd the option of an adjournment until Friday morning to arrange about counsel, or else to go on immediately with his trial without counsel. Bradd took the adjournment, and the case went over until this morning.

Held On Vagrancy Charge

Mary House, of Toronto, who along with two other women and two men, are being held on a vagrancy charge in connection with the attempted jail-break in the Peterborough Court-House on Thursday night. She is shown in her cell in the Police Court on Friday morning; one of her companions hid in the corner, while the other was being fingerprinted upstairs. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Five Are Charged With Vagrancy After Attempted Jail Break

Three girls and two men faced vagrancy charges in city police court arising out of an attempted jail break by four prisoners at the county jail Thursday evening.

Chief Constable Newhall said that the quintet was arrested in Queen's Hotel at ten o'clock last evening, and he further stated that the five had been warned to leave the city the day before. Mannis Frankel of Toronto appeared for the five and they were all remanded without plea or election until Wednesday, April 9.

The five are Noel George Charren, Maurice Rosenfarb, Helen House, Ivy Bryde and Mary Rogers, and they are still in jail.

They were charged under a section of the Vagrancy Act which is not invoked very often, as follows: "That having no peaceable profession or calling to maintain himself by, for the most part supports himself by gaming or crime or by the avails of prostitution and is thereby a loose, idle or disorderly person or a vagrant."

The three girls, neatly dressed and smart looking in appearance are confined to the women's cell in the police station. They had been attending the court case on the hill, in which Burns, Gallow, Nicholls and Bradd were facing charges of robbery.

Gets Two Months.

William Curtis, age 18, who pleaded guilty to six charges of breaking and entering local premises, was sentenced to two months on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently, and he will serve the term in the county jail.

John Bradshaw, counsel for the accused, urged strongly the court consider the boy's age and the fact that it is his first offence, and grant suspended sentence. This plea was opposed by the Crown, and Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., sentenced the boy to the county jail rather than to the reformatory.

Fred McMahon of Millbrook was fined $10 and $2.50 costs when convicted under the Farm Products Grades and Sales Act. The charge was that he had sold apples which were undergrade. A second charge of facing, that is, putting the best apples on top was withdrawn.

Jury-Lovell Buy Bond Drug Store

A business change of considerable importance was completed in quick order yesterday when the drug business of J. P. Bond, Hunter and George streets was acquired by the Jury-Lovell interests who own a number of drug stores in the province.

The Jury-Lovell firm control the Elliott Drug Store here and the intention is that when the Bond store has been completely remodelled the Elliott business will be moved into the corner site.

Mr. Bond has been in business at the corner of Hunter and George streets for 21 years, taking over the store from William Madill.

He will continue to make Peterborough his home.

20% OBJECT TO PORK

There are 190,000,000 people in the world who still take their meals in primitive fashion, and 25 per cent object to eating pork, according to a London meat specialist.

Need Of A Big Brother Club In Peterborough More Than Evident In Report To Council

"He thinks the police are a joke," was the concluding sentence in a report by Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, recommending to the council Thursday night that the city pay for the maintenance and care of a small boy at St. John's School for Boys.

A pathetic echo of humor sounded at that period, and although it caused laughter, it seemed closer to tragedy.

City Clerk Outram said the boy is a good looking lad and "well spoken," but Miss Young's report describes him as having got entirely out of hand at home, a noisy nuisance at school, and behind his smooth front is a growing habit of stealing. The boy is one of seven children, and apparently the main weakness in his background is parental ineptitude to deal with a growing boy. And here he is starting off on the broad road and its devious bypaths, having already acquired the dangerous smart aleck idea that the police are a joke.

And now he has reached the stage of rebellion against the little fringe of society in which he moves, thinks he is a law unto himself and has to be sent to a school of correction. Miss Young says no boy is beyond redeeming, and there is still hope for him. She is suggesting his wayward beginning indicates the need of a Big Brother Club in Peterborough.

City Auditor Audits Fund To Aid Victims

According to the requirements of the War Charities Act of the Federal Government, all funds which received official approval are required to submit to the government an audited statement of receipts and disbursement up to the end of the fiscal year on March 31.

Peterborough's British War Victims' Fund has been audited by Edward Humpage, showing total contribution by the public up to that date of $11,261.43.

Disbursement were: amounts sent to Prime Minister Winston Churchill for relief purposes (£2,000), $8,944.60; and sundry expenses, cables, exchange, etc., $26.92; total $8,971.52.

Balance on hand, March 31, 1941, $2,289.91.

Other receipts have been coming daily since the end of March and Fred Mann has already applied to the government for permission to send Peterborough's sixth contribution of £500 to the Old Country.

Plan Two Draws

Two draws for the British War Victims' Fund are to be made within a few days, and Peterborough people who have been keeping the fund steadily on the upgrade are reminded of these two opportunities to make substantial contributions.

The draw for the four piece silver tea service donated by Mrs. David MacPhail will be made Monday night at a bridge to be held by the sponsors, the Business Professional Women's Club. All returns should be made to Miss J. Waddell by Monday noon. There are still a few tickets available on this draw. They can be obtained from members of the club or at Grafton's, or the Examiner.

The canoe outfit given by J. B. O'Dette and Sons will be drawn for by Mayor Hamilton on Easter Monday, April 14. Somebodys is going to get a splendid prize in winning this canoe, paddles and other accessories in time for the boating season.

Repeat donations still continue to come in, showing that the people of the city and district are thinking daily of the needs of many thousands of the people of Great Britain who have suffered from German air raids. Probably there are many who may be inclined to forget this appeal. Just a little kindly reminder to them will sharpen the contrast of their fortunate position as compared with the British people in the front line trenches, which mean sanywhere and everywhere in the Old Land.

New Pole Line Being Erected

The Utilities Commission is completing the erection of a new pole line from the Canadian General Electric Company's plant on Wolfe Street to Bethune and in the back way to the Utilities sub-station.

It is being erected to supply the company with 5,000 horse-power for their new industrial requirements. R. L. Dobbin, manager, said the C.G.E. has been receiving the standard 2,200 volts, but has outgrown that power consumption. The line carries 44,000 volts which will be stepped-down to 6,600 at the factory.

Excavation began late yesterday afternoon on the Wolfe Street side of the C.G.E. grounds for a new sub-station through which the supply of power will be handled for the additions to the factory. It is mostly an assembly of transformers, switches and other outdoor equipment that does not require housing.

Debenture Debt Is Said $58,493

Miss Jennie Batten, county clerk and treasurer, telephoned the Examiner this morning to take exception to a statement in the speech by Alex. L. Elliott, M.P.P., in the Legislature Wednesday as reported by The Canadian Press.

"Mr. Elliott said that Peterborough county had a debenture debt of $125,000 in 1936, and that it had now been wiped out," Miss Batten said. "As a matter of fact the present debenture debt of this county is $58,493, and practically all of it was incurred for provincial highways. The only exception was the amount of $5,000. The terms of the debenture do not expire until 1946."

Fuel Tenders Again Called

Discussion of fuel values in the various types of coal now being used in the schools was the highlight of a lengthy discussion at the Property Committee meeting of the Board of Education on Thursday night.

The argument developed when there were not sufficient tenders received in the annual call for the coal for the city schools. At this point, Messrs. Melton, Donnelly and Moir expressed some dissatisfaction with the situation maintaining that a thorough analysis of the needs of the Board along with a study of the different types of coal might lead to a more satisfactory arrangement. The final decision was to ask for more tenders and a meeting to discuss fuel values will be held at a later date.

Improved Lighting

Mr. Walker, the chairman suggested to the Board that action should be forthcoming on the Collegiate re-wiring and improved lighting and after a brief discussion the committee recommended that Grant and Loucks be authorized to install two experimental fluorescent units in one room at the school so that the Board might observe the change. Mr. Finnie, building supervisor was instructed to take light readings in all rooms at the school and to submit a chart to the Board, indicating the light meter reading, time of day, subject being taught and whether or not the room was in use night and day.

The wiring circuit at the South Central School is inadequate for present day requirements and it was decided to change the circuit to 3 wire, 100 amp from 2 wire 60 amps. Fred Finnie was instructed to get this work done, and was given a max-mum figure within which he must work.

Gym Floor

John Ward, chief caretaker at the Collegiate reported to the Board on the condition of the gym floor, and the members decided that the floor be dressed with a preparation recommended by Mr. Ward and that the work be done during the Easter holidays. Two fans will be installed in the boy's gym and one in the girl's gym.

The committee also recommended the purchase of a special spray machine and ten gallons of soap to be used with it, in cleansing terrazzo floors at the Collegiate.

Mr. Ward was instructed to prepare a report on the amount of work being done by the janitors in connection with the War Emergency classes, and this will be discussed at a special meeting of the Property Committee to be held prior to the regular monthly meeting next Thursday.

Prices are to be obtained on 50 feet of 1½ inch fire hose, cork floor covering and two types of battleship linoleum for the administration building.

The committee recommended the purchase of 28 fire extinguishers.

Hospital Board Requests An Extra $7,000

By a vote of six to four, the finance committee of the council last night recommended that an application be made to the Ontario Municipal Board for permission to borrow an additional sum of $7,000 for the construction of a temporary wing at Nicholls Hospital.

With Alderman Cotton presiding, the resolution by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Roy, was supported by Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Ovens, Sullivan and Sands, with Aldermen Gordon, Bradburn, Swanston and Curtis opposing.

The Ontario Municipal Board has already given its approval for the issuing of debentures for $10,000 without submitting the proposal to the Protestant property owners, but subsequent changes in the plans directed by the provincial Department of Health entail further expense which the trustees of the Hospital said they kept to the possible minimum of $7,000.

The deputation of trustees who presented the Board's request to the finance committee was composed of C. F. Kitney, chairman of the building committee, E. B. Fowler, Vincent Eastwood, Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch and D. B. Falkner.

Need More Beds

In presenting their appeal to the council the deputation generally reaffirmed their previous statement of the need of increased bed accommodation for the public at Nicholls Hospital, and declared that their revised plan was the most economical and otherwise satisfactory solution they could devise to meet a pressing and emergent problem.

"We are not asking anything for ourselves," Mr. Kitney said. "We are requesting the council to provide the Board with enough money to build the new wing that is badly needed. We feel that other finances will supply the furnishings. One woman sent us a cheque for $500 in appreciation of the services she received while a patient at the Hospital, and we have had assurances of other support toward the cost of equipment. Our committee has spent most of the winter going into this question, and we hope you will realize that we are simply trying to solve one of this city's problems."

History of the Hospital

Mr. Fowler reviewed to the committee some of the history of the foundation of Nicholls Hospital "in view of the existence of certain erroneous conceptions as to its establishment and operation."

"About the year 1885, the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, who was a very rich lady in her day, expressed a desire to do something for the people of the town of Peterborough by giving them a hospital where the sick people of the community might receive treatment. To this end a proposition was received by the council of that day that she would furnish sufficient money to build and equip a general hospital. Owing to lack of agreement among the members of the council, the existing setup was arranged by several of the most outstanding citizens of this community. I find in the early minutes that a committee composed of George A. Cox, Charles McGill, J. W. Flavelle, R. S. Davidson and John McClelland, was appointed to confer with Mrs. Nicholls regarding the estab-

Milk, Sugar, Tea And Coffee Undergo General Increase In Price In Past Week

Your cup of Oolong or Ja(h)ve, whichever you prefer, has undergone a totalitarian increase in the price of ingredients within the last month.

First, the price of milk was pegged up a notch to let the dairy farmers keep a little of the cream at home or in their bank books. From all accounts that job of Vivian Milburn's is working out quite satisfactorily to all concerned. Some of the producers and distributors felt like frowning on the restaurant boost of the half-pint bottles of milk, from five to ten cents, remarking that there was moderation in all things, but after all, they said, it was none of their business, except that seemed to them a sure way of turning off one of the public milk taps.

Sugar advanced a cent a pound this week as a result of the dollar-a-hundred increase in the federal tax.

Both bulk and package teas went up approximately five cents a pound at the beginning of the week, and now coffees are three to five cents higher than they were all winter.

Control of the cost of coffee is said to be beyond the price—freezing power of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, because it is wholly imported.

"It would be useless to peg the price," said a Board official, "because we have no control over foreign markets. If we did try it the result would probably be that we would get no more coffee.

Factors pushing up the price of coffee are said to have been the retail demand's overtaking of wholesale supplies, shipping shortage and agreements between the United States and the coffee-producing South American nations.

Humane Society Reviews Past Year's Work

Almost unbelievable stories of bird life in Ontario were told to the members of the Peterborough Humane Society at their annual meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night. The speaker of the evening was Alex. Kay, official bird observer for this district.

Mr. Kay has spent years studying the habits and appearance of the bird life of Canada, and is qualified, as well as any person in Ontario, to speak on their habits. One of his most startling features deals with the owl, which is not blind in the daytime, he said, but merely rests them, in preparation for the hunt to follow during the night. Its favorite food consists of mice and more mice, and here's where the interesting facts begin.

The swallows and their famous meeting-place, Capastrano, in California, provide nature with one of her most colorful wonders. Each year, on March 19, they congregate there by the thousands, and have been for more than 200 years; the unbelievable part of it is that records prove that even on leap-year March 19 is their date of arrival.

Canada has 768 different varieties of bird life, and Peterborough has at least 382. There are 2,800 "observers" across the country like Mr. Kay, who send in weekly reports to the government about the birds in their respective districts, and all work without salaries.

Many more vital facts were given, perhaps the most outstanding was the one in which the fact that some birds mate only once was described. Some birds, the owls and geese, never re-marry. They become widows or widowers upon the death of their mates, and remain single from then on.

2,000 Animals Attended To.

The Humane Society is better equipped financially to carry on its program than it was last year, according to C. E. LaBranche, the president, but much is still to be desired. More than 2,000 animals have received the attention of the society in the past year, said Dr. Thomas Johnson, veterinarian for the society and among these were 450 dogs and 385 cats. There are still a few cases of cat disease in the city, and March found a few dogs with distemper. All cases have been well dealt with, however, and cases of poisoning of dogs have been investigated. Dr. Johnson has had 51 years' experience in his field of endeavor, and is qualified well in the lines of inspection of animals.

Peterborough's horse population is being well cared for according to the inspector's report, and with few exceptions all is as it should be in that direction. Boys with air rifles came in for the bulk of the slams at this year's meeting, for it is said that many birds are killed weekly by them at Jackson's Park and Green Hill.

Dr. Johnson has travelled more than 7,000 miles on duty during the past year and his trips have included the country surrounding Peterborough on all sides. Several court cases have arisen out of neglect for or mistreatment of animals, and convictions were secured in all cases.

In Mrs. W. A. Young's report as secretary, the fact that there are 52 paid memberships was brought out, and all officers agreed that this was not enough. Mrs. Young spoke of the war, and said that some people felt that war work should be perhaps the only kind indulged in by societies, but the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in England is now taking a more important place than ever before.

The Peterborough society has become incorporated during the past year, and the members are now provided with adequate protection in legal directions. W. B. Gordon was given a lion's share in the credit for this being an established fact by the president.

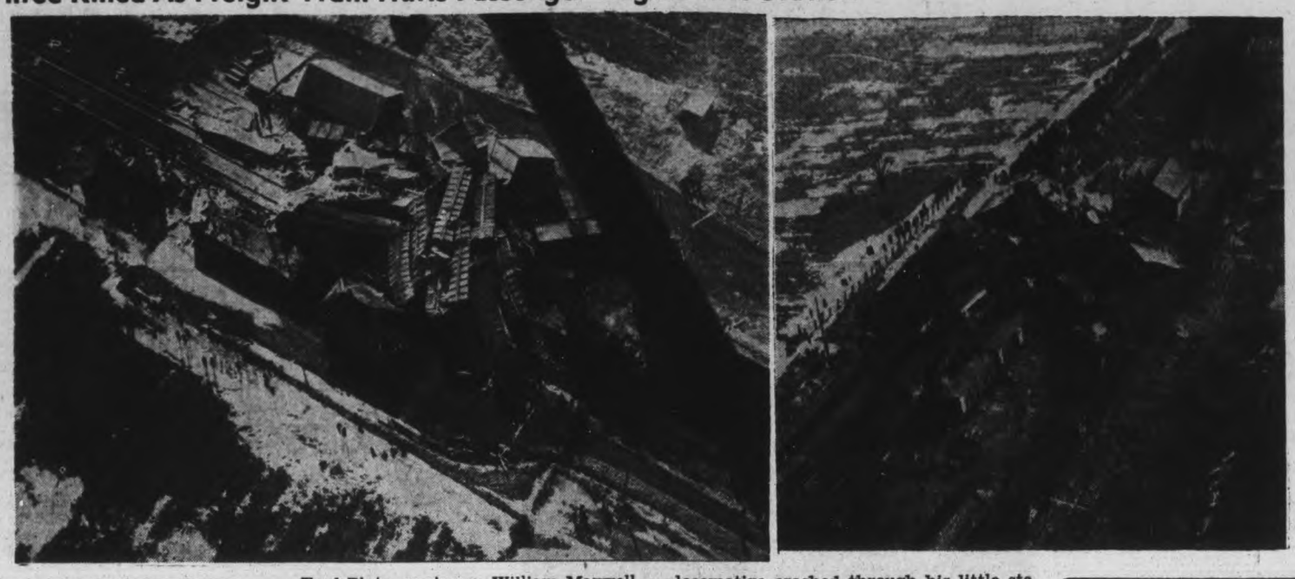
Three Killed As Freight Train Hurls Passenger Engine Into Station



Fred Plato, engineer; William Maxwell, section foreman, and Wallace Plunkett, fireman, met death when a 68-car freight train broke an axle at Inkerman, Ont., and sideswiped the engine of a passenger train which was just drawing to a stop and toppled it on the station. Station Agent Edward Bennett was badly burned when the locomotive crashed through his little station. Running extra, the freight, not due to stop at Inkerman, was roaring through when one of the centre cars began to buckle and sway from side to side and then jumped the track, hitting the waiting passenger train. Two aerial views of the wreck are shown ABOVE.

lishment of a hospital. The existing setup was arranged by these men and accepted by the council. It was embodied in a special act passed by the provincial legislature, which defined the terms of the trust and the methods of management.

First Endowment

The first hospital was established in what is known as the late T. E. Bradburn house on west Charlotte street, which Mrs. Nicholls purchased and endowed to the extent of $15,000. It was operated for a few years when the capacity was found to be inadequate and the present hospital was built and opened in 1890. Mrs. Nicholls provided the money to build and equip the present hospital, and at the opening she gave a further $35,000 towards its endowment.

A few year's later St. Joseph's Hospital was built, and during the intervening years the two hospitals have rendered very great service to this community. While each hospital is staffed and managed by men and women of the respective faiths, there has always been the utmost harmony and co-operation; each hospital endeavoring to do its job in the most efficient and economical manner. There is no conflict of jurisdiction and neither hospital, to my knowledge, raises any question as to the religious conviction of any patient requesting admittance. The sick people of Catholic and Protestant faith alike are given treatment by St. Joseph's Hospital; the same applies to Nicholls. There is nothing in the Nicholls bequest, in the Act of the Legislature or in the bylaws of Nicholls Hospital that does not extend the same privileges to patients admitted to that hospital.

Basis of Problem

According to the records, the people of Roman Catholic faith comprise about one-third of the population of this community, and when illness overtakes them they naturally apply to their own hospital. The remaining two-thirds of the people just as naturally look to Nicholls for hospital service, and as both hospitals are almost equal in bed capacity, it is obvious that Nicholls finds itself unable to take care of all those who come to it for treatment. This condition has existed at least since 1925, about which time the use of hospitals in case of sickness became more general, and the question of bed capacity has been a very perplexing problem which the Board of Nicholls Hospital has been endeavoring to solve.

The existence of the two hospitals is not the creation of the civic officials of this generation, and I might say this condition exists in many places throughout Canada. Personally, I am inclined to feel that the system is perhaps the best, as applied to hospital work, because it is recognized when the religious and philanthropic approach to hospital service is removed the good work done by hospitals generally will be greatly minimized. Hospitals cannot be operated as you would the Utilities or the Board of Works service, but must be approached by sympathetic understanding of the problems caused by illness to those of our community, rich and poor alike.

Mrs. Nicholls' Gifts

The protestant people of this community are greatly indebted and have been wonderfully favored through the benevolence of the late Mrs. Nicholls. I find from the records that since the present hospital was built in 1890, the Nicholls endowment has given to the work of the hospital an average of almost $10,000 a year, as against an average of approximately $2,000 provided by the Protestant ratepayers; and further we have an endowment fund at present of almost $250,000, besides an appraised value of building and equipment of $277,000."

Mr. Fowler said that comprehensive plans for general extension and renovation of the hospital were prepared, but could not be undertaken because of existing conditions.

"This present plan will relieve the situation and enable us to carry on for a few years when we hope that conditions will be such as will warrant our going ahead with the larger scheme. You have already given us $10,000 which we at first considered would be adequate, but this plan as prepared by the architect and approved by the Department would be much better, not only in giving us more bed capacity and larger room area, but would provide certain services for which we are in great need.

Consequently, we are asking for an additional $7,000 which the Hospital Board, including as it does four members of this council, endorse, and which we hope will receive your favorable approval."

Financial Review

Mr. Fowler also presented each member of the council with copies of a financial statement showing the details of payments by the Nicholls Hospital Trust amounting to $487,759 during the last fifty-one years, an average of $9,563, as compared with $106,000 provided by the city during that time, or an average of $2,085 a year. And the endowment is now $242,000.

In 1939, according to the provincial statistics, Mr. Fowler said, Nicholls Hospital received from the municipality of Peterborough $7,765 which included $2,400 as a requisition and $5,365 for the care of indigent patients. In that year St. Joseph's Hospital received $7,820 from the city, entirely for the care of indigent patients.

"Our income from endowments that year was $12,898, and St. Joseph's received donations amounting to $10,248. They got almost the equivalent of what we got."

Patients' Residence

Patients at Nicholls Hospital last year were 56 per cent from the city, 29.9 from the county and 12.9 from the province generally.

"Both hospitals serve the district which is served by Peterborough in other things," Mr. Fowler said. He mentioned such places as Millbrook, Bethany, Omemee, Hastings, Bailieboro and so on. A week ago Saturday four persons who went to the hospital had to be turned away for lack of accommodation.

Mr. Fowler said the dimensions of the wing were at first 32 feet by 100 feet, but the architect and department suggested essential changes requiring an increase of 25 per cent in floor space, including a service room for sterilizing outfits and other facilities, more plumbing and other incidentals.

"If Mrs. Nicholls had not provided a suitable hospital, the city would have had to build one," Alderman Cotton commented.

One-Third of a Mill

Mayor Hamilton strongly endorsed the application and the plans of the deputation. "The Hospital has been giving this community good service for many years," he said. "I don't think we have used the Board as fairly as we should have in this matter. There is no doubt in my mind, that something has to be done and done quickly. If we take $17,000 and pay it back in five years it will cost the Protestant ratepayers in the neighborhood of $4,000 a year. That means one-third of a mill on the assessment, or one dollar a year on the average ratepayer's assessment of $3,000. Most of it will be paid by the manufacturers. The people will be getting about $3 in value for every dollar they pay."

Alderman Cotton reminded the committee that the city would have another two thousand people in a short time.

"And there will be patients from the training camp," Mayor Hamilton said. "I believe the people are convinced of the necessity of this extension and are perfectly willing to pay for it."

Alderman Dutton moved, seconded by Alderman Roy, that the committee recommend to the council the application of the Hospital Board for the additional $7,000.

On that division Alderman Sands voted against it, although Alderman Cotton did not declare whether the motion had carried or not. Discussion immediately succeeded the apparent equal division of the committee on the motion.

Submit to People

Alderman Swanston briefly declared his attitude that the Protestant ratepayers should be given the opportunity of voting on the funding of the extension to the hospital which he said was first to cost $10,000 and was now $17,000. "Let the people vote on it," he said, "and the council can go out and support it."

Alderman Bradburn said he agreed with Alderman Swanston's tribute to the work of the Board of Trustees, "but I said before that I would rather see a larger sum spent on a wing that was going to be a permanent building that would be part of the new hospital that has to be built some time. I don't think that in our private affairs we would be willing to spend $17,000 on a building that is going to be good for a comparatively few years. I would ask for $50,000 or $60,000 for a larger and permanent wing."

Mayor Hamilton remarked that the interest on that expenditure would amount to $1,500 a year. Mr. Fowler pointed out that the first additional requirement in that case would be a new heating plant that would cost an extra $40,000. "We have gone into all that, but I don't think that in times like these we should be asking the people for a large sum. Besides ideas of hospitalization may change to a great extent in the next ten years."

"And where would the Board be if the people turned down a proposal of that kind," Alderman Dutton asked.

"They'd be high and dry," Alderman Gordon said.

Alderman Dutton said that eventually the larger hospital might not be built on the present site.

Mr. Eastwood interjected a statement that while larger sums were being mentioned, the council might be asked by the Government to subscribe one million dollars to a war loan in the next ninety days.

District Patients

Alderman Gordon stated that if the question was put to a vote of the people he would cast his own vote for it. He suggested that the Trustees should take some action to discourage the number of patients coming from the district. He said some of them came from Warkworth, Plainville and other points in Northumberland county, and they should be going to Cobourg. He said he understood there was available accommodation at Port Hope and Lindsay also.

"I don't see how you could exclude people from this district," Mr. Fowler answered. "It would be a black-eye to Peterborough. This is their trading centre and they look to Peterborough for many services."

Dr. McCulloch said it might also imperil the government's grant to the hospital.

"People from the district leave ten times more money here than we spend on them," Mayor Hamilton said.

Mr. Eastwood declared that he felt it a grave duty resting upon him as a member of the Hospital board to appeal to members of the council to reconsider their attitude. "This thing," he said "has got to come to pass. We want the best assistance possible from everybody in order that the hospital shall continue to be able to give the people what they need."

Mr. Eastwood said Kingston had 522 hospital beds as compared with 180 in Peterborough.

Ald. Sands' Objection

After the deputation had gone Alderman Sands said he had voted against the motion because "I took exception to Alderman Dutton moving that resolution while the deputation was here. I don't think it was the right thing to do."

Alderman Dutton—"You had the privilege of voting as you wished."

Alderman Sands—"And I did."

Mayor Hamilton—"I am sure Alderman Dutton had no intention of trying to force any member's hand."

Alderman Sullivan said he wished to make a short statement in regard to his own decision to support the Dutton-Roy motion. "As a Roman Catholic member of the council I understand that I am fully entitled to vote on this question. I might also say that I am a member of the board of St. Joseph's Hospital. Possibly there might be some people who would think I was against people going to St. Joseph's Hospital in supporting this request from Nicholls Hospital. There is no thought of that kind in my mind. This question has been presented to us as an emergency problem, and I am also considering it from the humanitarian standpoint. I think that the aspect of its emergency will become more acute as the war goes on, and that has been one of the main points mentioned this evening. It is a matter of providing more accommodation for the sick people of this community. I don't think there is any thought of Nicholls Hospital increasing its bed accommodation at the expense of St. Joseph's Hospital. I know that any of you or your families who may have been at St. Joseph's Hospital feel that you get good treatment there."

"Thank you, Alderman Sullivan," Alderman Cotton said.

"That's a very fine attitude on Alderman Sullivan's part," Alderman Roy remarked.

Alderman Swanston said he would like to see the council unanimous on the question, if it was going through. "How can the people be unanimous if the council is not?" he asked.

"That's a democracy," Ald. Gordon said, and repeated his opposition on the ground that the hospital accepted reservations made by people from the district, and if the Board would not accept patients from outlying villages there would be sufficient room for the more local needs. There were 417 patients last year from the district, he said.

Alderman Cotton finally called for the vote of the committee, and Alderman Sands cast his vote with the majority who were in favor of recommending the Hospital Board's request.

Poland's Leader Arrives In Canada

A group of his countrymen were on hand to greet General Wladyslaw Sikorski, Prime Minister of Poland and commander-in-chief of its armed forces upon his arrival in Canada. General Sikorski will discuss with Premier King and President Roosevelt the post-war formation of a Polish-Czechoslovakian state, during his visit to this continent. The Polish mission announced from Ottawa that Free Polish forces will be trained at Windsor and Ottawa and will include two distinct companies of Czechs and Yugoslavs.

Cavan Reeve Leads Forum Discussion

CAVAN, April 4—(ENS). — About twenty-five neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Seymour Tuesday night to listen to the Farm Forum broadcast. The speaker, Dr. McDonald of Xavier University, gave an interesting address picturing the farm problem as a factory making a product at a loss and going into bankruptcy. He concluded by saying it would need the most expert management and economy to put it on a paying basis."

Reeve Garnet Shield was one of the guests. He spoke on topics relating to educational system, taxation, school unit, and said that these were all questions "right where we live." Mr. Shield speaks in a calm, flowing manner and aroused the interest of the gathering in these local problems. The group was divided into two parts, and after considering the questions all were agreed as they compared notes that improvement in services such as dental attention, school nurse and so on, would be a great help if it could be afforded.

In a concluding social hour Miss June Shields entertained with several songs, and there was also community singing. Refreshments were served, and it was the consensus of the meeting that the broadcasts have been most stimulating of constructive thought, and that many questions have been dealt with in an interesting manner that will remain in the minds of the listeners during the months ahead.

House Approves Hepburn Record Budget

TORONTO, April 4 —(CP)—Premier Hepburn's unprecedented $115,000,000 budget for the fiscal year just starting had the unqualified approval of his followers today following the close of the budget debate that started nearly three weeks ago in the Ontario Legislature.

The debate was concluded last night when Conservative Leader George Drew's motion to refer the estimates to the executive council for the purpose of reducing them by at least $25,000,000 was defeated. On a straight party ballot, the resolution was lost 51-19 and by the same vote the legislature resolved itself into a committee of supply to consider the estimates. One item was passed before adjournment was taken.

In completing a defence of his administration, the premier declared that Hydro Electric Power, which the opposition charged was being exported to Massena, N.Y., at a loss, was power for which there was no market in Ontario.

Had this power not been sold, he declared, the province would have been guilty of "gross waste." In addition the government had been urged to release this power for export because it was going to plants manufacturing aluminum parts for British airplanes.

Premier Hepburn read a statement from Chief Engineer John Dibblee of the Hydro Commission which, he said, would discount the "misleading statements" of former premier George S. Henry (Con. York East) that there was a power shortage in Ontario.

Claim Reserve On Hand

Mr. Dibblee's statement declared the commission had greater power reserves than any privately owned companies in Quebec and it was to ease the situation in that province that Ontario had consented to continue in effect daylight saving during the past winter. The province's reserve was sufficient to meet "any reasonable demand from war industries up until 1942," the statement added.

Referring to Mr. Henry's charge the government was "niggardly" in its grants to education, Mr. Hepburn declared the former premier during his last year in office in 1933 had reduced by $1,300,000 grants to education and at the same time raised the entrance examination fee from $1.50.

"Then the honorable member is hypocritical enough to stand up and condemn this government for spending the largest amount on education this year than was ever spent in the province's history," declared the premier.

He declared that despite Col. Drew's reference to the former mental hospital at St. Thomas as being "a sink hole" it was destined in his opinion to become the air training centre of the Empire.

(The hospital buildings are now used by the Royal Canadian Air Force as a training school).

Premier Hepburn said when his government had a deficit he was condemned by the Conservatives and when he showed a surplus he was also condemned.

"The Tories, while out of office, are the most carping critics, and while in office they are the worst of administrators," he declared.

Admits Debt Increase.

The Premier admitted the gross provincial debt had increased by $76,000,000 since he took office in 1934, but the province had $116,000,000 additional assets, including $143,000,000 invested in highways.

Dealing with the charge that his was "a taxing government," he declared the assumption by the province of the income tax was a case in point. This tax was formerly collected by some municipalities.

In taking over this tax, the government had made it applicable everywhere in the province and the Premier defied anyone in the Opposition benches to move for its abolition and the abolition of the subsidy to municipalities.

His government had been accused of being "extravagant" in highway construction, yet the Premier said he could safely say Ontario enjoyed more profits from tourists than any jurisdiction on the continent and good roads were primarily responsible for this.

Mining Chief Industry

The opposition had charged, he continued, that the corporation tax was eventually borne by the corporation's customer. The biggest industry in the province was mining and its best customer was the United States government.

Col. Drew, in opening his address, declared that if the government was sincere in its promise to push the country's war effort to the limit it would "eliminate every unnecessary service and slash every expenditure possible."

"In spite of all its patriotic assertions this government acts as though we are still at peace," he declared. "It also acts as though it thought we were going through the boom days of 1929."

The government in fact, he charged, was hindering the war effort by diverting from the expenditures of the Dominion government the $12,000,000 surplus by "shameful overtaxation".

The financial statements presented to the House, he continued, were "unreliable" and if the basis of computing tax receipts was used in business, "court action" would follow.

In advocating a reduction of expenditures to a level of five years ago, when they totalled $65,000,000, Col. Drew declared the province "can and should give an example of saving to its people."

Tribute Is Paid To Men Who Risk Their Lives At Sea

James Wharry, sales manager for the Quaker Oats Company, paid tributed to the sea captains and crews who are manning the freighters on the Atlantic today, when he addressed the Kinsmen at a dinner meeting in Hotel Champlain on Thursday evening.

"The real heroes of this war are the men who pilot the boats that ply back and forth across the Atlantic keeping Britain's life-lines intact, and never counting the risk they take bringing food and war materials to the beleagured little island."

Mr. Wharry told that many retired officers who had held high rank in the British navy and who were used to ships with all the conveniences and comforts of modern travel had volunteered for duty at the outbreak of the war, and many of them were now riding slow freighters in convoys to and from England.

His talk was based on observations made during a recent trip, and he entertained his audience with humorous stories of the changes he had noticed because of the war.

Publicity Film

He made reference to a film which was made in Canada about two years ago, by the Canadian Government in which the growing of Fife Red Wheat was featured, with the early history of the Fife family being pictured. This picture is now being shown in 230 theatres across England, and the title of the picture is "The Kinsmen."

"They got the name for this film one day when the group stopped off at the Empress Hotel for luncheon, and Jack Chisholm, a cameraman, noticed the Kinsmen insignia on the dining room wall," said Mr. Wharry. He went on to tell that the party thought the name was singularly appropriate and it was used.

Ken Smyllie introduced the speaker, and Dr. Bill Gordon voiced the thanks of the Club.

Draw Announced

During the evening Angus McDonald and W. B. Gordon distributed the shopper's certificate books and announced that the draw would be made on May 2. First prize is $100, second $50, third, $25, then there are two $10 prizes and one $5. Each prize is a shopping certificate which may be exchanged for merchandise in any Peterborough store. The proceeds will go to further the free eye clinic work carried out by the Club, and applications before the Sunshine Committee so far indicates that upwards of $600 will be needed to do all of the work that is facing them. Tickets are two for twenty-five cents or a book of ten sells for one dollar.

Lorne Bateman, president of the Club, told the members that at the present time there were many draws going on in the city but he pointed out that no work was more essential or worthwhile than the providing of glasses and corrective work on children's eyes, so that they may face the world unhandicapped. He urged the members to work hard and raise the $600 that is needed this year.

Bingo Games Aid Hastings Red Cross

HASTINGS, April 4—(ENS). — Bingo in the Hastings Town Hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Hastings Red Cross proved one of the most entertaining events and the most successful means of raising money ever held by the society. $49.00 was realized and as the prizes, including tea set, casserole and other valuable dishes, groceries, etc., were donated by residents, very little expense was incurred.

Following the National Anthem, Reeve L. E. Kelley, the president, extended a welcome to those who came to assist in this worthy cause. J. L. Doherty, chairman of the committee, including J. Mulholland, H. G. Fairman, S. Stevenson and A. S. Spooner, encouraged the players from the beginning, by donating as the first prize, a soldier doll, dressed in uniform, and later won by Mr. Clarence Gillespie. In a few remarks, Mr. Doherty displayed the "soldiers" which he said was a symbol of why the Red Cross was sponsoring the bingo.

The committee responsible for the prizes were Mrs. V. Gallivan, Mrs. O. Phillips and Miss K. German.

The grand prizes—a large ham donated by Messrs. H. G. Fairman and Dr. W. E. Wilson—was won by Miss Della Plant, and a silver cake plate, donated by Mrs. "Dit" Clapper, was won by Mrs. Guy Wellman.

HASTINGS

Cobourg Rd. Band Busy At Quilting

HASTINGS, April 4— (ENS). — The Cobourg Road Red Cross held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Trotter on Tuesday afternoon when plans were made to hold a euchre in the Town Hall on May 2. The lucky ticket on the quilt donated by Mrs. George Pickens will be drawn on the same evening. Miss Wynnifred Beamish, Miss Doris Puffer, Mrs. J. Cleary, and Mrs. L. Lamey were appointed a committee in charge.

Two quilts, one top donated by Mrs. William Fosber, and one made from blocks from the Red Cross chain letters, were quilted during the afternoon, and three quilts were quilted during the month at the homes of Mrs. Ben Gibson, Mrs. William Pulfer, and Miss C. Williamson. Mrs. Norman Rusaw also donated a quilt top, which will be quilted next month at the home of Miss Williamson.

Mrs. C. Oliver, the treasurer, reported that $25.50 was realized from the euchre and $2.00 had been received as a gift from the Cobourg Road School pupils, and their teacher, Miss K. Crosson; $10.00 will be donated to the Hastings Red Cross for war work.

The following articles were made since the last meeting. Knitted goods, 16 pairs socks, 1 pair knickers, 1 sweater with sleeves, 1 sleeveless sweater, 2 pullovers, 2 pairs gloves; for refugees, 5 quilts, 2 sweaters, and 1 pair mitts.

Anyone having bundles of papers or magazines for the paper collection is requested to leave them at Fred Stewart's garage so that the Red Cross may collect them.

HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE YOU TO EAT?

In these busy days, many of us have to satisfy our hunger with a sandwich, often bolted hurriedly. We know we're playing fast and loose with our insides, but the job must take first place. Irregular meals, irregular sleep, and new ways of living are all causes of constipation.

How to Get Gentle Relief

Constipation, as you know, is caused mainly by the disappearance of moisture from the large intestine. Therefore, that moisture must return. This is done by the action of the several mineral salts which are present in Kruschen. At the same time Kruschen, by its diuretic action helps to flush the kidneys, thus ridding your bloodstream of its accumulated toxic poisons.

It stands to reason that the size of dose for relieving constipation depends on the individual. But once this initial constipation has been relieved, a small daily dose—just enough to cover a dime—will help to keep you regular, and cheerful. Start today to remedy the mischief wrought by irregular meals and hours. You can get Kruschen from any druggist—25c and 75c.

Cash In The Bowery

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP)—Down on the Bowery, where anybody with 15 cents is a veritable coresus, they have dreamed of this for years; money rained in the streets. A robber who had snatched $150 from a restaurant till dropped all but $10 as he fled. He was captured after a four-block chase. Of some 50 hoboes who joined in the pursuit, not one could be found to explain what happened to the rest.

Chooses Death

Count Paul Teleki, premier of Hungary, died suddenly in Budapest shortly after reportedly receiving stiff German demands to turn Hungary over to the Nazis for an attack on Yugoslavia. An official Hungarian news agency reported the count committed suicide by taking poison after receiving the demands.

Mrs. French was also heard in a reading. Miss Ruth Smith was at the piano for the program.

Chapter To Commemorate Its 25th Anniversary

Cartons of new clothing, also a quantity of knitted articles, afghans and baby clothes, were handed to the war convener for shipment to headquarters at the April meeting of Peterborough Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., held in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room with Mrs. E. V. Morphet, regent, in the chair. Refreshments are to be donated to the Local Council of Women for their Primrose Tea.

To commemorate the 25th silver anniversary of the Chapter, a birthday party is planned for all members, to be held in the Recreation Room of the Y.W.C.A. on Monday evening, April 28. Delegates will attend the provincial convention in Hamilton. A collection was received for the Dorothy and Mary Spitfire Fund, and members volunteered to usher at the approaching Y.W.C.A. pageant.

Mrs. Wm. McDonald Speaks To Knox W.M.S.

Members of the W.M.S. of Knox United Church were delighted to have as guest speaker for the April meeting the wife of a former pastor, Mrs. William McDonald. In an inspiring talk, she spoke of the individual responsibilities of each one to the work of the W.M.S., and urged everyone to give freely of time and talents, and to have a thorough knowledge of the work, through the Missionary Monthly, and from books in the library. She said that "Life is a measuring cup to be filled, not drained. We fill it with our time, our talents, our personality. God does not expect us to give money, if we have not got it, but as He has prospered us, so let us give, not grudgingly, but willingly, as to the Lord. Very often, jealously, and bitterness creeps into our meetings, and God alone can help us to overcome these feelings. Let us pray for a cleansing and renewing of our hearts and desires." Her closing words were a message of the Easter time which comes with a special tone of gladness. "The joyful cry, Christ is risen, is heard, filling us with new courage and hope. Do we realize that salvation came into the world with violence, with the most tragic death of the centuries? So out of the debris of a world gone mad, of a world of hatred, wrong and bloodshed, we look above, and see a Saviour, who, crucified for us, arose the third day to bring comfort and assurance that right will triumph; and the God of righteousness bids us have courage and faith."

The study period was taken by Mrs. A. Long, who reviewed briefly the life and work in Newfoundland of Rev. Oliver Jackson.

Mrs. Ego had charge of the worship service which included Easter Bible readings and hymns. Mrs. Whittington sang a beautiful and appropriate solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple."

Mrs. Gerard, the president, presided for a short business period, when the minutes of the March meeting were approved, and an encouraging financial report given by the treasurer. Thirty calls on strangers, and the sick were reported. The treasurer was asked to receive any contributions to the Marys of Canada Spitfire Fund. A letter was read from the I.O.D.E. asking for parcels of new clothing and blankets, and books for war relief and the soldiers. Thanks from Mrs. C. Long for her gift of fruit on her 90th birthday were received. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

PRESENT FROM PERU

By ALICE ALDEN

THERE'S a Latin-American lure about some of the nicest of the new hats, models that owe their inspirition to the headgear of the gaucho or of the Peon. Lily Dache is one designer who went south of the border for her millinery inspiration last Autumn and so started the trend. She has followed it up with some delightful models for her Spring showing, of which this is one. It is a bowl-shaped hat of pottery red felt, its upturned brim covered with layers of narrow grosgrain ribbon in Peruvian color. A fish tail covers the hair in back and helps to keep the hat firmly anchored on the head.

Curling Prizes Presented At Closing Banquet

The Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club closed a successful season's sport with its annual dinner Thursday evening at the Empress Hotel, following by the presentation of prizes to winning rinks of the season.

The president, Mrs. A. J. Robinson, presented the Gibson Trophy to Miss Florence Gladman's rink, of which Mrs. H. Russell's rink was runner-up. The Waddell Trophy, presented by Mrs. O. A. DeGraw, was won by Mrs. G. A. Wood's rink, runners-up, Mrs. Russell's rink; Vice-Skips Trophy, Mrs. Manson Comstock's rink, presented by Mrs. R. H. Turner; runners-up, Mrs. E. Metcalfe, presented by Mrs. Comstock; Consolation prize, Miss Lenore Lyle's rink, presented by Mrs. C. Westbrook; Sturgeon Trophy (mixed bonspiel), presented by Mrs. D. S. Clarke, was won by Mrs. G. A. Wood's rink, and the presentation to Mrs. Westbrook's rink (runners-up) was made by Miss Florence Gladman.

At the Brereton-Raw Bonspiel, Granite Club, Toronto, Mr. Ray Best (skip), Miss Grace Patterson (vice-skip), Mr. G. Putman and Mrs. R. Turner (lead) were runners-up for the trophy.

Reports were presented, and a vote of thanks extended to Mr. H. Martin for his valued assistance to the club throughout the year. Following the presentation of the nomination report, the new president took the chair. New officers are as follows: Past President, Mrs. A. J. Robinson; President, Miss H. Fanning; Vice-President, Mrs. G. A. Wood; Secretary, Miss M. Patterson; treasurer, Mrs. C. B. Westbrook; Membership Committee: Mrs. Westbrook, Mrs. H. Dulmage; Social Committee: Miss Helen Munro, Mrs. R. H. Turner; Games Committee: Mrs. G. A. Wood, Miss L. Lyle, Mrs. V. A. Selkirk; Saturday Bonspiels and out-of-town games: Mrs. E. Metcalfe, Mrs. D. Davis; Executive Committee: officers, conveners of committees, and two members, Mrs. H. Russell, Mrs. F. J. A. Hall.

Attending the dinner were: Mrs. A. J. Robinson, president; Mrs. O. DeGraw, past president; Mrs. C. B. Westbrook, treasurer; Miss Mabel Patterson, secretary; Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. G. A. Wood, Mrs. D. S. Clarke, Miss Hazel Fanning, Miss Helen Munro, Miss Florence Gladman, Mrs. F. J. A. Hall, Miss Lenore Lyle, Miss Grace Patterson, Mrs. E. Pocock, Mrs. Manson Comstock, Mrs. V. A. Selkirk, Mrs. H. Jamison.

Y.P.U. Sponsors Program And Picture Lecture

An illustrated lecture, "Memories of the Motherland," was given in St. Andrew's United Church under the auspices of the Y.P.U. Wednesday evening before a large audience, with Miss Mabel Crozier in the chair, and Mr. R. B. Harle at the organ.

Members of the Queen Mary School Orchestra showed clever musicianship under the capable direction of their leader, Mr. J. Telford, and played varied selections, including several marches; a waltz, and a gavotte. Outstanding was a cornet solo by Dick Crowe, "Land Of Hope and Glory" and the overture "Columbia." Miss Mary Jane Wharry, young violinist, gave a skilled rendition of the Strauss "Tales From the Vienna Woods" and Borowski's "Adoration," receiving enthusiastic and well-merited applause.

The orchestra was composed of the following young artists: Violin, Mary Jane Wharry, Louise Leslie, Robin Waite, Bob. Murray; Clarinets, Douglas Morrison, Jim Airth; Coronets, Dick Crowe, John Greatrix; Bass, Lloyd Thackeray; Drums, Gerald Rose, Stewart Brown; Piano, Jean Mills.

In contrast to the beautiful colored pictures illustrating the beauty spots and buildings of England, Scotland and Wales, were the photographs shown by Dr. Archer Wallace of the evacuation of British children, and the devastation created by German bombs. Rev. Dr. E. W. Young presented the speaker, whose lecture was presented with zest and delightful flashes of humor, thanking him for his sympathetic treatment of an interesting and educational subject.

Shower Is Given Miss M. Bullock

LAKEFIELD, April 4 — (ENS).—Miss Muriel Bullock, a popular bride-elect of Lakefield, was entertained at a delightfully arranged linen, cup and saucer shower by a group of her friends of the Junior Institute and Kawartha Kids Klub, at the home of the Misses Eva and Edna Higgins on Thursday evening.

The guest of honor was seated beneath an arbor of pink and white streamers which hung to the various gifts placed on a table in front of her.

An appropriate address was read by Miss Ethel Blakely, after which Mis Bullock replied, saying that she would take with her to her new home many happy memories of the associations with her Lakefield friends.

She was assisted in opening the gifts by Miss Eva Higgins.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a bride's book, depicting pictures of a "lifetime" of the future bride and groom. Various games were played, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

DOROTHY DIX

DRESS AND DEPORTMENT ARE BEST ASSETS OF GIRL

When You Take a Job in an Office or in Business, Try to Learn More Than Job Requires of You.

A young girl, who is just starting out on her first job, asks me if I will give her a few directions for her guidance along the rocky road she is going to travel. Well, first, dress the part. A woman's clothes are always a part of her success or failure. Be neat and trim, trig and taut, with no floating chiffons or rattling jewelry. Look like an intelligent, competent business woman — not like a little flapper who has dropped into the office or store on her way to the movies or a cocktail party. Use enough cosmetics to help nature out a bit, but don't come to work painted up like a circus wagon and with a marshmallow nose and a mouth that looks like a cut of raw butchers' meat. And, above all, eschew long, clawlike nails that appear to be dripping blood. We women are enough like cats, anyway, without emphasizing the resemblance. Put all that you have in your job. Study it. Learn all about it. Try every day to make yourself more efficient in it. Go to it asif it were going to be your life work and not merely a temporary way of passing the time between the school room and the altar. Perhaps you will marry. Perhaps you won't. Husbands are chancy things in these days and even if you get one he may die, leaving you with a house full of little children to support. Or he may desert you for another woman and then you are in hard luck unless you have some trade at your fingers' ends. And, anyway, it is the experts who draw down the big pay envelopes, so it will pay you to fit yourself to be one of them.

Watch Office Conduct

Toward the men with whom you work adopt the motto of Washington: "Friendship with all, entangling alliances with none." A business office is no place for flirtations, so don't drape yourself over the desk of every good-looking Tom, Dick or Harry, nor permit them to festoon themselves over yours. It doesn't add to a girl's popularity with her boss for her to show that her mind is more on her dates than it is on her work.

Don't trade upon your sex and try to make your good looks take the place of good work, and vamping your superior atone for bad spelling and mistakes in your accounts. And, above all, remember that consoling your boss for having a wife who doesn't understand him is no part of your job.

Good Manners Essential

Cultivate good manners. Be dignified without being haughty. Have self-respect without being touchy. Get an iron grip on your self-control. Learn to give the soft answer that turns away wrath to an irritable and unreasonable customer and a grouchy boss.

Take a human interest in those who stand on the other side of the counter and try to find them what they want. Don't serve them as if you were a languid duchess deigning to bestow a favor upon an inferior. Don't take dictation from your employer with an air that seems to say: "Heaven knows, I never thought I would come to this!"

Use common sense. Loads of it. All you have on the premises. Recognize that when a girl goes into business she comes into direct competion with men on their own ground and that she must expect to be treated as if she were a man.

Therefore, don't keep your precious feelings spread all over the place and have hysterics and weep if your work it criticized, or a worn and harried employer speaks gruffly to you.

Don't Ape Men

Don't copy-cat men unless you have some extraordinary masculine talent. Women are most successful when they stick to their knitting and do their own line of work in their own way. Women's chief value in the commercial world is in bringing certain invaluable feminine qualities to their work, such as an almost fanatical loyalty and faithfulness, and the feminine gift for remembering just where everything was put and being able to lay their hands on it at a moment's notice.

Finally, my dear, be proud of your job. Be proud of earning your own way in the world instead of being a parasite upon some one else. never apologize for being a working girl. Never pretend that you pound a typewriter or stand behind a counter because you are bored with society.

You only make yourself ridiculous when you do, but the world takes off its hat to the girl who stands on her own feet and asks no odds of any one. She is woman at her best. Be one of her.

FASHIONS

A wide waist band to make your waist small and a gathered skirt for action and chic, are distinguishing features of this new jumper frock. Buttons down the back make it easier to launder as well as to slip into when in a hurry. It's the perfect jumper for the school or college girl's spring wardrobe because of its versatility and usefulness. The tailored shirt blouse that is included in the pattern is grand to wear with other jumpers and skirts and the jumper alone serves as a sunback dress in warm weather.

Style No. 3354 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch fabric for jumper; 1½ yards for blouse.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Bee escapes Terry's questioning, learns to wash her own stockings. She remembers that her disappearance may cause some commotion, decides to tell her guardian she is going to South America. Clarence will have to find out for himself. Early next morning Toby gets her out of bed, hurries her to Huntington's and Bee finds herself asking for a job at the store she owns

CHAPTER IX

THE woman behind the desk reached for a white blank. Before she handed it to Beatrice, she looked her over with cold, experienced eyes. She took in the soft, golden ouris under the small, mink hat. She noted the thin woollen jacket, the unobtrusive smartness of the dress.

"Toby didn't spot it," Beatrice thought, unhappily, "but this woman isn't missing a trick." The suede handbag came in for scrutiny, and the brown suede shoes with the lucite heels.

Almost reluctantly, the woman handed Beatrice the blank. "Fill this in, please, and come back."

There was a table in the middle of the office. A long table, with pens and ink and blotters and a list of instructions under the glass top. "Be sure to answer each question. Please do not falsify statements as all references are checked. Give exact dates of previous employment and exact salary."

Beatrice sat down and picked up a pen. Name? Bebe Davis. Address? She wrote the street and number of Toby's apartment and carefully included, "Care of Masters." Experience? None. Education? That was a poser. She couldn't write Miss Spence's School. She bit her lip. Some college—any college. She remembered the name of a woman's college at which Grandfather had endowed a chair.

She carried the completed application to the woman.

"Sit down." She seemed to take in the information at a glance. "Now what makes you thing you'd like to work for Huntington's, Miss Davis,"

"I need the position," said Beatrice quietly. "That's the main reason for applying, of course. Then, I—I've always thought I'd like to sell. I—I believe I could."

"I see."

"A friend of mine—in fact, the girl I live with, works here," plunged Beatrice. "Miss Masters. She thought I would fit in."

"I see." The woman was positively frigid. Her eyes, the tone of her voice, the poker face, told nothing.

Beatrice found herself becoming annoyed with this person. Was this the way Huntington's treated people who asked merely for the opportunity of working? People who might some day be valuable to the store? The least they could expect was a reasonable courtesy.

OUT of the past came a remark of Grandfather's she had not paid especial attention to at the time. "We never know when some world-beating executive may apply to us, in the shape of a frightened, shabby boy who never finished grade school. That's why a store like ours can't afford to be exclusive in the personnel department. I don't believe in this stuff of demanding a college degree and 14 personal references.

"And another thing! A store like Huntington's must never lose sight of the fact that applicants for positions, whether hired or not, are very likely to be customers, too! Antagonize 'em, insult 'em, and you've lost a customer. You've also lost their families and friends."

The woman behind the desk looked at Beatrice with a quick glint in her eyes. "Did you say something, Miss Davis?"

"No. I was merely wondering on what basis an applicant is judged. That is to say—if I have not the qualifications necessary for selling — exactly what are they?"

The woman smiled. "That's an intelligent question. But we need not go into it. As it happens, Miss Davis, I think you do possess qualifications for selling. At least, we'll give you a chance. We happen to be forming a new training class. Of course, you understand, sometimes most of a training class doesn't make the grade. It's not a guaranty of a full-time position. But we train you, give you the opportunity of working in various departments, as a contingent when extra help is needed."

Beatrice thought swiftly, "She'd have turned me down if I hadn't bucked her!" She did not know it, but she was making the same discovery her grandfather had made, years ago, when he laid down the first plank of the foundation of his fortune.

The woman turned her over to the store's medical department for a physical examination.

After that she was given an intelligence test. "Aptitude Test" they called it tactfully. Then she was given a payroll number and a card to be punched and led to the locker room, where she put away her hat and coat.

"The training class begins at 1 o'clock," she was told. "You may go to lunch now."

"I'm hired!" She wondered, a little sadly, if being hired could possibly mean more to the girl she pretended to be than it did to the girl she really was. "That fiend called me useless. But I'm not useless! Huntington's thinks I can work and sell things for them!"

REMEMBERING the owner of that hateful voice brought Mr. Weeming back to mind. She asked a girl, "Where's a telephone?"

The girl said, "You'd better go down to the selling floors and use the coinboxes. They're at each end of the floor. Of course, there are phones in the restroom, but they're always mobbed during lunchtime."

"Thanks." She walked briskly out to the levators.

At the third floor (she'd always remember to carefully avoid the fifth and Mlle. Mathilde) she got out and found the corner where the phone booths were.

A sale of $1.98 housedresses was in progress opposite, and the voices of customers made a shrill uproar. She closed the door of the booth carefully before putting her nickel in the slot.

"Mr. Curtis Weeming, please. Miss Davenport calling." She lowered her voice, almost guiltily.

"Mr. Weeming? How are you? Mr. Weeming, something very attractive has just turned up, and I'm leaving immediately. I don't know how long I'll be gone."

"But Beatrice—where are you going?"

"South America," she said crisply. "Er—the Argentine." Was Rio de Janeiro or Buenos Aires in the Argentine It didn't matter. She went on, swiftly, "An old school friend who's married to a man who raises horses has er—a ranch in the interior and I've just decided—"

Mr. Weeming, fortunately, was accustomed to her hair-trigger departures for far pastures. He asked, "Is your fiance accompanying you?"

"Why no, he's note." She might as well be as honest as she dared. "I've become a bit bored with the idea of marrying Clarence and this trip is really a sort of get-away-and-think excursion."

"Ah," said Mr. Weeming, in ill-disguised delight. "That's fine. Now how about your traveling funds, Beatrice?"

"Why, I—I've taken care of that already," she answered. "Don't give it a thought. If I need anything, I—I'll cable you. Goodbye."

Beatrice Davenport Huntington hung up. And Bee Davis, newest employee of Huntington's Department Store, came out of the phone

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question.—I have been looking for a recipe for Chocolate Pie for years that is not too rich nor too stiff. Do you have one that you would recommend and that is not too hard to make I had some of the St. Patrick's dishes you suggested and everybody thought they were very different. Thanks.

—Annie Orr.

Answer.—This recipe is called Chocolate Cream Pie and is my favorite.

Chocolate Cream Pie

One cup sugar, 6 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups scalded milk, 3 eggs, separated, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 squares chocolate, 1 baked (9-inch) pastry shell. Mix well together 2/3 cup sugar, and the flour and the salt. Add the chocolate to the milk and heat in top of a double boiler until chocolate is melted, then beat until smooth. Add the well mixed flour, sugar and salt mixture and stir over boiling water 10 minutes, until it thickens. Stir a small amount into slightly beaten egg yolks; then gradually pour into thickened milk and cook about 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add butter and vanilla and cool slightly; turn into baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue made by gradually beating remaining 1/3 cup sugar into stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. or if firmer meringue is desired, bake at 300 for 30 minutes.

Question.—You mentioned using Caper Sauce on Boiled Mutton some time ago. I would like this, but would need detailed instructions to make it right. Would you print them some time when you have time. Thanking you,

"Demmy" Brooks.

Answer.—There are two kinds of Caper Sauce—the one made using much of the liquid in which mutton was boiled, and the other made very similar to mayonnise. It was the former to which I referred.

Caper Sauce (for Boiled Mutton).

Into 2 cups hot mutton broth, stir flour paste made by stirring 5 tablespoons flour into ½ cup cold water, then strain as soon as thick, and add salt and white pepper to taste. Now as many capers as you like may be added to this, but I think 3 tablespoons of capers with some of the vinegar from them is sufficient. Reheat when you add the capers and serve hot.

Question.—I would like a recipe for using prunes—we usually have 1 pound per week and I stew them and after we have had them once I like to change the way I serve them. Thanking you.—Sarah, Morris.

Answer.—I think Prune Souffle makes a nice change for dessert.

Prune Souffle

One-half pound stewed prunes. ½ cup sugar, 4 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup heavy cream, whipped. Stone prunes and force pulp through coarse sieve. Add sugar and cook 2 minutes, or until sugar is dissolved. Beat egg whites until foamy, add salt and lemon juice and beat until stiff, gently fold in prune mixture. Turn into baking dish, set in pan of hot water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr, for 35 to 45 minutes. Serve at once with a touch of whipped cream.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 6

Sunday's horoscope should hold testimony of some very exciting circumstances, possibly in relation to public, group or community enterprise, in which there may be definite friction, violence or some other unhappy occurrence. With proper restraints, rigid self control and other measures for constructive and harmonious cooperation there might result satisfactory and practical gains. Be cautious with the tongue and pen.

Those whose birthday it is may have an exciting year with much stirring of an eventful and profitable nature providing there is not an attempt to force issues by reckless, passionate, intemperate and discordant measures. Personal restraints, composure and due deliberation of action would prove of benefit, particularly in matters concerning the public welfare.

A child born on this day should have much practical constructive ability with outstanding skill mechanically and much executive force. This may be offset by wayward tendencies, impetuosity, violence and detrimental lack of restraint.

For Monday, April 7

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of conflicting experiences and adverse conditions, but these are to be tempered by exceedingly pleasant and profitable events of a social, domestic, artistic or emotional character. Also there may be honors, favors or happy contacts with superiors and elders. It is a time for reappearing through more productive and profitable opportunities.

Those whose birthday it is may be expected to experience a year of conflicting and fluctuating fortunes, with some definite gains, stability and as well, honors, favors solid support of those in influential places. These shoud be due to merit, sound ambitions, high principles as well as through social prestige and an urge for public benefit and advancement. There should be much personal and domestic felicity and activity of a pleasant social nature.

A child born on this day should be stable, ambitious, talented and resourceful, and although it may have some reverses, it should be happy and successful in life.

WE . . . NOTICED

. . . .Ready? Get set. Go—round the corner smack into a wind. Now, action! First you drop your arms and several packages and everything is fine. You are holding skirt down, in front anyway. Your hat, of coure, has blown off. You let go your skirt to grab your hat—let go your hat to grab your skirt, repeating in reverse order until a crowd gathers, and you realize how smart you were to wear a ruffled petticoat and panties with lace edgings!

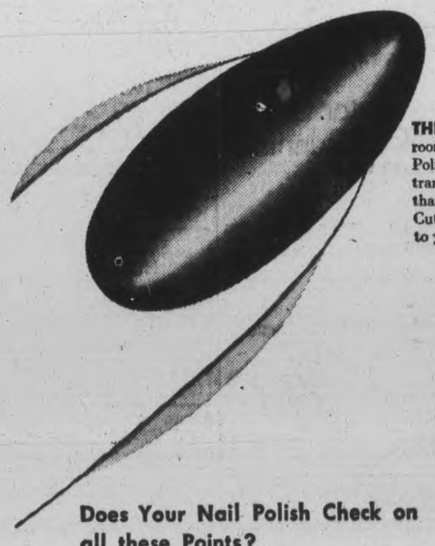
Cutex is nearly Twice as Porous
as any other Leading Polish in the same price range



THE FACTS: At both skin and room temperatures, Cutex Nail Polish showed on an average a transmission of 90% more moisture than its nearest competitor. With Cutex, moisture can get through to your nails!

Made in Canada

Does Your Nail Polish Check on all these Points?

√ Is it porous — does it let moisture through?
√ Does it flow on evenly — dry slowly enough for you to do a good smooth job — hard enough to take the daily wear and tear?
√ Does it resist chipping and peeling? Does it stay lustrous and gleaming until you are ready for a fresh manicure?
√ Do your nail shades flatter your skin tones as well as your latest costume colors?

Get a bottle of Cutex Porous Polish today — and see for yourself that Cutex checks on all these points! Only 20¢

CHECK YOUR SCREENS NOW!
Flies and mosquitoes will be swarming into your home before long. Are you adequately protected?
Check your Screens now and make sure there will be no last-minute repairs or replacements to cause trouble later. They probably need repairs, others need to be replaced... and couldn't you use a few more for windows that were kept closed previously?
We have Screens ready to install in almost every standard shape or size of window... and can make new ones to fit odd shapes and sizes. Call us to-day about your Screens.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink St. Telephone 4638.

B. P. TILE FLOORING
An Asphalt Base Flooring in Squares 9" x 9" Will outwear linoleum. Many color designs and combinations to chose from. Patterns and colors do not wear off. Has already been installed in many Peterborough homes, offices and stores. Makes very attractive floor coverings in kitchens, bathrooms, vestibules, and recreation rooms. Can be laid on wood or concrete floors, and will last and wear for years. $2.70 per square yard laid and finished ready for use. Call us to show samples and give estimates—no obligation on your part.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
56 George St. Telephone 4638.

OAK HARDWOOD FLOORING
9½c Square Foot. Room 10' x 10' would cost only $9.50.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
56 George St. Telephone 4638.

REPAIRS AND REMODELING ARE EASY AND INEXPENSIVE
Look at your Home through your neighbor's eyes. Is it modern or attractive—or is it a white elephant? If your home is old and out of style, but sound structurally, it can be easily and quickly modernized. Financing can be arranged through your Bank or our Bank to spread the payment of the cost over a period up to two years, at a low rate of interest. Call us for additional information.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink Street. Telephone 4638.

ARE YOU PLANNING A NEW HOME?
Come right in and see us to-day—we have all the tools for home planning you'll need. We have PLANS, FINANCING INFORMATION, IDEAS, SUGGESTIONS—and good contractor references. Interest on home mortgages is low—maybe the lowest it will be during your life time. Under the National Housing Act all you need to have as a down payment is 20 per cent. of the value of the house and lot — the 20 per cent. would include the value of the lot. So why wait? Call us to-day for additional information.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink Street. Telephone 4638.

PLANNING TO BUILD A SUMMER COTTAGE?
There are a good many question marks in the minds of most folks who plan to build a Summer Cottage. Our job is to eliminate these marks.
This means without obligation to purchase, you are free to consult us at any time.
We like to think of our establishment as a building headquarters, the services of which are open to the people of this community. You are free to consult us at any time without obligation or embarrassment.
Don't hesitate to do so.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink St. Telephone 4638.

DON'T WAIT FOR APRIL SHOWERS TO TEST THE ROOF
Your roof might have been perfectly sound last Fall, but has it sprung any leaks since then? When April showers drench the countryside you will know by telltale stains on walls and ceilings....but this is a very expensive manner of testing a roof.
Repairs, or putting a new roof right over the old one, are reasonably priced. Let us check your roof now, and fix it if it needs repairs.
Inspection and estimates are free from cost and obligation.

New Fashion Art Course Step to a Paying Career

Study Art in Home Lessons

Two girls! One is a well-paid fashion artist. The other, "seeing no way" to develop her own talent for art, tries to resign herself to a dull future.

But there is a way by which the amateur with no opportunity for training can learn to draw. You can study at home.

Charts and instructions show you how to produce the well-proportioned, glamorous figures used by department stores and publications.

Instead of attempting to draw figures detail by detail you follow the simple block-in method of professional artists.

A first step is to make a long vertical line for the body. Then you get the pose of the figure by drawing horizontal lines for shoulders and bust, for waist and hips. When hips or shoulders tilt, each pair of lines will slant in different directions as in our diagram.

Proportions for face and figure are determined by simple rules, then you progress to details.

Our new 24-page home course gives step-by-step instruction, with 158 illustrations and diagrams, in drawing the fashion figure. Tells how to draw fabrics, furs; explains pen and wash, perspective, foreshortening.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of COSTUME JEWELRY YOU CAN EASILY MAKE to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T LET IT DOWN YOU

YOU HAVE to get used to discouraging developments if you play bridge. Sometimes correct bidding or play will get you a worse score than incorrect play, as the hidden factor of luck is always operating one way or another. Duplicate players in particular will find that occasional hands give a better score to somebody who furnishes unsound tactics, whereas yours may have been infinitely superior.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠	3 ♣
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Bidding about like that occurred at most tables of a duplicate game. All of the declarers made their contracts, plus either one or two overtricks. It was peculiar that in every case the weaker players got the two overtricks and the stronger ones got only one overtrick each.

In each case the club J was led, South winning it with his A and then leading the spade 3 to the K, which dropped the J. Right then came the difference. The weaker players next led the spade 10 from the dummy and, when East failed to cover, finessed it successfully. They followed with the A, dropping the Q, and then ran diamonds, discarding two clubs and a heart and leading toward the heart K. Thus they lost only one trick, to the heart A.

The better players figured that this method risked the possibility of overtricks. If the trump finesse failed, the defenders could peel off one trick each in hearts and clubs, holding the declarer to four-odd. But they saw a sure method to make one overtrick, and a good chance, at least as good as the other way, to make two. That was by playing the A on the second round of trumps, seeking a drop of the Q. When this failed, they ran three diamonds, discarding one club, then led another from dummy. East ruffed with the Q and South discarded his last club. The heart A then remained as the only winner the defenders still had in sight.

U.K. Cattle Doomed

London, April 2 (CP)

THE government warned Britons today to expect a meat shortage.

The Minister of Agriculture, R. S. Hudson, told the House of Commons there is bound to be a shortage of meat "because of claims (on shipping) of the Middle East campaign" and said the shortage would continue for several months.

He added: "We shall have to kill off more of our stocks to meet this."

A Labor member, William Leach, demanded that food be grown on Lady Astor's Cleveden estate and other such large estates in the country.

School Hours Changed At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 (ENS)—Public school pupils will revert to their former hours after the Easter holiday, it was announced at the regular meeting of the Board of Education held in the Council Chambers Monday. It was Principal C. S. Haig who brought the matter to the attention of the Board, declaring that the present hours (1.30 to 4.30 in the afternoon and 9.30 to 12.00 in the morning) made too long a session for junior pupils in the afternoon. The Board recalled that the hours now in use had merely been inaugurated last fall to accommodate pupils from the rural districts. It was felt now, with the lengthening hours of daylight the regular hours should once more be adopted, thus giving children more time to play in the sunlight. Speaking for the High School, Principal Greig declared the matter had not as yet been discussed by teachers, but suggested that after this had been done the matter could be referred to the Internal Committee of the Board.

One of the first items of business dealt with at the meeting was that of appointing a representative to the Library Board to replace Rev. B. Simpson Black, whose removal to Toronto created a vacancy. Named to fill the vacancy was Rev. G. N. Maxwell, pastor of St. John's United Church.

Concert a Success.

Particularly interested was the board in the report of Principal Haig on the patriotic concert sponsored by the Public School. He expressed thanks for the use of the High School auditorium and announced the proceeds, which were later turned over to various organizations engaged in war work, were $170.00. He felt that the concert should be made an annual affair and observed it was "unfortunate that a war had to come to inspire interest in activities of this type." His opinion that the undertaking had been a great credit to the school was concurred in by the Board. Referring to other wartime activities of the pupils he reported a total of more than $780.00 had been invested by them in War Savings Stamps. Property Committee Chairman W. Roy Loucks enumerated several replacements required at the High School, including a new studio couch for the teachers' room and library and also a filing cabinet. He also reported that gutters on the east side of the public school were leaking. On motion the three matters were left with the Property Committee with power to act.

F. C. Bonnycastle suggested the Board provide an extra prize for the craft work display made by public school pupils at the fall fair. It was explained the competition would be open to all grades and on his recommendation it was decided to pay half the cost of the prize with the Agriculture Society paying the other half. A requisition for $5.00 to buy art supplies in the public school was made by Principal Haig on behalf of the art supervisor, Cecil Stephens and this was authorized.

Heating System Aired.

The question of providing a new heating system for the public schools was raised by J. A. Irwin, who a year ago made a similar demand for action which resulted in a committee comprising councillors and members of the School Board looking over the forty-year-old furnaces and making no more specific recommendation than that they have them temporarily repaired and carry on. To Mr. Irwin's suggestion that some action should be taken at once the chairman, Dr. H. O. Richardson, countered the first thing to be done was to get permission from the council.

Mr. Irwin held the view the Board should proceed to get estimates on the probable cost of installing a central heating system as suggested by School Inspector A. A. Martin several years ago. To W. R. Loucks' proposal that the Board look into the matter of installing new separate heating units he replied, "Whatever we do it's going to be done right." He made a motion to the effect the property committee should go into the question and report back to the next meeting, after which the matter should be put squarely up to council. Failing to get a seconder he re-worded the motion instructing the committee to report on whether or not the furnaces could be used another year to the chairman at a special meeting. This was carried.

Must Pare Estimates.

Left with the finance committee to wrestle with were the Board's requisitions for the current year already submitted to council and turned down by that body with a request the amount be pared down "so that the town tax rate will not have to be increased."

In the letter written by the finance committee to the Board it was requested that the requisition be shaded by $920.00. The Board's estimates included $7,544.00 for the High School and $12,144.00 for Public School expenditures. To heighten the Board's financial worries A. J. Armour pointed out that Government grants were down fifteen per cent this year. Said Chairman Richardson, "If they had given us what we asked for last year we wouldn't have run short."

Children's Hour In "Hell's Corner"

Although it has been dubbed "Hell-Fire Corner," because of the almost constant drubbing by air bombs and long range artillery shells from across the Channel, England's Dover is still home to these children. Many have been evacuated, but the great majority remain at home with their folks. These kiddies are now war-wise. They know just when to duck.

Scharnhorst And Gneisenau Straddled By Bombs As R.A.F. Blasts Brest Lair

Planes Punch Attacks At Great Battleships From Low Altitudes, Set Fires; Bristol Gets Heavy Attack For Second Night

LONDON, April 5—(AP).—The Air Ministry announced today that sticks of heavy bombs straddled the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau in a British attack on Brest last night.

A communique said oil stores at Rotterdam and industrial targets in the Ruhr also were bombed.

The attack on Brest, 49th of the war, was the third since Sunday when the Ministry first reported the presence of the big Germar battlewagons in the Nazi-occupier French port.

"The ships could be clearly identified in the moonlight and the attack was pressed home with great resolution," the Air Ministry communique said. "Some of our aircraft bombed from very low levels and good results are reported.

"Sticks of heavy bombs were seen to straddle both ships.

"Near one of them a large fire broke out and other fires were started among stores of oil and warehouses."

In daylight attacks yesterday, the Ministry added, a naval auxiliary was left sinking off the French coast after a British bombing attack and minesweepers were machine-gunned.

The German air force attacked Bristol last night for several hours in a raid which was described by local authorities as "heavy but not one of our biggest."

Some Casualties

A number of casualties were reported killed and wounded in the residential district, but British officials declared the damage was nowhere extensive.

London had one brief alert which lifted before 10 p.m. (5 p.m. EDT), but the city completed its 154th consecutive bombless night.

British authorities said Royal Air Force bombers crossed the channel in force to attack port works at German-held Brest, France, for the second successive night. This raid apparently was aimed at the German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst, which have been reported refitting there after an Atlantic convoy-raiding cruise.

A communique said the Nazi night raiders dropped a few explosives near the Thames Estuary

Yugoslav Nation In Similar Tight Spot To That Faced By Serbia In Fall Of '15

LONDON, April 5—(CP).—Decision on the question of peace or war between Germany and Yugoslav today appeared a question of hours as the Germans massed men and machines on the kingdom's borders and King Peter disclosed he had ordered full mobilization of his nation's armed forces.

The Yugoslav Government assumed complete control of the railways, sharply curtailed civilian travel and in some cases ousted civilians to make room for troops moving swiftly toward the frontiers.

The Yugoslav-Hungarian border was reported closed in the wake of reports a German motorized division was concentrated near the Hungarian frontier at Szeged.

Yugoslav anti-aircraft gunners downed an unidentified "foreign" reconnaissance plane which flew high over Belgrade. It was this, among several similar instances within the last few days, that prompted Yugoslav authorities to order two practice blackouts during the night.

The practice was about perfect as all electric lights were doused at power-house master switches, throwing the whole city simultaneously into darkness.

Yugoslavia faces a military situation in some respects similar to the one that con-

Libya Reported Safe With Wavell Merely Biding Time

CAIRO, Egypt, April 5 — (AP).—Reuters News Agency reported today the British forces had occupied Aduwa, Ethiopia.

Aduwa is an important market town with strong natural defences 50 miles south of Asmara, Eritrea, with which it is linked by a broad military highway built by the Ital- 1935.

ians for their Ethiopian invasion in

The Ethiopians crushed an invading Italian force there in 1896. The Italians evened the score in October, 1935, by bombing and capturing the town and driving out the 5,000 inhabitants.

Press Fascists Hard.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 5 — (AP).—The ring of British forces closing in on the faltering Italians in East Africa lashed out with new fury today in a drive to clean up the campaign with a quick knockout that would release troops to fight, if needed, in Libya or the Balkans.

Action was intensified in three thrusts in Eritrea and Ethiopia.

Massaua, Eritrea's chief seaport and last island of resistance in that colony, still held out while British warships lay outside the harbor and a land force approached over a highway blasted to rubble by the Italian defenders.

British authorities said the retreating Eritrean army was fighting a rearguard action somewhere in North-western Ethiopia after losing 3,000 prisoners.

The Duke of Aosta, with an estimated 60,000 men, was on the last leg of a 250-mile retreat from Diredawa to Addis Ababa without having made a stand.

British forces did not believe their Libyan army would need help to stem the advance of the combined Italian-German motorized column before which the British vanguard withdrew from Bengasi.

They emphasized that British strategy is in "very safe hands" and that General Sir Archibald Wavell, commander of the Middle East Forces, is merely biding his time until the Axis columns stretch their communication lines to a point where he can "give battle with assurance of success."

Italy Will Wait

ROME, April 5—(AP).—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, indicated today that the Axis will not attack Yugoslavia for a few more days in the hope of winning Belgrade's submission without fighting.

Gayda's statement appeared a few hours after it was reported in diplomatic circles here that the Italian-Yugoslav frontier had been closed.

Accusing Britain of seeking to form a new front against the Axis in Yugoslavia, Gayda wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia that "the next few days will say if another state of Europe not at all interested in the conflict will be dragged into war."

The newspaper Il Messaggero urged that Yugoslavia "clarify" her position without delay.

All Relations Severed Says Berlin

Zero Hour Has Arrived Says Belgrade, Warplanes Go Out

BELGRADE, April 5 — (AP). — Squadrons of Yugoslav fighter planes swept over Belgrade shortly after noon today and headed north toward the Hungarian border.

BERLIN, April 5—(AP).—German Foreign Office spokesmen said today that diplomatic relations between Germany and Yugoslavia for all practical purposes have ceased to exist.

Beyond that, they contented themselves with stating that the situation beween the two countries "remained unchanged — worsening was hardly possible."

Regarding Greece, they declined to make any statement.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 5 — (AP).—The Hungarian official news agency said today Yugoslavia had suspended all Danube River traffic in the section fronting Yugoslav territory.

All Axis Ties Closed

BELGRADE, Apr. 5—(AP)—Yugoslavia's frontiers with Germany and Italy and her Axis-dominated neighbors were reported permanently closely today and government circles here, standing ready for war, gravely asserted the "zero hour" had arrived in the crisis with the Germans.

Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen in Berlin said today that German-Yugoslav diplomatic relations, for all practical purposes, have ceased to exist.

Foreign legations in Belgrade said that, in addition to Germany and Italian frontiers, the troop-lined borders with Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria had been sealed. (Albania, Fascist territory where Italians and Greeks are fighting, was not mentioned specifically.)

The most likely explosion point apparently was the Hungarian-

Reserved Bunks And Buns Boon To Shelter

By HAROLD FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 5 (CP)—The little old man now has a bunk in the subway air raid shelter and he's happy. No longer will he have to stand in line for hours to make sure of space on the underground platform for his pile of blankets.

He was a pathetic figure when the raids were bad last fall ,lying on his pallet, a few inches from the edge of the station platform. I used to see him in that same place night after night.

"Have a cup of tea," he invited as I stopped to talk to him one night. His adult daughter sat beside him and said they "really enojyed it" in the tubes now that bunks have been installed. "And we have lots of good concerts down here now," she added, her eyes sparkling.

"We used to go to a surface shelter but I couldn't stand the noise of the guns and the bombs so we came down here. He likes it fine." She nodded to her father, 75-year-old Carmen Bruccini.

That was six months ago and the shelter has changed a lot. They never missed a night coming down to the deep, damp haven and they marvelled at the improvements—the canteen serving buns and hot drinks, the "vest pocket" medical post, the improved sanitation and the ticket system for reserving bunks.

Like this couple, typical of London's tube shelters, one is impressed by the improvement since last fall when you lighted a cigaret to dead-

Adjourning Tuesday

Ottawa, April 5 (CP)

THE House of Commons will adjourn for the Easter recess on Tuesday instead of next Wednesday as previously planned if approval is given a motion of which the prime minister gave notice today.

He will move in the Commons Monday that the resolution adopted March 24 respecting Easter adjournment be rescinded and that when the House adjourns Tuesday next it stand adjourned until April 28.

Original adjournment plans called for recess from next Wednesday night until April 28.

Propose Butter Set At 34; Cheese Boosted

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)— The Dairy Products board empowered by the government to set a minimum price for butter during the high production season, today knows the views of two major groups of Canadian dairymen on what that price should be.

One group, headed by the National Dairy Council of Canada, suggests a price of 31 cents a pound on the basis of Toronto and Montreal markets. The other, the Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation, proposes that the price be 34 cents.

Aside from the variance in price, the separate submissions made yesterday by the two groups after a joint two-day session here were basically identical, even to the wording of various paragraphs.

Both briefs urged an increase in the price of cheese.

"Cheese production should be such in 1941 that Canada can supply Great Britain's requirements first and still maintain sufficient volume for our domestic market," they said.

"In order that we may have every assurance of accomplishing this we believe that the present price of cheese is still too low and should be raised to 19 cents a pound, Montreal, plus the premiums for quality of one and two cents per pound."

Under last year's cheese agreement with Britain, the price was 14 cents a pound at Montreal. Under the new agreement which went into effect last Tuesday Britain agrees to take 112,000,000 pounds—or more if it is available—at 14.4 cents. To the

Witnesses Told To Stay Away Gallow Claims

That two of his witnesses had been advised by the Toronto police department not to come to Peterborough to give evidence in his behalf today, was the charge made by Louis Gallow when his trial for breaking and entering was resumed before Judge J. A. McGibbon in the County Judges' Criminal Court this morning.

Gallow said he had received the following telegram this morning: "Dear Lew.—Mary and Murray and Gord won't come. John and myself have been advised not to go down. Surely you can understand why." (Signed), Lee.

He said this referred to his half-brother, John Fairchild, and to Leona Lexier.

"There is no doubt it was the Toronto police who advised them not to come to Peterborough. Two other girls who came down here from Toronto to testify for other prisoners in this case have been clapped in jail for vagrancy."

"I want this case adjourned and have those witnesses subpoenaed down here," the prisoner continued.

"You have had a month to prepare your defence," said Judge McGibbon. "You have been very lax."

"I do not believe the Toronto police department or any police department would advise witnesses not to appear to give defence evidence," continued His Honor. "They have no right to do so."

"You do not realize the underhanded movements of the Toronto police force like I do," said Gallow. "I have had experience with them."

Camouflage Twig Tips In Bud Along Gunpits

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press War Correspondent.)

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 5 — (CP). — For weeks the weather was discouraging with cold rains, leaden skies or mist enveloping the Canadian camps. Winter was making its bitter last stand when Spring suddenly invaded "Somewhere in England."

These Spring days are full of incongruities. The first flowers were crocuses growing at the edge of a Canadian gunpit. Camouflage twigs in sandbagged parapets broke into bud.

Through the daylight hours, squadrons of aircraft with the red-white-blue circles on their fuselages, roared a symphony of Britain's new power over the Corps area. Between the weather and the R.A.F. Canadian troops couldn't help feel buoyed.

A new optimism with which they look to the months ahead is noticeable.

Probably no troops in recent history ever spent such a lengthy period of waiting for a fight, but the Canadians keep wisecracking them on defence duty.

about the kind of war that keeps They all recognize that their anti-invasion role is supremely important. But having run through the signals and knowing most of the plays backwards, they want to hear the starting whistle for the big game.

Meanwhile they keep training just as hard as during the first days they were in this island—probably harder, for manoeuvres become larger and more complete each month.

Berlin Arrests American Embassy Clerk

WAHINGTON, April 5.—(AP). — The United States today awaited explanation from the German government of the arrest of an American clerk in the embassy at Berlin—the latest in a growing list of trouble-provoking incidents accompanying a steady deterioration in German-American relations.

State Secretary Cordell Hull ordered representations made to the German foreign office after disclosure that Stewart Herman, an embassy employee, had been detained "apparently without prior notification or explanation to the embassy."

Although Herman was released after several hours' questioning, officials here were understood to consider his arrest a breach of diplomatic courtesy existing with officially friendly nations, and important as an index to the German government's attitude toward the United States.

When Herman and six other Americans—all since released— were arrested, German police admitted their action "might have some connection" with reprisals for the seizure of two German merchant ships in United States ports after discovery of a sabotage plot.

There is no doubt in informed quarters that Germany's antagonism stems primarily from United States aid to Britain and encouragement of other threatened nations to resist Nazi aggression.

Detention of Nazi crews on immigration and sabotage charges, and Hull's flat rejection of German protests—together with the cumulative effect of numerous preceding incidents— have further embittered Nazi feelings.

See No Drastic Action.

However, diplomatic circles here doubt that Germany plans any very drastic action in the immediate future.

Ford Strike Ties Up 200,000

C.I.O. Move Forces Firm To Halt 11 Million In Supply Needs

DETROIT, April 5 (AP)—Production in the gigantic industrial network of Ford Motor Company plants was halted today by a Congress of Industrial Organizations strike as completely as were the automotive operations of General Motors and Chrysler corporations during the 1937 sit-downs of the same union.

The strike of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) at Ford's Dearborn River Rouge plant, largest industrial unit in the world and key producing cog of the Ford empire, forced the company Friday to order closing of its assembly, parts and other branch producers in 41 other communities throughout the nited States.

Suppliers from whom the company said it has purchased $11,000,000 worth of material weekly since January 1 were notified to stop further shipments.

Ford Company spokesmen said 118,000 of its production workers have been made idle by the strike. Additional thousands of non-production employees and workers in plants supplying Ford production lines were estimated to bring the total affected by the strike to 200,000.

Federal Conciliator James Dewey, persistent in his efforts to settle the dispute, said the situation last night was "more hopeful" and arranged to renew separate parleys with Company and Union representatives today.

Accompanied by Oscar Olander, State Police Commissioner, whose uniformed men have patrolled the Rouge Plant gates since violent outbreaks Wednesday, Dewey drove last night to the plant in futile attempt to persuade some 1,500 production workers inside the factory to leave.

Before the conciliator went to the plant, he said the men were "afraid to come out for fear of being beaten up," and that "a great many" were "armed with weapons they

WASHINGTON, April 5—(CP).—Senator Claude Pepper, who recently visited Canada, said Friday he is working on a scheme to equalize the Canadian and American dollars, thus relieving Canada of a severe financial burden in paying war costs in the United States.

The Senator, a Democrat from Florida, said his plan is only in a vague form at present but "I am working on it and I think something can be arranged through the medium of the export and import bank."

He suggested the United States, through the treasury, to start with, might reach an agreement with the railways, hotels and travel

Best Tanks for Armored Unit

Latest British Designs Due For Canucks Trained, Ready

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., April 5—(CP)—Men of Canada's first armored division, whose specialized training has been mainly confined to the class rooms during the winter months, will soon be out on exercises in formidable tanks of the latest British design.

Since the nucleus of the armored division was organized last fall, the men have received practically all of their mobile training in the obsolete tanks purchased from the United States government.

Officers of the division, however, are generally agreed that purchase of the tanks was a "real blessing." It enabled them to proceed with a program of unit exercises, tactical schemes and practical mechanical training.

"We have accomplished these things in slow-motion machines and as a result of the experience the men will find it easy to adjust themselves to the handling of the modern tanks when the time comes," one of the instructors said.

But a tour of the sprawling camp proves that an armored division is not wholly concentrated on tanks and armored vehicles. A self-contained fighting unit, it also has its ancillary branches such as artillery, engineers, signallers, service corps and mobile infantry formations.

To fit themselves for their special tasks in the field, members of these vrious branches have undergone intensive training. Every week the infantry has been taken out for field exercises, often marching as far as 20 miles a day. Selected groups have been sent on long Ski patrols and camped amid the snows for two or three days. It is all part of the general hardening process.

Troops Beyond Bengasi Is Rome's Claim

ROME, April 5.—(AP)—The Italian high command said today German and Italian motorized columns were pushing on beyond Bengasi, which was reoccupied yesterday morning the daily war bulletin said. Three British planes were shot down in air battles with Nazi craft, the communique claimed.

(The R.A.F., in reporting heavy attacks on enemy motor transport convoys in Libya yesterday, said all its planes had returned.)

Italian resistance in East Africa was said to be continuing on the various fronts. A small Italian naval vessel was reported to have been sunk by British bombers in the Red Sea while two others "of the same type" were scuttled near Bedda. The crews were said to have been saved.

(The British Admiralty yesterday said the destroyers Pantera and Tigre were scuttled off Saudi Arabia and three other destroyers, the Leone, Nazario Sauro and Daniele Manin, were sunk by naval planes April 1 and 2.)

Most Of 16 Hurt In Plane Crash

VERO BEACH, Fla., April 5. — (AP).—All 16 occupants of a giant airliner which crashed in a terrific squall lived today to tell the story of hardship and heroism.

Only one or two escaped without a scratch, but the injuries of the pilot alone were believed dangerous.

Pilot Gerald O'Brien guided the 21-passenger Douglas plane to a right-side-up landing in a pond about 10 a.m. (E.D.T.) yesterday and the 13 passengers and crew of three huddled in waist-deep water until long after dark when rescuers finally reached the scene, six miles from the nearest highway and a mile from the closest dry land.

His chest crushed and a leg injured, perhaps broken, O'Brien, of Miami, insisted upon remaining with his ship until every one else was ferried out of the marsh and given medical care.

First brought to safety were Dr. George W. Crile, eminent Cleveland Physician, and his wife. Dr. Crile had a broken rib and was bruised.

LINDSAY

Driver Cleared In Road Death

LINDSAY, April 5st (CNS)—An inquest was held in the town hall on Thursday to inquire into the circumstances leading up to the death of Drew O'Loughlin, who met his death in a car accident on Lindsay street south on the evening of March 26. The verdict rendered was to the effect that the icy condition of the highway and poor visibility were contributing factors to the cause of the accident.

Evidence was given by the driver of the truck, Roy Price, 16. Price said that he had been driving east on Russell street and turned south on Lindsay street. A north bound car with exceeding bright lights impaired his vision, but as soon as this car passed he noticed a man lying on the road. He slammed the brakes and pulled to the left in an attempt to avoid the body. There was no bump or jerk, which would follow if truck had struck the man. Dr. Logan in his evidence assumed that O'Loughlin must have been on his hands and knees on the road to receive the combination of injuries sustained.

Constable Nesbitt, who was called to the scene of the accident, stated that the condition of the highway on the night of the accident was very poor, with a heavy layer of ice on either side and a light coating in the centre. He stated that the skid mark on the pavement at its widest point measured 5 feet 11 inches, and at its narrowest point approximately 2 feet. Other witnesses gave evidence relative to the general condition of the highway on the night of the accident.

The local Board of Water Commissioners held a stormy session on Thursday evening to deal with matters arising out of satisfactory conditions which had existed in that utility. A resolution was passed to ask the town council to provide the ratepayers an opportunity to vote on a local utilities, combining the water and Hydro services of the town. The resolution did not pass without a strong protest from the chairman of the water board, John O'Leary. He argued that if such a change was made it would cost some persons their positions. "This proposal," he claimed, would mean that we would be gobbled up by the Hydro." Mr. O'Leary further declared that he would resign and go to the people on the issue.

She Hit A Sub

An East Coast Canadian Port, April 5 (CP)

THE CREW of a big merchant ship, her hull pierced below the waterline, told yesterday of her race for this harbor after a collision with a German submarine.

A crew hand said the two vessels struck in the Atlantic as the submarine came to the surface early in the morning. Water flooded the merchant ship's engine room but the crew swiftly plugged the hole with lumber, rags and paper.

The sub started to shell the ship but fired no torpedoes and her guns went dead after a few rounds. This led the crewmen to believe she may have sunk.

The merchant ship steamed away from the scene with all possible speed and continued her voyage.

Obituary

JONATHAN SOLOMON

There passed away in Lakefield Hospital on Friday, March 28, Jonathan Solomon, of North Monaghan, after a lingering illness which caused his gradual decline.

Born in the city of Peterborough 89 years ago, he was the son of the late Jonathan Solomon and Ann Cox. He farmed in North Monaghan practically all his life. He was of a happy, congenial disposition and endeared himself to his many neighbors and friends.

He was known generally as (Bob) to his many acquaintances. He is the last member of the family. His well known brother, Jerry, predeceased him last August. For the last two years, because of infirmity, he has been a resident of the Lakefield Home. The funeral was held last Saturday from Webster's undertaking parlors, Lakefield, with the Rev. William McArthur of Bethany Tabernacle, Peterborough, in charge. Pallbearers were members of the Lakefield Home. Interment was in the family plot at Fraserville.

Calls Other Prisoners

Gallow said he wanted Tom Nicholls, Lawrence Burns and William Bradd as witnesses in his behalf.

"That can be arranged," said Judge McGibbon.

It was explained that Burns and Nicholls were in Cobourg jail.

"I want to be fair to this accused," said Judge McGibbon, who said that the two men could be brought back from Cobourg to testify."

"Will you see, Mr. McElderry," he said, "that the sheriff makes the necessary arrangements to have those men brought here."

Judge McGibbon advised Gallow that he could get in touch with his Toronto witnesses and have them here by 1 o'clock. The prisoner asked and received permission to use the long distance telephone.

Professor Joslyn Rogers was the last crown witness.

Testifying this morning, Professor Rogers said that he had examined bills taken from Nicholls, Bradd, Burns and Gallow and had found scorching on many of them, while in the case of Nicholls and Bradd's bills metallic particles had been found among them corresponding in metallic content to the material of the safe.

"How many of the bills found on me were scorched?" asked Gallow, in cross-examination.

"Six out of the seven bills," Professor Rogers answered.

"Are you qualified to know all this," said Gallow. "Is there anyone higher than you are?"

"I am not estimating the knowledge of other people," said Professor Rogers, "I am only speaking here of what I know."

The scorching, he said, could have been done by a match or heat applied in the proven manner.

"If that money found on Gallow had been in that safe and an acetylene torch flame applied, could the scorching results have been produced " asked Judge McGibbon.

"That is my opinion," said Professor Rogers.

Bradd Is Called.

Professor Rogers' evidence closed the case for the crown and Gallow called William Bradd who yesterday pleaded guilty to burglary and was sentenced to five years, into the box as first defence witness.

"You pleaded guilty to the robbery here so naturally you must have done it," said Gallow to Bradd, as he took the witness stand.

"What time did you come down to Peterboro that night?"

"We left Toronto at 12.30 o'clock after the hotels had closed down," replied Bradd.

Bradd said there were two men with him.

"Would you care to name them?"

"No."

"Was I one of them?"

"No."

"Who were they, Bradd?" asked Judge McGibbon.

"I don't want to name them," said Bradd.

Bradd said that he and his associates arrived here after 2 o'clock on the morning of Sunday, February 2 and had got back to Toronto about 8.30 o'clock that morning. Gallow had let them into 171 Mutual street when they got back and they all had a few drinks before Gallow, Nicholls and Burns left on a trip to Windsor.

Bradd said that he did not want to go to Windsor but would remain in Toronto. Gallow had asked him to answer the telephone if it rang so he lay down to rest in Gallow's room and had taken off his shoes. They were wet and later when he got up to dress he had got a pair of "his own shoes" and left the others in Gallow's room.

He said the pair of shoes that had been put in as an exhibit were his shoes.

"They were sworn to here as mine," said Gallow.

"No questions," said Special Prosecutor Common as Bradd finished his testimony.

"Where was Gallow's room?" asked Judge McGibbon and Bradd replied that it was at the back downstairs.

Gallow asked permission to ask Bradd another question. "You owed me some room rent did you not?" asked Gallow.

Bradd replied that he had owed the accused and that he had paid him some money after the burglary.

At this stage court adjourned until 1.30 o'clock to allow time to bring Burns and Nicholls from Cobourg jail.

fronted Serbia in the fall of 1915.

Across the Danube and over the mountains to the east, hostile armies are in position to pounds on the kingdom just as similar armed forces struck at Serbia in the second year the last war.

Just as in 1915, German and Austrian troops are massed along the far bank of the Danube. In Bulgaria there are still more German troops, far more numerous than the Bulgar army which marched against Serbia.

Here's a 1915-41 comparison:—

It was late fall when German and Bulgaria attacked. It is spring now, the most advantageous time for the launching of a campaign.

Artillery bombarded Belgrade on Oct. 5, 1915 and observers described it as the fiercest shelling of the war.

Belgrade has been declared an open city to stave off an aerial bombardment this time.

German and Austrian troops striking across the Danube under Field Marshal August Von Mackensen were estimated at 150,000 strong. How many troops are ready for a similar crossing now is the secret of German generals.

Bulgars attacking from the east in 1915 numbered 300,000. Almost twice that number of Germans already have been reported in Bulgaria.

The Serb army began its fight with about 240,000 men, additional fighters joining as the battle progressed. Yugoslavia is reported to have mobilized an army of 1,500,000.

The Von Mackensen artillery was credited with blasting Serbs from their mountain strongholds. Air superiority may be the deciding factor this time if war comes. Yugoslavia has about 800 first line planes, while Germany is believed to have at least three times that available many for Balkan action. But the British air force is based in adjacent Greece, ready to aid Yugoslavian.

In October, 1915, about 120,000 British and French troops were landed at Salonika, Greece. Fighting Greece of today received British help, and recently 100,000 empire troops were reported to have landed at Salonika with 200,000 more on their way.

On the bright side for Yugoslavia is the fact that Turkey, ally of the central powers in the last war, is now pro-British.

Special The Examiner By a P.C.V.S. Student

We have been asked several times recently how we plan to write news in the maelstrom of Easter examinations. We were unable to answer that question until time table appeared on Monday. Then we discovered that we had no exams scheduled for Friday afternoon, so that solved one portion of the problem. Our next headache was to rush the news down to the office soon enough to prevent any tearing of hair by the staff. (As to what happened we are unable to tell you this week.)

If you readers have any difficulty connecting the items in this column during the next week or two they must do as Procrustes did. What did Procrustes do? He hammered, twisted, and mutilated his unfortunate victims in order that they might fit a bed that was either too large or too small for them. Our readers must try to be patient with our ramblings and hammer, twist, and mutilate this column into some conformity of meaning. Procrustes, by the way, was also known as Polypemon or Damastes, and was a mythical robber of ancient Greece. He was supposed to have been killed by Theseus of who you may have read in your Ancient History. He killed a monster called the Minotaur in the labyrinth at Crete. Theseus in turn was killed by Lycomedes, but enough of that.

Extravaganza

April the first, All Fool's Day, did not live up to its name on Tuesday. The reason: our Students' Council president, Warren Gamble made three handsome presentations to the leaders of three War Work groups in our city. Mr. F. G. Mann went away with a cheque that enriched the Peterborough War Victims' Fund by one hundred and fifty dollars. This sum was all that was necessary to boost his fund enough to enable the transfer of the fifth £500 to England. Mr. Louis Yeotes, representing the Greek War Fund, received fifty dollars. Already there has been $2,500 donated to this Fund in Peterborough.

The school's own war fund, headed by Jean Dougherty, received fifty dollars, enabling them to continue their work at top speed. From the foregoing it may be seen that in all $250 was donated by the Students' Council from the proceeds of the recent play, "She Stoops To Conquer." After all expenses had been paid there was a balance of one hundred and thirty odd dollars for the school treasury.

This was the last vestige of the Dramatic Club's play so we will now discard it as news until next year.

Soon the newly equipped and newly organized P.C.V.S. Cadet Corps will be strutting their stuff on the campus. Uniforms have been ordered and should arrive in a week or less and new drums and swagger sticks have been purchased. What the Corps might lack in quantity will certainly be made up for in quality.

Ta-ta, ta-ta, ta-dum!!!

Many students will be leaving (or hope to leave) after Easter so the ranks might be reduced slightly.

We have seen the uniforms and can vouch for their neatness. It might be interesting to note that the garnet berets are of an uniform size, and therefore have to be stretched carefully to met the wearer's head dimensions. Grey sweatshirts and grey pants complete the ensemble.

The bugle band should be even better than last year with the addition of eight new side-drums and they have been practising steadily of late.

All in all, P.C.V.S. should be able to take great pride in their corps this spring since it will sport uniforms carrying the school crests boldly emblazoned on the shirt and beret.

Shooting competitions are being run off at the Armouries lately.

And Ladies and Gentlemen

The public speaking contest in the grades nine was completed on Wednesday morning and the winner was chosen from the four best elocutionists—two girls and two boys. The contestants for first place were Joan McTavish, Leonard Moore, Richard Batten and Roma Williamson. After much deliberation (we presume) Roma Williamson was a-d-j-u-c-a-t-e-d winner. This talent of public speaking seems to run in the Williamson family since you remember that Lloyd won the North American championship for salesmanship several years ago.

This brings to a close what we believe to be a new venture in the school but since it seemed to be a success, other similar contests will possibly be forthcoming.

Birds

Badminton has become quite popular among the girls of P.C.V.S. lately and many have proved themselves to be very deft in their wielding of the racquets. Tournaments are held in the gym several times a week. The birds sometime "fly" farther than was at first intended and become lodged in the screen surrounding the ceiling lights.

Several boys have been noticed exercising their doubtful skill at badminton on the third floor at Yugoslav frontier, where Hitler has massed huge frontier forces.

With Yugoslavia virtually encircled by the axis and axis satellites, only her border with friendly Greece on the south and the Adriatic coast on the west remained open.

Telephone communications with Bulgaria and Rumania were severed, and it was difficult to telephone to Germany and Italy. Only diplomatic calls were accepted for Hungary.

A neutral diplomat said that through his contact with the government he could state "the diplomatic stage has ended." Now, he added, it is just a question of how many days or hours before the "new stage" begins.

The Yugoslav military established today a "War Press Bureau."

The United States legation remained open day and night. The United States minister, Arthur Blass Lane, said he was in constant contact with the government, having had 15 separate interviews with the premier, foreign minister and other cabinet members since yesterday.

Mr. Lane said the nature of help Yugoslavia sought from the United States "is a military question."

en the stench every time you went underground.

Conditions were bad because no one had planned for tubes to be put to such use. Authorities expected day raids rather than all-night affairs.

Londoners forced the government to change its mind by taking possession of the tubes. At the peak of the raids 177,000 persons used the subways as dormitories every night. The total has been cut by a third.

People still sleep on tube station platforms but the total diminishes as installation of double-deck bunks is rushed. "Bunking" has been completed in more than half of the 80 stations used as shelters — and the work continues.

Other improvements proceeded space, particularly after Lord Horder's shelter inquiry committee recommended use of tubes as shelters if the practice did not interfere with traffic.

The London passenger transport board runs a refreshment train late every day and the canteen workers receive their food supplies for the night.

If the threatened heavy air attacks occur this spring, a person wouldn't mind sleeping each night in the safety of London's underground "pullmans."

Gardiner Thinks 90 p.c. Want West Assisted

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner has expressed belief at least 90 per cent. of the Canadian people support the Government's policy of assisting Western farmers to surmount the difficulties occasioned by curtailment of wheat markets as a result of the war.

He made the statement in the House of Commons yesterday as members settled down to spend the remaining time before the Easter recess begins next Wednesday in debating the administration's proposal to spend $35,000,000 on payments to Western farmers who take land out of wheat production.

The Minister spoke in reply made themselves." Dewey said the union "absolutely guaranteed" that any leaving would be unmolested.

Charges by Ray Roush, Rouge plant superintendent, that strikers had caused $100,000 damage by "deliberate breakage of tool and die parts vital in aircraft production," brought quick denials from union officials, who invited an official investigation of the reports.

Reports were current here that I. A. Capizzi, Ford attorney, planned to place charges of union sabotage before Secretary Henry Stimson of the War Department. Arriving at Washington by plane last night, however, Capizzi said only that he intended to offer evidence of "Communist activities" in Ford labor disputes to the National Labor Relations Board at a hearing today.

cold water in public shelters, and others are coping with the problem of washing clothing.

"It is hope to get communal laundries started in most of the boroughs, at which shelterers can wash and iron their clothing," he added.

A further problem is that of keeping bedding clean. Many shelterers have to carry their bedding about with them, leaving it with friends or any other place they can find while they are at work.

"The solution is free storage places," Coombes said. "In Westminster a basement has been fitted, with divided shelves, where people can leave their bedding under proper supervision during the day."

Health posters are being displayed and the council is arranging for health and general interest films to be shown in the shelters.

No Decisions At Once

Officials of the Dairy Products Board said it was not likely they could give a decision at once on the price representations.

Associated with the National Dairy Council in its submission were the Ontario Creamery Association, New Brunswick Dairymen's Association, New Brunswick Herd Improvement Association, New Brunswick Farmers' Association, MontrealMilk Shippers Association, United Provincial Milk Producers Association of Quebec and the joint Dairy Breeds' Committee. The Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation made its submission alone.

Both submissions contended the government should be prepared to provide "an alternative market for butter at the minimum price should the trade during the flush production season be disinclined to purchase all the butter offered on the market."

Three Suggestions.

The National Dairy Council group made three recommendations not contained in the dairy federation brief:

1. "Along with a fixed minimum price for butter, the government should make it obligatory on the factories that are equipped to manufacture both butter and cheese to make cheese only."

2. "Consideration should be given by the Dairy Products Board to the advisability of preventing creameries from accepting cream during the season in which the cheese factory operates, from farmers who sent their milk to cheese factories in 1940, provided that cheese factory facilities are available."

3. "If a maximum selling price must be imposed by the government then a sufficient spread should be permitted to warrant the cost of carrying the butter until the season of scarcity plus a reasonable profit on the money invested."

(The wholesale price of butter at present is pegged at a maximum of 35 cents a pound, basis Montreal, by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board).

Both submissions said farm labor of any calibre was hard to get "at a price in competition with wages offered in industry and on government contracts," and that prices of the things farmers had to buy had increased without adequate increase in the price of things he ha dto sell.

In addition, the Dairy Farmers' Federation said:

"Industry engaged in the production of war materials, is guaranteed its cost of production plus a reasonable profit, and is therefore on an assured basis, whereas prices of many farm commodities have been fixed, with no regulation of the factors involved in costs of productin, thereby requiring farmers to produce foodstuffs at prices in many cases below actual cost.

"The trend in agricultural prices in recent years has consumed the farmer's reserves, placed unduly heavy mortgages on his property and ruined his credit, so that he must receive the cost of production if he is to continue as a producer."

Aduwa Falls

British Army's pincers closed tighter today around Massaua, Italy's Red Sea port in Eritrea, while other columns crossed the Ethiopian frontier from the northeast and closed in on Adigrat.

Adigrat is 40 miles east of Aduwa, scene of the Ethiopians' rout of the Italians in 1896 and the place where the Italians won their first victory in the invasion of 1935. It is about 80 miles south of Asmara, captured capital of Eritrea.

(A Reuters news agency dispatch to London said Aduwa had been occupied.)

Italians were streaming south by the main roads south of Asmara toward Addis Ababa, but occasionally halted in attempts to ambush the pursuing forces.

A Free French pilot who flew over the whole area yesterday said he counted 400 trucks tearing south on the road toward Makale.

"They gave the impression they were running for it," he said, and appeared to be making no preparations for a large-scale stand.

The total number of prisoners counted after the fall of Asmara meanwhile mounted to 4,000 Italians and 600 native troops.

Captured materials included rifles with ammunition, several locomotives and a large amount of railway rolling stock.

Italians are reported to have withdrawn two of their outposts north of Debra Markos, 120 miles northwest of Addis Ababa as if preparing to abandon the town. They are being attacked by British-led Ethiopians.

A Free French pilot who flew over the front three times in the past week said he had sighted an Italian plane only once and it did not offer to meet him.

Market Quotations

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

MONTREAL BUTTER EASIER

MONTREAL, April 5 — (CP). — The butter market on the Canadian Commodity Exchange was easier during this week and trading continued at a low ebb. At the close Friday spot butter was offered at 34¼ cents a pound, down ½ cent from the previous week. There was little activity in futures. The November option was called during the week and was offered Friday at 32¾ cents.

The opening of an egg futures section on the exchange Thursday attracted considerable attention. The first option called was October, which was quoted at 24 cents to 24¼ cents Friday. Interest was fair in the contract, but the spread between bid and asked was too wide to permit contracts to be executed. The spot market was firm with offerings readily absorbed.

and company headquarters it's the same, but at corps the whole thing is co-ordinated.

In a spacious office where sun pours across a desk crowded with new military devices, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton makes his decisions.

But he isn't tied down to the office. Almost every day he is with the troops, accompanying some visitor or looking over things himself. He always seems to be enjoying himself.

There was one night on a large-scale manoeuvre when more than 20,000 troops were on the move. After the formal conferences with the commanders in the field, the Corps Commander slipped away to see the convoys on the roads. Only his aide and myself were with him.

Out With the Troops.

For hours he drove and walked about, talking with privates handling traffic and watching details of the movement with the enthusiasm of a platoon subaltern on his first big scheme.

At dawn he was around again in the same old trenchcoat and field service cap, wandering among the troops on the "front line."

British officers often remark about the 'esprit de corps" among the Canadians. One Canadian general told me recently: "The spirit in this Corps is one of the finest developments; it is far more noticeable than that which existed in the First Great War."

Winter training was a trial, but in the middle of it came great experience of being on the coastal front and putting training lessons into actual practice. The men shovelled and wired and slaved like ditch diggers for weeks to put their defence zone into shape.

I made five jaunts to the coast, staying a few days each time with different regiments and felt the same exhilaration as these men, standing on the cliffs and the beaches with shock troops, waiting behind mines and wire and sandbags for the invaders.

2 Bank Looters Nabbed In Swale

KITCHENER, Ont., April 5 (CP) —The swift action of a desperate attempt to escape from pursuing policemen was all behind John Charles Parkes, 40, of Windham Centre, Ont., and Joseph Feeney, 38, of Toronto, as they awaited trial on charges of armed robbery. In court today they were remanded in custody until next Wednesday.

They were caught last night by a posse of about 60 men, more than a dozen of them policemen, who surrounded a swamp near St. Clements, Ont., about 10 miles from here, after the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at S. Clements had been held up and robbed of about $,000. Cornered in the swamp when police and armed farmers of the district blocked all roads from the area, Parkes and Feeney were said by police to have exchanged shots with their pursuers several times before they were captured.

Police said they recovered almost all of the money taken when two men held up the manager and teller of the bank and scooped all money from the teller's cage. Three revolvers were taken from the men.

Comfort In Dark Days Is Offered by Apostle John

By REV. E. R. JAMES

JUDAS, not Iscariot, saith unto Him:—Lord, how is it that Thou wilt manifest Thyself unto us and not unto the world. St. John 14:22.

The fourteenth of John is full of comfort in these dark days, yet it reveals the thoughts of the Apostles. The Lord's farewell words unlock the minds of His beloved disciples. Thomas with his: "How can we know the way?"; Philip breaking in with his fascinating question: "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us"; and now Judas, not Iscariot, a plain, quiet man, enquires bluntly: "Lord, how is it that Thou wilt manifest Thyself unto us and not unto the world?"

This has been the dominating question in the hearts of all these men during the past three years. "Why does He not reveal Himself clearly?" Even His brethren at Nazareth had enquired: "If Thou doest these things shew Thyself to the world."

Yet over and over again the Lord commands that men should not spread abroad the news of His miracles. He feeds the multitudes with a few loaves and fishes. It is a sign that the fanatical multitude is quick to recognize. "When Jesus therefor perceived that they would take Him by force and make Him a king, He departed again into the mountain "Himself alone" St. John 10:26. Quietly He answers: "My sheep hear My Voice." Bishop Gore reminds us that the Lord rarely answered a straight question. He desired men to think and discover the answer for themselves.

For more than two hundred years the Jewish people had been trained by their Rabbis to expect the coming of the Messiah, the Christ, the Annointed of God. He was to be a man endowed with spiritual powers which would enable Him to conquer their enemies and make the Jews an Imperialistic nation. Judas Maccabeus, who raised a successful revolt against the finest military machine of that day, was never forgotten and to some extent fulfilled their idea of the Messiah. Then came the Roman occupation of the country. This resulted in the growth of a nationalistic party, called Zealots, who were willing to throw away their lives if they could drive the Romans into the sea. These men would have flocked to the banner of the Christ and died gladly for the cause of freedom. The popular mind was saturated with the thought that the Messias was to be a man of war and that by force he would conquer their enemies and sit on the throne of David. It was impossible for such a people to hear the voice of One Who declared He came to save and redeem sinners and saw good in a Samaritan and spoke highly of a Roman officer.

That very same week the Master had been asked the question full of dynamite: "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?" He signed His death warrant by His answer. Many a fanatical Galilean strained his ears to catch His answer and turned away disappointed. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." Such a profound statement was beyond their imagination and desire. They had been trained to hate Rome. Their eyes were closed to see Goodness, Truth and Beauty. Neither the Jewish people nor their rulers could recognize the truth that He came to redeem not by force but by love and to found His Kingdom on Goodness, Truth and Justice, and not by force of arms.

In this terrible day it is necessary for us to remember that Goodness, Truth and Justice will finally triumph. God will give us the victory, not because we are a favored race by blood or origin but because we have been the foremest missionary nation. We have sent our finest sons and daughters into the darkest portions of the earth to preach the good tidings of Love, Humility and Sympathy for others. It is true we have not done much. But for the sake of these missionaries God will give us the victory. We have striven to manifest Him to the little ones of the earth and shown them we are brethren and that God loves them. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, My brethren ye have done it unto Me."

COMFORT YE, COMFORT YE, MY PEOPLE, SAITH THE LORD.

St. Aidan Ladies Finish Quilts

YOUNG'S POINT, April 5 — (ENS). — The Women's Auxiliary of St. Aidan's turned out in full force on Tuesday for another all-day quilting in the Parish Hall. Five beautiful large quilts have been completed in the four weeks during Lent, together with a number of aprons.

After the pot-luck dinner had been served, an hour was allotted to business when different committes gave their reports. Final arrangements were made for a very special Easter party to be held on April 25.

B. Harvey New President.

The meeting of Young's Point Cheese Factory was held last Friday with a record attendance. Various busines matters weer discussed, with the opening date set about April 25. The following were elected to act for the coming year: President, Bernal Harvey; directors, Ernie Harvey, Victor Young, and Arthur Duggan; treasurer, William Lane; salesman, Thompeon Braden.

Personals.

Mrs. William Bullock of Peterborough spent a few das last week visiting her son, Cephas Bullock.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant, Bridgenorth, were Sunday visitors of Captain and Mrs. William Scollard.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes, Miss Lula Darling, Peterborough, and Mrs. J. Darling of Lakefield spent Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Darling.

Mrs. W. E. McDonough visited with her sisters at the Lakefield Inn on Sunday.

Mrs. J. Barff of Toronto and son Thomas of St. Peter's Separate School, Peterborough, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young.

Miss Muriel Brooks, Peterborough, visited with friends in the village on Sunday.

Friends of Mrs. James Reid and Mrs. J. E. Kearney are very pleased to hear that they are able to be out again after being confined to their homes through illness.

Rev. E. C. and Mrs. Moore were dinner guests of Rev. H. R. and Mrs. Howden of Lakefield on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Walter Hockaday spent a few days last week with her mother, Mrs. F. Eggleston, at Fowler's Corners.

J. W. Moore, cheese instructor, attended the cheese meeting last Friday.

Employees of the Trent Canal were busy last week taking soundings of Lake Katchewanooka.

Jack Murphy of Lakefield had the misfortune to hurt his leg quite badly while helping to roll logs on to the carriage at Owen's saw mill on Monday.

Billie Brown, Peterborough, spent the week-end with his family in the village.

Pte. Douglas McNaughton has returned to Camp Borden after being ill at his home in the village.

A campaign has been started in Australia for motion picture shows after church hours on Sunday for the benefit of patriotic funds, hospitals and charities.

Many Great Missionaries Still Are Carrying On

A pessimistic young preacher was one day discusing the future of the church. Two or three great ministers had just died. He told his doleful story to one of his laymen. "Simpson is gone," he said, "and Parker, and as a matter of fact, I am not feeling very well myself."

There are people who say that all the great missionaries are dead and gone. But these folk do not read their missionary papers, because if they did they would know that many really fine missionaries are alive to-day and working on their fields in Africa, India, China, and other distant lands.

Dr. W. E. Strangway went out to Angola in West Africa in 1927. He was the first missionary doctor in that area, and found almost insuperable obstacles confronting him. The straw roof of the ramshackle hospital frequently caught fire from the heat of the African sun. The young Canadian doctor and his heroic wife continued their fight with such terrible diseases of malaria, leprosy, and child malnutrition. They have won the complete affection and respect of the people in that area.

The witch doctor exerts a blighting influence in West Africa. There is a good story told of an old witch doctor who came to Dr. Strangway's hospital at Chissambra one day. He was almost blind, and the young missionary operated on both his eyes and gave him back his sight. One Sunday morning the former spell binder turned up at Chissambra church with all his charms in his divining basket. He asked if he might go into the pulpit and tell his story. Turning to the minister he said do what you like with these, burn them and destroy them.

From that time onward he occupied a front seat in the church every Sunday. After a time, however, he disappeared and it was found that he had gone to a government camp 50 miles away to stay. In this camp there was no Sunday worship. After a few weeks he was back in the Chissambra church again. He could not live without the Sunday services.

The story of Dr. Strangway, crusader for Christ in Africa, will be the subject of a picture sermon in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night.

Power Of The Holy Ghost Is Promised To Disciples

By CAMPBELL NEWMAN

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 6 is Luke 24:48, 49; Acts 1; the Golden Text being Acts 1:8, "But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you: and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth.")

IN OUR lesson today we have a slightly different account of the ascension of Christ to heaven. It is contained in the Acts of the Apostles, also written by St. Luke. Forty days had elapsed since Jesus rose from the dead, and during this time He had been with the disciples, instructing them in their work thereafter.

"Being assembled together with them," says Luke, He commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but "wait for the promise of the Father. . . . For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence."

"Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel"? they asked Him. And He answered, "It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in His own power." They, it seems, were still expecting Him to be the Messiah for whom the Jews had been so long looking, who would restore the glory of the Jewish kingdom on earth.

Christ Leaves Them

And while He spoke these things, He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight. While the disciples looked steadily upward as their Lord disappeared from their view, they became aware of two men who stood by them, clothed all in white.

"Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manners as ye have seen Him go into heaven," they said.

The disciples next turned to Jerusalem and gathered in an upper room with other followers of the Master, including Jesus' mother. They all "continued in prayer and supplication," for some time, and then Peter rose in the midst of them and addressed them. There were about 120 people present, Luke tells us.

By the way, the mention of the mother of Jesus in this first chapter of The Acts of the Apostles, is the last made of her in the scriptures.

Peter reminded them of the fact that Judas was dead—had killed himself after betraying Christ—and that they should choose someone to take his place and make them again 12 in number. They appointed two men, Joseph, called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias. Then they prayed again, saying, "Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two Thou hast chosen."

"That he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place."

Then they gave lots to see who had been chosen, and the lot fell upon Matthias, so he was numbered as the twelfth apostle.

No Stranger

Matthias was no stranger to the group. He had been associated with the Master and His followers from the first, and it must have seemed strange to him that Judas, the traitor, was chosen to be an apostle instead of him. He had loyally followed Christ, however, and now his reward had come and he was chosen as one of the inner circle or elect.

Jesus had told His disciples to wait in Jerusalem for the Holy Ghost to descend upon them, before starting out on their mission—that "repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem."

Power was promised these disciples from their Lord, when the Holy Ghost came upon them. "But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be My witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

Today is Palm Sunday, the time of Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem, when the people threw their cloaks in the path for His ass to tread upon, and waved palms, shouting hosannas to the Highest, "blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

Christ Promises Power ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 24:48, 49; Acts 1.

After Jesus was caught up into heaven, the disciples stood gazing upward and when the looked around two men dressed in white stood near them, who inquired, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven?"

After awhile they returned to Jerusalem and gathered in an upper room in a house, the 11 apostles with Mary, mother of Jesus, and His brethren, and Peter stood up in their midst and addressed all those present.

Peter referred to the suicide of Judas after he had betrayed Jesus, and suggested that they choose someone to take his place. All those present selected two men, Joseph, called Barsabas, surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

Then they all prayed "Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two men Thou hast chosen." Then they gave forth lots, and the lot fell upon Matthias.

Now He Can Tell It

Saville R. Davis was correspondent in Rome for the Christian Science Monitor from early in the war until a few weeks ago when he returned to the home office of the paper in Boston. He had no trouble with the Italian government, and left of his own free will.

Possibly Davis feels more at liberty to write now that he is away from Rome. Certainly he is writing things which would place him on the unwelcome list in Rome. One of his charges is that Mussolini insisted on the campaign against the Greeks being started regardless of weather or preparations. The reason is given in a statement credited to Mussolini:

"We are going to occupy Greece. I have spent $7,500,000 bribing the Greeks in key positions. They will not resist."

Nor was that all. There were two factions in Italy, and Marshal Badoglio, who was ordered to head the invasion of Greece, was anti-German, and he was "betrayed from the rear" by the pro-German Fascists.

Mr. Davis told of interviewing a soldier who had been in Albania for 16 months before the attack on Greece. On the first day of the attack the Italian soldiers took to the mountains, there to find snow from three to five feet deep, and the clothing of the troops was that which had been issued for summer wear. There were 500 in his unit but only 38 survived the Greek attack. For five days they had no food and no ammunition. At the base there were huge supplies of ammunition and food and supplies, but these had never been forwarded. The reason was that the pro-German Fascists desired to bring the anti-German Badoglio into disrepute, and in that they succeeded.

According to correspondent Davis the people of Italy realize the campaign in Africa was such that no excuse can be made. It was a direct military defeat because Graziani was not competent. There were trenches dug which were so deep that the men in them could not even see over the top. There was bad planning throughout to face an army well equipped and with an impressive knowledge of how to conduct desert warfare. Judging from the manner in which Mr. Davis is now writing we take it he feels more free to express his opinions in Boston than he would in Rome.

He Was Telling The Truth

William Bradd was sentenced to five years in penitentiary for participation in the robbery of the Canadian Department Stores in this city on February 2. Since 1927 there have been about a dozen charges against Bradd, and as a result he has had quite a prison record.

The Judge remarked that it was a "terrible record for a boy of 28 years," and then it was that William Bradd told something of his experience. When he left school after a rather brief attendance, the depression was on and he couldn't find anything to do and he drifted into trouble, and on the first offence probation had been denied.

He found also that his prison record was all against him. When he came out he found no person wanted him, and there was no place he could turn to find employment. To the suggestion that he might tell people the truth Bradd replied: "Then they don't want me."

We have a belief that in this remark William Bradd was saying something which is only too true. We have heard other men who have served time say the same thing. We recall also some years ago hearing the warden of the penitentiary at Portsmouth say that the men who excited his sympathetic feelings were not so much those within the four walls, but rather the ones who finished their time and "walked out the North gate apparently free men." He had an accurate enough idea of what they were going to meet. He knew they would be regarded as ex-convicts and he was also unaware of any place to which they might turn in their quest for employment with any degree of success.

It is easy enough for people to say it is not right, but what is to be done about it? We have not yet built up any organization which will pledge itself or its membership to give a chance to the ex-convict who has within him a desire to go straight and make something of himself. Every time he comes to court his record is there facing him, and to what extent that record plays a part in determining the extent of his sentence is something which is difficult to estimate.

Something in that too which the young man entering crime for the first time never seems to consider. When he is arrested and sent down he is going to wear the brand of the ex-convict and his chance for the future is going to be dimmed.

The Case Of Cliveden

Robert Hudson, Minister of Agriculture in the British Government, said that at the beginning of the war Britain had only 28 per cent. of its land under cultivation, but this had since been increased to 42 per cent.

It was during that discussion that William Leach, Labor member of the Commons, wanted to know what would be done with a place like Cliveden, the estate of Lord and Lady Astor, where he claimed there was a head gardener and 15 other gardeners employed, but where nothing was produced in way of food except for the use of the house.

There are a good many Canadians who have knowledge of this estate in Buckinghamshire, within easy driving distance of London. It was a hospital during the last war, and on the premises there is a cemetery in which a number of Canadians were buried. One of the most beautiful cemeteries in all England, it was formerly a sunken garden. On one side there is a magnificent piece of statutary representing a mother. It is so placed that it faces into the West, from which direction came the Canadians, and the trees in the woods had been so trimmed that as the sunset came it fell directly on this figure.

Possibly it is natural enough that there should come up this question of the large estate of England particularly at a time when the country is hard pressed for production from its own soil, and when the condition is such that a larger number than usual of the country's own cattle must be killed off for beef.

A party of Canadian newspaper people visited Cliveden a few years ago, and had opportunity to walk or be shown over the entire place. Recollection is that there would not be a great deal of that place where agricultural production could be undertaken as there is much rock. The flowers which are grown there are remarkable, but our belief is that most of them make their way to London hospitals. Cliveden has always been regarded as one place in England which made an unusual contribution to the care and welfare of Canadians in the last war.

A Man And His Money

There was a total of $12,521 in the will of the late William J. Wright, a plumber of Toronto, and the stipulation was that the entire amount should go to a little girl he had seen in burlesque at Fort Wayne, Indiana, in 1918. All he knew was that her name was "babe," something which could have been attached to almost any child performer. If she could not be located then the money was to go to Sherbourne Street United Church, Toronto.

There were three "Babes" who showed up for the hearing, and it is said there were a number of others who would have made the trip had they been able to finance it and secure the services of lawyers to indulge in litigation. Apparently there was no positive proof that any one of the three from the States was the person mentioned in the will.

The result was that the claimants, together with a cousin who had tried to break the will, and a represethative of the church named came to agreement. The church gets 40 per cent; the cousin who claimed William Wright was crazy when he made the will, gets a 12½ per cent cut, and three "Babe" claimants range from 15 to 17 per cent.

Possibly it was a wise enough conclusion, otherwise the money might have been largely dissipated in litigation for there was quite an imposing array of legal talent on hand. It was ruled that costs should come out of the estate, and the estimate is that this expenditure will take one-third of the assets. So the Sherbourne Street church with which the deceased gentleman seems to have been in no way connected, receives $5,000, less one-third for court costs, and it is difficult enough to try and understand how that can be lugged in and classified as a free-will offering to the Lord.

A Horse With The Heaves

Court at Kingston had the difficult task of trying to straighten out the affairs of two men who had agreed to run a farm on shares, a rather poor arrangement at best as such a plan seldom succeeds. The plaintiff farmer appeared to be certain that the other man did not understand how to care for his animals, and by way of illustration said he did not give his horses attention when they had a cold and as a result they developed the heaves.

In the account published in the Kingston Whig-Standard we found this bit of barnyard wisdom: "I feed them lots of carrots because they're good for the heaves, but trading is the only thing a horse with the heaves is good for."

We know not where this farmer was born, raised or trained, but he speaks according to the articles of faith which used to be recited on Lot Four, Concession Ten. Limewater on the hay was the chief stock in trade for grandfather's treatment; also moving the horse to a stall where there would be no dust drifting down from on top. Then a period of rest with just enough exercise to keep the animal fit.

But after all that was done grandfather believed, as did the men in court at Kingston, that trading was the best treatment for a horse with the heaves. That trouble is much the same as asthma in humans, hard to control and harder still to cure. The belief on the Tenth was that there wasn't any cure—except trading.

Nor do we recall of a court case ever coming because a heaves horse had been traded. Horse trading was somewhat of a fine art highly developed. Grandfather was a pious man and one of good repute; he paid his bills and asked no favors. But for all that we always had the feeling that the best horse trader was the best liar. We had good neighbors all around, the kind who would turn out in case of sickness and do the chores or put in the seed. They'd never see a neighbor stuck, but the man who got the worst of a horse deal never had any sympathetic utterances cast in his direction. He had gone into a business where experts might tread with fear, and he had stubbed his toe because he was a bungling amateur. So we agree with the witness at Kingston that the best treatment for a heaves horse is trading.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Magistrate in London, Ont., told a soldier he must obey civil law. Right enough, as in the eyes of the law all men are civilians.

The King's birthday is on December 14, but with our own original way of doing things in this country we will observe it on June 9.

"Backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight." Wonder what Mussolini would give if that operation were possible and he could again be at June 10, 1940?

The cost of living in Canada for February was 108.2 as compared with 108.3 in January. The decrease is easy to understand because February was the shorter month.

Representatives of the railway workers of Canada are at Ottawa to suggest the cost of living bonus should be paid. But how about all the other people who have no one to go and make suggestions on their behalf?

Prime Minister Churchill said Lord Halifax spoke with full authority in his U.S. address in which he referred to "world-wide economic collaboration" following the war. And that is also the same thing which is going to win the war.

Provincial Secretary Nixon has spent 22 of his 50 years in the Ontario Legislature, and yet he is listed in the Parliamentary Guide as having been a "member of International Stock Team, 1812." He seems to have kept his age remarkably well, or else the Parliamentary Guide may have indulged in that lamentable habit of nursing a typographical error.

EXPLAINED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I often wondered how it was, or what could really be the cause, of cars parked by his door; for Mr. Chargeit was a jay, who had some callers every day, at times some three or four.

¶ And when each month draws to a close, the postman wrinkles up his nose, so many letters there; and other people in the block, they seem to take it as a shock, and say it isn't fair.

¶ Yes Chargeit's popular I know, and he has evidence to show, it's nice the way he feels; it's nice to have folk call on you, it makes dull moments rather few, to have them at your heels.

¶ And Chargeit dresses mighty swell, his house is furnished most too well, there's nothing much he'll lack; I know that in the summer time, he goes away to sniff the pine, and dwell within his shack.

¶ It's been a mystery to me, how Chargeit is so gay and free, and where he gets the kale; if I tried keeping up with him, I know my wallet would be thin, perhaps I'd land in jail.

¶ Perhaps, though, Chargeit's out of luck, for yesterday I saw a truck, backed up against his door; they took the ice box and a bed, a chesterfield dolled up in red—a rug from all the floor.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

LAST DAY I wrote about Sir James Barries play "Dear Brutus" which is having an extremely successful revival in London at present; it was first presented in 1917, during the last war. Another favorite of the first Great War which is now drawing crowded houses in England is "The Beggar's Opera." Of course, it is much older than the Barrie play; it was first produced in 1728, but after 213 years it is still a favorite.

C & B

Veterans of the last war will remember "The Beggar's Opera" as it was produced at the Lyric Theatre in Hammersmith by the late Sir Nigel Playfair. Soldiers on leave went to see it time after time; it even rivalled "Chu Chin Chow" in popularity. I know one officer who had made the not inconsiderable journey to Hammersmith 23 times! The cast was headed by that excellent singer Frederick Ranalow as Captain Macheath and Matt O' the Mill was played by Alfred Heather, the tenor. Heather came to Canada a few years ago and earned a precarious living as a church soloist, but the difficulty of temperament which made him an unsuitable chorister at Westminster Abbey worked against him here and although he retained his beautiful voice until his death it was almost impossible for him to retain a position. He was a delightful and witty companion, generous and kind even when he was in sore straits himself, but he was undependable. Many Canadians remember him for his magnificent singing of the Narrator's part in Bach's "Saint Matthew Passion"....But to return to "The Beggar's Opera." The music was provided by a small orchestra consisting in a large part of a family called Muckle; they were admirable musicians, and were so used to playing with one another that they were able to impart a wonderfully flexible and intimate tone to the music, and this did much to add to the charm of the performance. For a time the now famous actress Edith Evans played in this production.

C & B

AT FIRST it is a little hard to understand why "The Beggar's Opera" should enjoy such an astonishing popularity. Surely it is one of the most immoral comedies ever written. How it came to be written is an odd story. The author, that witty, lively scamp John Gay, was talking once to his older friend, the sour, saturnine Dean of Saint Patrick's, Dublin, Jonathan Swift; Swift loved a bitter joke, and, as a hit at the affectedly simple pastoral poetry which was popular at the time he suggested to Gay that "a Newgate pastoral might make an odd, pretty sort of thing." Newgate, of course, was the principal prison of the day, and a hell of vice and depravity. Gay was struck with the idea, and decided not only to satirize pastoral poetry but also to take a crack at opera, which was then the fashionable craze of London society. So he wrote his "Beggar's Opera"; in a prologue the Beggar explains that plain folk need opera as well as rich. The tunes which Gay used for the songs in his opera were, appropriately, popular English music of the time, and a more delightful musical score would be hard to find. The arrangement of the music was done by a Dr. Pepusch, the famous director of the Lincolns Inn Fields Theatre.

C & B

The plot is simple. Captain Macheath is a handsome and lighthearted highwayman who makes a hobby of heartbreaking. In order to win her favors he marries Polly Peachum, the pretty daughter of a notorious receiver of stolen goods. Old Peachum is furious, for he had meant to sell his daughter to a wealthy suitor, or perhaps to more than one; he informs on Macheath, who is arrested and thrown into Newgate prison. Here he soon wins the heart of Lucy Lockit, the turnkey's daughter, who arranges his escape. Polly and Lucy are desperately jealous of one another and drive Macheath almost mad with their quarreling. At last he is reprieved, just as he is about to go to the gallows, and to the dismay of Lucy and Polly a horde of Macheath's "wives" turn up, each one with a baby. But the Beggar of the prologue arranges a happy ending, for he says that the public would never be satisfied with an unhappy one.

C & B

This amazing work is now being performed all over England by the Sadler's Wells Opera Company, which is well known for its performances of opera in English in London. Their own theatre has been damaged by bombing, and so the company has been forced to tour. It is playing several other operas as well, but "The Beggar's Opera" is the favorite of the public. In wartime the English like to cheer themselves with their own music.

C & B

"The Beggar's Opera" is a ballad opera. That is to say, the music in it was not specially composed for it, but is made up of popular tunes with new words set to them. In the eighteenth century ballad operas were very popular, and it seems a pity that they should have fallen into disuse. They make a wonderful vehicle for satire, particularly of a political nature. A ballad opera about Queen's Park, for instance, if it were well done, would probably be most successful and make the fortune of its author. John Gay, by the bye, did very well out of "The Beggar's Opera." The manager who presented it for him was a certain Mr. Rich, a celebrity in his time, and it was said of this most famous of all ballad operas that it made Gay rich and Rich gay.

Letters To The Editor

WANTS A CHANCE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I would like to bring to your attention again something which the unemployed in this city are facing, including young men who are being discharged from the army. I happen to be in the latter class and am not physically fit for the King's service, but I feel that just a handful of such men are deserving of some consideration from the municipality.

It takes the army four months to put us in the class of a soldier, that is a man ready to fight for his King and country. Surely if we are not fitted for that service then our factories and officials could give us some position and instruct us. I believe the ex-service men should have the preference. Take the handful of ex-service men out of the surplus help which you want at your gates and give us a chance. I do not believe His Majesty would like his ex-soldiers slighted.

EX-SERVICE LAD.

A NEW SOCIAL ORDER IMPERATIVE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The issues confronting us are moral, and while the vigorous prosecution of the war to a victorious ending is our immediate objective, it is well to consider the growing demand for a new social order to be set up after the war. The significance of this demand is that men are associating the cause of the war and of other social problems with the moral defects of the old social order. This raises the questions, Why did the old order break down? How May the new social order be brought about and upon what foundation established.

The laws of society are not laws of nature, nor are they founded upon deductions from principles of natural rights and freedom. They came to us from history, reflecting the personal interests and opinions of the ruling class. A society became more complex, the moral defects of social laws became more obvious, their administration more impracticable and more destructive of human freedom, the enslavement of the masses more complete.

We live in a universe governed by natural laws which harmoniously supplement and complement one another. Only from human society comes a discordant note because the laws of society are contrary to the laws of the universe. From such laws arise all our social problems of unemployment, poverty, want and destitution of the masses, chaos and anarchy in society, and international wars. These evils result from the moral defects of the present social order and are the cause of its breakdown.

The natural rights of human beings are embedded in the laws of the universe which are the laws of God. When the laws of society agree with the laws of the universe, the new social order will be established bringing lasting peace and prosperity to mankind. There is no other way.

EGGS AND DOORMATS AND OTHER THINGS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—We just finished reading the article on the new egg grading regulations, and it is good. Of course we differed on a point here and there.

How we enjoyed: "the impression that egg aces of the department are after bigger game" and "the declaration by some that the regulations are intended to direct the egg business into the channels of the big fellows." I have an idea hundreds of farmers agree with those parts of the story.

There was one funny statement about "the goofiness of prehistoric times when eggs weren't graded." It's funny because the prehistoric times are still with us as we buy many kinds of ungraded goods in the stores of your city today. As a writer stated in your column not long ago, the only way we farmers know the grades of clothing, shoes, etc., is when they wear out too soon. The price is supposed to be a guide but in the last few months we are paying high grade price for low grade goods.

Don't misunderstand me, I believe in grading eggs! Let them be candled and that would get rid of bad eggs. Then let the good eggs be divide into two grades, A and B or I and II. Who wants more grades?

We did not know until we read your article that there will be two licensed grading stations in Peterborough. We farmers have long worked for a Co-operative organization and the Co-op. alone should grade eggs for farmers. Let us make vigorous protest to the government against the other station.

Now, as to "the consumers rarely demanding nothing, being little brothers to the doormat," we presume you mean city consumers. And do some of them "demand"? Are they "doormats"? Ask the farm producers!

Just now they are demanding big eggs. Can you imagine that? Do they not know that the hen which lays big eggs doesn't lay as many? They demand high quality eggs at prices that give no profit to the farmer. They want them delivered at their homes at these prices. Nothing doormatish about that.

A few cranks decided they wanted pasteurized milk and others were gullible enough to be taken in by those who wanted to seize control of the farmers' milk market. Would they buy a double boiler and thermometer and pasteurize their own? No, they howled for pasteurized milk for all, they wanted it delivered at their doors and no fuss made about milk bottles broken or not returned, etc., etc. When farmers ask for higher prices for milk, distributors mention all these consumer demands.

The grown-ups wanted enough cream on the top of the milk bottles to use in coffee and tea, that is they wanted cream at milk prices! So they demanded a very high percentage of fat in the milk, knowing that a cow which gives very rich milk cannot give as much. If that is being a doormat, perhaps they put the mats over the doors in the city. Most farmers think city consumers never cease demanding better and higher quality, lower and lower prices. Also certain sections of city consumers make other demands which affect the farmer indirectly, higher wages, shorter hours, superannuation or pensions and most incredible of all—unemployment insurance.

"A FARM-PRODUCER."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain, and when he was set his disciples came unto him.

And he opened his mouth and taught them, saying:

Blessed are the pure in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted.

Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.

Blessed are they which shall hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled.

Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.—Matthew 5:1-8.

Port Hope Line Opened With Big Excursion

The C.N.R. has applied to the powers that be for authority to close down their Peterborough-Port Hope line.

This is a striking example of the changes that time brings.

In May, 1858, 83 years ago, this line was opened for traffic amid enthusiastic optimism as to its future.

On May 21 there was an excursion to Port Hope from Peterborough, and on the 24th a free excursion carried 3,000 people. The return excursion from Port Hope was by a train using all the available rolling-stock of three locomotives and forty cars, taking nearly 5,000 passengers.

It seems probable that in the excitement of the moment the number of passengers was exaggerated, as the population of Peterborough at the census of 1861, three years later, was only 3,826.

Early History Complicated.

The early history of railways in this district is complicated and, after this long lapse of years, it is rather obscure. There were charters which overlapped, joint stock companies were formed, debentures issued, and bonuses granted. The amounts were small compared with modern railway finance, but were substantial for those early days.

As long ago as 1846 a charter was obtained to construct a railway from Peterborough to Port Hope, but it was abortive, and it is seen that such a line was not completed until 12 years later as mentioned above.

In 1852 a company was formed under the name of the Grand Junction Railway Company to build from Belleville to Georgian Bay. A large sum of money was subscribed, including $500,000 by the United Counties of Peterborough and Victoria. The Grand Trunk, then recently completed, looked on the line as a good feeder, but delays ensued and nothing resulted.

Cobourg to Peterborough.

In the same year, 1852, a charter was obtained to build from Cobourg to Peterborough, and the project of building from Port Hope to Peterborough revived. The local Town Council declined to take stock in the latter project, but the Township of Ops and Lindsay gave financial assistance and the road was built to Lindsay and put into operation.

Cobourg pushed forward their project and in 1854 the line was opened for traffic, including a long bridge across Rice Lake. During the winters 1856-57 this bridge was damaged by ice pressure, and the road ceased to operate as far as Peterborough. An attempt was made to replace the bridge with a more permanent structure, and a part of the lake filled in, but it was never completed.

In 1857 the Peterborough-Port Hope idea was revived. This was a joint stock company project organized by one John Forster, who wanted the corporations of Port Hope and Peterborough to build a branch from Millbrook through the townships north to Peterborough. Port Hope subscribed $50,000 of stock, Messrs. Tate and Fowler $50,000, and after much discussion Peterborough passed a by-law guaranteeing $150,000, and the line was constructed, and opened in May, 1858, as before described.

Line to Chemong.

During Peterborough's early railway history there are frequent suggestions of extending a line to Chemong Lake, the idea first being mentioned in 1857. In 1865 an attempt was made by the Port Hope-Peterborough Company to form a connection between the latter place and the lake, but the idea fell through until in September, 1870, the Railway Committee of our local Council favored a grant of $40,000 to complete the connection, but it was not till 1891 that we read of a regular train service on their Chemong line. Later it proved a financial failure, and was abandoned. Traces of the old track are plainly discernible on the outskirts of the city.

The whole railway story is an interesting one, but far too long to permit even a brief record here.

Some highlights in it are as follows:

On December 26, 1868, completion and opening of line to Lakefield by first trains.

In 1878, C.N.R. Station on Charlotte Street formally opened.

In 1883, November 23, First train over what was called The Missing Link, Peterborough to Lindsay.

In 1884, May 11, the first train over line of Ontario and Quebec Railway (C.P.R.), the passengers including Sir William Van Horne and other railway magnates, and on the 29th October of that year the present C.P.R. Station was completed and opened to the public.

But modern methods of transportation have so radically affected railway problems that it is now desired to close down the line which was opened with so much jubilation in 1858.

OBITUARY

MRS. LEWIS S. CLARRY

MILLBROOK, April 5—(ENS).—The funeral of Millbrook's grand old Christian lady, Mrs. Lewis Simpson Clarry, took place from the family residence, Parkraodway, on Wednesday, at 2 p.m., a large number of local and outside citizens gathering for the service, which was conducted by her minister, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., assisted by Rev. George S. Easton, D.D., of Trinity United Church, Peterborough, and Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, rector of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan.

Mrs. Clarry's death, in her 94th year, occurred on Monday at 6 p.m. following a comparatively short illness. Rev. Dr. Easton offered the prayers. Archdeacon Simpson read the lessons, and Rev. Mr. Sisco gave the address, based on the words: "The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness," Proverbs 16:31.

Speaking specifically of Mrs. Clarry with her mind well stored with the grand old hymns of the church, and with scripture passages; Mr. Sisco mentioned the fact that "she never grew old in heart, and was ever looking forward to the everlasting glory, living, as she did, close to the gateway of heaven, the presence of God being always very real to her. She walked in the pathway of righteousness, and could teach us much of balanced judgment, and of the ways of wisdom and understanding. In her prayer life she was strong and devoted, and at the annual meeting of the W.M.S. in her home, the prayer she offered was always a benediction. She was always listening for the call of her Master, to the heaven that lies beyond."

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, included with these being sprays or wreaths from the Board of Trinity Church, Peterborough, of which Miss Mabel Clarry is the organist and choir leader; from the Flower Guild, the Music Committee, the Women's Association, and other organization; and from relatives and friends in Calgary, New York, Toronto, and many other points.

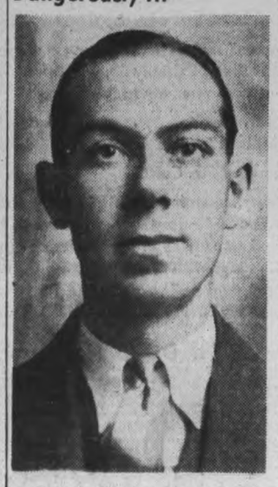
The pall-bearers were Messrs. P. Stinson, W. E. Ball, W. H. Coombe, G. E. Burnham, Charles Thorndyke, and J. N. McGill. Interment was in the family burial plot, beside her husband, in the Presbyterian cemetery.

The immediate members of Mrs. Clarry's family who were home for the funeral included E. S. Clarry of Ottawa and Toronto, and his daughter, Nora; three daughters who are registered nurses of New York City, Misses Gertrude, Blanche, and Augusta; Miss Mabel Clarry of Peterborough; the youngest daughter, Mrs. Maxwell Cameron, and Mr. Cameron of Ottawa.

Among friends of the family from other points were Dr. F. C. Nell, Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C.; Mr. W. J. E. Gillott, Mr. A. W. Pratten, Rev. Dr. G. S. and Mrs. Easton, Mr. F. S. Potter and Mr. R. J. Kidd of Peterborough.

Patterned after the American idea, a Dude Ranch has been established near Sydney, Australia.

Dangerously Ill



Gunner Charles Francey, R.C.A. (Active) was reported to be dangerously ill in England, and a recent report indicates he is showing some improvement. Francey is well known in Peterborough as well as his home town, Port Hope. He played hockey and baseball here.

Scores Close In Port Hope Bowling League

POR THOPE, April 5.—With a score of 2,301 the ladies' bowling team captained by Mrs. H. Sculthorpe was tops at the weekly meet on the Port Hope Bowling Club. In second place was Mrs. M. War Group Holds Euchre At Trent

TRENT RIVER, April 5—(ENS)—A successful progressive euchre was put on by members of the War Workers on Tuesday night at their rooms, eight tables being played.

Following are the prize-winners: Miss Alice Hay, ladies' first; Keith Lewis, gent.'s first; consolation went to Mrs. Harry Mann and William Steenburg. A novelty feature prize was the lucky door number 21 elaborately wrapped up, but the contents proved in keeping with the date—an April Fool joke — which went to William McQuigge.

Lunch was served after the games. The sum of over $5.00 was taken in at th door. A bingo party will be at the door. A bingo party will be held on Tuesday night, April 8.

Reg. Brennan, who has spent the winter with his father near Gravenhurst has returned and is planning to occupy his cottage soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw of Campbellford were Thursday visitors with the latter's mother, Mrs. Joseph Doupe, the occasion marking a birthday aniversary for Mrs. Doupe.

Corporal James Inkster has returned to Ottawa after 14 days' furlough.

Thomas Fry has been returned as milk tester for Northumberland County.

Rev. F. Horton of Bailleboro will take charge of Easter Day service, followed by Communion service at the United Church.

Bare-Kneed Aviators Who Strafe Retreating Italians

A group of aviators of the British Royal Air Force are pictured in front of their plane, a Wellington heavy bomber, in the desert, somewhere in Libya. Note their unusual attire, although they wear a heavy coat, their knees are bare. The insignia on the plane appears to be Prime Minister Churchill wearing a Santa Claus outfit and holding a gun in his hand. Planes such as these have inflicted terrific damage to retreating Italian forces.

Midland Unit Provides Guard

Capt. T. W. Quinn of Havelock was in command of the Guard of Honor for the Minister of National Defence at the recent opening of the War Service drive in Ottawa. The guard consisted of 100 men and four officers of the Midland Regiment now stationed at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa. The officers ABOVE are: Capt. T. W. Quinn, Capt. Galbraith, Lt. Skyworth and Lt. Bates.

Lakefield Couple 63 Years Wed Lived In One House For 56 Years

LAKEFIELD, April 4—(ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Simpson, highly respected couple of Lakefield, quietly observed the 63rd anniversary of their marriage on Thursday.

Both enjoy excellent health. Mr. Simpson will be 88 on May 21, and Mrs. Simpson 85 on May 26.

They were married in the Methodist Church, Warsaw, and came to live in Lakefield, only moving once since their marriage, having lived in the same house for 56 years.

Mr. Simpson worked in the sawmills, for which Lakefield was famous in those early year, and later for a number of years on the railroad.

When the bride and groom of 63 years ago came to Lakefield they attended the Bible Christian Church, where St. Paul's now stands. When Union came into effect they were valued members of the Methodist Church, which later became the Lakefield United Church, to which they are still regular attendants.

They had one daughter, Etta, who died 38 years ago. Her parents took her two young sons, Harold and Garnet Tighe into their home, and it is with pride that Mr. and Mrs. Simpson speak of their grandsons, both of whom are living in the Prairie Provinces now. They have eight great-grandchildren.

They are particularly proud of a beautiful cala lily which is just completing its bloom, the bulb of which was given to their daughter 45 years ago.

In speaking of the weather, Mrs. Simpson said that April 3, 1878, was a warm, mild day, the snow had all gone and the fall wheat was beginning to grow.

CENTREVILLE

Hot Pie Supper Is Planned By Ladies

CENTREVILLE, April 5—(ENS).—A joint meeting of the Women's Missionary Society and Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mr. Dawson Rutherford on Wednesday afternoon.

The president of the W.M.S., Mr. Howard Breckenridge, opened the meeting with hymn and offered prayer, after which the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Harold Tate.

After considering some items of business the following program was presented:

Miss Maraget Larmer gave a missionary reading; Mrs. Roy Green read a paper on 'On This Rock I Will Build My Church'; Miss Hazel Hall of Peterborough, sang 'The Old Rugged Cross,' after which Mrs. John Gainer gave an account of a visit to Willowdale Farm. The last number was a paper on 'The Chinese in Canada' by Mrs. Dawson Rutherford.

Mrs. Rutherford presided for the Ladies' Aid. Arrangements were made for the hot pie supper and bazaar which will be held in the Sunday school hall on Wednesday, April 9th.

The meeting closed with the Benediction.

To Stage Comedy Soon

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 (ENS)—Despite the spring-like weather and possible difficulty of getting members to turn out for practices members of St. Andrew's Y.P.S. decided at their meeting this week that they would sponsor a play which they will stage in the church basement on April 25. Title of the play, which is a three-act comedy with a cast of eight, is "One in a Million." Members were invited to a social evening at the home of their president, Mrs. Bruce Grills, next Monday in place of the regular meeting. It was announced the first practice for their play would be held at the home of the president this week.

Fraserville News

The Y.P.U. held its weekly meeting on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. H. Ouellette in charge of the fellowship convener, Elmer Hogg. Bruce Cunningham gave a poem, Alan Moffatt read a Scripture lesson, Ray Bothwell gave a very interesting topic on "Sacrament and Fellowship." Jean Holden gave a poem "Lest I Forget." A contest was enjoyed and the meeting brought to a close.

J. Carveth of Western Canada was a visitor on Wednesday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Moore.

S. Hunter and Miss Alma Hunter of Peterborough were Wednesday visitors to the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Holden.

The first trolleybus line in the Middle Rhine district of Germany was put into operation recently.

Fifty Students In Cobourg Plan War Work

COBOURG, April 5 — (ENS). — Nearly fifty Cobourg Collegiate students are awaiting the result of their Easter examinations, which will be announced this coming week before the closing of school for the Easter holidays. The fifty students are trying to pass misummer examinations now in order to be released to take up war time work of whatever nature is open to them.

Many of the students will go to work on farms in an effort to help produce a bumper crop of vital food needs.

Principal R. N. McKenzie of the local secondary school, stated that those who succeed in passing the Easter examinations will be awarded a high school diploma as their test will be conducted along the lines given by the Department, in order to win one of these diplomas. The school at present has an enrollment of three hudred and fifteen pupils of either sex and of these 29 are fifth formers in the course of taking upper school education.

The school is famous for its shop work and home economics courses and these two courses are included in the year's course, although not all students take these classes. School will close during Thursday, April 10, it is now expected and the hoped-for results will be available at that time it is believed. The present principal, Mr. McKenzie, has been at the school for nine years. He is one of the foremost mathematicians in Ontario, and many of the fine results and the high scholastic standing of the Collegiate are due in no small part to his efforts while at the head of the school.

PORT HOPE

Mrs. J. H. Russel Passes Away

PORT HOPE, April 5—(ENS). — Beloved by a wide circle of friends the passing of Mrs. J. H. Russel, Walton Street, is mourned by the members of her family and acquaintances. She died in Port Hope Hospital on Friday from a heart condition.

Mrs. Russel was a native of Glasgow, Scotland. In 1907 Mr. and Mrs. Russel emigrated to Canada and fourteen years later took up residence in Port Hope. Her kindly nature won her a host of friends in the community.

Left to mourn her passing are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. R. H. Libby, Nashville, Tenn.; four sons, Robert, Oshawa, Jack, London, William, Sanatarium, Cal., and James, en route to Tanganyika, Africa. Two sisters, Mrs. Agnes Smith and Mrs. Jennie Angus live in Glasgow.

The funeral service will be held on Sunday.

1st Great-Grandchild

DETROIT, April 5 (AP).—A 7¼-pound daughter was born at noon yesterday to Mrs. Henry Ford II, wife of Henry Ford's grandson. The baby, Henry Ford's first great-grandchild, was born at Henry Ford Hospital. The mother is the former Anne McDonnell. She and Henry Ford II were married last July 13 at Southampton, L.I., home of the McDonnell family.

OWEN SOUND TRIMS KINGSTON 5TO 4 TO TIE UP SERIES THREE ALL

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings will clash tomorrow night in Boston in the first game of the Stanley Cup final series. The second game will also be played on Boston ice next Tuesday night with the teams shifting to Detroit for games on Thursday and either Saturday or Sunday. It will be an interesting series although with many radio fans unable to bring in the broadcasts from either Boston or Detroit much of the thrill has gone out of the thing so far as fans in this end of the country are concerned. With Toronto out of it, hookups over the Canadian stations are a thing of the past until next season. That is one of the penalties we have to pay for an all-American final round for the battered old mug. Foster Hewitt will be demoted back to the amateur battles for the rest of the season and the hot stove league will go into retirement.

* * * * * *

Mister Turk Broda has probably learned by this time that there is nothing so fleeting as athletic glory. The old saying, a hero today, a bum tomorrow, is illustrated once again by the recent experiences of the Leafs' goalminder. Just a few days ago as winner of the Vezina trophy and as the net guardian for the No. 1 All-Star club Broda was sitting on top of the world. Now the same sports writers who were raving about how great he was only last week are now trying to make him the goat of the series. If we could have swapped goalies, they say, we would have been home free. The criticism is hardly cricket, old chaps. Andy Lytle, for instance, describes how Broda was caught flat-footed when the puck drifted out from the corner to Mel Hill who drilled the winner past Broda. But in his word picture of the play Mister Lytle shows that Mel Hill was left unchecked in front of the nets and he took advantage of the opening to come through with the million dollar goal. If blame is to be handed out why not pick first on the bird who should have covered the centre ice player.

Boston are favorites to take the Stanley Cup. On the season's record and having regard to the fact that they finished on top of the heap while Jack Adams' team could not do better than third slot in the league race. The series so far has run to form and that should mean, if the trend that way continues, that Boston the club that finished first will defeat the Red Wings who have been a little off the pace all season although always in a threatening position. We expect Boston to outbattle, outlast and outscore the Wings and grab off all the honors. They are a great club, those Bruins and we should give them credit for the fine record of achievement they have to their credit.

Give Them Credit

Says Ted Reeve in the Telegram: "Mel Hill, the little man who wasn't there at the start of the series, winds up the dog fight with the forty thousand dollar goal. 'Twas ever thus. Two powerful hockey teams fight it out all winter for first place and then battle through seven playoff games. Some of the famous players on the rival squads are knocked off or slowed up with injuries. Some falter under the pressure, and others rise up with stirring displays of great hockey. Then a little substitute takes off his glasses, peers somewhat gingerly into the turmoil and turns up in front of the Toronto net to score the winning goal. The Leafs go out heartbreakingly again. The Gardens lose three sellouts, the Bruins go on to meet a rugged Detroit team for the Stanley Cup, and Master Hill should catch at least a two weeks' contract on the Wee the People program. We will have to wait for the correspondents to return from Boston to get the full story of last night's fray, but it sounded as though Brimsek was very hot stuff. In fact, the three stars of the series would probably be Brimsek, Hollett and Bucko McDonald taken over the full route. Others took turns at feature work, but that trio performed consistently well and another fact borne out by the series is that the Schmidt-Bauer-Dumart line is probably the best in hockey. That is, game in and game out, for two way play. The Bruins seemed to have an edge in the luck in many respects, but they had to play without William Sixty Point Cowley and they still won. Give them credit.

* * * * * *

Picking N.H.L. material from amateur ranks is an art that Art Ross of the Boston Bruins seems to have mastered thoroughly. The Bruins' pilot as a rule doesn't seem to go after all kids who are getting their names in the hockey headlines, but he grabs off players whose performance does not land them mention on all-star lineups but have latent talent that the Ross system seems to be able to spot and develop. Players like Roy Conacher for instance rated no circus billing as juniors. Bobby Bauer, the spark plug of the Kraut line was just a player when he was with St. Michael's juniors but has grown into a star and Mel Hill, Johnny Crawford and others who did not rate tops as amateurs are doing nicely in the N.H.L. atmosphere. And again Ross has taken puckchasers like Flash Hollett, Art Jackson and Des Smith from other clubs and converted them into sound, clever performers who are worthy parts of a fine hockey club.

* * * * * *

You Can't Explain Them

Those unpredictable, inexplainable Kingston Combines have done it again. With only another win needed to give them the Ontario Senior B championship the Kingston gang came up last night with one of their numerous bad games and as a result Owen Sound Wreckers defeated them 5 to 4 and the series is all even at three games each. In the seventh battle the Combines will probably flash back to their best form and take the honors. Few teams in O.H.A. history have been such in-and-outers as this Limestone City outfit. They have been beaten half a dozen times on their own ice this season, on a number of occasions by clubs who should not have beaten them any place. And then the next time they met the same teams they just smeared them all over the landscape. They have been fortunate, however, in not bogging down in the clutch and that has kept them in the running.

Lou Nova belted Maxie Baer out in the eighth round of their heavyweight bout at New York last night and earned a title shot at Joe Louis in September, which may or may not be good news for Mister Nova, depending upon how he looks at it. The breezy Baer has probably disappeared off the stage of fisticuffs as a result of the right handers he absorbed from the hard-hitting Nova last night and no one will get out the weeping towels over that. As for Nova, his iron jaw and his ability to hit hard may make him a fairly serious contender for the crown held by Joe Louis who in spite of his round of successes cannot hope to hang on to the title for ever, with Old Father Time catching up with him.

Sea Gulls Defeat Windsor Spitfires

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 5.—(CP)—Atlantic City Sea Gulls, Eastern United States Amateur League champions, won the first game of the international series for the Hamilton B. Wills trophy by defeating Windsor (Ont.) Spitfires of the Michigan-Ontario League 4-2 here last night.

The playoffs call for a best-of-three series with games scheduled here tonight and Sunday night.

The Gulls, scoring at least once in each period, took an early lead in the opening period, but two freak goals aided their cause.

Tompkins Nets Two Goals For Combines

KINGSTON, April 5.—(Special)—With less than two minutes to go and the score tied at 4-all, Owen Sound came back to win the sixth game of the O.H.A. senior finals at Kingston Friday night 5 to 4 and forced a seventh game which is scheduled for Owen Sound next week.

It was a slap-bang gruelling battle fought to the last minute and both teams gave all they had in splendid attempts to get the playoff edge. The series is a 4 out of 7 and honors have see-sawed from the start. Owen Sound won the first 8-2, lost the next 7-0, won the third 5-4, lost the fourth, 5-2, lost the fifth 10-4 and came back last night in a wild last minute rally to win the game 5-4 and force the series to the limit of seven games.

Honey Tompkins, former Peterborough player, was the spark-plug of the Kingston team again, clicking on two goals with Mel Williamson and Neilson getting assists. Before the game it was announced the players had chipped in and purchased a lovely gift for the newly-arrived son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Honey) Tompkins and today also word comes from Toronto that Jim Sutherland, prominent sports figure had sent along a heater for the infant.

Hershey Bears Are Underdogs

HERSHEY, Pa., April 5 —(AP)—Hershey Bears, unbeaten by Cleveland Barons on home ice this season, face the Ohio team tonight decided underdogs in the third game of the American League hockey championship playoffs.

Beaten twice in a row on Cleveland ice, the Bears, however, may surprise, although the Barons are determined to take the crown with their third straight victory.

If the Bears cop tonight's clash, a fourth game will be played here Tuesday, and if necessary, the fifth at Cleveland on Thursday.

Toronto Leafs Bow Before Bruins in Seventh Game

Toronto Maple Leafs bowed out of the Stanley Cup playdowns to Boston Bruins in the seventh game of the best four of seven series when the Bruins took the winning game 2-1. The Boston win gave them the opportunity of meeting Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup playoffs. The Leafs are pictured here in two of their vain efforts to sink the puck behind Goalie Brimsek.

Some Ball Camp Training Notes

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, ex.—There was little doubt in the Philadelphia Athletics camp to-day that Crash Davis would supplant Bennie McCoy at second base. McCoy, the $65,000 beauty, has his draft questionnaire and it appears the army has settled what otherwise might have been a ticklish problem.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala—Manager Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati Reds, announced to-day that nearly everybody knew—that third sacker Bill Werber would be the club's lead-off man.

ALEXANDRIA, La. — Brooklyn Dodgers' batters seem to be hitting in streaks, but the club is getting plenty of blows against minor-league pitching. Joe Medwick's string has run through 19 straight games, during which he has compiled a .440 average.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Charley Ruffing, the big New York Yankees pitcher, turned in his first seven-inning pitching job of the spring yesterday allowing six hits and three runs but he also kept the Yanks in the game with a two-run homer and single that led to another tally and they finally won in the 11th inning.

KNOXVILLE Tenn. — Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of Cleveland Indians plans to start Bob Feller, Al Milnar and Jim Bagby through the rest of the exhibition schedule so they will be ready to work the first three games of the regular season in that order. Feller is due to open

Montreal Meets Oshawa In Eastern Finals

TORONTO, April 5 (CP).—Montreal's Junior Royals will be gunning for a chance to be the first Montreal team to enter the Memorial Cup finals tonight when they meet Oshawa Generals here in the first game of a best-of-five series for the Eastern Canadian title.

To Generals, however, the sectional finals will be an old story. Holders of the cup for the last two seasons, they are slight favorites to advance again to the Dominion finals against the pick of the Western teams.

Royals, one of the strongest bids for Dominion honors to come out of Montreal for many years, present a heavy and powerful aggregation that is expected to play the same brand of fast and wide-open hockey which saw them hurdle Clearpoint Juniors and Ottawa Canadiens after winning their own Junior Amateur Hockey Association title.

Coach Lorne White, whose crew scored more than 30 goals along the playoff route, is expected to start the same band of Royals' stars that sent Canadiens to the sidelines in straight games, 6-1 and 12-2. Generals advanced to the present series after a hard-fought struggle against Toronto Marlboros that wasn't decided until the seventh game had been played in a best-of-seven series.

First three games of the series will be played in Toronto, with venue for any other contests necessary to be set later.

Stamps were $605 this week and Certificates $184 for a total of $789. Total Stamp sales for the month were $3,385. Good work!

Have you ever noticed the reduction of attendance of classes on the day before examinations? The day must be one long grind of intensified cramming for these students.

The HI-Y club of P.C.I. are sponsoring a dance to be held at the Y.M.C.A. this coming Thursday, April 10, at 9 p.m. Tickets are twenty-five cents per couple and may be procured from any HI-Y club member. This would provide an excellent means of relaxation, after the exams are over. Why not go? We'll be seeing you.

When Mr. F. G. Mann received his cheque for $150 he had to surrender it again shortly to Warren Gamble. The reason for this some of you may have already guessed. A picture appeared in this paper on Tuesday night showing Mr. Mann receiving the cheque from Warren. All well and good, you say. But did you notice the backgound? It was a neat shelf of books that bore no resemblance to any background on the stage itself. It is thus seen that the news photographer had to resort to extremes to procure his picture. To accomplish this he re-enacted the scene in the school library and went away perfectly satisfied.

Dorothy Clark, Eleanor Bigelow and Dave Graham received $3, $2 and $1 worth of War Savings Stamps respectively as prizes for the ticket-selling contest of "She Stoops to Conquer." Among them they sold a total of $35.35 worth of tickets.

Alden Gourley beseeched the pupils to collect paper during the Easter holidays, but what response he receives remains to be seen. Several more tons should be collected before the closing of school without any trouble, so why not exert yourselves a bit and bring more paper.

The basketball season for this year ended on Friday, the 28th of March. Seniors were eliminated by St. Catharines in Toronto. We can console ourselves by the fact that the seniors copped the Lakeshore championship thus making up for other losses in rugby, etc.

Congratulations to both teams and to their coaches, Mr. Bamforth and Mr. Craig.

That's all for this week!

Right In The Cup

SALT LAKE CITY, April 5 (AP).—Golfer Jim Henchey gave the ball such a healthy swat it was lost in the gathering dusk. He looked until it was too dark to see. Crossing the green on his way to the clubhouse, he discovered the pellet in the cup. "An eagle two on a 396-yard hole, and I didn't get to see it!" said he.

LOU NOVA STOPS GREAT MAXIE BAER COLD IN EIGHTH ROUND

Lou Has Chance To Meet Brown Bomber

By LEON EDEL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, April 5 (CP)—Lou Nova, a grim young man with a jaw of iron and the tenacity of a terrier, won his chance last night to meet Joe Louis for the world championship in September. In a drama-filled bout he took gruelling punishment from the ring's histrionic pugilist, Max Baer, and then stopped him in the eighth.

Maxie just wore himself out punching Nova. In a sense he kayoed himself. When he was finally sweating and puffing and waving his long arms wildly Nova stepped in for the kill. It was as simple as that.

The former world champion showed his years. By the fifth round he was winded; by the seventh he was plain tired. The last couple of rounds ended in Baer's corner with Baer just waiting for the bell to give him a breather, and virtually groping for his seat.

In his dressing-room, when it was all over, he admitted ruefully the year were catching up with him. He was pressing the ice-pack against his closed left eye and the "mouse" under his right was turning livid.

"I guess I just ain't as young as I was seven years ago," he said. And he wasn't grinning.

Fought Hard Fight

Nova fought a straight, hard fight. He wasn't having any of Baer's comedy. He just wasn't amused. Like a determined little dog that gets his teeth into something and holds on for dear life, Nova held on, skilfully, doggedly, and just as unimaginatively, until the crucial moment.

But it was Baer who gave the fight its drama, even if his clowning exasperated the fans that filled Madison Square Garden to the rafters. After starting off with his usual song and dance routine, the invariable mugging and floor work, so that the first round looked more like a session of the Russian ballet than a big league boxing match, he suddenly got down to work.

There was an electric moment in the exciting fourth round when Baer came to life and began to let Nova have it, a right off the jaw, and a left to the head, that brought Nova sagging against the ropes, and then a few seconds later a staggering right to the head.

But at the end of this round the "mouse" was forming under Maxie's left eye and the effort he had put forward had pretty well worn him out. From then on it was a toss-up as to when Nova would end it. Nova was working away with precision, timing, and all the stamina of a fighter in his prime. Only a fluke could have won the fight for Baer.

Baer had the edge on Nova in weight, 220¾ to Lou's 202¾.

Howe Is Named Wings' Captain

DETROIT, April 5 — (AP). — Syd Howe, a veteran of hockey wars, was appointed yesterday by Manager Jack Adams to captain Detroit Red Wings against Boston's Bruins in the Stanley Cup finals.

Selection of Howe, made necessary by an injury benching Captain Ebbie Goodfellow, was announced shortly before the team entrained for Boston for the opening game of the series on Sunda night.

Howe, the team's playmaker and leading scorer with 44 points in the regular campaign, is one of three players who were members of Detroit's championship teams of 1936 and 1937. The others are Goodfellow and Modere (Mud) Bruneteau.

Goodfellow accompanied the team to Boston, but Adams said he would not play either Sunday or Tuesday. Also with the team are Connie Brown and Eddie Bruneteau, reserves.

The Red Wings, who gained the finals by first eliminating the defending champion New York Rangers and then Chicago Black Hawks, enter the Cup series as the underdog.

In eight games this year between the two clubs, who never have met before in the finals, the Bruins won three and five others were tied.

Lindsay Midgets Set Back 6-4

PORT COLBORNE, April 5.—Port Colborne Lions edged Lindsay, 6-4, in the first game of the Ontario Midget semi-finals here last night, to gain a two-goal lead for the second game of the series here Saturday afternoon.

Porky Clark, in the cage for the visitors, turned in a sparkling performance and kept the score from running into double figures. Sergness 2, Gallinger 2, McAvoy 2, scored for homesters. Lindsay's marksmen were Junkin 2, Brennan and Heel.

Bruins Hopeful Cowley Be Back In Cup Finals

BOSTON, April 5—(CP).—It was only a whisper of hope last night and nobody on the club would discuss it, but Boston Bruins feel there is an outside chance that Centre Bill Cowley, the National Hockey League's point-scoring leader this season, may see action in the Stanley Cup final against Detroit Red Wings. The series opens here Sunday.

Cowley, hurt in the first game of the bitterly fought semi-final series with Toronto Maple Leafs that ended in a Boston victory here, straddled a pedalling machine Friday for a brief workout of his injured knee.

Hockey-mad Boston seethed with delight over the goal by Mel (Sudden Death) Hill in the third period that gave the National League champions a 2-1 victory over Toronto in the seventh game of the best-of-seven series.

At the same time press and public were lavish in their praise of the Leafs, ancient rivals of the Bruins, who added to their laurels by their grim fight right to the last second of the last game before conceding defeat to one of history's great teams—the Bruins, who went 23 games this season without defeat for a record they expect to last a long while.

The closeness of this series was exemplified in the scores of the last four games—all of them 2 to 1, three won by Boston and one by the Leafs, in overtime. But it was on the whole one of the cleanest of playoff series and left no grudges in its wake.

The second the final bell went, with Bruins sprawled all over the ice fending off a Leaf six-man power play, players rushed together to shake hands. Conny Smythe of Toronto met his perennial rival, Art Ross of the Bruins, at centre ice—and Dit Clapper skated off with Conny's new, expensive grey hat which the peppery Leaf manager had skimmed across the ice when defeat was certain.

Now many in Boston feel that after such a series the final with Detroit could easily turn out to be an anti-climax. But they have to be shown—and the way they flocked around the ticket sellers in the lobbies of grimy Boston Garden indicated there will be a full house when the show opens.

The teams will meet here Sunday and Tuesday, then shift to Detroit for a pair of games next Thursday and either Saturday or Sunday, which ever night the Detroit club settles on. The fifth, sixth and seventh games, if they are necessary, will be respectively, at Boston, April 15, at Detroit, April 17, and at Boston, April 20.

Jug McSpaden Leads Field

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5—(AP).—Jubilant Jug McSpaden waltzed about the lawn of the Augusta National Golf Club bubbling over with glee:

"From here on out I'm gonna be tough."

Nobody disputed him. A stinging 67 by the Winchester, Mass., golf professional was the hottest thing in yesterday's second round of the 1941 Masters' Tournament, and zoomed him into a tie for fourth, six strokes behind field-pacing Craig Wood who stood 137 at the end of 36 holes.

The imperturbable Wood, pulling himself out of occasional tight spots with superb putting and chip shots, stayed out in front at the half-way mark, but his 71 for the second round left him only three shots ahead of P.G.A. champion Byron Nelson of Toledo, who added a rain-soaked 69 to his earlier 71 for 140. Right behind was U.S. open champion Lawson Little, putting like a pendulum, who stood 71-70—141.

McCoy Gets Shot At Zivic's Title

DETROIT, April 5.—(AP)—Young Kid McCoy, handsome blond welterweight, earned a shot at Fritzie Zivics' welterweight championship last night by thumping Al Nettlow, veteran fellow-Detroiter, all over the ring for ten rounds.

Stunning a crowd of 4,709 fans at Olympia who expected to see a close fight, McCoy jumped in front on a right hand flush on Nettlow's jaw in the first round and piled up a lead with smooth boxing and sharp hitting to the finish.

By the sixth, Nettlow's left eye was closed. In the seventh he was dropped for a one-count. In their first fight last December McCoy got a booed decision, but last night he was master. McCoy weighed 146¼, Nettlow 144½.

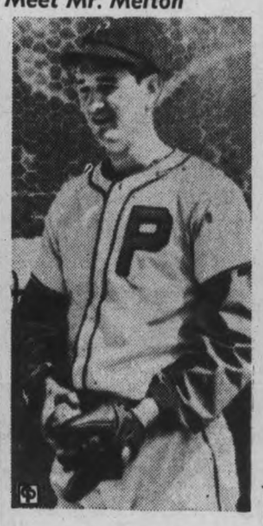
Meet Mr. Melton



FRANK MELTON

On the big frame of Frank Melton, six-foot-five, 205-pound American Association strikeout king, Manager Doc Prothro of the Phillies rests his hopes for a higher second division berth this year than the Phils have enjoyed for years.

Melton, cousin of the Giants' Cliff Melton, won 10 games for Columbus last year and struck out 142 batters, topping the loop.

The Victory Station, N.C., product was a star athlete at Wake Forest college. He hopped to Greensburg in 1936, then spent part of 1937 with Asheville and the rest with Albany, Ga. He was out of organized baseball for the next two years until signed for Columbus.

Melton, a righthander, is 23 years old.

Chief Newhall Identifies Louis Gallow

After Louis Gallow had been identified yesterday morning as one of four meen in a maroon car near the C.P.R. tool house at Bowmanville on the Saturday afternoon before the tool house and the C.D.S. store here was burglarized, Chief Constable Sam Newhall at the afternoon session of the county judge's criminal court and Gallow was one of three men he saw in front of the department store at 11:30 o'clock that same night.

Chief Newhall was asked only a few questions by W. B. Common, K.C., the special crown prosecutor.

He swore that he knew Gallow and that he had seen him in company with two other men on the west side of George street near the C.D.S. store.

"You are positive of that?"—"Yes."

Chief Newhall was cross-examined at length by Gallow who wanted to know from Chief Newhall whether his evidence had ever been impugned in another case.

"Do you remember the case of a hotel man who was charged with illegally selling liquor," he began when he was stopped by Judge McGibbon.

"I was going to show that he lied in another case and therefore could be lieing in this," said Gallow. "I hope you will give me and my witnesses the same protection tomorrow." Judge McGibbon assured him that his interests would be protected.

"When did you ever see me before?" asked Gallow.

"I had you pointed out to me in Toronto," said Chief Newhall.

"I remember you quite well. I saw you at Scholes' and at the City Hall."

Wants To Know When

"Can you tell the court just when you saw me," said Gallow. "As a matter of fact you never saw me in your life before."

"Have you ever seen him before?" asked Judge McGibbon and Chief Newhall answered in the affirmative.

"Try to associate some particular event with the time you saw him," Judge McGibbon suggested to the witness but Chief Newhall replied that he could not remember just when it was.

"Suppose I bring witnesses here to prove that you are not telling the truth which I will do tomorrow unless the witnesses fail me, too."

"You have had plenty of time to get them."—"Yes, but I have been incarcerated for two months."

"Why didn't you say at the preliminary hearing that you had seen me before?" asked Gallow.

"I was never asked," replied Chief Newhall and Gallow after turning over the pages of the record of the evidence given in the police court proceedings, finally gave up the cross-examination.

Much of the evidence during the afternoon was a repetition of the testimony given during the trial of Burns and Nicholls. Two new witnesses were Sergt. Joseph Pero and Inspector William Brumpton of the Windsor police department who were called to supply continuity evidence in the chain that finally brought the money taken from the suspects into the possession of Professor Joslyn Rogers for inspection.

Charles Byan, Windsor hotel clerk, identified a hotel register card produced as one from the Munro Hotel in Windsor. In indicated that Louis Gallow, Toronto, had registered there on the night of February 2 and had been assigned to Room 1. Ryan swore that Gallow, Tom Nicholls and Lawrence Burns had been called at 2:30 o'clock the next morning and had come down stairs together. Burns said he would go and get the car and when he came back the three men had all left.

Tells Of Finding Shoes

Detective Sergeant John Nimmo of the Toronto police department described the arrest of Gallow at 171 Mutual street and the finding of $18 on the person of the accused. Detective Nimmo also told of taking a pair of shoes from Gallow's bedroom and turning them over to Detective Oliver E. Borland, the finger print expert of the Toronto police department. Afterwards he said he also took a carton containing a number of pairs of shoes given to him as Gallow's. He said that Louis Gallow, Lawrence Burns Thomas Nicholsl and William Bradd had all been living at 171 Mutual street.

Detective Nimmo was asked many questions by Gallow, especially as to why he had only taken one pair of shoes on the first occasion. He replied that he had seen a certain impression and he was only interested in shoes that resembled that impression.

"How did you know it was my bedroom where you got the shoes?"—"You told me it was."

Detective Edmund Tong who had accompanied Detective Nimmo on his visits to the Gallow home corroborated his evidence as to what happened there, and he too was cross-examined at some length by Gallow.

Other witnesses heard during the afternoon session were Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher of the Peterborough police department.

Constable William McLachlan of the Windsor department, J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and issuer of motor vehicle licenses, and Provincial Constable Raymond Truax of Windsor.

Detective Oliver E. Borland, who said that he had been employed in identification work for 20 years with the Toronto police department and had taken courses at Washington with the F.B.I., at Ottawa and in New York City said that he was satisfied that the heel print on a ledger card that was found near the cracked safe in the C.D.S. store had been made by the right heel of a shoe obtained in the room of Louis Gallow and turned over to him for investigation.

When the court adjourned for the day the case of the crown was nearly completed with the evidence of Professor Joslyn Rogers, the principal item left over for this morning's session.

Millbrook Movie Nets Over $15

MILLBROOK, April 5 — (ENS). —The funds of the local Red Cross were enriched by a little over fifteen dollars through the motion picture "Yesterday, To-day and Tomorrow," and the demonstration of food products, which it sponsored at a public gathering in the Town Hall on Tuesday at 3 p.m., H. Chator of Toronto being in charge.

The picture was educational in character and was made in Hollywood, depicting the dismay of Napoleon when his armies were "dying like flies" because of scurvy, and the struggle through the centuries to provide fresh food, through some preservation process, for use of men on the march and the public generally. The experiments of such noted scientists as Appert and Pasteur, with the many discouragements that attended their efforts until final success was achieved, made an interesting story.

The first tin cans were made in England and were brought to America by William Underwood, who had a long struggle to establish the canning and pickling business on this side of the Atlantic. Finally, beginning with a young man in Sharpsburg, Penn., in 1869, the development of one of the world's largest pure food industries was pictured, and the history of the firm to the present day given in detail.

A sample of hot soup was passed round by Mrs. T. A. Campbell, president of the Red Cross, assisted by other officers, and as each lady left the hall she was given a coupon and a tin of another kind of soup, ensuring that in most homes of the village and district this dish would likely be served for the evening meal.

The Red Cross received ten cents for each questionnaire filled out, hence the $15.20 added to the treasury.

Scuttle Or Run Only Fate For The Italians

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 5 — (AP).— There can be but one interpretation of the attempted flight of an Italian destroyer and German merchant ship from Massaua, last Italian toehold on the Red Sea coast of East Africa. Word of the surrender of the port to the British forces or its capture may come at any moment to strike another blow at Italian morale.

The British Admiralty reported the destroyer was sunk by air bombs and the cargo ship intercepted. The attempted dash itself is more important than the unhappy fate of the ships, since it could have been ordered only in view of expected loss of the port. It was scuttle or run for any Italian craft bottled up there. That was obvious even before the two ships went to meet their fate.

From the moment of the British break-through at Keren, mountain gateway to now-taken Asmara, Eritrean capital, the end of Italy's empire-building venture there has been in sight.

Fall of Massaua probably will free additional British troops for use in Greece or elsewhere; but how many can only be conjectured. There has been no authoritative estimate of the size of the force Britain mustered in Eritrea to deal with some 40,000 Italian troops said to have composed the Eritrean garrison.

Jolt To Italians.

Massaua might have some tactical value to the British Navy. The latter's hold on all eastern approaches to the Suez Canal is already so complete, however, that adding Massaua to available Red Sea bases would not mean much.

Complete collapse of Italian power in Eritrea—and it may have come already—would be a satisfying aftermath for British morale to the smashing British naval victory in the Ionian Sea. It also would be another jolt for Mussolini's people. Rome officialdom cannot doubt that still another military disaster of far greater consequence might come to Italy if the German-Yugoslav crisis flames into war.

Such fears in Rome are indicated by admittedly unsuccessful Fascist efforts to intervene between Berlin and Belgrade in a peace-seeking role. Italy's left flank in Albania, where the Greek-Italian conflict is still stalled in the south, is an inviting target for Yugoslav offensive operations if a general war in the Balkans breaks out.

A sustained thrust there, even through the difficult mountain terrain along the Albanian-Yugoslav border, would menace communications between the Italian army facing the Greeks in the south and Durazzo, their major port for communications with Italy.

No Strategic Loss.

Against all the adverse developments Rome is able to buoy Italian spirits only by claiming Nazi-Fascist advances against British western outposts in Libya. There have been only minor skirmishes there; but twice Britain has announced withdrawals from captured villages 150 miles south and west of Bengasi. There is still little to show that the remnants of the Italian army in Libya and whatever German forces may have reached there can undertake an important offensive.

British strategy is obvious on that front. It is the same as that with which the Italian drive into Egypt was met. None of the area from which the British forces have fallen back along the Bengasi-Tripoli coastal road is of strategic value for defensive purposes. And the situation in the Balkans makes an early British resumption of a westward advance in North Africa out of the question.

Another Link In Good Neighbor Policy

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, representing the U.S., and Don Francisco Najera, SEATED, Mexican ambassador to Washington, sign the mutual defence pact whereby the U.S. gets the right to immediately use Mexican air bases should the occasion arise, and Mexico gets the same privilege in the United States. This is said to be the first step in a more comprehensive and all-embracing mutual defence pact between the United States and her neighbor to the south.

MILLBROOK

St. Andrew's WAPlan Busy Month

MILLBROOK, April 5—(ENS). — Mrs. Percy Stinson entertained the Women's Asociation of St. Andrew's Church for its April meeting at her home Centre Street, on Wednesday afternoon, the vice-president, who was also the hostess, taking charge for the opening worship period. The devotional theme was "Faith in the Holy Trinity," the talk being given by Mrs. Edmund Ball, Mrs. F. J. Smith closing with an Easter prayer.

The president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, took the chair for the business period, the treasurer Mrs. J. McKnight, reporting $8.50 as receipts from the crokinole party held on Friday evening, with $7.65 cleared; $11.50 from the pot-luck dinner at Miss Luella Kennedy's home, and $16.00 from the one for which Mrs. McKnight had given her home.

Holiday cards were given out, and under the head of new business, arrangements were completed for the afternoon tea and home baking sale to be held in the waiting-room on Saturday, April 26.

The annual hostess tea will be on Wednesday, May 28, and in connection with the national campaign for the purchase of War Savings Certificates, so far as the W.A.'s help for the local church's apportionment is concerned, a number of groups will be each made responsible for raising money for one five-dollar certificate. The four dollars necessary for this purchase will be raised by means of teas, or other entertainment in the homes, or by voluntary contributions for this purpose, the society aiming at approximately thirty dollars as its share of the total.

Lilies will be provided for the church Easter SCunday. Mrs. Sisco will be hostess for the May meeting, and new dishes for the church kitchen will be bought by the executive.

The hostess served candy during the pleasant social hour at the close.

Two Euchre Parties.

Mrs. Hugh Blair entertained at the home of Mrs. William Blair for a progressive euchre on Wednesday evening, the proceeds to go in aid of the newly-organized L.O.B.A., the Daughters of Cavan. Six tables were in use for play, and prize-winners were, Mrs. Robert Carr and William Trick for high score, William Wilkinson the consolation, and Miss Marian Hanna the lucky chair award.

Lunch was served following the games and a social hour enjoyed.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Olan was the scene of a similar gathering in aid of the Carmel Lodge, the previous evening, when five tables were in use for play, and prize-winners included Mrs. Harold Hawken and Allen Earl. The service of lunch brought the gathering to a close.

Well-Timed Smash

CHESTER, Pa., April 5 — (AP). —A thief who smashed a jewellery shop window can honestly say he has plenty of time on his hands. Timing his action to coincide with the rumble of a train passing over a nearby trestle, he fled with 20 watches valued at $500.

Which Shall It Be—
High Shoe or Oxford?
Frequently parents ask us when their children should change from high shoes to oxfords. We tell those parents exactly what we're about to tell you. We quote a famous foot specialist —"Up to the age of four, it is advisable for children to wear a high shoe, regardless of whether they have normal feet or weak feet. Up to this age a child's foot and leg muscles require the support and balance of a high shoe!" Let us also advise proper infant shoes!

RADIO CHART

FOR WEEK ENDING APRIL 12

Special Events

At 10:30 a.m. Sunday over CBL—Talk by John Hoare from Montreal, "In France Today" will be given and at 1:30 p.m., dramatization of the story of the trial, crucifixion and resurrection will be heard during the broadcast. "It Came to Passover" CBY. At 2:30 p.m., CBL, child refugees of Britain in the United States and Canada and their parents in beseiged England will again be heard in another gripping trans-Atlantic conversation. At 8 p.m. CBL, Jack Benny will entertain and try to keep pace with three of the "Quiz Kids" who are in Hollywood to make movie shorts.

During Holy Week, April 6-12 CBC will adapt its schedule to a number of religious broadcasts and programmes of church music. Each day at 5:45 "Holy Week Meditations" will be heard. These will take the form of a short, non-denominational service with music, prayers and a brief address.

Wednesday, April 9 at 9 p.m. over CFRB the "Big Town" episode will be "Eyes of the Blind" by the renowned author Adelia Rogers St. John. The 30,000 Czecho-Slovakian Canadians will be represented in the next "Canadians All" broadcast scheduled 10:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 9.

The CBC String Orchestra at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 10, CBL will devote its programme to the performance of religious music by Bach.

The climax of the week's musical productions will be Hadyn's "The Seven Words of the Savious from the Cross" which will be presented from Montreal over CBO, CBY at 9 p.m. on Good Friday, coming on CBL at 9:30.

An Interesting Interview

Bob Bowman of the CBC staff interviews a Canadian soldier and a Canadian nursing sister in a hospital in England.

Fifth £500 Cabled To War Victims

When Germans Moved Into Jersey Duncan Macinnes Moved Out

DUNCAN MACINNES

One little boy in Grove School, Lakefield, shares a distinction with his brother and baby sister which is without equal in Canada. He is Duncan MacInnes, six-year-old war guest who vacated his island home on the last British boat to leave. He is from Jersey, far out in the English Channel, and when the Germans moved in last summer, Duncan and his family moved out.

With only a scant half hour to pack and be away, the lad's mother, Mrs. D. W. MacInnes, collected her belongings and her three children, all under six years of age, and was aboard the last boat before its departure. Duncan is of a fighting family, and one look at his sturdy little frame convinces everyone that with spirits like this there most emphatically will always be an England. His father is an officer in the victorious British army in Africa, but his mother and his little brother and sister, Peter and Evelyn, are now safe in a picturesque little Canadian village, Lakefield.

He is one of a long line of Duncans MacInnes; his father's name is Duncan, and his grandfather was Duncan,..and holder of the Victoria Cross. Ever since his arrival at the school last September, "Dunk," as he is affectionately known, has been sort of a king pin, for he is one of those rare entertainers, among children, who are innocent of guile. They inspire laughs in a thoroughly wholesome manner, and Duncan would seem to reign supreme. Last week when a conjurer visited the school to put on a show, Dunk was his stooge and from all reports he stole the show. He isn't an exhibitionist, but his talents are pronounced.

When the curious ask him, and they persist, how he and his mother and brother and sister escaped the Germans, he tells with a very boyish and innocent face of a swim he had for a long distance, with his brother on his back while his mother looked after the baby of the family, his sister.

Dairy products hint of home to Dunk, and recently at a banquet at the school he passed a remark. He said, "One of the things I like most about Canada and the school here is the milk, it's Jersey milk." That sounded like home sweet home to a little fair-haired refugee boy whose daddy is thousands of miles away, on the "Dark Continent," helping make the world safe for the development of Duncan and millions of other little boys like him.

Volunteer Force Being Organized

Organization of a Peterborough company of the Ontario Voluntary Constabulary Association in the local agricultural office Thursday night was productive of a number of applications being turned in by prospective members.

The next meeting will be Friday, April 18 in Frank Paterson's office. Major E. R. Willing of Belleville, district commander and some of his staff, came up for the Thursday night meeting, and recommended the formation of a full company of 120 men for this city with its group of essential industries and their work in the present emergency.

A company is composed of four platoons, each of 25 men. The commanding officer has the rank of Captain, and each platoon has a lieutenant and sergeant. There is also a corporal for every nine men.

The Voluntary Constabulary is a uniformed force, intended for auxiliary police work. They are a militarized unit, wearing uniforms and using the rules and orders of the militia. Of special importance is the fact that they are designated as an auxiliary of the Ontario Provincial Police. Each member automatically becomes a special constable.

At the next meeting it is expected that the commanding officer for Peterborough will be named, and by that time sufficient applications for the first platoon are likely to be on file.

Pte. J. Farthing Is Rated Strongest Man

Strong men of the city of Peterborough will have to look to their laurels judging by the display of weight lifting given at the Training Centre here this week by Pte. James Farthing of the eCntre provost staff. In connection with the display of physical training given at the Centre on Wednesday night by members of Y.M.C.A. staff under the direction of G. H. Roper and Al. Clark, Pte. Farthing lifted 190 pounds well above his head from the ground to take the prize offered for the strongest man in camp.

The feat was only one of the highlights of the entertainment offered to the troops through the cooperation of Adjutant Bamsey of the Salvation Army and the entertainment groups of the city of Peterborough. The week started off Monday with the showing of the "Sea Hawk" starring Errol Flynn. The picture was also exhibited to the officers of the Centre on Wednesday night following their weekly mess dinner. Adjutant Bamsey was given a vote of thanks by Major Johnson, mess president.

Tuesday evening was featured with a variety program staged by a group of citizens from the city and among those taking part were Art Thomas, sleight-of-hand artist; H. Lewis, ventriloquist; Mrs. Campanero, vocalist and Bernice Flynn, pianist. Wednesday evening the display of physical training by the Y.M.C.A. members was thoroughly enjoyed. One of the highlights of the week's entertainment was given on Thursday night when the dramatic club of Trinity United church presented the comedy-drama, "Here Comes Patricia". The play was excellently staged and the troops were sincere in their appreciation of the presentation.

Friday evenings Mrs. Evangeline Foster, Peterborough, was the accompanist for the weekly amateur night and heard along with her were a number of other artists from the city in vocal and instrumental numbers.

On Monday evening next the week's entertainment at "Sally Ann" will start off with the showing of the famous movie production, Union Pacific". Due to the lentgh of the feature picture, Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding has announced that the usual "lights out" will be set for 11 o'clock instead of 10:15. On Tuesday evening the entertainment group of the Westclox plant will entertain the troops and on Wednesday evening Miss Littlefield and a group from the Y.M.C.A. will give a display of physical training.

J. J. KEIR, Lt.

Former Taxi-Driver

Gunner Thomas A. Drummond, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond, Water street, and is serving in the Active Forces with the 4th Anti-Tank unit now at Debert, Nova Scotia. He is a qualified motor mechanic and at present at home on leave.

Kiwanis Club Honors Wm. C. English

W. C. English, last year's Peterborough Kiwanis president, was presented with a gold pin emblematic of his office of past president in the international club at the weekly meeting held in the Empress Hotel on Friday. Carl S. Browne made the presentation on behalf of the members and president John Troke.

Seven little girls of Central school, about ten years of age, sang four selections for the club while their director, Don Munro, accompanied them at the piano. They are a group which will represent their school at the concert to be given in Toronto Easter week. The names of the girls were: Kathleen Crocker, Mary Lou Leeming, Mary Isles, Marjorie Pearse, Marguerite Fredenburg, June Cook and Marion Honour. Their selections, "There's an Empire Back of the Union Jack," "For All Thy Care, We Bless Thee," "Hymn" and "Rule Britannia."

The applause of the club was tremendous while the gayly dressed little girls filed out of the dining room, only to be recalled by President John Troke who complimented them and their director on the excellence of the renditions.

Vern Campbell and G. A. Gillespie spoke briefly to the members on the international plowing match to be held in Peterborough this summer and told of the benefits such matches are to the farmers in the district. Both men proclaimed the fact that new ways and machinery are demonstrated and the better ones adopted as a result.

Each week the members of the club contribute to a 'brown collection.' Their loose pennies are collected toward the buying of war savings stamps, but it has been suggested by some of the members that the money should be disposed toward the lightening of the suffering of the British war victimts, and the matter is to be discussed at the forthcoming directors' meeting. The total amount collected now stands at slightly more than $80.00 and the members feel that this would furnish a solid contribution.

Obituaries

JOHANNA O'BRIEN

Johanna O'Brien of 342 Downie street passed away at her home on Saturday after an illness of six months. She was the daughter of the late Michael and Johanna O'Brien and had lived in Peterborough all of her life.

A member of St. Peter's Cathedral parish, she was an ardent Christian, and had been a friend to many when they were in need. She is survived by one nephew, James, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be on Monday, from the residence, 342 Downie street at 8.45 a.m. to St. Peter's Cathedral, and interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

JABEZ REED.

LAKEFIELD, April 5—(ENS). — The funeral of the late Jabez Reed was held Friday afternoon from his late residence in the village and thence to the Lakefield United Church, with Rev. G. F. Kelly officiating.

Mr. Reed held the distinction of having served on the trustee board of the church for sixty-four years. He was one of the men who was instrumental in the erection of the Young' Point former Methodist Church, on which board he commenced his services. On coming to live in Lakefield, he was transferred to the Methodist board here and later assisted in the erection of the new Methodist Church now known as the Lakefield United Church.

As long as health permitted he was a regular attendant at both morning and evening services.

The late Mr. Reed was born in England nearly ninety-one years ago and came to this continent when a boy of four years, with his parents and settling in New York. A few years later the family moved to Peterborough district, where they lived in Ennismore and later in Smith township.

Fifty-seven years ago he was married to Frances Darling, and commenced farming in Smith, later coming to the village thirty-four years ago to reside in the house in which he still lived at the time of his death.

He took great pride in his garden, and was justly proud of the fact that no weeds were to be found there.

Keenly interested in the welfare of the village, he will be greatly missed, the large number who attended his funeral and the many floral offerings testifying in what high esteem he was held.

Surviving besides his wife is one sister, Mrs. David Drain of Dummer.

Pallbearers were: Theo. Crawford, W. W. Leonard, George Mullen, E. J. Millage, G. E. Spence and Sherman Northey.

Interment was in Lakefield Cemetery.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Speers, and Mrs. Luella McManus, all of Toronto; Miss Ethel and Percy Wilson of Norwood.

Recruiting Good For AA Unit

The call for men for the light anti-aircraft unit has been given a satisfactory reception locally, and the recruiting officer, Lieut. H. R. Frink, reports many men are anxious to join.

A man entering a unit such as this is at an advantage because of his chance.. for stripes. The batter- have nearly 60 N.C.O.'s, which is an unusually large number for units of this size. The new Swedish Borors gun is the weapon, and it shoots 120 rounds per minute. Dive bombers are a specialty with it, and it is extremely effective against low flying planes.

Qualifications necessary are education up to and including the entrance; a category A, and the candidate must be between the ages of 19 and 45.

Nicholls Hospital's Accounts With City Lowest On The List

Part of the information supporting the request of the Nicholls Hospital Board to the finance committee of the Council Thursday, was a comparison of incomes of various hospitals as quoted by E. B. Fowler, secretary of the board.

The figures were quoted from the Provincial Government's report for the year ending March 31, 1939. None of the amounts mention by Mr. Fowler included the ordinary and principal revenue received by the hospitals from patients. He was pointing the amount received from municipalities for the treatment of patients, also income from endowments, income from donations and grants from municipalities.

Nicholls Hospital received from the city $7,765.50 in the year 1939 for the care of patients. That sum included $2,400 as requested by the board and the rest was received for the care of indigent patients. St. Joseph's Hospital that year received $7,820.45 entirely for the care of indigent patients.

This part of Mr. Fowler's statement follows:—

Government Blue Book, March 31, 1939:

MAIN STREET TOPICS

DEPARTMENT OUT

The Peterborough Fire Department was busy on Friday afternoon with a grass fire near the Vermont Marble Company on Maria street, a chimney fire at 533 Elm street and a false alarm at box 15, George and Perry streets.

BOTH COLORS

The traffic lights at the Hunter and George intersection played tricks on Peterborogh motorists on Friday night at about 9.45 p.m. The signals got twisted in some manner and both the red and green signals were on both ways.

TRAPPING OPENS

It was announced today that the open season for muskrat trapping north of No. 7 highway opens on April 7. The season opened south of No. 7 on March 29, but as yet there has been no trapping in either district because of ice in the streams.

FOR WAR WORKERS

It is announced today that following the requests from many men who have to work on Sunday, that mass will be celebrated at six o'clock on Sunday morning at the Sacred Heart Church. This action will permit the men engaged in war work, and on the C.G.E. construction jobs to attend mass and still be on time for work at seven in the morning.

COMMITTEE MEETS

A meeting of the Peterborough County Centennial committee was held in the county buildings on Thursday and considerable progress is being made in compiling data for the Centennial Book to be printed. The committee in headed by Dep. Reeve Alex Archibald and the members are Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Miss Jennie Batten, E. A. Peck, G.C., Reeve E. W Seeney, Reeve Allan B Mann, and W. A. Anderson.

FESTIVAL ABANDONED

A local proposal to hold a community music festival on April 23. St. George's Day, has been abandoned because it was found that quite a number of other concerts have been arranged already for that date. It was intended to invite Princess Juliana of Holland to visit Peterborough on that occasion. All that could be determined by a planning committee was that early consideration would be given for a festival next year.

DIRECTING PLAY

Rev. C. J. Carroll of Norwood is directing a Passion Play "They Will Be Done" in the auditorium of Mount St. Joseph Monday and Tuesday nights.

PLANNING CONCERT

Employees of the Canadian Electric Company are planning to bring a concert party from Toronto for an engagement here April 17, the entire proceeds to be contributed to the British War Victims' Fund. Details will be announced later.

APPROACH TO BRIDGE

Alderman Dutton reported the other night that the footbridge at London street is now resting on its permanent concrete piers, it is being painted, lighting has been talked over with R. L. Dobbin, and work on the east approach is under way. He also said that the builder was lucky in the fact that he completed the main structure one day before the ice broke up.

Early Planting Morning Glories

A bowl of Heavenly Blue morning glories on the breakfast table! Isn't that delicate beauty to conjure up as planting time approaches, something to begin the day on a note of domestic charm and a feeling that all's well with the world? And for variety you can have the crimson Scarlett O'Hara.

It demands of you only the purchase of seed and some adequate cultivation of the ground, and both varieties will bloom for you until the frost comes. But—the time to sow for those breakfast table colors is almost here. Then there will be many a morning when these members of the convolvulus family will be open on the vines when you go out to greet the day, if you can find time for that unhurried orienting to the day and its work.

The Heavenly Blue bids fair to be the last morning-glory word for all time. It may be "improved" further in size of blossom and earlier burgeoning of beauty; but it is scarcely conceivable that the present surpassing color can ever be bettered. And it is such a serviceable vine, with so many sides to its usefulness.

Nor does the Heavenly Blue present any particular cultural difficulties, all it asks is early enough planting to permit it to do its level best before Jack Frost comes along and no more than ordinary care. The seeds, soaked in tepid water overnight, are sown around the first of May in a cold frame or a sunny house window, as the seedlings are set in the open ground at the end of the month. Morning-glory seedlings will bear transplanting, after the appearance of the true leaves, notwithstanding what some writers have said to the contrary.

War—25 Years Ago

Easter Prayers Are Needed Speaker Claims

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5. — (ENS). — "Women and their Devotion to Duty" was the subject of a talk given as a feature of the regular meeting of St. Andrew's W. M.S. which met on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. A. G. Thompson was the speaker and she capably illustrated her talk by embracing the Easter story of the resurrection. Pointing out that Easter was the symbol of the resurrection, she said that according to the Bible story it was the women who were last at the cross and first at the tomb of Christ. "It was to these women that the risen Lord gave the command to quickly go and tell His disciples what they had seen and heard. "Millions," said Mrs. Thompson, "are still waiting to hear this message and we must not fail. Our faith must rise to this challenge even though we seem to be holding a thin line with the odds agaainst us." She pointed out that if the Apostles had failed at Jerusalem "we would still be living in darkness." "The Easter of 1941 demands prayer, consecration, perhaps more than at any time since the first Easter."

Mrs. Ray McCulloch presided for the meeting and for the opening devotional exercises she was assisted by Mrs. J. Storie and Mrs. J. Johnson. Mrs. Storie also gave a reading "The Miracle of Easter" and Mrs. Frederick and Mrs. Wynn gave a vocal duet "Face to Face." Mrs. McCulloch contributed a poem by Stanley Jones entitled "Christ at Life's Road."

Pupils Collect Paper To Aid War Fund By $40

On behalf of generous people of Peterborough and its neighboring district. Fred G. Mann cabled the fifth contribution of £500 to England today, in the name of Mayor Hamilton.

The message was as follows: G. Wilkinson, Lord Mayor, London, England:—Citizens of Peterborough and District cable you fifth donation, £500, today for British Air Raid Victims. More to follow. James Hamilton, Mayor."

The total amount of the Peterborough Fund today was $11,432.11. Students of King George School set a fine example Friday with a gift of $40. They collected paper for five weeks, sold it, and their proceeds of $40 sends this school out in front in giving for war victims.

On Thursday night, the City Five Pin Bowling League, through the courtesy of the Duffus Recreation Bowling Alleys, held an evening of bowling, with the proceeds coming to the Fund, and today we report a contribution of $22.50 as a result of their joint efforts. To-day we report the 15th donation coming from the Brinton - Peterborough Carpet Employees' Club, this time for $13, which gives them a total of $197 contributed to date to the Fund. This consistent effort on their part, is worthy of special mention, especially when one considers it is entirely voluntary, and not subject to any pay deductions.

2 Fliers Killed

MACLEOD, Alta., April 3 (CP)—Two instructors were killed today in the first fatal accident at No. 7 Service Flying Training School at this Southwestern Alberta town 30 miles west of Lethbridge. Their plane crashed four miles east of Macleod.

The victims were Pilot Officer Robert Condie, 24, of Crystal City, Man., and Sergt. Pilot James White McIntosh, 25, of Winnipeg.

Two Additional Officers Taken On Strength Of Military Training Camp In Morrow Park

Two additional officers have been taken on strength of the Training Centre it was announced today by Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding.

Lieut. Charles Venning, of the Midland Regiment, reported for duty this week and at present is enjoying leave of absence. Lieut. Venning was taken on strength of the Peterborough Centre in September last at Petawawa, and while engaged in physical training, sustained a serious injury to his back necessitating his removal to military hospital there. Later Mr. Venning was transfererd to the Rideau Military hospital at Ottawa and his recovery has been slow, being discharged from the latter hospital this week.

Lieut. Venning is a veteran of the Great War and served with the 15th Battallon of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was taken prisoner in June, 1916, and for a period of over 16 months was in a German prison camp. While at Petawawa he was one of the most popular officers on the strength of the Peterborough Centre and he was most enthusiastically received by the officers of the Centre when he reported for duty here this week.

The second newcomer to the Centre is 2nd Lieut. R. Dixon who also reported for duty this week. Lieut. Dixon is from the Prince of Wales Rangers and on reporting for duty Thursday he was welcomed to the officers mess by Lt.-Col. Keeler and also by Major L. Johnson, mess president.

Tells Of 10 Hours Spent In Life Boat

Experiences of a return voyage from New Zealand in which their ship was torpedoed at three o'clock in the morning, and of a rescue following ten hours in a lifeboat, were described by Mrs. J. G. Inkster, wife of Dr. J. G. Inkster, formerly of Knox Presbyterian Church, Toronto, when she spoke Friday afternoon at the Easter Thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Church. She was introduced by Mrs. T. J. Carley.

Mrs. Inkster told of the work members of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Union of New Zealand are doing, which is similar to the W.M.S. in Canada. Mrs. H. Morgan voiced the appreciation of the Society to Mrs. Inkster for her splendid message.

Mrs. E. H. Howson presided for the meeting, at which members of the Ladies' Aid Society were present. Mrs. J. Dutton, president of the latter group, gave the Scripture reading and led in prayer. Mrs. J. Goldie gave an enjoyable solo, with Miss M. Rannie at the piano. An appeal from the I.O.D.E. asking for new clothing for British war victims was read by Mrs. Howson. The Thankoffering was presented and dedicated in prayer by Mrs. A. T. Barr. A social half hour was held following the benediction pronounced by Rev. Dr. Barr.

Sailors In Need Of Sweaters, Socks And Mitts

A letter of gratitude from Constance M. Grant, secretary to the Kingston Division, Women's Auxiliary, R.C.N.V.R., in which was enclosed a complimentary membership card, has been received by Mrs. E. Wand, president of the Local Council of Women, acknowledging knitting sent for the sailors who guard Canadian and British ports.

Miss Grant's letter tells of the constant stream of sailors leaving for active service, who are provided with a ditty bag containing a heavy sweater; helmet, scarf, socks, mitts, bible, writing pad, tooth-brush, tooth-paste, shaving cream, chocolates or gum, playing cards, soap in case, paper-back novel and cigarettes. The Kingston branch has given out about 250 of these bags, as well as 230 Christmas bags.

"As we are not a large organization, and have only been established a year," she writes, "we feel we have done quite well. We have a number of sailors from Peterborough and district, so we would be most grateful for your assistance. We will be fully equipped with scarves, but will appreciate turtle-neck sweaters, helmets, seamen's socks and mitts."

Parcels for these sailors, who are undoubtedly the backbone of the British Empire, are to be sent to Miss Dorothy Rigney, 169, King street, East, Kingston, Ont.

One of the letters received by the Kingston branch from a grateful sailor speaks for itself: "I received the bag you so thoughtfully sent to me at Christmas. I was in England over the holidays and did not get it until I arrived in Halifax. I was unlucky enough in that I was unable to get any mail whatever after I left for England, so after a matter of about three months I had quite a lot when I received it this morning. After a lapse of that time, with no word from anyone, it warms a fellow's heart to know that he is not forgotten while away, and it is all truly appreciated very much. All the articles in the parcel were something I happened to be in need of, as one often forgets to stock up before he leaves port, and is right out by the time he gets back."

"To each and every lady who was so kind to us in helping toward making things easier and more cheerful, I send my thanks."

(Signed) William Nolan, A.B.

Range Pals To Have "Suggestion Box"

The weekly meeting of the Range Pals was held at the home of the Misses Reta, Edna and Shirley Butler on Friday night, with a record attendance. The president, Miss Daisy Bell, presided at a short business meeting, at which it was decided to have another "Suggestion Box" to obtain ideas for a program for the coming year. The members were reminded that they are still to save their tin-foil for the Red Cross.

A game of bingo was the feature of the evening, and prizes were won by Miss Blanche Quinn and Mr. William Price. This coming week being Holy Week, there will be no meeting but the Misses Audrey and Norma Timlin will be hostesses at the next meeting to be held on April 18.

MATERIAL INTEREST

By ALICE ALDEN

WHEN a gown is fashioned of an interesting or exquisite fabric, beautifully cut and detailed, it needs but little in the way of embellishment or trimming. As an example of this fashion fact, we present the delightful dinner dress shown here. It is fashioned of a new fabric in Celanese rayon and silk, a fabric that is indicative of the increased activity and interest in domestic fabrics. The material has a pronounced check, somewhat reminiscent of sports weaves, and is very supple. The color is a soft sage green with a twisted girdle in two-tone orange and apricot taffeta. The skirt is beautifully draped and is slit to the knee in front. A low neckline makes an effective frame for costume jewelry.

Combination Dinner Set

By ALICE ALDEN

BLUE and white is a smart color combination for a dinner dress. It is especially appropriate for Spring and is the choice of many a well-dressed woman. Ruth Hussey, charming movie actress, is one who favors this color scheme for important evenings. Here she poses in her new Spring dinner suit. The dark blue crepe skirt is topped by a white blouse in crepe de chine, a fabric that is very much in favor. A semi military jacket in white with matching blue lapels gives the outfit a new look. The jacket would also make a lovely companion for a white, blue or red dress.

FASHIONS

You can't beat this trim shirtwaist dress for all-'round usefulness. Its tailored lines are as becoming as they are smart, and the button-front is an especially practical feature. The skirt is pleated to give plenty of room for action and the shoulder yokes make the freedom, too. Choose a sturdy washable fabric, for this dress will lead a busy life. Colorful checks are both gay and appropriate.

Style No. 3442 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Fine Musical Festival Is Presented

The excellent musical name the Temple Band and Songsters have won for themselves was maintained Friday evening during a fine Musical Festival presented in Park Street Church Friday evening under the auspices of the choir.

The program was in two parts, opening with the band portion. Feature numbers were the solo selections, "Schubert's Serenade" (trombone), skilfully presented by Mr. A. Jones, and "Jesus is Strong to Deliver" (euphonium) which Mr. A. Mills played admirably. Band numbers included the invocation, "A Prayer"; the march, "Oh, Sing Unto the Lord" (Coles); meditation, "I Need Thee Every Hour" (Coles); Beethoven's "Minuet," "Sunshine," by Gallidge, and the hymn "Last Hope."

The P.T. Songster were heard in a vocal march, "A Soldier's Song"; Songster Doreen Braund presented a monologue, "Soliloquy of An Old Piano; Songster Mrs. M. Braund gave the soprano solo, "Beside Still Waters" and "Florentina Caprice" was played as a piano trio by Mrs. Richardson, A. Thomas, D. French. Other P.T. Songster selections were "O Give Thanks" and "Lead Us, O Father," the latter to Fritz Kreisler's melody, "The Old Refrain."

Adjutant Norman Buckley was chairman for the program, which was delightfully varied and well received.

Branch Notes

ST. GEORGE'S BRANCH

The meeting was opened by a hymn and prayers with the president, B. Curtis, in the chair. It was decided to have a nominating committee this year to present a slate of officers to the members for election. The committee is as follows: K. Gibson, convener, Marg. Adkinson, Marg. Pearson, Ivan Pearson.

Ivan Pearson was named A.Y.P.A. monthly convener.

On Saturday evening at 7.15 the branch will meet for an evening of bowling, the losing teams to be responsible for a social evening at a later date.

Next week being Holy Week we will have a worship night with service in the church at 8 o'clock and slides and a talk given in the basement at 8.30. Members please be on time.

Midland Chapter Meets in Norwood

NORWOOD, April 5—(ENS)—The 1st Midland Regiment Chapter Junior I.O.D.E. Norwood held its first regular meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Doris Johnson, with a very good attendance.

The Regent, Miss Helen Watson, was in the chair, and the meeting opened with the prayer of the Order repeated in unison.

It was voted to send a letter of thanks to Mrs. W. B. Tucker, Regent of the Senior Chapter for her co-operation in connection with the organizing of the Junior Chapter.

Plans were made for the making of a layette, and also felt slippers for British War victims. The Chapter also decide dto "adopt" a Northern School, and will send clothing and food to same.

Misses Eileen Giffen and Margaret Steele were appointed as program committee. Meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. F. Brook Tells How "Make Literature Live"

By unlocking a "magic chest" stored with literary gems that have been lying dormant, Mrs. F. Adrian Brook took an absorbed audience through a land of literature Friday evening that gave them an idea of art from thousands of years B.C. to the present day, ending strikingly on a comparison between the present Queen of England and the Elizabeth of Spanish Armada days that showed how magnificently the courage and mighty spirit of Britain has come down through the ages.

Mrs. C. S. Thompson, president of the Women's Art Association, introduced Mrs. Brook, whose talk last year on "Poetry and its Influence on Everyday Life" was responsible for the enthusiastic plea that she return for this season's closing program. Verse and choral speaking is but one of the many literary branches in which Mrs. Brook is actively interested, and she has just completed a course along this line for teachers and principal of the Regal Road Public School in Toronto. Because she "does not knit," Mrs. Brook is presenting, as her "bit of war work," a program at the Y.W.C.A. this afternoon under the auspices of the Art Association, with proceeds to go to the British War Victims' Fund.

"If you would think for a moment of all the books that have been written in the world, and try to imagine the space it would take to hold them, you will have a faint idea of the enormous literary heritage that is ours," Mrs. Brooks said in introducing her subject. "But even before there were any books, before even papyrus, stone and clay slabs were utilized, there was literature. Men have always delighted in the telling of notes, many of which were memorized and handed on from one generation to another."

The reading of old poems is to Mrs. Brook like creeping to the attic and having our hopes awakened and memories stirred by examining old heirlooms and intimate treasures," and she defined words as "lifeless as the unplayed notes of music until they are interpreted."

Gleaned from ancient Persian lore was advice for the house-cleaning season, "If you have moth trouble, place a piece of a dragon skin over the eggs," and for the family next door, "If thy neighbor has an evil eye, give him the right eye of a wolf to keep as a charm." Quoted also was a lovely little fragment of philosophy in which the character of the church is represented as showing that "When all treasures are tried, truth is the best."

Glimpses into the diary of Samuel Pepys was a fascinating experience with Mrs. Brook turning the pages. The light that he throws upon his domestic affairs kept the audience chuckling. However, Pepys was also a scholarly gentleman, with a keen love of music and books, and has "chattered his way into the immortals."

Some modern poetry Mrs. Brook likened to costume jewelry, which, although brilliant and attractive, does not always stand the test of time. Included in her modern group was the speaker's own clever interpretation of a certain type of "would-be society woman."

A handy little perennial is Henry Drummond's "Nice Leetle Canadienne," read in the French-Canadian dialect which Mrs. Brook presents with such skill. A modern parable is Henry Van Dyke's Easter story in which the author has taken the experience of a handful of clay as symbolic of the development necessary before attaining maturity.

Mrs. Brook is at her best in children's verse, and delightful were her stories of the "dreadful end of one who comes, slams the doors just for fun"; "The Tonsils Coming-out Party" by Jean Graham, and "Matilda's Music Lessons," in which the old days of the high piano stool and the nervous child were amusingly recalled.

MAKE DINNER BELL MOST WELCOME SOUND IN HOUSE

Every Wife Should Be Able and Willing to Set Good Meals Before the Husband Who Furnishes Them

Dear Dorothy Dix—Is a man justified in calling his marriage a failure when his wife dislike cooking so intensely she absolutely refuses to do it? I am employing a cook at present, but am not able financially to have her salary added to our living expenses. The only other alternative would be to eat at various drug stores and restaurants, and I would not like that. My wife would not mind boarding, but that would not suit me. There are no children. Please discuss this problem. A REAL ER

ANSWER—Certainly a man is justified in regarding his marriage as a failure if his wife refuses to make him a home, for that is one of the things that every man marries for. Wedding bells are the requiem for courtship and romance, but the dinner bell is the tocsin of the soul whose music never palls upon our ears, and there would be very few marriages if men knew that they would never hear it in their own homes, or in every man's dream of love and marriage is the picture of his own house, his own table with a good dinner upon it, and a cheerful wife waiting to open the door that leads to peace and comfort after his hard day's work is over. It is for this that he gives up the freedom of his bacherlorhood and assumes the expenses of a family. I have said in this column, over and over again, that it is just as much the wife's obligation to fry the bacon as it is the husband's to bring it home, and that inasmuch as failure to support enables a wife to get a divorce from her husband, failure to be a good housekeeper should entitle the man to send his wife back to her mother.

Men Not Farsighted

Most girls are practical enough minded to find out before they marry what sort of providers the men they are considering as husbands would make. That, at least, lets them know what to expect and whether they will have to help make the dough as well as bake it, or not.

But men apparently take no such precautions. They seem to take it for granted that every girl is born knowing how to cook and keep house, and they don't even bother to ask Arabella or Jane whether she is allergic to the kitchen or not.

This is a pity and it goes a long way toward explaining why so many marriages go on the rocks, for no man can be expected to stay in love with a wife who keeps his stomach upset by her bad cooking, or who throws half his salary in the garbage can. Nothing fills us so full of love and good will and all the nobler emotions as a satisfying meal. And on the contrary, nothing rouses in us all the Old Nick and makes us want to quarrel and pick fights as to be hungry. Hence a happy marriage is bound to be based on good housekeeping.

It Brings Discontent

Certainly for a wife to force her husband to live on drug-store food would be to inflict cruelty on a dumb animal. Living in a boarding house is better, but it tends to separate a couple because they are not dependent on each other for company or comfort.

Besides, you don't like it. So my suggestion to you is to tell your wife that if she is not willing to do the cooking herself she must get a job and earn the money to pay for her substitute in the kitchen. That would be only fair.

Probably anybody she would employ would be a better cook than she would be, and also it would serve the purpose of keeping her out of mischief by having something to do outside of the home, as she will not work in it.

Tell the Truth if Love Changes

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man, engaged to a very beautiful girl who is very much in love with me. We have been engaged for two years and she has been working hard to finance her wedding and, in general, every one is happy but myself. But I find myself very much in love with another girl for whom I care much more than I do for No. 1. My trouble is I cannot bear to tell the first girl, because it would break her heart. Also, it would make a mess of everything. Yet I want to marry the other girl. What shall I do? GLEN

ANSWER—There is only one decent and honorable thing for you to do, and that is to tell the girl to whom you are engaged the truth. you owe that to her and also to the present encumbent of your fickle heart. Of course, it will take courage to do it, and it will make a lot of gossip and you will come in for plenty of criticism, but that is better than being tied for life to one woman when you love another.

Don't worry about breaking the girl's heart. It won't, and it won't bring her the unending misery that it would to find out that you had married her just because you were sorry for her. No woman is so unhappy as the unloved wife.

"Borrowing" Friends Can Be Eliminated

Dear iMss Dix—Can you tell me a tactful and diplomatic way of collecting borrowed articles, especially money? I have a lot of friends who are continually borrowing small sum of money that in the aggregate count up to a good sum, but who never think of returning any of it. Also, my books and china and silver and bric-a-brac are scattered around among my acquaintances, who have asked me to let them use it for a party or something, but who never send it home. How am I to tell them I would like to have my things without offending them? JANE

ANSWER—I don't see why you should waste any diplomacy on your deadbeat friends, for people who borrow and never return are not forgetful. They are racketeers. They save their own faces by calling their petty thieving borrowing, but they never really mean to return the article they ask you to lend them.

So why don't you just write a little note asking dear Sally to send back your spoons, or dear Jane to return the five dollars you lent her, and make no apologies for dunning them. If it makes them angry, so much the better. The fewer such friends you have the better off you will be.

Adopting Baby Serious Thing

Dear Miss Dix—We are a young couple who have been married five years, but we have no children and would like to adopt one. We would like to get a little girl about 2 years old, not particular about looks. How can we go about getting one?

SOME ONE WHO WANTS TO BE CALLED MAMA.

ANSWER—In every State there are Child Finding Societies. Apply to the one nearest you. But don't be in too big a hurry. Wait a little while longer on the stork. Give nature a chance.

See Desert Trap For Huns About Bengasi

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 5 —(AP)— Some chagrin is expressed in London over quick British evacuation of Bengasi under pressure of advancing German-Italian mechanized forces, but the defensive strategy involved is obvious. Weather and the desert terrain are British allies counted upon to stall the Axis counter-drive in North Africa just as they helped bog down Marshal Graziani's earlier and far more formidable attempt to invade Egypt.

Graziani was credited with having some 360,000 men when he started his ill-fated march to seize the Suez Canal. Most of that army wound up as British war prisoners or battle casualties.

Estimates from Cairo place the probable strength of the present Italo-German force in Libya at two mechanized divisions, perhaps 20,000 men. If that is anywhere near accurate, Cairo seems justified in its disposition to dismiss what is happening now in Libya, including evacuation of Bengasi, as a minor incident of the war. The operations there could not affect British grand strategy in the Balkan-Mediterranean war theatre seriously.

Should Suspect Trap

The evacuation of Bengazi before the Axis force had come within seventy-five miles or so of the city must create suspicion in the mind of its commander that a trap is being baited for him. Unless his force is far greater in size than Cairo seems to believe, it cannot securely hold the ground it has taken or may take. The further it advances, the greater its peril.

British forces took Bengasi from Graziani's shattered Fascist army by an encircling movement, not by a frontal attack. They rate it indefensible now, and also of no great strategic value since the nerve centre of the war in the East is shifting to the Balkans.

The idea seems to be to lure the Axis column into the high ground of the Libyan "hump" of which Bengasi is the western gateway. Occupation of Bengasi by the enemy would tend to force a serious division of his presumably limited strength. He must also hold the desert roads south of the "hump" or risk being caught, as were Graziani's men, by a British encircling movement cutting them off from the coastal highway to Tripoli.

Just how the German troops and tanks reached North Africa is a question which probably is troubling the London and Cairo High Commands much more than any real threat they constitute to British arms. Suspicion is expressed in London that the French Tunisian bridgehead across the Sicilian Straits may have been used, although the Vichy Government as well as Gen. Maxime Weygand in French Africa have denied it.

Won't Change Strategy

The Axis counter-offensive, as developed thus far, appears more than anything else to be a daring attempt to bolster Italian morale and perhaps weaken Yugoslav or other Balkan pro-British tendencies. It is utterly improbable that it will alter British grand strategy of sending all possible aid to threatened Greece or Yugoslavia, even if all of Eastern Libya also must be abandoned or even another British retreat into Egypt is forced.

Cairo reports intensified Royal Air Force harassment of the German-Italian column and its communications. To the extent that the Axis counter-thrust compels retention in North Africa of British air forces, which could otherwise be spared for use in a Balkan war, it has already had some effect on the larger and more important war developments.

That is already being off-set by clear evidence in East Africa, in Eritrea and in Ethiopia, that Italian resistance generally is verging on collapse. If and when it comes, as seemingly it soon must, British forces there will be released for use in the Balkans or to reinforce the army of the Nile in North Africa.

Slugged, Ditched?

BRAMPTON, Ont., April 5—(CP). — An unidentified man about 25 years of age was found lying unconscious in a ditch near here today with a deep gash in his forehead, apparently inflicted by a blunt instrument.

HEALTH PROBLEMS

By DR. L. A. CLARKE
Peterboro M.O.H.

In the past few years the governments of both Canada and the United States have found it necessary to step into the advertising picture and curtail some of the extravagant claims made for various foods, cosmetics, drugs and various allegedly health giving mechanisms, such as violet rays, etc. Most newspaper readers will have noticed the distinct change in the tone of advertising of some products. There was, for instance, one well advertised food which boldly claimed in its advertising to be alkalizing in the system. Actual chemical analysis of the product has shown the reverse to be true and while this particular food is still on the market, its advertising has been drastically revised. The public should know that all food stuffs on the market possess certain food value and the standard is according to that set up by the Dominion Government and maintained as such by inspection and analysis. Standards are fixed for a great number of food stuffs and these are being improved from time to time as knowledge increases. At Ottawa the Food and Drugs Branch of Federal Department of Health has for its object the setting up of standards of quality for all food stuffs and drugs in Canada. Its chief object is to serve as a guide for industries in the preparation of foods and drugs for the market. After the Proprietary or Patent Medicine Branch was taken over by the Federal Department a special review was made of registered preparations. It will give the public some idea of the extent to which it was being victimized by fraudulent claims to know that as a result of this review the number on the market was reduced to 1-10 of the previous number. Today a fairly complete explanation is required as to the nature of the contents of the preparation and a fairly complete explanation of the components on the label and wrappers insisted upon.

Preparations for certain diseases are not permitted to be registered, such as cures for goitre, tuberculosis, cancer and some others. The result of incessant checking up of patent medicines is that every patent medicine now on the market is harmless and has at least some medicinal value. In spite of the efforts being made to protect the public, there is still a considerable quantity of advertising that comes dangerously close to the line of untruth. In the field of food advertising, too many folks are twisting and turning health measures recommended by scientists and physicians into health fads. The use of almost any food discovery, no matter how meretritious, may be over done.

The reducing fad which was extremely popular a few years ago and which today has an occasional new adherent, was followed promptly by an increase in the incidence of tuberculosis among its followers. Dieting should be done only under the supervision of a competent physician. Certain foods are needed for the general building and repairing of the parts of the body that constant activity tears down. Too strenuous dieting results in lowered resistance and diminution of the zest for living.

Sun bathing and various light rays have fallen into a group of health fads but we will have more to say about these a little later in the season, or the present it is sufficient to say that sun baths, like other helpful things, and this includes ultra-violet light treatments, should be taken in moderation.

Perhaps one of the most serious results of drug advertising is that it leads to self-diagnosis. Self-diagnosis has two main defects: first, the diagnosis is wrong and, second, the medicine taken has little or no virtue as far as that particular ailment is concerned. On many patent preparations the symptoms listed as belonging to certain diseases are very vague and are those that are common to many ailments and are such that they suggest certain conditions that the reader can readily imagine are his. Another significant feature of this type of advertising is the amount of medication necessary or recommended to give it a thorough trial. One of them recommends a minimum of six bottles at $1.25 a bottle! How many patients would be willing to return to their doctor for any such gouge as this for the comparatively minor ailment for which this particular medicine is advertised?

Cough remedies, of which there are many, may lead to dangerous delay in the making of a diagnosis in such diseases as measles, whooping cough and tuberculosis. As a result of the use of patent remedies and self-diagnosis, too many cases of these diseases remain without proper treatment and many other people become infected who would not have been had an accurate diagnosis been made.

This is an appeal to ordinary common sense. In spite of the curb placed by authority upon advertising, a good deal of it is still exaggerated. Remember that fads and fancies come and go and that there is always a group of manufacturers willing and eager to exploit their new discovery to the limit of its possibilities before the brakes can be applied. If you will take a pencil and paper you will find that the longest way around by the doctor's office is the shortest way to the desired end.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Beatrice files an application for a job, finds she is angered by the attitude of the personnel director. Her courage in talking up to the director lands the place. At lunchtime she calls Mr. Weeming, tells him she is going to South America—without Clarence. He is surprised, secretly pleased. And Bee Davis, newest member of Huntington's staff, comes from the phone booth.

BEE SIGHTS A GOAL

CHAPTER X

Budget fashions, in the basement, consisted of a huge amount of floor space bounded by built-in cases filled with dresses of every size and color imaginable.

In the center of the department, four iron racks of "mark-downs" proved an irresistible attraction which lured even the most casual of passing customers from the nearby children's department. Housewares, with pots, pans, electric appliances, were on the other side of Budget Fashions.

Miss Bee Davis, who had been working in Budget for a whole week now, supposed that the housewives who purchased double boilers and little boys' pants were the logical customers for Budget dresses, and probably that why why they had put it so conveniently between the two departments.

It had been a hectic and eye-opening week. She had learned to make out sales slips; she had learned the difference between what you did when a customer wanted a purchase charged and delivered, and when it was cash and carry. She had learned to walk up to a woman fingering mark-downs under the blue "Reduced for Clearance" sign, and ask, "May I help you, Modom?" Every customer in the store was "Modom." The lady in charge of the training department had crisply corrected her when she pronounced it "Madame."

Beatrice had learned too that you never turned a hair when a woman who weighed 200 pounds pawed around in the size 14's; and no matter how broad of beam she happened to be, if she wanted a print with immense flowers that was sure to make her look like a slip-covered elephant, you let her buy it.

"See how well it fits across the shoulders," she had learned to point out, if the dress was too long. And, "It's just the color for you," if the dress was too tight.

She did not feel happy about those things. They seemed a little dishonest. But Toby Masters told her cheerfully, "That's the way to make the quota sing, honey."

Right now, Beatrice was standing beside a thin young girl who was trying on a black crepe with a white lace collar. "I think that looks very well on you; it's quiet, but it isn't the sort of dress that's easily catalogued." At the strange look in the young girl's eyes, Beatrice hurried on, "No one could tell whether you'd spent $5 or $50—do you see what I mean? You could wear this dress to work, to a dinner party—"

"I want it for a special date," said the girl, uncertainly. "I don't know. It's nice, but it's sort of—sort of—"

"Quiet," said Beatrice firmly. "Yet it's becoming. If you bought a dress that was more noticeable, people would remember it, don't you think? This dress will give you so much wear; you could change the collar—you might wear a plain white linen one for the office, and a blue neckerchief with a blue belt for some other occasion."

She knew that this was the wrong technique. Toby would have reached promptly for some red horror with an imitation rhinestone buckle. But somehow, in this week she had worked here, Beatrice found herself rebellious. This child simply needed someone to explain things to her. For the same amount of money, she'd get so much better results! So many customers hadn't the faintest conception of how their slim resources could be stretched to make them look smarter.

"It doesn't cost money to exercise good taste," she thought "Why should this girl walk out of Huntington's with a dress that's a poor advertisement for us and a disaster for her?"

But the thin girl trying on the black dress was stubborn. "I want something—well—more stylish," she said. "One of those prints, maybe. I—I want it to look dressy."

Beatrice sighed and went obediently to the marked-down rack for a couple of prints.

Mr. Bradley, the section manager, crossed the floor swiftly toward her. "Oh, Miss Davis."

"Yes, sir?"

Something about Mr. Bradley invariably amused her. She didn't quite know what it was. Perhaps it was because he was so earnest. He stalked through Budget Fashions with his clean-cut young jaw set sternly, as if he were bearding lions in their dens. He had rather nice brown eyes, and dark hair that didn't lie quite smoothly.

"Miss Davis, I—er—well, as a matter of fact, Miss Davis our buyer thinks you should be warned about spending too much time in conversation with each customer." He stirred uneasily from one foot to the other. "We understand, of course, that a sale can't be hurried. But she feels that you er—perhaps unconsciously er—are attempting to sway the customer's judgment so that—well, in the end, we shall have a return rather than a sale."

Beatrice's hand on the dresses shook a little. "I'm sorry, Mr. Bradley," she said quietly. "I'll try to do better."

Yesterday, when she'd been explaining to a customer that vertical stripes were better than horizontal stripes in size 20, the buyer had been going over some slips at the counter nearby. But Beatrice hadn't connected that with the resentful look the buyer had given her this morning as she hung up a new lot of horizontal-stripe numbers.

So Miss Dane had been listening just now, too! No wonder Miss Getz and Toby and Annie Ryan called her "Drizzle Puss"!

"She's taking it as a criticism of her buying judgment," Beatrice thought, as she walked back to her customer. "And so it is. She may be a wonder when it comes to getting a shipment of dresses under the market price, but it's her place to buy more discriminately, too." In just this single week, Beatrice had come to many conclusions about Budget Fashions.

The customer finally walked out without buying anything. Beatrice let her go.

She stood there in the fitting room, touching the rejected dark dress that was smart, practical, and quiet for all its tiny price tag, and thought, "Doesn't the store want the best efforts of its sales people? Is this the way they treat everybody who tries to be really helpful?"

True, the dress hadn't sold. But if the store, as a matter of policy, went in for educating its customers—for being of actual service to them—in the end, the sales would be better than ever. "They'd be dependable, regular repeat sales. Customers would be grateful and come back, for they'd know at Huntington's you got an honest opinion, not just a sales talk."

She returned to the sales floor slowly. Mr. Bradley was signing a slip for Toby. On an impulse, Beatrice asked him, "Do you think customers prefer not having the opinion of the salesperson offered them? Some of them are uncertain, they really ask—"

Mr. Bradley looked uncomfortable. "A store must give its customers what they want, not what's good for them. Everybody's taste is different. We can't go in for educating our customers up to our own individual standards."

"Why can't we?" asked Beatrice hotly. "Oh, maybe I don't know enough about it. But it seems to me that if that same girl walked into the college shop upstairs, they wouldn't let her buy a $20 dress that would announce to anyone who saw it that Huntington's college shop smells bad!"

"Miss Dane has been buyer in this department for 10 years."

Shewanted to retort, "Maybe it's 10 years too long." She bit the words back. The store earned a great deal of money, it was certainly a successful store, and efficient.

"I never tried to understand it before. But now that I'm here, I'm going to stick it out. I'll learn."

It came to her that if she were the girl she pretended to be, she'd have no choice. She'd be glad of the job and meek. "I'll take it," she thought firercely. "I'll stay right here and find out if I'm worth anything or not."

Again she remembered the voice in Mr. Weeming's office. "Useless, am I? Well, I'm going to find out if Grandfather's store is really living up to what he wanted it to be. And if it isn't, I'm going to make it over!"

Norwood Scouts Are Reorganized

NORWOOD, April 4 (ENS)—The 1st Norwood Scout Troop was reorganized on Wednesday evening under Scoutmaster Hathaway in the Armories. This troop has been in abeyance for nearly a year owing to the fact that so many of its members joined the forces, and the late Scoutmaster Mr. D. Craighead joined the Department of National Defence.

Mr. Hathaway is a newcomer to this district, but an enthusiastic Scout worker, and a very satisfactory meeting was held. Eleven of the "old troopers" reported.

Plans for the future were discussed, and it was decided that certain work should be done by the older members preparatory for patrol leadership and then a drive should be made for new members. A number of signs and symbols were revised, and several scout games enjoyed.

The L.O.L. No. 30, Norwood, held another successful euchre party on Wednesday in their own hall. Seven tables were played, and an enjoyable evening spent.

The prize winners were as follows: Mrs. D. McConnell and Mrs. Bert Preston tied for first ladies, Mrs. McConnell winning the cut, Mrs. Jack Rogers second ladies. Mrs. Johnson took first gent's prize and Mr. Stan McMillan second gent's. Two consolation prizes went to Mrs. Howard Gardiner and Mr. Alex Innis. At the close of the evening lunch was served.

Mrs. J. Roxburgh was hostess to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church W.M.S. Norwood on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Borland, president in the chair.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Borland with part of the Easter service from The Glad Tidings, followed by a circle of prayer by Mrs. Rork and Miss Craig. and Bible reading by Mrs. Wm. Robb.

A discussion took place regarding the advisability of holding a "Sunrise Service" on Easter morning, final arrangements to be made a little later. Two readings were given, one from The Glad Tidings by Mrs. Roy Baker and the other on "China" by Mrs. W. Golloher.

Pot Luck Dinner Clicks

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 (ENS) —St. Andrew's Ladie's Aid group exceeded their twenty-five dollar objective at their pot luck dinner staged to raised money for the British War Victims' Fund on Tuesday. According to a spokesman for the group the dinner was well attended and a real success with the cheque already on its way to the Fund. Four groups combined to prepare the dinner. Three of these were headed by town ladies, Mrs. Thadeus Patrick, Mrs. F. B. Adamson and Mrs. J. F. Macgregor while the fourth was in charge of Mrs. Ray McCulloch representing members of the West Seymour branch. Mrs. J. C. Anderson is president of the organization.

SUGAR TOMATO
12% to 14% Sugar Content

First of all Tomatoes to produce ripe Fruit
Think of it, a sweet tomato with many fruits exceeding 12% Sugar. Nothing like it ever before. Note the beauty and symmetry of the long racemes of fruit, often two feet in length. Smaller than regular tomatoes, but their superb sweetness and appearance make the Sugar Tomato the finest vegetable introduction in years. Bears enormously and is in a distinct class for dainty dishes, salads, sauces, juice, etc. Irresistible. Be first to have it. Order now. Pkt. of 100 seeds 15c; 2 pkts. 25c; ½ oz. 65c (postpaid).

Births Marriages In Memoriam Cards of Thanks Deaths

BORN

CARTER.—At 177 Antrim street, April 4, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Carter, a son, Robert William.

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement is announced of Pearl Ruth Viola, daughter of Mrs. Laura Kincaide, and Victor Andrew Bertrand, of Debert, Nova Scotia. The wedding to take place soon.

MARRIED

The marriage took place quietly on Saturday evening, March 29, in Toronto, of Anne Elma, formerly of Millbrook, and third eldest daughter of Mrs. Lila Davis, and the late Mr. James Davis of Millbrook, to Kenneth Vickers, R.C.A.F., of Ottawa, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vickers of Swift Current, Sask.

IN MEMORIAM

WRIGHT.—In loving memory of Helen Ann Wright, who passed away twelve years ago today, April 5, 1929.

This world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day;
But never shall the one we loved
From memory pass away.
—Ever remembered by her Sisters and Brother.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Jackson and family of Cordova Mines desire to thank the many friends for kindness shown in their recent bereavement, in the death of their son Stanley.

DON'T WAIT FOR APRIL SHOWERS TO TEST THE ROOF
Your roof might have been perfectly sound last Fall, but has it sprung any leaks since then? When April showers drench the countryside you will know ... by telltale staing on walls and ceilings ... but this is a very expensive manner of testing a roof.
Repairs, or putting a new roof right over the old one, are reasonably priced
Let us check your roof now, and fix it if it needs repairs.
Inspection and estimates are free from cost and obligation.

Loved Poems Bring You Courage, Companionship

How inspiring these lines from Longfellow's "A Psalm of Life".

Haven't you often wished you had saved such favorite poems, could turn to them for courage, companionship? Ever new is "My Garden", by Thomas Edward Brown. It ends:

"Not God! in gardens! when the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign:
'Tis very sure God walks in mine."

Another favorite you want to keep by you is "Thoughts" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox:

"Hide in your heart a bitter thought
Still it has power to blight.
Think Love, although you speak it not,
It gives the world more light."

Unforgettable, too, is "Abou Ben Adhem" by Leigh Hunt:

". . . I pray thee, then,
Write me as one that loves his fellow-men."

And there is the deathless love poem, beginning—"Drink to me only with thine eyes, And I will pledge with mine—"

You'll read and reread these and other beloved poems given complete in our 32-page booklet. Contains favorites by Browning, Wordsworth, Robert Burns, many others.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of COSTUME JEWELRY YOU CAN EASILY MAKE to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOWING EQUAL LENGTH

WITH ALL fine players, the showing of two suits in "regular order," with the higher one bid first, followed later by a rebid of the higher one, indicates that it is at least one card longer than the other In order to show that both are rebiddable, at least five cards in length, it is necessary to rebid the lower one. Violation of this principle can cause all sorts of unhappy contracts.

	♠ 9 2 ♥ A K 10 5 3 ♦ 3 ♣ A K 7 6 4
♠ A 7 5 4 ♥ 9 7 4 ♦ K 10 9 7 ♣ J 2	W. N. E. S.	♠ K 10 6 3 ♥ Q J 6 ♦ Q 8 6 4 ♣ 9 5
	♠ Q J 8 ♥ 8 2 ♦ A J 5 2 ♣ Q 10 8 3

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 NT

Against that contract, West led his diamond 10, preferring to keep his spade A as a side entry. East put on the Q and South the A, after a bit of study He could count five tricks in clubs, that first one in diamonds, and decided to seek three in hearts by finessing the 10 at once, in the hope of finding both Q and J with West. When that failed, East returned the diamond 4 to the 7 West switched to his spade 4 to East's K, and the diamond 6 was won by the 9 West followed with the diamond K, setting the contract, and the spade A set it another

After the debacle South told North that if he had rebid the clubs, thereby showing two five-card suits, South would have supported the clubs to four, whereupon North would have gone to 5-Clubs At that contract two spade tricks could be lost, but no more, whereas South had no chance to make his No Trump game as the cards lay. From the bidding, he thought North had only a four-card club suit, with five hearts, so reckoned that the No Trump venture should be the better try.

Your Week-End Lesson

Why should a declarer, who is embarking on a cross-ruff of two suits, first cash any top honors in a third side suit? Can you set up a hand giving an example of what may happen to him if he doesn't do that?

$50,000 Toronto Fire

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP). — Damage was estimated at more than $50,000 after an early morning fire gutted Columbus Hall in Central Toronto to-day. The building was headquarters for the Knights of Columbus in Toronto and one of the city's oldest dance pavilions.

Three alarms were rung in and extra police were called out to keep back the crowds. The fire broke out shortly after the usual dance crowd had left the hall.

Waiting F.D.R. Action

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)— Representative John McCormack of Massachusetts, House of Representatives Democratic leader, agreed with a questioner on the House floor today that it is "about time" for President Roosevelt to speak out on the defence strike situation.

The exchange came shortly after Stephen Early, White House secretary, told reporters that the President was "waiting and watching" the situation.

Fletcher Joins Defence Of Milk Board

TORONTO, April 5.—(CP)—A strong defence of the Ontario Milk Control Board, which has been the object of attack by both Liberal and Conservative members, was entered in the records of the Provincial Legislature today.

Agriculture Minister P. M. Dewan who stood alone in his defence of the Board a week ago was joined yesterday by Charles Fletcher (Lib. Essex South) as second reading was given to a Bill to amend the Milk Control Act.

Mr. Fletcher declared the farmers of Essex were satisfied with the Board's operations. Since it was established some years ago, the Board had been responsible for placing "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in the pockets of the farmers which ordinarily they would not have received.

The remarks of the previous week had their effect, however, when Mr. Dewan said he was withdrawing from the Bill that section which authorized "a knock-off" system for collecting association fees from the producer, regardless of whether he was a member of the association. Under the system a distributor would be compelled to deduct from his payments to the farmer the fees in question.

Because of opposition arising from the compulsory feature and due to the fact it might be held invalid if taken to court, Mr. Dewan said he had decided to withdraw the criticized section.

"Unwarranted Attack."

Mr. Dewan, referring to the remarks Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South) directed against the Milk Board a week ago said it was not warranted and was caused by a lack of knowledge of the facts.

The Board, he continued, had the responsibility of enforcing one of the "most contentious pieces of legislation" on the statutes and he believed it was doing a real job in keeping order in the milk market.

Mr. Fletcher said the critics a week ago all were lawyers and he thought the Legislature should hear the views of the farmers.

He said it had been argued the Board was 'arbitrary" and there was no appeal from its decisions. Appeal could be made to the courts, if necessary, he declared, but as the fixing of milk prices was more or less arbitrary it was a question that was hardly a matter of appeal.

Mr. Fletcher said he favored the compulsory clause which had been deleted. Compulsion was in effect in other marketing legislation such as the Farm Products Control Act.

The fee paid in Essex County where there were 1,200 producers, he continued, was only one cent on each 100 pounds of milk. Through the operations of the Milk Board alone these farmers were receiving from 50 to 80 cents a hundred more for their milk.

Mr. Macaulay said he was not favoring abolition of the Board, but he did think its powers should be curbed. Whenever there was an an arrangement effected between the producers and distributors as to the price of milk, he continued, the consumer was ignored.

Berlin Arrests

A diplomatic survey shows that, since the start of the war, German actions unfriendly or detrimental to United States interests include:

Requested withdrawal of American diplomatic and consular officials from numerous German-occupied countries. (The German embassy here and consulates throughout the United States continue to function.)

Seizure of the American flag ship "City of Flint," which escaped only through friendly offices of the Norwegian government when forced to put in to Norwegian waters. Germany charged she was carrying contraband.

Arrest and detention of two American newspapermen—Richard C. Hottelet in Berlin, and Jay Allen in Nazi-occupied France.

Pressure exerted on the Vichy government to obtain the French fleet and naval bases, especially Dakar, which might menace the peace of the western hemisphere.

Veiled threats to sink American vessels carrying supplies to Britain or Ireland.

Extension of the sea blockade into water three miles from Greenland, pushing the war to the doorstep of the western hemisphere.

Rejection of the Monroe Doctrine when Hull informed Germany the United States would not "recognize" nor "acquiesce" in any transfer of territory in the western hemisphere from one non-American nation to another.

criticism of the acreage reduction program by Ontario and Western members. Earlier a proposal to start the Easter adjournment last night had been dropped because of desire of members interested in Western agriculture to discuss the plan before seeding starts.

The Senate adjourned until May 13 after Sir Lyman Duff, Deputy Governor-General, gave Royal assent to nine bills which have passed both Houses. They included money bills authorizing expenditures totalling $1,550,000,000 for the present and recently-ended fiscal years, the largest sum ever provided in bills assented to at one time.

No Money In Their Pockets.

"The farmers of Western Canada know that this policy is not putting money in their pockets whether the money comes from the Treasury of Canada or from any other source," Mr. Gardiner said in his address.

"They know that this policy is taking money out of their pockets and making it possible for this Dominion to finance the war to the extent of at least $100,000,000 more than would be the case if the Goverment did for the wheat growers of the West what they are doing for most of the other people of Canada.

"We are not begging for the West. We are not asking members from any part of this country to put money into the pockets of the Western wheat growers."

The Western grower was denied the right to sell his wheat to Japan, Russia, Spain and many other countries "in order to assist Britain in carrying on the blockade which, if it were not carried on, would result in the destruction of the Empire and of democracy," the Minister added.

"That being so we do not feel that we are asking this House for money to be distributed to the people of Western Canada.

Toughest Year Ahead

"We are asking the people of this country, and we believe we have the support of at least 90 per cent of them, to help the farmers over one of the most difficult years they have ever experienced and, in helping them, to lessen the need for the government to pay storage on large quantities of wheat."

The minister was replying directly to Hon. W. Earl Rowe (Con., Dufferin-Simcoe), sharpest critic of the acreage reduction program during the day. Mr. Rowe condemned the program as "defeatist" and "fantastic."

He said he was not opposed to bonuses for agriculture if they were paid for high-quality production, but he was opposed to bonuses for "doing nothing."

"We are bonusing our farmers to stop growing wheat simply because it is difficult to get it across the seas," Mr. Rowe said. "Well, Britain is still eating wheat. Europe would like to eat wheat and Britain is eating wheat from foreign countries at this very time.

"I ask, is it not a good time for us to prepare for a full breadbasket. Would it not be better to spend even $100,000,000 instead of $35,000,000, if it were necessary, so as to keep these farmers going, to keep body and sould together, to give them a reasonable price for their wheat."

Claims Lack of Vision

Mr. Rowe charged the government with lack of vision and predicted the wheat problem would disappear in time. Canada was destined to grow into a great industrial nation in which the products of the farm would be consumed in the country.

Other critics of the program were Harry Leader (Lib., Portage La Prairie), J. A. Ross (Con., Souris), and Robert Fair (N.D., Battle River).

On behalf of the New Democracy group, Mr. Fair submitted recommendations for a wheat policy, including:—

Payment of an initial price of $1 per bushel for the first 2,000 bushels produced by any farmer, closing of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, continued payment of storage on wheat held on farms, and an advance to farmers on wheat forming part of the deliverable quota if held on the farm.

and the East Anglian coast, but few casualties were reported there.

The German planes, arriving at intervals of two or three minutes in their main assault on Bristol, bucked a terrific anti-aircraft barrage which led a witness to call it the "noisiest raid of the war" in that area.

Hundreds of volunteers, fighting doggedly amid the cramp of heavy explosives to douse fire bombs rained down by the Nazis, lessened the effectiveness of the raid.

"The raiders couldn't find their targets due to the prompt work of the fire fighters," a witness said. "They extinguished the incendiaries as soon as they dropped. Load after load of fire bombs were showered down in fruitless attempts to get fires going."

The fire fighters stopped their work momentarily to cheer when the searchlights spotted one bomber and anti-aircraft shells brought it down in flames. Another plane was reported shot down by a night fighter and two of the crew captured.

One Nazi raider raked the town's streets with machine-gun fire, but no one was hit.

Chandos Township Contributes Many Recruits To 1st Division

The township of Chandos has contributed a big quota of recruits to the active service units serving in England with the 1st Canadian Division. Included in the ranks of these units are three brothers, all of whom enlisted within a month of each other. In the picture Pte. Victor Tinney (LEFT), son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinney, is shown, and the next three are the Bullied brothers: Corporal Ross Bullied, Corporal Cecil Bullied and Pte. Charles Bullied. All are sons of Mrs. Harley Woodbeck and the late Thomas Bullied of Chandos. Charles Bullied was turned down by the first medical board but finally managed to get by when he re-enlisted a month later. All four are overseas.

COUNTY FARM TOPICS

Melville M. Robinson To Address Vegetable Growers

Farmers Watch Demonstration Rail Grading Of Hogs

For their dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel on Monday evening at 7 o'clock, Peterborough Vegetable Growers are expecting many of the citizens to join them in welcoming Melville M. Robinson of Burlington, their guest speaker. Mr. Robinson is a son of the late W. S. Robinson of Peterborough. For years he was a Toronto and Hamilton newspaper man who decided to go into farming, specializing in fruit growing.

This is the first dinner the local vegetable men have arranged in quite a while, and they are inviting the public to be with them.

Hon. George Hoadley.

Former Minister of Health and Agriculture in the Alberta Government, Hon. George Hoadley will be the speaker at a meeting in the Co-op. Hall on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock standard time, under auspices of the Farm Radio Forum. Mr. Hoadley is going to discuss public health services, one of the subjects of the winter's series of Farm Forum radio broadcasts. Women are especially invited to attend this meeting for the reason that health services and protection are becoming more generally recognized as of vital interest to the farm home.

Rail Grading.

Several of the Peterborough farmers who attended the demonstration of rail grading of hogs at Canada Packers on Friday remarked that it afforded educational features which should have been provided long ago. The judging competition of a group of hogs followed by seeing the dressed carcasses on the rail later in the day was an objective lesson in the type of bacon hogs required for export trade. The program for the day, including the noon luncheon, was greatly appreciated by the farm guests to quite a number of whom the question of rail grading had not been thoroughly understood, especially in its ultimately practical details.

Joint Meeting Held For Easter Program

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 (ENS) —Meeting for their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. John Thompson, the Hoard's W.A. and W.M.S. heard a special Easter program provided by member of the latter organization on Wednesday afternoon. A number of items of business were dealt with during the meeting and one decision reached was that they would renew their efforts at making clothing and layettes for the refugees. They also decided to cut down on refreshments which formed a regular feature of the meetings. In future these will be confined to a beverage and one item of lunch. The savings thus effected will go into their war effort. On display during the meeting was a quilt made by the ladies and sold to one of the members subsequently.

Chief feature of the program was provided by Miss Elsie Rannie, who read the introduction to their study book, "The World In Canada," by J. I. MacKay, which dealt particularly with women's missionary work among the foreigner. Other items included a reading by Mrs. William Hume; a piano solo by Miss Mildred Heagle; a reading by Mrs. Jack Rannie; a piano solo by Miss Marilyn Thompson. Next meeting will be at Mrs. James Thompson's and the program will be in charge of Mrs. Charles Hoard and Miss Elsie Rannie.

Manvers Ladies Have Big List For Red Cross

BETHANY, April 5 — (ENS). — Following are the articles listed for the bale to be sent to the Red Cross Rooms at Toronto and prepared by the Manvers branch of the Red Cross, Janetville: 3 army scarfs, 2 pairs finger mitts, 3 pairs khaki gloves, 1 pair bed socks. 88 pairs of army socks, 9 pairs army mitts, 2 turtle neck sweaters, 9 pairs two-way mitts, 2 army V-neck sweaters, 2 pairs air force mitts, 1 pair air force socks, 2 air force scarfs, 9 army caps, 1 chest protector. 14 pairs navy two-way mitts, 3 navy scarfs, 1 pair navy rifle mitts, 3 pairs navy gloves, 3 navy caps, 5 pairs navy mitts, 1 sleeping cap, 3 navy helmets, 1 pair navy socks, 2 pairs seamen's socks, 7 V-neck navy sweaters, 23 quilts, 22 men's pyjamas, 39 ladies' night gowns, 2 pairs children's sleepers, 2 pairs children's bloomers.

TORRENTS OF SMOOTH POWER
. . . from this thrifty V-8 ENGINE!

GET DOWN TO FUNDAMENTALS when you buy a car. Engine performance is vital. The Ford is powered with the famous Ford V-8 Engine. Eight cylinders give a smoother, steadier flow of power than fewer cylinders can possibly give. The Ford V-8 has proven its economy in one official contest after another. Because of its extreme simplicity and the scientific selection of materials, it has set new records of reliability and freedom from repairs in actual service in thousands upon thousands of cars. More than 60,000 of these units are already in the service of the armies of the Empire.

Look at the size of the '41 Ford—its longer wheelbase, its massive wide body in which running boards have almost disappeared. There's more seat-room . . . head-room . . . leg-room. Doors are wider with greater expanse of glass. And in addition, this year sees a sensational advance in Ford riding qualities . . . a longer springbase, new "slow-motion springs", bigger, gentler shock absorbers and a newly designed stabilizer combine to give riding smoothness hitherto unknown in cars at this price.

Ask a Ford dealer to show you the hidden qualities in the new Ford Cars.

$35 a month with reasonable down payment buys any Ford V-8.

French Honor Forbids Says Marshal In Radio Address

VICHY, France, April 7.—(AP)—Marshal Petain declared in a radio address today that French nonor forbade any action against France's former allies.

The Marshal's speech called for French unity but did not mention Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of Free French forces still fighting at Britain's side.

(De Gaulle, now in Cairo, has exhorted Frenchmen to help tip the balance of war in the Mediterranean in Britain's favor. There had been indications that the Marshal would broadcast an answer.

"Honor requires us to undertake nothing against our former allies," Petain said. "But the integrity of the country requires that sources of our vital food and essential posts of our Empire should be safeguarded. It is against these necessities that dissident propagandists act daily."

House To Close This Thursday

TORONTO, April 7—(CP).—Due to the fact the St. Lawrence seaway agreement may not be ready for discussion by the Ontario Legislature for several months, the Provincial Parliament will prorogue Thursday, it was learned at Queen's Park today.

Original plans called for an Easter recess, with the members being called back to ratify the agreement after it had been approved by the House of Commons and the United States Congress. As the Commons and Congress are expected to spend some time discussing the contract, the Provincial Government is said to have decided to prorogue.

Included among farm legislation still to be dealt with are bills providing for cheese and hog subsidies and amending of the milk Control Act.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 7.—(AP)—The Royal Air Force bombed "military objectives" at Sofia, Bulgarian capital, last night, it was officially announced today.

Clear Albania, Hold Greece, Yugoslavia Till Blow Ready In North, London Aim

LONDON, April 7—(CP).—The primary objective of Britain's expeditionary force in embattled Greece will be to drive the Italians out of Albania, after which it will seek to hold Greece, Albania and part of Yugoslavia defensively until the time is ripe for a "final offensive," informed observers said.

When this time comes, they said, Britain's "anti-invasion" army at home will be ready to spring across the English Channel to open up a second front against the Germans.

The presence in Greece of an Imperial British Army of undisclosed strength was disclosed officially by Britain for the first time yesterday. At the same time it was announced Britain's air power there had been reinforced.

Britain earlier had reaffirmed their promise of full support to Yugoslavia.

(Balkan dispatches began reporting the arrival of British forces at Greek ports last month and subsequent reports said as high as 300,000 troops had been landed with mechanized equipment).

Troops from Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand were sent to Greece, the Ministry of Information said, to help "soldiers of our brave ally in defence of their native soil."

The bulk of the expeditionary force was CLEAR ALBANIA

Hun Destroyer Torpedoed, Second Bombed

LONDON, April 7—(AP).—A German destroyer torpedoed by a British plane yesterday was believed sunk and another destroyer was damaged by a bomb, an Air Ministry communique said today.

The communique also reported another attack on the Brest naval base, where the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau are sheltering, and offensive patrols over Northern France by daylight yesterday.

In other raids, the Royal Air Force was credited with scoring direct hits on blast furnaces of iron and steel works at Ijmuiden, Netherlands; machine-gunning troops, airdromes, motor trucks and gun positions over Northern France, and shooting down a German fighter plane encountered during the offensive patroling.

The communique said docks at Calais and Ostend and Germanused airdromes in the Low Countries were bombed last night. Four planes were listed as missing from the operations.

A British pilot making his first operational flight was credited with scoring the torpedo hit believed to have sent the German destroyer to the bottom of the northwest coast of France. Flying a Beaufort plane, the pilot sighted three German destroyers a few miles west of Ile de Batz.

"The pilot dived to release his torpedo before the escorting Messerschmitts could intrecept," the Ministry news service related. "His crew

Warship Arrival Secrecy Lauded

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP).—Col. Frank Knox, the Secretary of the United States Navy, today issued for publication the following statement:—

"I wish to commend the action of the press associations, newspapers, broadcasting companies, and photographic agencies who have co-operated at my request in not report the recent arrival of a British warship in this country.

"When the Lease-Lend Bill became an act, I requested that all press, radio, and photographic agencies refrain from reporting, in any form, the movements or presence of British men-of-war in this country for any purpose whatsoever.

British Shorten Libyan Lines; Nip Addis Ababa

CAIRO, Egypt, April — (AP).—The British command announced to-day its forces are continuing to withdraw east of Bengasi in North Africa, but in East Africa had captured Debra Markos, 120 miles north-west of Addis Ababa, following the fall of the Ethiopian capital without a fight.

More than 10,000 prisoners have been captured in Eritrea since March 26, and the Imperial Forces are drawing closer to the Red Sea port of Massaua in that colony, and toward Dessie and Gondar in Ethiopia, the command said.

Of the Libyan situation, General Headquarters said: "In the face of continued pressure by strong German and Italian forces, the withdrawal of our advanced troops to selected areas of concentration is proceeding."

A swift cleanup north, south and west of Addis Ababa was reported following the Saturday night capitulation of Addis Ababa, the capital which was surrendered to Fascist Italy five years ago.

Ethiopian patriots led by Emperor Haile Selassie played the chief role in taking Debra Markos after a long siege and "have already inflicted over 100 casualties on the enemy whose withdrawal southward is being closely followed up," the communique said.

As a result of the fall of Addis Ababa Mussolini's Eastern Empire appeared to be falling rapidly into the African dust.

British Headquarters announced that Addis Ababa surrendered with only one condition — that British troops guarantee safety of the capital's civilian population.

The whereabouts of Duke d'Aosta, Italian Viceroy of Ethiopia, was not known.

(The British Broadcasting Corporation said last night the Duke had sent a note of thanks to the British for steps to protect women and children in Addis Ababa.)

British authorities said he may be with any of a number of isolated Italian garrisons holding out in the country. The strongest of these was said to be at Gondar, north of Lake Tana, to which Gen. Martini led his forces from Sudan frontier three months ago.

Rich and Poor To Feel Record Levy

Add 2,000,000 To Roll, Forced Saving Idea, Budget Of 18 Billion

LONDON, April 7.—(CP Cable)—Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer today boosted Britain's basic income tax rate to an unprecedented 10 shillings in the pound, and lowered the exemptions, but left taxes on beer, tobacco and spirits untouched as he budgetted for a record £4,207,000,000 ($18,721,150,000.)

He called this figure "domestiv expenditure" because it did not take into account material to come from the United States under the lease-lend bill—supplies which before the end of the fiscal year "will be far beyond the figure of £5,000,000,000 which I have seen mentioned in various quarters." The estimate also did not include payment to be made to the United States under existing orders.

Sir Kingsley said that the total estimated revenue on the present basis of taxation was £1,636,000,000, leaving a "potentially dangerous gap" between revenue and expenditure of about £500,000,000.

To close this he counted on personal savings loans to increase between £200,000,000 and £300,000,000. The balance, he said, must come from new taxation.

All Must Help

"I have come to the conclusion that I must look to direct taxation covering all section of the community to raise the necessary revenue," the chancellor declared amid applause.

The limit of tax exempt income was lowered by £10 to £110 a year to add 2,000,000 wage earners to the tax rolls.

Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons: "The burden I am compelled to impose is vitally necessary not only to meet our financial position but to secure a reduction in consumption" and avert spiralling prices and wages.

Sir Kingsley in effect also inaugurated a compulsory savings plan to fit in with his income tax boost.

This was done by lowering the personal exemptions with the provision that the extra tax resulting from these reductions would be credited to the account of the individual in the post savings bank after the war. This post-war credit he said should be regarded by workers as an addition to and not a substitution for present savings.

Under the new budget a married man must pay tax on all income over £140 annually instead of the former £170 and single on all over £80 instead of £100. Allowance for earned income was reduced from the present one sixth to one tenth with a maximum of £160 permitted.

The budget increases the income tax from the old level of 42½ per cent effective as of April 6, the start of the new fiscal year.

By new sacrifices, Sir Kingsley said, "certainly the whole world will see still further tangible evidence of our firm resolve to leave nothing undone to achieve victory whatever the cost."

Sir Kingsley said the primary object of his proposal "is to make a considerable cut in purchasing

No Miracles Here

BERLIN, April 7—(AP).—The Germans claimed today that the German army has advanced 30 to 40 kilometres (about 18 to 25 miles) on Yugoslav soil.

Nazi spokesmen warned that the "same miracles of the German army as in the French blitzkrieg should not necessarily be expected since the geography of Yugoslavia and Greece is such as to enable even poorly - equipped hostile forces to hold up superior Germans temporarily."

The only spot at which the Germans admitted having met stubborn resistance was by the Greeks at the Struma River, east of Salonika.

No Red Comment As Germans Hit At Balkans

MOSCOW, April 7 — (AP). — The Soviet press published prominently but without comment to-day its first accounts of the German invasion of Yugoslavia, with whom Russia signed a friendship and non-aggression pact on Saturday, and against Greece.

Pravda, Communist Party organ, devoted four columns at the top of its foreign news page to Tass News Agency despatches from Berlin, Rome and Athens on the start of hostilities.

The Soviet-Yugoslav accord was cited in Moscow newspapers yesterday as "in the interests of all people who aim to avoid expansion of the war."

The pact, signed on Saturday by Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff and the Yugoslav minister, Milan Gavrilovic, in the presence of Joseph Stalin, provides for mutual respect for territorial integrity and in the case of an attack on either by a third power the other promises continued friendly relations with the victim.

Tass said the pact firmly adhered to the "Stalinist principle" of peace and quoted Pravda as explaining that principle in these words:

"We stand for peace and the principle of these (FxlU hmb dwkh strengthening of business relations with all countries. That is our position; and we shall adhere to it as long as these countries maintain like relations with the Soviet Union and as long as they make no attempt to trespass on the interests of our country."

(The pact followed by less than two weeks a Russian-Turkish "benevolent neutrality" understanding which was reported to provide for Russian "material help" should Turkey be attacked.)

11 Nazi Planes Downed On Greek Front Few German Advances

ATHENS, April 7 (AP)—Short on men and arms, but long on courage, Greek infantrymen withstood fresh assaults of Germany's mechanized might today in narrow Macedonian mountain passes spotted with the wreckage of 10 German tanks destroyed in the first day of warfare.

A high command communique reported the most furious fighting in Struma Gorge, said to be strewn with German dead as the Greeks held doggedly to their defences against combined blows of German air and land forces.

With the motto "They Shall Not Pass," the Greeks stopped the German invasion with the loss of but one fort, the high command announced, although the Nazis gained some ground in a day of "fiercest fighting."

Athens had its second air raid alarm today since Sunday morning and thousands stood in the streets to watch a German plane race over amid bursts of anti-aircraft fire. No bombs fell.

A government spokesman said bodies of Nazi dead were piled high before Greek positions after the German Palm Sunday invasion from Bulgaria.

Savage air battles over the fighting ground troops today cost the Germans at least 11 planes, it was stated officially. Several others were damaged.

The newspaper Kathimerini said an irregular band of Bulgarians joined in the battle this morning against Greek forces in the mountains, but was captured.

King George, the Crown Prince, and Crown Princess and Premier Alexandros Korizis visited Piraeus to look at the damage caused by a German air raid last night. The King drove his own car through an air raid alarm to the seaport.

5 Messerschmitts Less.

LONDON, April 7 — (CP). — A communique from British Air Headquarters in Greece announced to-day that the Royal Air Force has been in action against the Germans there, shooting down five Messerschmitt 109's over the Rupel Pass area on the Greek-Bulgarian frontier.

The communique, received here by Reuters News Agency, said the Nazi planes were shot down by a small formation of Hurricane fighters.

Several other Messerschmitt 109's were reported seriously damaged, while all British aircraft returned safely to base, the communique said.

An R.A.F. bomber formation made a "successful raid" on military objectives at Berati, Albania, it added, and an Axis reconnaissance plane was shot down in flames in the Athens area.

Hun Admit Going Hard, Athens Reports Bulgarian Captives

BERNE, April 7—(AP).—Advices reaching here tonight said that German forces had not captured any strategic points at the end of the second day of the Nazi smashes on a 750-mile front into Greece and Yugoslavia.

BERNE, Switzerland, April 7 — (AP)—Axis-invaded Yugoslavia and Greece, favored by nothing but terrain and British help—and their own courage—battled Hitler's Panzer divisions along their borders today and carried the expanded war to Italy on the Albanian front.

The Greeks declared they were holding all along the new Struma Valley line except at one point where they lost a fort yesterday, and the Yugoslav army appeared still to be falling back from the north to more defensible mountain positions.

Germany claimed her army already has penetrated 18 to 25 miles into Yugoslavia, and claimed great damage had been done transport and communications by air force, but acknowledged the going was hard across northern and eastern Yugoslavia and down Greece's Struma Valley.

The Greeks and Yugoslavs appeared to be exacting every advantage from the terrain. There was scant detail in actual engagements.

The Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, radio announced that Yugoslav artillery had opened fire along the Albanian front in opening a drive against Fascist forces already hard-pressed by Greeks in that Adricatic nation.

The artillery preparations apparently marked the beginning of a pincer movement aimed at quick elimination of the Italians in Albania.

Italy Strikes In Vengeance

"Fighting Slavs For Deserting Axis Claim Greeks Balked

ROME, April 7 (AP) — Stefani, Italian news and propaganda agency, claimed today that Italian forces in Albania had balked an attempt by the Greek army to make contact with Yugoslav forces in two days of fighting, "virtually wiping out an entire Greek division of three regiments."

(The Greek high command reported only patrol and artillery activity in Albania.)

The alleged Greek attack in the zone of the Fascist 9th army in Albania has been halted by Italian infantry, the agency said.

It was here, the agency asserted that the Yugoslav army had hoped to make contact with the Greeks.

The agency claimed several Croats deserted from the army and entered Italian lines.

The high command claimed the naval bases of Split (Spalato) and Cattaro, an arsenal at Theodo near Cattaro, and an air base at Mostar were bombed yesterday in the opening of Italian hostilities against Yugoslavia.

The announcement claimed two ships were sunk at Spalato and one at Cattaro harbor. Two destroyers were reported hit, one in Cattaro harbor, the other at Theodo.

Yugoslav circles, on the other hand, declared their country's strategy undoubtedly would be to make the position of Italy's forces in Albania as difficult as possible, and to fight a defensive action against the German thrusts from Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary and old Austria.

These Yugoslavs said their army probably would make a last ditch stand in the Serbian mountains to the south if German mechanized forces proved too strong in the plains of Croatia and north of Belgrade.

The staff of the Yugoslav Legation was expected to leave in the next few days. Most of the Italian diplomatic personnel in Yugoslavia was evacuated before hostilities began.

U.S. Rushing Yugoslavia Aid

Guns, Munitions, Bombs Expected Start Over Sea This Week

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The United States rushed shipments of war supplies to Yugoslavia and Greece today after State Secretary Cordell Hull had denounced Germany's Balkan invasion as "barbaric" and promised that material assistance would be dispatched to the defenders "as speedily as possible."

Indications were that these munitions would be started across the seas now in American ports, either Atlantic, probably in Yugoslav vestoday or by midweek at the latest. The administration is understood to have been preparing for several days against the hour when Germany would launch her Balkan attack.

Included in the shipments may be the 75-millimetre guns which President Roosevelt said last week would be sent to Greece, as well as machine guns, mortars, ammunition, bombs and other supplies drawn from the stores of the United States army.

In addition to these implements of war more than $1,000,000 worth sent to Yugoslavia. Chairman Nor- of medical supplies were ordered man H. Davis directed the Red Cross to furnish "without delay" 10 field hospitals, tons of medicines and blankets and an initial shipment of 2,000,000 surgical dressings.

The problem of transportating the materials to the Balkans was believed here not to be very great. Eight Yugoslav ships were reported in American ports in the last few days. Many days of dangerous travel are ahead for them whether they elect to carry their vital cargoes over the 5,000 miles between North America and the Balkans through the Straits of Gibraltar and across the Mediterranean or over the 12,000-mile coure around South Africa and through the Red Sea.

A Long Frontier To Defend

Over 2,500 Miles Of Slavia Faces Axis Nations

(By the Canadian Press.)

Yugoslavia, quilted together from a number of small Balkan territories by treaty makers after the first Great War, faces Axis armies on three sides. Along her 1,000 miles of Adriatic seacoast, however, she has a 15-mile frontier with Greece, and the segment of Albania already won by the Greeks.

To the northwest she has a 132-miles front with Italy; to the no 160 miles with the old Austrian part of Germany; to the northeast 353 miles with Hungary and 337 with Rumania; to the east 283 miles with Bulgaria, and to the west nearly 250 miles with northern Albania still held by Italy.

Smash At Yugoslavia Fires Belgrade; Zagreb Is Bombed

10 Nazi Tanks, 6 Planes Are Destroyed; 1st War Declaration

BERNE, Switzerland, April 7.—(AP)—Back to back, Yugoslav and Greece were reported today to be putting up a stiff stand against German mechanized divisions battering their frontiers and Axis aircraft hammering their cities.

The Germans acknowledging that their advance forces found the going hard—but claimed they were pushing steadily down the narrow Struma Valley into Greece and across Yugoslavia's borders from the north and east.

Belgrade—self-declared undefended city—was not spared. Nazi bomber pilots boasted they had the Yugoslav capital aflame after three raids yesterday when the war spread full force to the Balkan front. Italian planes joined in the assault apparently concentrating on Yugoslav port cities on the Adriatic Sea.

But as the fighting went into its second day details still were meagre.

Communications between Italy and the outside world were suspended 24 hours until this morning. Berlin dispatches were blacked out for about the same period. It was not possible to communicate with Belgrade or other Yugoslav centres.

Dispatches and broadcast announcements which did filter through last night and early today gave this picture of the campaign:

Belgrade Hard Hit

Belgrade, which the Yugoslav government was believed to have left for a safer temporary capital in the southern Yugoslav mountains, was hard hit from raids morning, afternoon, and night, the Nazi propaganda agency claimed.

Elsewhere, the Germans claimed, their air force shot down 33 planes yesterday and destroyed 48 others on the ground, with a loss of four German planes. Airdromes, bridges, a troop train and a communication centre northeast of the Croat provincial capital of Zagreb were claimed bombed.

The German agency said Italian planes co-operated by attacking objectives in Southe.. Yugoslavia. (Some reports identified the port cities of Split and Mostar as among the Italian targets.)

Havas, French news agency, said in a dispatch from Yjubljana, Yugoslavia, that Fran Kulovic, Yugoslav Public Works Minister, was killed in the Belgrade bombings.

The Yugoslav account of the action between Yugoslavs and Germans was not available because of cut communications.

ATHENS, Greece, April 7 (AP)—German forces striking at Greece from Bulgaria with the aid of tanks and dive-bombers made slight progress in a day of "the fiercest fighting" but Greek soldiers stopped the advance with the loss of but one fort, the Greek high command announced.

A government spokesman said bodies of Nazi dead were piled high before the Greek positions after the Palm Sunday invasion.

"Our fortifications, in spite of violent artillery shelling and dive-bombing of the enemy air force, have resisted, with the exception of one which fell after a particularly strong attack," the high command communique announced. Some ground, it added, was evacuated by Greek forces "for reasons of operations."

Ten "enemy" tanks and five or six "enemy" aircraft were destroyed and "some" prisoners taken.

The high command said the Greek positions were defended only by "very small Greek forces" and a spokesman declared:

"We are fighting against forces ten times superior, against mechanical implements a hundred times greater, but our soldiers are holding fast, even though German airplanes rage over their heads."

"We welcome them as a resolute and powerful ally. We renew the comradeship which in the Great War carried us through tribulation to victory. We will conduct the war in common and we will make peace only when right has been vindicated and law and justice are again enthroned."

Belgrade Silent.

The Yugoslav Legation said today it had no news from Belgrade and explained that its only contact with the Yugoslav capital was via cable over a roundabout route subject to long delay.

Any despatches which the government had on the progress of the fighting in the Balkans were kept secret. Authoritative quarters also declined to give any information on the whereabouts of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John Dill, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Some sources said, however, that quick developments might "clear up the whole picture" in the Balkans within the next two days.

One source said the British Government still is in communication with the British mission in Yugoslavia.

Britons linked the African campaign with that in the Balkans and expressed belief large forces soon would be released from Ethiopia for service in Greece or for a drive aimed at the recapture of Bengasi, in Libya.

The British press, although exultantly acclaiming the presence of a British Army in Greece, carried an undercurrent of warning that a grim struggle lay ahead.

Some recalled that the new German invasion came on the anniversary of the United States declaration of war against Germany in 1917. All gave prominence to the promises of speedy American aid for the Yugoslavs and the Greeks.

Foreign observers here viewed the timing of the German attack, following closely on a pro-Axis coup in Iraq, as more than coincidence and said the coup might give Germany air bases at Turkey's back door in the event of a drive toward Suez—a move expected by Britain.

PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage or stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

He gave these examples of how compulsory savings will work:—

"A single man with 45 shillings a week paid no income tax last year. He will now pay two shillings a week (after allowance), the whole of which will be treated as post-war credit.

"A married man with two children and an earned income of £350 a year last year paid £5 8s 4d, and will pay £24 7s 6d, but of the increase of approximately £19 he will get back £17 6s 8d after the war."

Sir Kingsley announced he is putting industry under the compulsory savings scheme also. He said he would continue the present £100 per cent excess profits tax in effect, but with the proviso that at the end of the war 20 per cent will be refunded "to assist reconstruction."

sounded today in Budapest, capital of Hungary.

R.A.F. Bombers On The Job

A British broadcast quoted the Budapest radio to the effect that Hungarian airdromes at Pecs and Szeged, near Yugoslavia's northern border, had been bombed by British and Yugoslav planes.

The Swiss telegraph agency said that a state of alarm had been declared in Hungary and that blackouts and other air raid precautions would be enforced.

The Bulgarian agency, the Swiss account said, declared: "No Bulgarian troops are participating in the German-Yugoslav fight. Bulgaria expected this to be appreciated by the Belgrade government, but instead Yugoslav air forces attacked open towns and the peaceful Bulgarian population, not German objectives."

An Athens dispatch said, however, that Bulgarian irregulars had been captured.

Press reports from Budapest said German raiders started eight large fires and numerous smaller ones yesterday in Belgrade, Yugoslav capital which had been declared an open, undefended city by Premier Dusan Simovic before the war started.

Communciations with the Balkans, interrupted with the outbreak of war in southeastern Europe, remained broken but wires were restored from Berne to Rome and Berlin shortly after dawn today.

LONDON, April 7.—(CP)—Reuters' diplomatic corespondent reported tonight that the British Government had decided to withdraw its diplomatic mission from Hungary.

ROME, April 7.—(AP)—Italy imposed a drastic new control on communications today, with an announcement that foreign correspondents cannot telephone, telegraph or send out wireless messages between 8 p.m. (2 p.m. EDT) tonight and 7 a.m. (1 a.m.) tomorrow

This measure, which it was explained was taken for "military and strategic reasons," followed a complete blockade on communications from early Sunday until 7 a.m. Monday.

Gallow Given Seven Years For Burglary

With the sentencing of Louis Gallow, 38, of Toronto, to seven years in Kingston Penitentiary by Judge J. A. McGibbon in County Judge's Criminal Court on Saturday afternoon for breaking and entering the C.D. Store here and stealing $4,000 came to an end one of the most interesting series of criminal trials ever staged in Peterborough.

The session lasted for six days, two score witnesses, including police officers from Windsor and Toronto, Professor Joslyn Rogers of the University of Toronto and a railway man from Bowmanville, were heard and the exhibits ran close to the fifty mark before the trials were concluded.

The court room was filled all week with interested citizens listening to the story of how intelligent police work, aided by the resources of science, had spun a trail of circumstantial evidence leading from Peterborough to Bowmanville and then to Windsor and Toronto that was strong enough to convict four men, all with criminal records, of burglary. The only clues at hand when the crime was discovered were a collection of railway tools and a heel print on a ledger card, but police and science were able from that

It is also true that enemy agents can report these movements; but it seems to me only sportsmanlike that the keen American press refrained from giving a report of these ships for the benefit of Britain's enemies. At the present time this sort of reporting is of inestimable military value of the Germans.

"If a British warship arrives in a British yard for repair the fact does not appear in print, broadcast, or picture. The British people know how vital it is to keep that sort of information down to the minimum. Since the United States has promised to give all aid to Great Britain, so far as repairs are concerned, it seems to me that it is our patriotic duty to keep such information about British war vessels to a minimum.

"That minimum to my way of thinking, is to print nothing. I sincerely believe the thoughtful press will agree with this opinion."

Signature of the Russian-Yugoslav friendship treaty aroused interest in Rome political circles, but Fascist sources refrained from comment.

Some foreigners, however, interpreted the pact, coming as it did after Russia's cold reception of the German occupation of Bulgaria, as evidence of a new phase in Soviet relations with the Axis powers.

The War Today

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Progress of the new Balkan war is obscured for the moment by broken communications, but the task of the Allies seem clear enough if they are to reap important victories from this phase.

First, it would appear, Britain must clean up the East African and Libyan situations so as to release more men for the fights in Greece, Albania and Yugoslavia.

Greece and Yugoslavia, it appears, might do well to fight a defensive war against Germany and her Balkan satellites while they clean the Italians out of Albania.

Then Britain, Greece and Yugoslavia would be free to turn their full attention northward, seeking to force an invasion of the Axis territory through its back door.

This seems roughly to be the strategy advocated by military experts in London, although some of them add that the assault through the Balkans should be accompanied by a fierce blow in the north to be struck by Britain's counter-invasion forces who have been training for many months without having a chance for real action.

Those who advocate simultaneous assaults in the north and south apparently count on the wide dispersal of Nazi forces to give the Allies an advantage. German troops certainly must be spread pretty thin by this time, but there remains the question of what use the German masters may make of Bulgarian, Hungarian and Rumanian forces which, it would seem, are theirs to command.

The Greeks and Yugoslavs have a tough assignment confronting them. They must fight defense warfare and probably must yield until they can establish strong positions in the mountains of their northern borders.

Whether they can expect help in force from any other country other than Britain is problematical. There seems every indication that Turkey intends to sit on the fence for the present and Russia has given no hint that her friendship fo Yugoslavia, expressed in Saturday's treaty or amity, is likely to go further than words.

A Long Frontier

Although six major mountain ranges intersect Yugoslavia, the lowlands, the best roads, and the most rail lines are in the north and northeast, along frontiers accessible to German forces. Her mountains and best defensive positions are in old Serbia, to the south, and in the Bosnia, Heregovina and Dalmatian sections to the west. The Yugoslav-Bulgarian frontier also is mountainous.

Recall Demanded

Enterprise Man Has Hand Cut Off

KINGSTON, Ont., April 7 (CP)—Courage and endurance of Leo Cassidy, 33, of Enterprise, saved his life Saturday, when he slipped and fell on the blade of a saw being used to saw wood on a lot north of Enterprise.

The young man suffered the loss of his left hand but remained conscious and directed his fellow workers how to place a tourniquet and save him from bleeding to death. The man was brought to the Hotel Dieu Hospital here and attended by Dr. D. W. Boucher, who said that the tourniquet undoubtedly saved his life.

New Record Is Set In Customs Revenue

The fiscal year of the Peterborough Customs house has exceeded all previous collections for twelve months, W. M. Lang told the Examiner today.

For the year 1940-41 the total amount of customs and excise monies was $3,370,936.55, an increase of $1,645,255.14 over the total for the corresponding year of 1939-1940, which end on March 31.

The total collections last year were ..,725,681.41. The smallest monthly return was April in 1940 at $116,798.61, and the greatest was March just past at $474,066.27.

1,310 PLEDGES ARE RECEIVED IN PORT HOPE FOR WAR SAVINGS

Cash Purchases During Drive Total $28,000

PORT HOPE, April 7.—(ENS).—Citizens are congratulating themselves on the success of the local campaign for War Saving Certificates. The objective was placed at 1,200 pledges, and the committee reported at the week-end a total of 1,310.

This number of pledges included 998 payroll deductions, 235 pledges at the banks and 27 honor pledges. During the same period of the War Certificate campaign there were actual cash purchases of certificates amounting to $28,000, which is not included in the total amount of the pledged certificates.

Noted Horseman John Davidson Dies In Cobourg

COBOURG, April 7 (ENS)—John Hector Davidson, a magistrate for many years and known throughout Ontario as a horseman and judge of horses, died over the week-end at his home in this town.

The late Mr. Davidson was born in Hamilton township, three miles north of Cobourg, 77 years ago, a son of the late Michael Davidson and Annie Beatty, and up to 36 years ago farmed on the property now occupied by Mervin Greer. He conducted a livery stable and auctioneering business in Cobourg for years, then became a customs officer and later was named magistrate.

He was an ardent Conservative all his life, and was one of the founders of the Cobourg Horse Show. Horses were his main hobby down through the years, and he was always in demand as a judge of horses. For several years he was judge at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto and on a few occasions at the Eglinton Hunt Club, Toronto. For the past quarter of a century he judged at fall fairs throughout the lakeshore district and a host of friends in many places will mourn his passing.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m. from his late residence at the corner of University Avenue and Division street to Union Cemetery for interment. The Rev. Mr. Woodger of Cobourg United Church will conduct the funeral service.

Surviving are two sons, Rupert Edgar of Toronto and Norman Edward of New York city. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. Albert Hoskin and Mrs. Louis Rosevear of Cobourg.

PORT HOPE

War Services Drive Is Well Received

PORT HOPE, April 7 (ENS) — Reporting on the War Services Fund drive in Port Hope at the end of the first week of the campaign, officials stated they were satisfied with the reception received in Port Hope. No quota was announced it was pointed out but nevertheless returns have been satisfactory.

The short period alloted the canvass kept the canvassers and team captains busy the entire week with still a few streets to be completed before the drive closes.

Local factories strongly supported the campaign an official said.

The drive was assisted by the Rotary and Lions Clubs in view of only three of the six interested war service organizations having a representation in Port Hope. The I.O.D.E., Canadian Legion and the Salvation Army are organized and have played an important role in the campaign.

COBOURG

Auxiliary Holds Sale Of Baking

COBOURG, April 7 — (ENS). — The domestic and apron sale held on Saturday morning by the Women's Auxiliary of the 4th Field Regiment was a decided success. The conveners and their assistants were busy serving the many customers for the lovely display of home baking and the serviceable and useful aprons.

Tickets were sold on an angel cake and won by Lester Caughey, who turned it back and the second draw, H. Lucas, was the lucky winner.

The proceeds were encouraging, and will be used for supplying treats and comforts for the members of the 4th Field Regiment serving overseas.

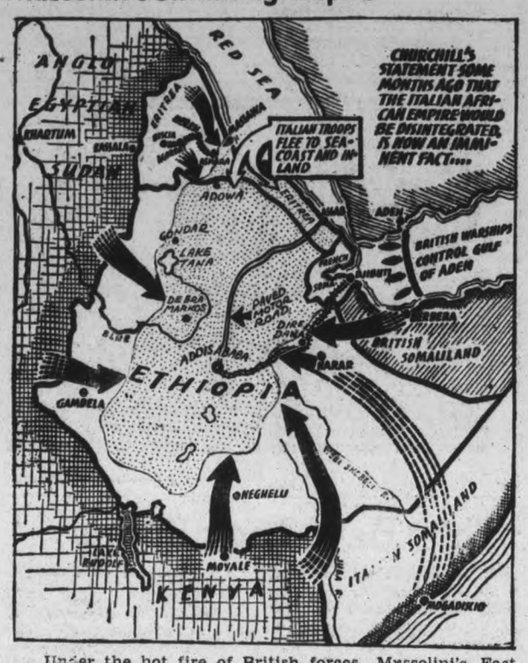
Mussolini's Shrinking Empire



Under the hot fire of British forces, Mussolini's East African empire is shrinking, and only the Red Sea port of Massawa, under the threat of British naval guns, appears to stand between his foes and possession of Eritrea, oldest of his crumbling colonies. The shaded area, still held by Italy, is being pierced on all sides by swift British assaults (arrow). The Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad has been cut and Addis Abab captured.

Port Hope Customs Set New Record

PORT HOPE, April 7 (ENS)—Import and export duties collected at the local customs port in the past fiscal year surpass last year's record by 95.5 per cent, customs officials reported in announcing the receipts total $245,531.85. Customs returns have risen steadily since the war broke out while the war exchange tax levied in June greatly accelerated the rise. The tax on imports was $167,086 and excise revenue totalled $79,438.

PORT HOPE

30 Pupils Apply To Leave School

PORT HOPE, April 7 (ENS) — The district farm labor shortage will be relieved in part when the Easter holidays at the High School start it is learned as approximately thirty applications have been received by Principal G. L. Brackenbury for permission to leave school at Easter.

Throughout the district the need for farm help is prevalent. Many former assistants have entered factories, leaving the positions unfilled. It is in this capacity that the sons of farmers attending school have requested permission to leave school this week. Pending on the results of their standing in the current examinations and the length of time worked between now and the succeeding fall term they will receive standing in their respective forms.

More than ten per cent of the pupils have applied to leave school. There are approximately 275 pupils attending school which is less than during the fall term Principal Brackenbury explained as many students have entered factories.

At the present time there are no student applications in for permission to work in factories.

Five Families Forced To Flee

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., April 7—(CP)—Five families were forced to flee from an apartment house here early today after fire of undetermined origin broke out and filled the premises with smoke. The fire started in a large garage at the rear of the building, destroying the garage and causing $500 damage to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. W. Richards.

The alarm was given by the cries of the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richards. The couple aroused the other occupants of the building.

COBOURG

Home Baking Sale Held By Y.W.M.S.

COBOURG, April 7—(ENS). — A very delightful tea and sale of home baking and fancy work was held in the Sunday School Hall of Trinity United Church, Chapel street, Friday afternoon by the Young Women's Missionary Society.

The tea room conveners were Mrs. J. Haig, Mrs. Wythe and Miss E. Kerr, while Mrs. Rodgers and Miss L. Staples were in charge of the domestic table, and Mrs. Ritchie convened the fancy-work.

The attendance was very gratifying to those in charge as the tea room was filled all afternoon with members and friends coming for tea, and the domestic and fancy-work tables came in for their share of patronage.

Work Is Lauded By Crowds

COBOURG, April 7. — (ENS). — The Cobourg Collegiate's new building was a busy scene Saturday as the second night of a two-day display of the school's arts and crafts exhibition was opened to the public. The rooms were crowded as the townspeople, parents and friends of the students gazed with approving eyes upon the fascinating display. Downstairs the shop work was in the process of being turned out from many machine, including a wood lathe, two steel lathes, large jointer, jig saw, circular saw, blow torch and all the strange tools used in the intricate work handled so easily by the advanced students. Many of the tools, including the metal spinning tools were made by the students themselves while all the woodwork, shelves, benches, machine supports, etc., were made in the shop by the young addicts of the trades. The shop work itself is under the supervision of Mr. W. Clarke, one of the most popular members of the staff.

The primary schools fourth classes also attend the shop classes at the high school. Upstairs there was a display of the finished articles, tables, chairs, teapot stands, book racks, small novelties were on the shelves completely finished. While in the technical end blueprinting and draughting was being shown before the public gaze. Objects of art included stained glass, lind cuts, plastic craft, woodcutting, metal tracing, and dressmaking, needlework etc. From the smallest bolt to the largest finished article not a flaw could be found. While in the girls department the dresses and smaller wear displayed would have graced any beauty salon.

Principal R. N. McKenzie was the centre of congratulatory messages all during the display as pleased parents and visitors took time out to approve the modern way of education. The display, which will be open again to-night, is free, and the only money taken in during the craft display was realized in the refreshment room where all proceeds taken will go to the British War Victims Fund. The refreshment room was staffed and entirely under the direction of the girl students of he school. The Examiner was shown around by students Maize, Peterson, Carey and Irvine, who explained the various work mysteries.

The many friends of Col. Arthur Hopper were pleased to see him out again after his recent illness and hope he will soon be around again completely restored to health.

Two Injured Saturday In Collision

COBOURG, April 7. — (ENS).— A collision between two cars near the shelter valley road intersection occurred on Saturday afternoon. One was driven by Chester W. Cross, 618 Linwood avenue, Buffalo, New York, and the other by Frederick Brady of Oshawa. Brady and a passenger in his car were removed to hospital suffering from minor injuries. The passenger was Wallace McDonald, a member of the R.C.O.C., Kingston. The men were given treatment by Dr. Robertson of Cobourg.

Cross was unhurt. Provincial Constable Dave Adair investigated the accident.

UNDERGROUND SCHOOLS

LONDON—(CP).—London's evening institutes — night schools — mostly closed since the air-raids started, have in many cases been reopened and going strong in underground shelters.

HORSE-BOX CANTEEN

Jos. Patterson President Cobourg Rotary

COBOURG, April 7 — (ENS). — Joseph Patterson was elected president of the Cobourg Rotary Club at the regular meeting held last week. He succeeds Lester Caughey. Other directors elected were John Ewart, Fred Slade, and J. M. Harison. Jack Allen is the fourth director and as he still has a year to serve he did not come up for election. Ford Lindsay was named secretary and W. Maize treasurer, and R. N. McKenzie is the vice-president.

As is the usual custom every year two students from the Cobourg Collegiate Institute, Neil Gibbs and John Wilson, attended.

COBOURG

Monthly Leave Brings Many Soldiers

COBOURG, April 7 (ENS)—The week-end leave quota for Cobourg was of the highest during the past three days as members of the armed forces returned for the leave spending that comes once a month to the C.A.S.F. The 4th Light A.A. Battery formerly the 3rd-47 had the largest representation of the Cobourg units on hand. They were Jack Menie, Max Smith, Gordon Cain, George Campbell, Frank Pearse, Jack Newton, Bob Labrash, Art Manley, George Rumbelow, Harold Rumbelow, Fred Burge, Lyle Pearse, Jim Pearse, Ernie Rusk, Lionel Gutteridge, Ted Hogan, Jerry Bambridge, Roy Wilson, J. Erskine, Grant Erskine, Lyle Ball, Joe Freeman, George Turpin, Gnr. Sowden, Jack Reymes, Lt. Menie.

From the Dental Corps George Dufton, and from the Midland Regiment Chuck Jacobson and Fred Core. The Air Force boys were led by Flight-Lt. Delmar O. Moore and F. Thompson as well as Doug Campbell. The Veterans' Guard detachment at St. John, Quebec sent Ptes. Henry Gordon and Charley Bailey.

One of the earliest Cobourg boys to enlist also returned home in Pte. Willis Ward, a member of the 11th Army Tank Battalion, Ontario Regiment. He was employed for eleven years by the Edwards and Edwards Co. Ward enlisted at the outbreak of hostilities.

Cobourg Man Arrested

COBOURG, April 7. — (ENS). — Earl Semple was arrested and brought to Cobourg over the week-end. Police allege Semple had been creating a disturbance at the home of Mrs. George Cotton, and it is stated that he smashed a window drring the altercation.

PORT HOPE

Durham Farmers Expect Early Start

PORT HOPE, April 7 —(ENS)— Durham County farmers expect to be on the land early this year it is learned in conversation with farmers dealing in Port Hope. The deep snow fall has melted gradually this year and flowed off without damage to surface soil while the frost which was considered light, has already practically left the ground in the southern section of the county, farmers said. Pleasure at the manner in which the surface water has escaped was expressed by farmers residing in the Ganaraska River valley. In a flood year thousands of tons of valuable top soil is lost as the surface waters escape into the river. This year however there was no damage and with the frost out of the ground there is little fear of a flood.

In the river basin and ponds water has receded to normal levels and the ice has gone downstream.

HAVE
PLEDGED ALL YOU CAN TO BUY WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES regularly?

YOU KNOW that Canada's War Effort requires a steady flow of money — week by week, month by month — loaned from the savings of her people.

If YOU HAVEN'T pledged yourself —ACT NOW! Canada needs ALL you can save and lend. There are three ways to pledge:
1. Ask your employer to deduct a specified sum from your salary or wages each pay day.
2. Authorize your bank to deduct it each month from your savings account.
3. Sign an "Honour Pledge" to buy Stamps or Certificates for a specified amount at regular intervals.

If YOU HAVE pledged yourself —keep up your pledge. See your investment grow as the months go by. INCREASE the amount you have promised to save and invest. And remember that, in addition to your regular pledged amount, you can at any time buy extra War Savings Certificates from your local Bank—Post Office—or you can send your money to the War Savings Committee in Ottawa.

The Balkan War Begins

The Balkan war has started, and it came to pass because Yugoslavia refused to lie down and allow Germany to walk over it on the way to Greece. If ever there has been a heroic move made it has been that of Yugoslavia.

For weeks Germany has been pouring troops and equipment into the Balkans, into Rumania and Hungary, and Yugoslavia knew all about it. Knew too that the forces opposed to her were greater in number than that country could hope to combat.

Yugoslavia is one more country which has been attacked for no other reason than the German desire for ruling Europe. That small nation desired nothing; was asking for nothing; desired only to go its way and attend to its own business.

Early reports are not clear, but it is evident the British have a considerable army in the district. The whole situation has been carefully reviewed by their commanders, and the move of the Germans has not come as a surprise.

Britain fully weighed the risks involved, and they are admittedly considerable, but Britain has gone in there and today is in action against the German invaders.

There is also an element of danger in this situation for the Germans, for they are now fighting a long way from home; their supply lines have been much extended. It may well turn toward a supreme test of the war. It is as dangerous as can be, but Britain faces the changed front with confidence.

Much To Explain

Can it be entirely a coincidence and nothing more that as soon as United States completed the passage of its Lend-Lease measure and gave the order for full and complete effort on its aid to Britain and its own defence program that plants should be tied up by strikes?

The plants were all in operation before, and apparently working conditions were much the same then as they are today. So why is it that the strike weapon is being so much used now?

There are 150,000 miners on strike in the soft coal fields of the South.

The Allis-Chalmers plant near Milwaukee has been struck for two months, and in there are larger orders for machinery for the U.S. defence program.

There is immediate danger of 250,000 men going on strike in the plants of the United States Steel Corporation, and never in the history of the country has there been such an insistent and essential demand for steel.

The Ford Motor Co. announces its intention of closing its 16 assembly plants through the country and that will mean 118,000 men not working, and in the Ford plants at Detroit are hundreds of millions of defence program orders.

Officials at the Ford plant make the charge that tool and die parts used in aircraft construction have been damaged to the extent of $100,000, and officials of the company have gone to Washington to lay charge that communists have been at work and are responsible for the damage.

To add to the confusion the C.I.O. has made the charge that the Ford company is favorable to the Fascist governments, and subpoenas have been issued for Henry Ford and Edsel Ford to appear and answer such charges. The union men claim that none of the defence workers was call out on strike.

One would hesitate to make the general statement that communism was responsible for all this trouble, and we do not believe any such charge should be hastily or carelessly made.

But having said that we also claim that those who are bringing on these strikes are placed squarely in the position of having to explain why it is that in the midst of the world's greatest war and their nation's greatest peril they are pulling as many men from jobs which are tied up with war production.

If there were one strike here and after a while another one there not much attention would be paid to it, but when they come with a multiplicity sufficient to cause serious disruption of the entire war effort, there is a lot of explaining which should be done — and done at once.

They Never Learn

Four men who visited Peterborough early in February have been found guilty of robbery and they have all been sentenced to penitentiary. They were not what might be called amateurs, and there is every possibility that they were quite certain they could enter a Peterborough store, open a safe on an upper floor, take away the contents and make a clean job of it and escape detection. Had they been able to do that they would have had some four or five thousand dollars in their possession, and likely they would have been satisfied that was the easy way to make a living.

When the safe was opened it was found there was another little strong box inside, and in it was the cash. It was a tough thing and would not easily yield its contents, so it was taken away to a place where an acetylene torch could be applied. It gave way under that treatment and the money was removed.

And here it is that certain conditions begin to enter the situation on which the four bright men had not calculated. Bills were found in their possession when arrested, and some of them were slightly scorched along the edges. There was something more, as some of the bills were found to have particles of metal clinging to them, and an analyst explained that the metal on the bills corresponded to the metal in the little strong box which had been burned open.

We are quite certain they had never thought about that. They were probably sure that no men in the country were more daring or more clever than themselves, and that their planning and timing had been well prepared and would bring nothing but success. But there they are, all of them tried, found guilty and sentenced to Kingston.

On the same day when these sentences were being passed there came another report from St. Clement's (near Kitchener) telling of the robbing of a bank there. Two men, both armed, had secured $2,000, and their method was much the same as mugs generally follow on such errands. They had entered and covered the staff of two and caused the money to be handed out, after which they used a car to make a get-away.

But they slipped up. One customer was about to enter the bank and turned away in time and called police in Kitchener. The result was the alarm was given, and pursuit was not long in starting. The car in which they rode was abandoned and the two men took to a swamp. Farmers with shotguns and forks came to the scene and a soldier spotted the two in hiding. They came out after having become so tamed and humble that they slipped handcuffs on their own wrists.

These people never seem to learn. They never come to the conclusion that other people are perhaps a good deal smarter than they themselves. Our prisons are filled with such people but that makes not the least difference. There are always those who are certain they can succeed where others have failed in crime. The one regrettable feature is that it costs the country quite a sum of money each year to prove to them how wrong they are.

Draws Two Salaries

W. G. Nixon, Liberal member of the Legislature for Temiskaming, is to be named industrial commissioner for the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad. He has been in the Legislature since 1934 and possibly is well qualified for the new position.

But he intends to retain his seat, so he will be drawing two salaries. It is explained that his position will be no different than that of the chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission and the chairman of the Liquor Control Board, both of whom are members of the Legislature and in receipt of two salaries.

In that way they occupy dual positions, members of the Legislature, and as such having voice and vote in the control of the businesses which they serve and by which they are paid. It is like being an employer and employee at the same time.

We cannot see much difference in that situation to one which would make it possible for an alderman to be the city clerk, and draw salary as such.

It also raises the question of the government using its power of appointment to reward a follower. Mr. Nixon, judging by his qualifications and record, ought to make a suitable occupant for the position, but we find it hard to see why he should also be a member of the Legislature.

Took His Own Life

The Prime Minister of Hungary, Count Paul Teleki, passed out of the picture with little notice being taken of his departure. It was announced at the time he had died from a heart attack, but the press was permitted to say that death was plain suicide, and we believe that version to be correct. There has been virtually nothing at all published about him since, although his death was announced several days ago.

Teleki was not of the Nazi breed, and he was opposed to his country lying down when Germany desired small nations to pave the way for expansion east into the Balkans. His country was dragged into the last war with the Germans, but the desire for independence in the full meaning of the word was strong in Bulgaria.

It may be that when Teleki saw what Greece had done and what Yugoslavia was preparing to do he realized to the full how much he loathed what his own country had been forced to do. German pressure was applied and German threats were louder than German promises.

If the full and complete story of Count Paul Teleki was written we might have laid bare a tragedy of the major variety, of a patriot who preferred death to going through with the course which had been mapped out for his country.

What Ontario Pays

Ontario has something slightly less than one-third of the population of the Dominion of Canada, and from returns which were given in the House of Commons this province pays more than one-half the revenue. The figures show for the fiscal year 1939-40:

Income Tax:
Total collected $189,367,927
Ontario paid 102,652,438
Sales Tax Calendar year 1940:
Total collected $171,879,456
Ontario paid 93,432,819
Customs import calendar year 1940:
Total collected $139,109,415
Ontario paid 75,708,039

According to the same return the sales tax has had a varied experience in Canada. It came into effect first in May of 1920 and started at 1 per cent, and from that small beginning attained its present rate of 8 per cent, which has been effective since May of 1936.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The budget is not likely to be brought down before Easter, so the chances for the Easter bonnet went up sharply.

A man in Dallas, Texas, has made the same address 540 times. By now he should be able to pause at the places where he knows applause is certain to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Willkie have been invited to come over and visit the Dionne quints. It will be difficult to refuse when there are five good and sufficient reasons for making the trip.

Bombs now used by the R.A.F. over Germany are five times more powerful than those previously in use. Unfortunate in a way, but that is the sort of language which Germany understands.

The enumerators are to be paid ten cents for turning in a report about the abandoned report. It might be worth a good deal more if he could ferret out the truth and tell why the place had been abandoned.

Germany and Italy demanded that United States should release all the seized vessels in its ports as well as the German and Italian crews. The exact answer, we have not seen, but in effect it meant "nothin' doing."

Man in Berlin stole chickens during a blackout and was sent to prison for six years. Possibly the poor fellow considered he had as much right to steal chickens as the German army had for plundering all the lesser nations of Europe.

EXPLAINED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ It must be sixty years ago, that I had hair that used to grow, it was a goodly crop; and it was thick and it was long, and it grew rank and it grew strong, much like the kitchen mop.

¶ Then I went to the barber shop, and shed a section of my crop, he had an ancient seat; but then I thought it quite worth while, and used to watch with quite a smile, the pile around my feet.

¶ He used some ointment on me too, like flowers that in the springtime grew, I smelled like all the gents; he fixed me rather smooth and nice, and I recall quite well the price, for it was fifteen cents.

¶ I trod forth gaily on the earth, and felt I had my money's worth, I knew my hair would grow; I used to brush it pompadour, a thing I can't do any more, and slick it so and so.

¶ But now my thatch is almost bare, I'm well acquainted with each hair, can call each one by name; so when I go to get a trim, I have a notion deep within, the price should be the same.

¶ The barber looks at me dismayed, he makes me feel somewhat afraid, he answers rather blunt; he tells me that my head's so bare, he has to operate with care—and he must hunt and hunt.

Our Statesmen Argue Much . . . Or Is It Debate?

From Hansard

Mr. ILSLEY: Then we are in agreement as to the hon. gentleman's position. I have got rid of a lot of other positions which he appeared to me to occupy from time to time throughout his address: First, the position that we had no power—there is nothing in that. Then there is the position that we should never amend an act of parliament by order in council while parliament is in session. We have got rid of that. We are down now to the question whether this particular matter is of such a nature that we should not have taken this action while parliament was in session. That is a question as to which there might be two opinions. I can tell the hon. gentleman and the committee exactly what happened. We were drifting into a state of administrative chaos, because it was simply impossible to operate under section 29 of the Consolidated Revenue and Audit Act. It is utterly impossible to estimate what will come for payment within the fiscal year and what will not.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): Why not come to parliament and say so?

Mr. ILSLEY: Perhaps we can divest this controversy still further of any elements of disagreement between us. Is the hon. gentleman now saying that he has no objection to what we did, because I will not argue in favor of our action if he does?

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): That is not very complimentary; it is equivalent to asking me to say whether I had made out a case. I think I made a good case, and I believe the people will think I made a good case. With regard to the question of financial control when parliament is in session, I tried to make it plain that in my opinion the government should have come to the house and told us what the difficulty was and they would have obtained relief at once. In respect of this and other cases, I still hold that the principle which I enunciated was good. Whether you should call it the Canadian reserve of no consequence, although the principle is there.

Mr. ILSLEY: If there is no—

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver Centre): With respect to the one passed by my department, parliament was informed within two or three days.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): It took the minister a week to get it out, and the country did not understand what it was.

Mr. ILSLEY: May I have order, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN: Order.

Mr. ILSLEY: If the hon. gentleman is making no claim that what we did was wrong, that it was a bad thing to do; if he is merely arguing about the way we did it, let us have that understood.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): I said that what you did was wrong and illegal.

Mr. ILSLEY: Well, all I can say is that the procedure worked out by this order in council was not only necessary but was well considered and long considered.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): Why did you not bring it to parliament if you took a long time to consider it?

Mr. ILSLEY: Will the hon. gentleman wait until I come to that. We cannot have it agreed, I suppose, can we, in order to avoid jumping from one point to another, that the hon. gentleman has no objection to the procedure?

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): I am not sure that I know exactly what the procedure is. I never sat in with treasury board. I never had any accountant come to me and explain the procedure. I can only try to interpret the language for myself, and I am not an accountant. The point I make— and I want to repeat it—is that I do not think the government should have changed the law of the country without coming to parliament with respect to treasury commitments. That is the point I make.

Mr. ILSLEY: The hon. gentleman has repeated that over and over again.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): Yes, and the minister ignores it.

Mr. ILSLEY: But I wish to point out that the hon. gentleman does not criticize what we did. He does not criticize the procedure we set up. He has made no case; he has not attempted to make a case, that we did not do the wise thing in making this change.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): That is a matter of opinion; I do not know. I never argued that at all.

Mr. ILSLEY: He is not arguing the point.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): I did not say that. Do not put words into my mouth.

Mr. ILSLEY: He is not criticizing the government for having set up a bad procedure or for having done anything wrong.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): May I ask the minister a question? Is it his argument that the end justifies the means?

Mr. ILSLEY: Not at all.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): That is exactly what the minister argues.

Mr. ILSLEY: I am trying to find out what the hon. gentleman is driving at, and apparently he is saying something like this: "You may have done a very good thing; I do not know whether it is or not."

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): I did not say that.

Mr. ILSLEY: Well, he does not take any exception at all to what we did here.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): I am making no commitments.

KEEPING FIT

"He's a great believer in exercise. He used to have dogs before the war."

—London Daily Herald.

• They Have Their Rights

THE British occupation of Cyrenaica, although restoring almost normal peacetime conditions, has naturally presented a number of problems. These derive chiefly from events which have taken place there since Italy took Libya from the Turks in 1911.

Latterly the Italians undertook a considerable mass colonization, the settlers receiving official aid in establishing their farms, mostly in the coastal regions. A few colonists were mobilized, but the majority carried on, the war passing them by, and they are still trying to carry on. This situation has given rise to a suggestion that the territory's long-range economic and political problems ought to be tackled by the British authorities immediately, and a well-known British lawyer recently wrote to the local press recalling British experience elsewhere and advocating that the Italian settlers should be shipped to Italy, where their discontent might hasten Mussolini's downfall.

These suggestions ignore the fact that the war is not yet over and that until it is Cyrenaica will be occupied by an invading force whose rights and responsibilities are governed by the Hague Convention of 1907. This provides in effect that enemy sovereignty is only temporary and does not pass to the occupier, who is unable to treat the territory or its subjects as his own.

Since the occupier's rights are transitory he can only exercise the powers necessary for war purposes, for the safety of the occupying army, and for the administration of the territory on a care-and-maintenance basis. The occupier is unable to alter the existing form of government, upset the Constitution, destroy domestic laws, or ignore legal rights.

These are limitations of authority which the commander of a civilized army accepts. While it is true that the Germans have not observed them, that is no excuse for us who are fighting for respect for international law and order. The final settlement of the Libyan problems is a matter for the peace conference. — Manchester Guardian.

• The Chairman's Ruling

From Parliamentary Hansard

The CHAIRMAN: What is the hon. gentleman reading from?

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): What difference does it make? The chairman has no right to interrupt the speaker in that way and ask him what he is reading from. He announced it anyway. This interference by the chairman must stop.

The CHAIRMAN: Order. There is a well-known rule of the house that no hon. member may read from a private document or a public document without stating what he is reading from.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): He stated it.

The CHAIRMAN: My question was, what the hon. gentleman was reading from, and I missed his reply. If any one desires to speak to the point of order—

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): It was not on any point of order.

The CHAIRMAN: Yes. The leader of the opposition rose in his place and stated that he was raising a point of order.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): No, I did not say anything of the sort. What happened was that the chairman himself intervened to interrupt this speaker, and he had no right to do so because the hon. member was quite within the rules. We might as well have this question of order settled.

The CHAIRMAN: Order, please. The hon. gentleman cannot rise in his place when another hon. member is speaking, except on a point of order. I, as chairman, said that I understood him to rise to a point of order, and I say the point of order is wrongly taken. The chairman has a right to ask what document the hon. gentleman is reading from and I am asking that question.

Mr. BLACK (Cumberland): I was reading from the Vancouver Sun of March 11, a statement purporting to have been made by Mr. D. B. Carswell, controller of ship construction and repairs in the Department of Munitions and Supply.

PLANTED STRIKE GERMS

THE enemy propaganda foundation for the wave of strikes does not come so much from direct activities now in progress, however, as it does from ideas that were carefully planted months ago and for which even many of the best informed of Americans have innocently fallen. The most sinister of these was the claim that the Defence of Canada Regulations in this country and corresponding regulations in Britain and also increased Government authority over both capital and labor in the British countries had destroyed democracy as a practical, living form of government.

As the devil can quote scripture for his own purposes, the totalitarian propagandists in the United States have harped again and again on the theme that a democracy cannot help but become totalitarian during a war. The people of Canada and Britain of course know from experience that the reverse is the case. It is true that it would be unsafe to forget about the preservation of democratic rights, privileges and safeguards, and it is also true that some details, a few rights, privileges and safeguards are in a state of suspension, but generally speaking democracy as a living force is in a healthier condition than ever before in the British countries. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

PRACTICE BLACKOUT

PRINCE RUPERT held a blackout Thursday night and made a good job of it.

Vancouver has talked about a blackout, but that is as far as it has gone. The city and the provincial government have reached no agreement. The provincial government will not say how much it will contribute, if anything. The city is not certain of its legal powers.

In the meantime the public has no idea of what it should do in a blackout.—Vancouver Sun.

A Bit of Nonsense

A "Homer"

"Well, did you get any surprise presents for your birthday?"

"Yes, rather. I got a book from Bill I lent you last year."

Mouths of Babes

A schoolmistress asked a child what "S-e-e" spelt.

The child hesitated.

"What do I do when I look at you?" said the mistress.

"Thquint," replied the scholar.

Clue

"Mary, my husband came home very late last night. Can you tell me what time it was?"

"Well, ma'am, I don't know exactly, but when I got up this morning the master's hat was swinging backwards and forwards on the hatstand."

Warning

An old Scotch woman was wandering around the local museum with her grandson. Then they came to the usual statue of Venus de Milo, with half an arm missing on one side and the whole arm cut away on the other.

"There ye are, my lad," said the old grandmother, wagging her finger at the youngster. "That's what comes o' bitting your finger-nails."

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

APRIL 7

1911 East City stores of Jas. R. Bell, J. C. Sullivan, George Wheeler and T. B. Manlece are burglarized.

It is announced that the Peterborough Public Library has a membership now of over 1,000.

The old firm of H. LeBrun and Company will be carried on in future by Joseph Picard.

Will J. Metheral, manager of the Strathcona Hockey and Baseball Clubs is dead after a long illness.

Hilliard Lang, welterweight champion of Canada and Joe Lannon, Syracuse, box six rounds to a draw at the Grand Opera House.

1931 Adj. Pearl Payton of Peterborough assists in rescuing the crew of the whaler Viking off Horse Island, Newfoundland.

J. H. Vernor in an address to Rotary refutes the theory that new machinery is the cause of unemployment.

G. R. West and G. Carroll have been appointed to the staff of the local Vocational School.

J. J. Turner has been elected president of the Peterborough Health Association.

Under the auspices of the Boys' Work Board 234 'teen age boys are taken on a tour of local industries.

1921 Daylight saving bylaw is defeated by 624 to 437 and a bylaw to spend $40,000 on storm drains is turned down by 519 to 254.

City council decides to assist in honoring the Y.M.C.A. basketball team, intermediate champions of Ontario.

The pouring of the cement handrail on the Hunter street bridge is nearly completed. Forty men are still working on the structure.

Board of Trade is still endeavoring to have a fish hatchery established here.

The thermometer registered 60 degrees today, considerably cooler than yesterday when a mark of 77 was reached.

IN WAR TIME

1916 The first casualty among the Peterborough members of the 8th C.M.R. is reported, Pte. Jack Jones having been wounded.

It is expected that the 93rd Battalion will be sent to Barriefield Camp for further training within a few weeks.

First steps are taken in a movement to organize a Playgrounds Association here.

George W. Allen of Peterborough who re-enlisted after returning from overseas has been appointed Sergt.-major of the 49th Battery.

Outside detachment of the 93rd Battalion from Apsley, Curve Lake, Lakefield, Norwood and Havelock are to be brought to Peterborough shortly.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the kingdom of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness sake for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake.

Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in the kingdom of heaven, for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you. — Matthew 5.

To The Editor

PROPAGANDA

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Re letter from C5613 (Examiner, April 1st).

Prior to the spring offensive of 1940 French troops received letters like yours, C5613, through radios, mail and cleverly fabricated evidence. They were led to believe that while they were up the line their wives and sweethearts were taking their pleasure with British soldiers.

We know how it sapped their morale. This clever propaganda should be brought to the attention of your officers, C5613.

A RETURNED MAN.

14 PRIZES WEEKLY

RULES OF THE CONTEST

The "Shop-O-Gram" Page will appear in The Peterborough Examiner every Monday. In the numbered spaces of the heading there appears phrases or slogans which have been taken from the advertisements appearing on this page.

WHAT TO DO—The reader must find among the advertisements appearing on this page the ones from which the "Shop-O-Grams" have been taken. In making up a solution, first write down the number of the "Shop-O-Gram" as it appears in the heading. Then opposite the number write the name and address of the Advertiser from whose advertisement it has been taken. Repeat this for each of the "Shop-O-Grams." To make your solution eligible for entry, attach to it a receipt or label showing that goods or service have been purchased from any one of the Advertisers on this page.

AWARDING OF PRIZES from all correct and eligible solutions received during the week, 14 will be drawn. The first two will receive a War Savings Certificate of five dollars, the third and 4th merchandise orders of $3 and $2 respectively on any Advertiser on this page (mention in your reply what Advertiser you desire order on), while the next 10 will receive a ticket to the Capitol Theatre. SPECIAL PRIZES at the end of each 13-week period two special prizes will be awarded. These special prizes will be awarded to the two contestants who send in each 13-week period the greatest number of correct answers, accompanied by the greatest number of receipts from the largest variety of advertisers on this page. The first will be a War Savings Certificate of twenty dollars and the second a War Savings Certificate of ten dollars. The total given away for the year in War Savings Certificates is $640, and the total in merchandise orders is $260.

The first 13-week period is February 3 to April 28, the second May 5 to July 28, the third August 4 to October 27, and the fourth November 3 to January 26, 1942.

Replies must reach this office by noon next Friday. Address same to the "Shop-O-Gram Editor."

QUAFFERS DEFEAT BEES 30 TO 24 TO CAPTURE CITY LEAGUE TITLE

Yankees' Rookie Double-Play Stars In Action

The above magic-eye sequence shows you the amazing rookies, Phil Rizzuto, shortstop, and Gerald Priddy, second baseman, in a demonstration of their double play specialty at the training camp of the New York Yankees in St. Petersburg. Follow the pictures and you see Rizzuto scoop up the ball to toss underhand to Priddy at second, who makes the putout and starts the throw to first to complete the double-play. Despite the wonderful predictions about Rizzuto's chances in the coming season, hardboiled regulars believe that the veteran Frank Crosetti will still be the Yanks' first-string shortstop when "play ball" resounds.

Sudden Death Game Is Very Close

Quaffers won the championship of the Senior City Basketball League and will be the second name enscribed on the Chester Kemp Memorial trophy, after eliminating Bees 30-24 in a sudden death game final at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night.

In one of the closest contests of the year Quaffers emerged from forty minutes of terrific checking on the long end of the score to beat a team that had crowded them out the entire season.

It was a close, bitterly fought conclusion to a rather loose jointed season and was easily the hottest contest of the year.

Quaffers carried a slight edge through most of the game to win the Kemp trophy, donated last year by members of a city championship team of a couple of decades ago and won last year by Zephyrs.

Bitter checking of Thorburn and McArthur, the high scoring team of the losers and a steady opportunity grabbing offense earned the Quaffers their victory. The winners built up a 17-10 lead in the heavy checking of the first half and then held Bees to a 14-13 score in the final half. The Bees never stopped trying but couldn't quite get their high scoring attack, which has been their strong point all year, underway, and they trailed almost all the way. Both teams were forced to turn in some sensational shooting to get points at all and a lot of scores were set up by nice offensive plays. Quaffers made five free throws in eight tries and the Bees came through with two in eight throws from the foul line. McPherson, who threw in nine points and was a standout defensively and Stewart who led the scorers with 12 were the winners' stars and McArthur with 12 points and Johnston at guard were best for the losers. The teams:

Quaffers 30: McPherson (9), Turner, McIntyre (1), Stewart (12), Dougherty (6), Ward (2).

Bees 24: Thorburn (8), McArthur (12), Johnston, Rogow (2), Harle (2).

Referee—Nels Stanger.

SPORTS - DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Oshawa's hope of a third Memorial Cup triumph in a row received a noticeable jolt Saturday night when a big, fast Montreal Royal team defeated the Generals in a thrilling game in Toronto 7 goals to 4. No Montreal team has ever won the Memorial Cup but the 1941 entry looks capable of making the strongest bid yet recorded in the 23 years of junior cup competition. Like Kingston, the Royals are cashing in on the fact that there is no intercollegiate hockey this season. Four of the Royal stars are McGill students and the only fly in the ointment so far as the Royals are concerned is the fact that the McGill examinations and the Eastern Canadian junior finals clash. The college players on the Montreal team are writing examinations today but will fly to Toronto in time to get into the second game with Oshawa tonight. If those birds can pass their exams and at the same time knock the Generals out of competition we'll all have to take off our hats to them.

* * * * * *

The Quaffers, remnants of the Quakers and Zephyrs of last season are champions of the City Basketball League and will hold the Chester Kemp memorial trophy for the next year. The Q team won the honors Saturday night when they defeated the Bees 31 to 24 in a close fought battle that failed to develop into the high-scoring exhibition that was expected in view of the fact that some of the best ball tossers in the city were hooked up in this final duel. The winners grabbed off the win by setting up a lead in the first half and breaking even with the Bees in the tensely fought second period. The City League final brings the basketball season to an end. The Girls' League completed its season over a week ago and will wind up the season with the annual banquet tonight while Collegiate, Outboard Marines and Y.M.C.A. juniors who represented the city in outside competition were through some time ago.

* * * * * *

Peterborough's gift to United States hockey, Bill Calladine of the Philadelphia Ramblers and Ned Vitarelli of Pick Hines' Baltimore Orioles are home from the long campaign across the border. Both look in the proverbial pink and both report a good season. Bill declares that the going in the professional loop was not so strenuous as it had been in the "amateur" league across the border. "They hit you hard enough," he said, "but they are not so rough as the boys in the other league." Calladine finished up the season at right wing for the Ramblers, after playing centre in the early part of the campaign.

* * * * * *

They Bring Home the Money

Gene Ward of the New York Sunday News declares that Canadians who are playing professional hockey across the border are more valuable because of their effect upon the exchange situation than they would be as soldiers. The following is taken from his interesting article: It has been bandied about of recent months that the war will fold up the National Hockey League—that your favorite rink warriors will be in mufti when the leaves begin to fall. I'm stepping up like a good reporter to say it's not so, that as long as Canada's hockey heroes continue to dump good American dollars into the Dominion they'll never be called to arms. And you can bet on that! The governing gentlemen of Canada are too astute to allow such a thing to happen because your professional hockey player is bringing home somewhere between half a million and a million dollars—and that's a lot of jack to a country at war. The flag of patriotism flies high in Canada but the dollar sign is a necessary insigne. All players with teams which operate in the States are "on allowance" and can spend just so much of their salary each week. This spending money varies according to the needs of the individual and the will of the Foreign Exchange Board. But the bulk of the hockey star's salary must be deposited in Canadian banks in monthly or bi-monthly installments—and the FEB makes very certain there are no slip-ups and that the money doesn't wander back into the States.

* * * * * *

To my way of thinking you can bet your best spring chapeau that as long as the stick-handling professional comes home with his paycheck, like a heckled husband on Saturday night, the good government of Canada will do nothing to change the setup, continues the article. What are 200-odd men as soldiers compared to the American dough they can bring home and circulate as hockey players? Lester Patrick feels conscription is a long way off for Canada, that the Dominion won't be sending soldiers overseas, other than volunteers, for a long, long time. "As long as we satisfy the FEB and comply with the military regulations," he predicts, "I don't believe we'll lose any hockey players to the army." There's another little matter that seems to have been overlooked by those who predict the cessation of hockey for the duration. And that is the fact the majority of the players are married men.

* * * * * *

Ten Rangers are married and several of these have children. Dutch Hiller has two grand little girls, points out Ward. Ott Heller, Babe Pratt, Lynn Patrick, Dave Kerr, Kilby Macdonald and Alf Pike have kids and the Bryan Hextalls have one on the way. Naturally, they will get deferments if conscription ever comes to the Dominion. And the same situation is true on every club in the loop. However, certain players may be snapped up in the American draft—those who are permanent residents of the U.S. and have taken out their first papers. Muzz Patrick, Lester's youngest son, is headed for the Army and Colville brothers and Art Coulter may go to work for Uncle Sam. Certain Bruins also fall into this category.

The Boston Bruins left Bobby Bauer on the sidelines last night with a bruised shoulder and still were good enough to beat Detroit Red Wings 3 to 2 in the first game of the Stanley Cup finals at Boston last night. Eddie Wiseman scored for the Bruins in the first period, Milt Schmidt added another in the second and Pat McReavy added a third in the last session before the losers touched the chalk. In fact Red Wings only had eight shots on Brimsek in the first two periods and it was well on in the last twenty minutes before they finally scored. They came to life then and added another before the thing was over, Liscombe and Syd Howe doing the gunning. Schmidt was hurt in the last few minutes and if he and Bauer both are kept out of the lineup for a game or two Boston's task of overcoming the Wings will be made tougher although in their favor is the fact that Detroit has not defeated them in nine games this season.

Peterborough basketball fans and players will be delighted at the victory of Simpson Grads to capture the Ontario senior basketball championship Saturday night. The Grads are prime favorites in Peterborough, having played exhibition games here the past couple of seasons. Shag Park and his pals always brought a strong lineup and gave the crowd a real exhibition and local players benefitted considerably from competition against such an outfit. The Grads defeated Windsor Alumni Saturday night 34 to 31 after winning the first game in Windsor 28 to 24.

Carpetball Notes

Schedule Carpetball League:

Monday, April 7—P.F.D. No. 6 vs. Wanderers No. 9.

Tuesday, April 9— Carpet Tacks No. 10 vs. St. George No. 5.

Both above games will be at L.O.L. Hall. Any members possible will attend games and referees chosen from those present.

Results received to date are as follows:

S.O.E. No. 1, 5-4 vs. P.F.D. No. 6, 9-6.

L.O.L. No. 3, 3-7-4, vs. Wanderers No. 9, 9-6-7.

St. Georges No. 5, 6-7, vs. Carpet Tacks No. 8, 2-6.

S.O.E eliminated the Legion in two straight. The Carpet Tacks did the same job on King Billy and his squad.

The No. 3 vs. No. 9 game are the only teams to date who have to play three games to decide.

If necessary the winners of the No. 6 vs. No. 9 tilt will have to meet S.O.E. No. 2 on Thursday night to allow the final game to be played during Easter week. Should No. 9 win the game between No. 2 and No. 9 will take place Easter Monday, possibly at the Legion, the winners meeting the winners of the No. 5-No. 10 tilt later in the week.

St. Louis Wins Title For Fifth Time

ST. LOUIS, April 7 — (CP). — Largest paying hockey crowd in St. Louis history saw the Flyers win the American Hockey Association championship for the fifth time in the last seven years with a 2-1 triumph over Kansas City Americans here last night in the deciding fifth game of the best-of-five final playoffs.

Although the Flyers topped the American Hockey Association at the end of the regular season, they dropped the first two games 3-1 and 1-0 at Kansas City and the situation was as dark as midnight when the Flyers returned to home ice for the next three games.

At home they were a real surprise. St. Louis captured the third game in the fourth overtime period 3-2, beat the Americans 7-3 in the fourth game last Friday to tie the series at two victories each, and last night they led all the way in the title match before 12,105 paid admissions, and 1,156 children.

Heavy action started after three minutes of the first period when the Flyers' line, Bud Kashner, Cliff Barton and Nakina Smith, took the ice. Smith grabbed the disc and swept it across to Barton who fired at the net. The Americans' goalie, Bill Nutt, made a fine stop, but Kachner pounced on the rebound and jammed it in for the first goal.

Vernon Ayres pushed in another tally for the Flyers a moment later, but Referee Stan Swain nullified it, claiming the puck hit Fred Hergert's skate. Fido Purpur made the Flyers' next shot good, however, early in the second period, breaking through the defence and slipping in a close one past Nutt.

St. Louis then retired into a defensive game which backfired. Backed into their own goal, the Flyers were slow to clear the disc and Andy Maloney backhanded it for the American's lone goal.

Regina Rangers Are One Up On Lethbridge

REGINA, April 7—(CP).—Regina Rangers, one of the youngest Senior hockey teams in Canada, were confident today they would be able to handcuff Lethbridge Maple Leafs on home ice tonight in the second of the Western Senior best-of-five final, after eking out a 1-0 win at Saskatoon Saturday night.

Coach Freddie Metcalfe, who two years ago piloted Lethbridge into the Western semi-final only to lose out to Kimberley Dynamiters, has a team that averages less than 21 years of age and including four members who could still play junior.

It was one of the juniors that sparked Rangers' drive Saturday which may prove the important step toward Regina's second Allan Cup victory in history. Frank Mario, 19-year-old right winger, let drive a high centre-ice shot just as the third period got under way. The disc floated up around the light and dropped into the goal from Goalkeeper Andy Young's shouider.

Lethbridge enjoyed a slight margin in the second period and only the work of Goalie Henry (Sugar) Jim Henry kept them from scoring. Kenny Stewart and Alex Kaleta tested Henry with close-in drives, but failed to dent the Regina custodian's armor.

Leafs' coach pulled Goalie Andy Young out of the game with 40 seconds to go in the last period, but the strategy went for naught. Bush shot wide after a power play by Leafs, with Henry out of position. Regina missed the open net twice during the last few seconds.

Generals Drop First Game To Montreal

TORONTO, April 7 — (CP). — Those Toronto hockey fans who stayed away from the first game of the Eastern junior championship series between Montreal Royals and Oshawa Generals because they believed Oshawa was a cinch to win, raised their eyebrows in surprised unison to-day when they read the startling news: Montreal 7, Oshawa 4.

The same eyebrow-raising occurred on Saturday night for the 6,000 fans who watched Royals shake a slight case of stage-fright midway in the third period and score five times to take a one-game lead on the best-of-five series. Beaten fairly decisively until that point despite the brick-wall goalkeeping of Roas Ritchie, Royals came back with a dash and aplomb that dashed the hopes of those persons who installed Oshawa as 5-2 favorites before the game.

In the second game heer to-night both teams will be at full strength, with Montreal, figuring to improve, if anything. Several of the Royals played Saturday's game handicapped by illness said to have been caused by a change in waters. Bud Farmer and Bob Carragher were sickest of those affected, and were advised not to play. But perhaps the Toronto water has its merits, for they played anyway and each scored three goals.

Generals looked every inch of the Canadian junior champions they have been for the last two years, for the first 50 minutes of the game. As the halfway mark passed in the third period Oshawa led 4-2. Then came the storm.

Farmer broke for one Montreal goal, Grant Morrison for another. The score was tied, but not for long. Carragher completed a fine play with Farmer and Morrison to place Royals ahead, and for keeps. Carragher and Farmer scored on breakaways in the final minute.

The series will be completed here, with the third game on Wednesday. If fourth and fifth games are necessary, they will be played here on Saturday and Monday.

Windsor Team Lost Title

TORONTO, April 7. — Toronto Simpson Grads ended Windsor Alumni's Ontario men's senior basketball championship reign at Central Y on Saturday night, when they gained a narrow 34 to 31 decision over the Windsor team to become 1941 Ontario senior titlists for the first time in the club's history.

It was a better-polished Grads' team that came through with victory and the championship in the second of the best-of-three game series. While the losers were careless on their many scoring opportunities, the Grads capitalized on nearly every scoring chance. The Grads never were on the short end of the score after Bill Devitt scored three points in the first minute of the game from a field goal and a foul shot awarded on the same play, the Grads were threatened but never headed.

Saturday's victory was almost a duplicate of the first Grads' triumph in Windsor when the Toronto team won 28 to 24. There was little to choose between the two clubs in the matter of territorial play and until the final minute the Alumni Club sought to retain the championship they won last year from the Grads.

The Grads had moulded a 21 to 14 lead in the first half, but in a driving finish in the final half the visitors twice came within one point of tying the game. With two and one-half minutes remaining to play the Grads were in front 31 to 30, but a field goal and foul shot boosted their total to 34 while the best the Windsor Club could do was register one foul shot.

'FDR' Good Third In Opening Day Wild Pitchers

By DILLON GRAHAM
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP).—The only wild pitcher in baseball who always gets a coveted opening day starting assignment tosses for the American League Senators. He lives in an old house at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. The name: Mr. President of the United States.

FDR is all warmed up and ready to throw. Barring sudden international developments requiring his attention, he'll flip out the ball starting baseball's 1941 season here on April 14.

His throws generally are wild. Perhaps he's just fooling the boys. At any rate, he looks toward home plate, but his tosses land somewhere near first base. While his 1941 lob is in the air, there'll be a scramble among Senator and Yankee players, then some obscure athlete named Joe will grab the agate and Mr. Will Harridge's men-in-blue will take charge and the campaign will be under way.

No one seems to know just how it started, this custom of the President lending his official presence to the annual launching of America's national game. William Howard Taft was the first Mr. Big to take part. That was in 1910.

Two years later Clark Griffith came to Washington. He recognized the value to the game of the President's participation and the Chief Executive has worked every opener since.

His Eighth Opener.

Roosevelt the precedent-breaker will break another as a tosser-outer. This will be his eighth appearance. No other President ever performed the chore more than seven times. Vice-President Garner substituted for Roosevelt in 1939 when rain postponed the scheduled opening here.

Roosevelt made the worst pitch of his opening day career last year. A cop finally recovered the ball, and the President autographed it for him.

Back in April of 1917—the month the United States entered the First Great War—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt helped Manager Griffith hoist the American flag at patriotic ceremonies preceding the opener.

In Third Place.

From a control and stuff-on-the-ball standpoint the current Master of the Mansion ranks only third among the six presidential pitchers. The rating:

1. Warren G. Harding. He was far out front. Harding owned the Marion team in the old Ohio State League. He played golf frequently and was always in good shape. He'd wind up and let go a hard straight fast one.

2. Woodrow Wilson. He didn't have much speed, but his control was o.k.

3. Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

4. Calvin Coolidge. No speed, no zip. His heart wasn't in the game.

5. William Howard Taft. His bulging bay window interfered with his pitching technique.

6. Herbert Hoover. Nothing on the ball.

Although Taft was the first to be actively connected with the game, many Presidents before him liked baseball and went to games here. Teddy Roosevelt liked all sports. William McKinley was a red-hot fan. It has been said that Lincoln was a sand-lot first baseman and gave his approval to baseball as a troop exercise during the Civil War.

At least one President liked to place small bets on baseball. That was Harding. He reportedly won a buck from Hoover on one contest. Harding understood the finer points of the game and enjoyed keeping his own scorecard.

Tiger Pitchers Go To Buffalo

LAKELAND, Fla., April 7— (AP).—Detroit Tigers yesterday released Pitchers F. Hutchinson, Earl Cook, Virgin Trucks, and Charley Fuchs on options to the Buffalo club of the International League.

The quartet will join Buffalo when the Tigers start north from Lakeland to-day, and General Manager Jack Zeller indicated that before camp is broken Murray Franklin, third baseman from Beaumont, will be released to reduce the squad to twenty-five men, the number Manager Del Baker intends to take to Detroit.

Hutchinson, purchased three years ago from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League for a reported $70,000 in players and cash, showed in exhibition games that he still lacks control. Trucks, a fast baller up from Beaumont, had the same trouble.

Cook, a righthander with Buffalo last season, has control, but is not yet rated ready for fast company.

The Tigers on Saturday released Catcher Dixie Parsons, Outfielders Bob Patrick and Patrick Mullin and Infielders Harold (Dutch) Meyer and Boyd Perry to Buffalo on twenty-four-hour option. A move to send Infielder Frank Croucher to Buffalo was blocked when Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics refused to waive on him.

Pitcher Clay Smith, who joined the Tigers in mid-season last year, was sold outright to St. Paul of the American Association.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

BOSTON BRUINS TAKE FIRST GAME OF CUP FINALS FROM DETROIT

Teams Are Bad, Game Is Very Listless

BOSTON, April 7 — (CP).—The persistence of Boston Bruins' march through National Hockey League competition this season has shown them in many and varied roles. They have played better defensive hockey than good defensive teams, better offensive hockey than good offensive teams. To-day they have this new claim to fame: When they are bad, they are not horrid.

In beating Detroit Red Wings 3-2 in the first game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final here last night, Bruins were bad. They had none of the drive they used to eliminate Toronto Maple Leafs in the semi-final. They lacked timing on their checks and opportunism on their goalward forays, but bad as they were, they still were slightly better than Red Wings. In the dull, listless game, Bruins managed to stumble the faster.

When Wings came to life in the final minutes of the game, Bruins managed to find some of their life, too. And when Detroit drew to within one goal of the lead Boston built in the first two periods and early minutes of the third, the Boston players managed to find a little extra speed with which to keep pace with their checks. Even when Detroit withdrew Goalie John Mowers in favor of an extra forward in the last stages, Bruins managed to cling to their lead.

The teams will meet here tomorrow night in the second game of the series, with the third and fourth scheduled for Detroit. Bruins finished first in the regular National Hockey League schedule, Detroit third.

Bruins Take Early Lead

Bruins dominated the first two periods, with one goal in each, while Detroit only managed eight shots on Frankie Brimsek in the Boston goal during those first 40 minutes. In the third Boston scored again before Detroit counted.

Mel Hill, whose brilliance has been confined mainly to scoring late goals in close play-off contests, started the first scoring play with a short passback from a faceoff in the Detroit zone. Roy Conacher flipped the farther puck back to Desse Smith, who stood just inside the blueline and waited while the Detroit defence came out to get him. Then he lifted a pass to Eddie Wiseman, who beat Mowers with a swift shot from about eight feet out.

In the second drive Milt Schmidt stick-handled through the Detroit defence to score Boston's second goal. Woody Dumart's centre-ice pass from Jack Crawford had started the play gave each an assist.

Pat McReavy, a rookie who has spent much of the season shuttling back and forth from Hershey in the American League, scored Boston's last goal on a play with Schmidt and Crawford about midway in the third. Then Detroit staged a revival and pounded in on Brimsek with a rapid succession of shots that clicked when Carl Liscombe scored from Bill Jennings and Conny Brown passed to Howe for Detroit's final goal in the third last minute of play.

Former English Sculling Champion Is Prisoner Of War In Germany

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 7.—(CP)—Sport shorts from Britain.

Flying-officer Lou Barry, former English professional sculling champion, is a prisoner of war. His wife learned from British Red Cross that Barry, previously reported missing, is in hospital in Paris recovering from wounds. He was promoted to the rank of flying officer after being taken prisoner.

Two of Britain's finest boxers, Eric Boon, lightweight champion, and Jack (Kid) Berg, former holder of that title, have been matched to fight 12 rounds on Easter Monday, April 14. Boon's title will not be at stake as both fighters, now in the Royal Air Force, are over weight.

Oxford University beat Cambridge 64½ points to 52½ in the annual intercollegiate track and field meet. No records were broken. Another Oxford victory came in the women's boat race which the dark blues won by six lengths. The men's race, biggest sculling event of the year, was called off because of the war.

Wally Marks, who taught the Ribbentrop family how to play golf while serving at one of Germany's most exclusive clubs, has been promoted to Flight Lieutenant in the R.A.F. Marks was in Germany six years and returned to England the day before war was declared.

Hero of Arsenal's 5-0 war cup football victory over Watford was Lionel Smith, centre half, who slept the night before in the underground, due to a misunderstanding Smith couldn't get lodgings when he came to London for the game and had to bunk with the tube shelterers. He was up at 6 a.m. the next morning and led Arsenal to an easy victory.

A week before he was to be married to Miss Dorothy Little, Pilot Officer T. Dowward, R.A.F.V.R., 24-year-old Scottish International scrum-half, was killed on active service.

Another prominent British sportsman who died recently was Cecil R. Taylor, 62, owner of Grakle who won the Grand National in 1931. Taylor was a Liverpool stockbroker and a former president of Liverpool Cotton Association.

Parts of Scotland's golf courses, among the finest in the world, are to be ploughed up and planted with crops for this year's harvest. Thomas Johnson, secretary of state for Scotland, said "these steps are dictated only by considerations of the gravest and most urgent national importance."

Port Colborne Eliminates Lindsay Team

PORT COLBORNE, April 7.—Port Colborne Lions midgets rode roughshod over Lindsay in the second game of their semi-final O.H.A. playdowns here on Saturday, defeating their rivals 8-3, and winning the round 14-7. The Lions qualified to meet Preston in the finals for the Ontario championship, with the first game scheduled at Galt on Monday night and the return engagement here Thursday.

Theodore Kennedy, shifty right-winger, paced the Lions to victory, scoring five goals, two of which were on solo efforts. Sergnese added three more for Port Colborne. Lindsay was held goalless until a third-period rally which netted three goals in quick succession by Junkin, Heels and Fox.

Lindsay—Goal, Clarke; defense, Brigden and Brennan; centre, Ellis; wings, Heel and Junkin; subs, Crawford, Goodyear, Fox, Green, Lecroix, Houzer.

Port Colborne—Goal, Grist; defense, Wincott and Misener; centre, Gallinger; wings, Kennedy and Young; subs, McAvoy, Eden, Sergnese, Melick, Dunham and Newman.

Saskatoon Quakers To Meet Big Line

WINNIPEG, April 7—(CP).—Return of Defenceman Douglas Baldwin to Winnipeg Rangers' lineup tonight "will strengthen our team quite a bit," said Coach Lorne "Baldy" Northcott today in forecasting the second game of Rangers' Western Junior final with Saskatoon Quakers will be "our hardest of the season."

Baldwin, one of the six footers on Winnipeg's lineup, who tips the scales at 185, was absent when Rangers won the first of the best-of-seven series here Friday night by a 6-4 count, gained in the last period when Quakers tired.

Coach McQuarrie announced no changes in Quakers' lineup for the second game, told of confidence in his camp, and expressed the belief the boys had gained energy by the two-day rest—the first relaxation for Quakers since their gruelling series with Edmonton Athletic Club in the Western semi-finals.

Oshawa Bees Whip Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND, April 7.—A classy passing attack and an air tight defense by the Oshawa Bees spelt elimination for the Owen Sound club here on Saturday night. Oshawa won, 6 to 3, and shoved Owen Sound into the cellar of the junior "B" round-robin series without even a mathematical chance to make the finals. Oshawa outclassed the locals, who played listless hockey, and the outcome was never in doubt. A four-goal outburst in the second period by the visitors broke the spirit of the home team and they lost their fight.

Oshawa—Goal, Burkarte; defense, Galbraith and Hinton; centre, Davies; wings, McBrien, A. McMullen; subs, McIntyre, Bouckley, Painter, Sawyer and J. McMullen.

Owen Sound—Goal, McCauley; defense, Huras, Buchanan; centre, Murphy; wings, Boddy, McIntosh; subs, Henry, Dolson Leaney, Keeling Yeol.

Referee—D. Houston, Toronto.

First Period

1—Oshawa, Galbraith 4:11
2—Oshawa, A. McMullen 8:13
3—Owen Sound, Boddy (Murphy) 16:30
Penalties—Hinton, J. McMullen.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 7.—(CP)—Atlantic City Sea Gulls, international amateur ice hockey champions, concluded their 1940-41 campaign here last night by defeating Windsor (Ont.) Spitfires of the Michigan-Ontario League, 12-9.

The Gulls, Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League playoff finalists, won the Hamilton B. Wills trophy by defeating the Spitfires, 4-2 and 6-3, in the first two games of the best-of-three series, played here Friday and Saturday nights. The third game, which was more or less an exhibition as it could not effect the Wills trophy standing, had been put on after agreement of coaches of both teams.

The Gulls led 5-3 at the end of the first period, and poured three more goals past Goalie Teno in each of the final two periods, never losing the lead.

School Concert Brings $76 To Red Cross

CAMPBELLFORD, April 7 (ENS) —The local branch of the Red Cross Society acknowledged a gift of $76 donated to the branch by the Campbellford Public School as their share of the proceeds from the Patriotic concert they sponsored. The gift was in accordance with the announced intention that the proceeds would be divided among various local charitable organizations.

Secretary S. Keir was authorized to write a letter to the Public School expressing the Society's thanks for the gift, which will be used to augment the funds of the local branch.

Also turned in during the afternoon were two quilt donated by a Codrington ladies' organization, which also turned in three night dresses and five pairs of sox made from materials provided them by the Red Cross. A complete set of quilt blocks made by Mrs. McNaughton were also acknowledged. Members are still busily working on hospital dressing gowns in an effort to complete their quota of fifteen. According to a spokesman for the group material had been so carefully cut they would . be able to make several extra gowns from it. Material has just been received for making hospital ward slippers. The local quota is 28 pairs.

are on Bulgarian soil."

(The Greek high command, in a communique broadcast by the Athens radio and heard in New York by the National Broadcasting Company, said the Germans had "made some progress" after a "violent" all-day struggle but that the Greeks were holding.

(Dispatches from Berne, Switzerland, said the Bulgarian army of 300,000 was understood to have joined the Germans in the assault on Greece and later reports from Berne yesterday said the Germans acknowledged "tough resistance" in the Struma Valley in their drive into Greece.)

The German blow, evidently aimed at the vital Greek port of Salonika, fell at 5:15 a.m. Sunday (11:15 p.m., EDT Saturday) as German troops which occupied Bulgaria weeks ago drove across the border and down the Struma.

Spurred on by the exhortations of their king and war commander, the Greek people, now standing against the might of both Germany and Italy, defiantly cried: "They shall not pass."

First notification of the German attack came to Athenians on a quiet Sunday morning through handwritten posters pasted on buildings.

Scenes of enthusiasm which followed recalled those which occurred at the beginning of the Greek-Italian conflict last Oct. 28.

The German ministers to Athens notified Premier Alexandros Korizis at 5:30 a.m. yesterday morning that German troops would attack Greece because of the presence of British troops on Greek soil.

The premier replied Greece would resist.

British Reveal Army There

(British authorities announced for the first time yesterday that an imperial force of undisclosed size was in Greece.)

The German minister's action, a spokesman said, "was an exquisite delicacy, especially as we were being attacked at that moment."

Frontier posts in Thrace and eastern Macedonia caught the first blows by the Germans.

A little later Salonika and Athens had air alarms but there were no reports of bombings in the capital and the people and parading Evzones refused to take shelter. The intensity of the attack on Salonika was not disclosed.

The Greeks, who long had considered conflict with Germany inevitable, were told by King George II that the struggle would be a hard, relentless one but "we shall not give way before anything.... Victory is waiting for us at the end of the road," the King said.

"By our side stand mighty allies, the British Empire with its indomitable will and the United States with its inexhaustible resources.

Hand-In-Hand With Slavs

"We are fighting hand-in-hand with our allies the Yugoslavs, who themselves are shedding their blood for the salvation of the whole Balkans and mankind."

Gen. Alexander Papagos, the Greek Commander-in-Chief, issued an order of the day to his men calling on the fighters on the German front "to show that you are worthy of your fellow fighters on the Italian front."

Crowds paraded in the capital and one of their favorite slogans was the single word: "No"—meaning refusal to be intimidated. Throngs cheered at the British and United States legations and jeered the German legation, guarded by police. Martial music blared from loudspeakers, and British soldiers were carried about on Greek shoulders.

The newspaper Hestia commented: "Sixty million Italians who were unable to defeat the Greeks called on 80,000,000 Germans to help them. This is 140,000,000 against 8,000,000. This . . . makes the Italian attack on France look like a noble deed."

Salonika, apparent objective of the German drive, is less than 50 miles airline from the nearest point on the Bulgarian border and a Nazi attack toward it through Thrace would go directly through an important tobacco region where United States interests have invested millions of dollars.

The taking of the port by the Germans would deprive Greece and her allies of an important harbor for landing men and supplies from overseas; it would cut Greece off from Turkey, a potential ally; it would give Germany a bridgehead for a possible later thurst to the east toward Turkey and the Suez and would shut one end of the Vardar Valley, historic military avenue in the Balkans.

north, three divisions were advancing from Rumania toward Belgrade, 50 miles away, three other divisions were driving from Bulgaria toward the Vardar River in Southern Yugoslavia, and other large forces from Bulgaria were aiming toward Nis, 65 miles north-west of Sofia.

(The Turks, themselves, were described as taking the news of the German thrust closer to the Dardanelles calmly. They had expected it, they said, and still held to neutrality.)

A raido announcement heard here last night said German-occupied Rumania had ordered general mobilization and Hungary had mobilized her air raid defence reserves.

Some units of Rumanian troops previously under arms have been stationed across the Prut River from Red army forces of Soviet Russia which signed a friendship and non-aggression pact with Ypgoslavia just before the Axis struck at that Balkan kingdom.

Gallow Given

meagre start to build up a convincing case.

Gallow's case came to an end early on Saturday afternoon after Lawrence Burns and Thomas Nicholls, already convicted and sentenced for the same offence and brought back from Cobourg Jail to give evidence had testified briefly. Gallow asked them only a few questions and the witnesses were not cross-examined by Crown Prosecutor Common.

Burns Is Called.

Burns was the first witness at the afternoon session.

"On Sunday, February 2, I believe you went to Windsor," said Gallow

"Who was with you "

"Tom Nichols and yourself."

"What time did we arrive in Windsor?"

"Between 2 and 4 o'clock."

"Why did I go there, do you know?"

"The reason you gave was to see your wife; I went because I wanted to lend my brother some money."

In answer to further questioning Burns said that he had left Gallow in Windsor about 6:30 o'clock, and met up with him again about 9:30 o'clock that evening.

Thomas Nicholls wore full jail garb when he took the witness box.

"Didn't they give you time to get dressed?" asked Gallow.

"To tell the truth I didn't ask them," replied the witness.

"It's embarrassing to my case to have you dressed like that," protested Gallow.

"I never thought of that," was the witness's reply.

"Were you ever associated with me before this?"

"I lived in your house; there was no other association besides that."

Gallow informed the court that his other witnesses did not seem to be present, and Judge McGibbon gave word that their names should be called throughout the building.

Mr. McElderry returned in a few minutes so say that the missing witnesses were neither at the court house nor at the police station.

"We will have to get along without them," said Gallow.

"Are you satisfied?" asked Judge McGibbon.

"No I am not satisfied, but I imagine if they were coming they would be here now."

Declines To Give Evidence.

Judge McGibbon asked the accused if he desired to give evidence himself, but Gallow said that he would not take the stand.

"They would be sure to bring up my record," he said, "but I was not allowed to bring up Chief Newhall's record."

Gallow addressed the court in his own behalf, pointing out what he claimed to have been discrepancies in the crown evidence. He asked why there had been a delay in handing over the ledger card with the heel print on it, and why there had been such a long time between the receipt of the card by Detective Borland and the finding of a pair of shoes by Detective Sergt. Nimmo. He also said that Detective Borland had said at the preliminary hearing that the heel on the shoe was of an unusual type and yet at the trial had admitted that it was a common make and could be found in thousands.

"If he could be wrong then he would be wrong here," said Gallow. The accused said that the evidence of Bradd as to the ownership of the shoes cleared him so far as they were concerned.

"The only other thing against me," he said, "is the money found on me. I forgot to bring that out, but I got that money from Burns and Nicholls. They paid their rent on the Tuesday.

Mr. Common briefly reviewed the crown's chain of evidence against the accused.

Judgment Is Given

In giving judgment Judge McGibbon went over the evidence in detail, stressing the fact that there had been positive identification of Gallow by Everett Osborne, C.P.R. section foreman as having been in a maroon car at Bowmanville, and by Chief Newhall as one of the three men he saw near the C.D.S. store on the Saturday night before the break-in.

As for the defence evidence, Judge McGibbon said he could not accept it. "I do not believe it," he declared.

"The crown's chain of evidence is so strong and complete," he said, "that it completely ties the accused with the carrying out of this offence, and I find him guilty."

When Gallow retired to the dock to await sentence he looked over to the press table and drew his finger across his throat in a significant gesture.

Crown Prosecutor Common read the prisoner's record to the court. It consisted of a long list of convictions dating back to 1914 when Gallow as a juvenile offender had first got into trouble at Hamilton for stealing. The dossier included terms in the Ontario Reformatory and a number in Kingston Penitentiary, including one of five years; the offences including theft, burglary and assaulting police.

Just before sentence was passed upon the accused two men and two women entered the court room. "There are my witnesses now and they are too late" exclaimed Gallow.

"I conducted my own case and my witnesses came late" said Gallow when asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed on him. "You've got me. You wanted to put the works to me."

Judge Is Stern

Judge McGibbon's language was stern as he addressed the prisoner.

"Your record is not very flattering to yourself" he told Gallow "I do not for the life of me know why you will persist in this life of crime. You have spent more time in custody than you have been at liberty.

"Sometimes it seems that the only way to get at people like you is to hurt them physically" continued Judge McGibbon, who pointed out the accused would not work.

"I have been working during the last year and a half" interrupted Gallow.

"The trouble is you have been working in the wrong direction. It is disgusting to think that while other men are fighting for their country men like you are here robbing other folk."

"I tried to enlist, Your Honor" said the accused.

"Well I honor you for that" replied Judge McGibbon and then pronounced sentence of seven years on the prisoner.

A second charge against Gallow of breaking and entering the office of Wonder Bakeries here on the same night as the C.D.S. burglary was dismissed when the crown offered no evidence.

"They did not have time to frame that one" said the accused.

"I want no more from you, Gallow" Judge McGibbon said sternly and officers took the prisoner out of the court room. He snarled something at Chief Newhall as he passed him en route to the door.

Before the court was dismissed Judge McGibbon complimented Special Prosecutor W. B. Common upon the manner in which he, assisted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, had prosecuted the cases.

"I had most able assistance from Mr. McElderry" replied Mr. Common.

All four prisoners now face trial on a charge of attempted jailbreaking. They will appear before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Wednesday morning.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM HILL.

HASTINGS, April 7.—(ENS).— A long and useful life came to a close when William Hill passed away at his home in Hastings on Thursday morning after an extended illness.

In his passing Hastings has lost a good resident, a good neighbor and a friend. Born in Asphodel 84 years ago next October, Mr. Hill came to Hastings 82 years ago when it was but a small hamlet. He had the satisfaction of seeing Hastings grow up around him. Being an experienced mason and plasterer he helped in the building of many of Hastings' public buildings and homes. As a boy he received his education in the public school. Later he worked in partnership with his brother, the late Thomlinson Hill.

In 1833 he married Ellen Elphick in Campbellford. Here they spent 54 years of happy married life and raised a fine family of two daughters and five sons. Since the passing of his wife in 1937 he has lived with his son Lynn and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hahn, in his own home, surrounded by his neighbors in the neighborhood he loved so well.

The funeral on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. from his late residence was largely attended. The service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. D. K. Perrie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, assisted by a neighbor, the Rev. J. E. Glover.

Pallbearers were five neighbors and a cousin, Messrs. A. V. German, A. B. Smith, H. Dodd, T. Crowely, H. B. Wilson and E. Tucker of Peterborough.

Beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which deceased was held. Interment was in the Trent Valley cemetery.

He leaves to mourn his passing Mrs. Gertrude Limegrover of Pittsburg, Pa., Mrs. Earl Hahn of Hastings, George of Glenshaw, Pa., Walter of Chicago, Ill., Bruce of Pittsburg, Pa., Tom of Phoenix, Ariz., and Lynn of Hastings.

ANOTHER PATIENT

A child of eighteen months has been admitted to Queen Mary Hospital as the fourth spinal meningitis patient. There are now three patients in the hospital, Dr. L. A. Clarke, M.O.H., and those who were previously admitted are progressing favorably.

GRAIN QUOTA FILLED

Ontario farmers have reached their buying quota of 3,200,000 bushels of western grain purchased on the freight free basis adopted by the provincial and federal governments. Twenty cars were delivered to Peterborough county, but Perth farmers bought 200 cars. No more permits are to be issued throughout the province, according to instructions by R. S. Duncan, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

TREES OFFERED

Farmers and school trustees are reminded of the large supply of trees that are available this spring for planting. Application forms may be obtained from F. C. Paterson who has already received a number of orders.

LIGHTS GREEN ONLY.

The traffic lights at the corner of George and Hunter Streets have been behaving strangely of late, and their latest antics, as noted on Saturday night, were when all corners showed green only. On Friday night both red and green signals were seen at all corners.

DEAD FAWN.

Motorists were awed on Sunday to see a dead fawn lying in a battered condition in the ditch off the highway connecting the Exhibition Grounds with Number 28 at the Kawartha Club. The little animal had evidently become involved in the traffic on the road and had been killed by a car.

UNION HOLY WEEK SERVICE.

The Union Holy Week service being conducted under the auspices of the Ministerial Association will be held this evening in St. James' United Church. Rev. Robert Moynan of Toronto will be the special preacher and the service will commence at eight o'clock. On Tuesday evening the service is being held in Murray Street Baptist Church.

CARD FROM CHINA.

A post card which looks as though it were the beginning of a stamp collector's efforts, was received by George W. Mulligan, 804 George Street, from Edward J. Blandford, who went to China 25 years ago as a missionary from Gospel Hall. This card follows the old style of being written both ways on two sides in a fine and very legible hand. Possibly it had to make a longer-than-usual trip to reach Peterborough, where it arrived only a few days ago, and it was mailed from China on November 30.

LOWER TAX RATE.

Reduction of one mill in this year's tax rate is likely to be announced at the next meeting of North Monaghan Township. Bruce Johnston, township clerk, told the Examiner to-day that the Council has just about completed its budget for the year, and is ready to strike the rate at a mill less than 1940.

SOME DO IT EVERY TIME

"Did you ever notice" said a man about town this morning, "and of course there are many fine exceptions to it, the number of people who struggle through a depression, even having to go on relief, and then when they get on the payroll again they decide to subscribe to bigger and better beer trucks, and bounce into debt to buy cars?"

RUNS INTO CAR

Women screamed on George street Saturday afternoon when a little lad of around five years suddenly darted out from the west sidewalk north of Simcoe street into the heavy traffic and collided with the side of a passing automobile. The boy was knocked down but fortunately escaped without even a bruise.

PROFESSOR ROGERS HONORED

Peterborough citizens who heard Professor Joslyn Rogers give important scientific evidence at the burglary trials last week or who read his testimony will be interested in learning that on Saturday night Professor Rogers was elected president of the Royal Canadian Institute at the 92nd annual meeting of that body.

BREAKS CAR WINDOW

As a result of imbibing too much and smashing a window in an automobile on Hunter street Saturday night a local man pleaded guilty in police court this morning to having been drunk and he was fined $10 and $2.50 costs. It was stated that he was paying for the broken car window. The incident attracted quite a crowd to the vicinity at the time the man was arrested.

EXPENSIVE BEER

When a couple of young men drank a bottle of beer in North Monaghan township Friday night they did not realize that they were absorbing some decidedly expensive stuff. Constable Bruce Menzies happened on the scene at the wrong moment and as a result the two pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning to illegal consumption and each was fined $10 and $5 costs which added $30 to the original cost of the bottle of beer.

CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY

Two youths, Everett Feren and Marshall Murney, arrested by police on Charlotte street early Sunday morning, faced charges of vagrancy in police court this morning. Murney's case was adjourned until Saturday and Feren was released on $100 bail to appear on the same date.

STRIKE SIGNIFICANCE

One day's strike by 80,000 men at the Ford plant is translated by Arthur (Bugs) Baer into 640,000-hours or 73 years, and he adds "Eleanor (Mrs. Roosevelt) and Ma Perkins have just about proved that women's place is in the home with the doors locked."

"UNREALITY"

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist of Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy." (I Timothy 6:17.) Selections from the Bible included the following from Isaiah 45:5, "I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following, "A mortal, corporeal, or finite conception of God cannot embrace the glories of limitless, incorporeal Life and Love."

McCannan Avenue Name Of New Street?

A new street projecting easterly from Monaghan Road, and parallel with Douglas Avenue, will be named McCannan Ave. if the application of the sponsor, H. J. McCannan, is approved by the City Council.

The property was occupied for years by Al Spencley, who transformed its spacious garden into a beautiful place of flowers. It was recently bought by Mr. McCannan from the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, and has been surveyed by Mr. Pierce as the first step in the planning of a sub-division of thirty-six building lots.

The house on the property has been moved toward Monaghan Road and suitably located in relation to the general layout of the proposed sub-division. Mr. McCannan said to-day that each lot will have a frontage of forty feet. At least three houses are expected to be begun on the McCannan property early this season.

Huffman of Port Hope moved the old house to its new site where it has been left on jacks until the concrete foundation is completed. It will be bricked and made into a duplex with separate furnaces and all the conveniences.

Passenger Suffers Minor Injuries

Arthur Whetung received a cut on his forehead and a bump over his left eye Sunday when the automobile in which he was a passenger met in collision with another motor car at the intersection of Reid street and the Chemong Road.

John Wiggins of Havelock was travelling south along the Chemong Road while another car was being driven northeast on Reid street by Robert E. Parker, 668 Stewart street. As the two vehicles reached the intersection they came into contact with each other and both cars were damaged.

Whetung was riding in Wiggins' car. His injuries are not serious.

South Monaghan Young Men Contribute $60

A group of young men from South Monaghan surged to the forefront in the list of contributors to the Peterborough British War Victims' Fund today when the splendid sum of $60.05 was handed in on behalf of the group by Lloyd Jewison. These young men have staged a series of dances which have been most successful and the last one was held on Friday, April 4th. Being desirous of keeping Central Ontario in the spotlight of centres donating to the air raid victims, they brought the money to this city and turned it over to F. G. Mann at the Examiner office. This donation is one of the largest received so far from any part of the district.

Veteran Contributes

A veteran of the last war, Sidney C. Boyles brought in a substantial donation last week from the Cavan Sunday School and today he arrived again, bringing his dividend cheque from a Government War Loan bond which amounted to $7.50. This is a fine patriotic gesture and another indication of the great support that the district fund is getting from the people in rural areas.

School Section No. 6 Asphodel township sent Alphonsus Heffernan to Peterborough with a cheque for $25.00 to set the pace for all schools throughout the district.

District Takes the Lead

The district dominated the picture today with donations from many centres including a $5.00 bill from Dr. Carleton at Norwood and $5.00 from a Quilting Group on the Dummer Road, Norwood.

Ronald Doughty, another young lad who had the misfortune to break his leg, made his friends kick in with donations for the privilege of autographing the cast and this morning $5.05 was brought in to this office for the fund.

Only a few days remain in which tickets may be purchased on the canoe and equipment donated by J. B. O'Dette and Sons and the boys at Edwards Shell Station who are waiting a chance to get tickets should please note. Tickets are available at Scarfe Paint Store, Grafton's, W. R. Turner, O'Dette Brothers and the Examiner office.

The following is the list to date:

Previously acknowledged	$11,432.11
Sidney C. Boyles, Cavan	7.50
Young Men's Group, South Monaghan, per Lloyd Jewison	60.05
School Section, No. 6, Asphodel, per Alphonsus Heffernan	25.00

Excuse For Death

Rome, April 7 (AP)

AN Italian announcement today asserted that one of the parachutists landed by Britain in southern Italy in February was shot in the back by a firing squad at dawn yesterday as a traitor after he was identified as an Italian citizen.

His name was given as Fortunato Picchio, 44, of Carmignano, near Florence.

The announcement disclosed the parachutists had "carried out acts of sabotage."

Firemen Called

LAKEFIELD, April 7—(ENS). — A general alarm brought the entire Lakefield Fire Brigade to the home of John Charlton about 5.15 p.m. on Sunday.

A grass fire was out of control and had spread to the henhouse. It promised to be a nasty affair, but was quickly put out by the firemen.

An interested spectator was Fire Chief J. Record of Port Hope, who with Mrs. Record were the guests of Fire Chief A. H. and Mrs. Clark.

Dean O'Sullivan Is Elevated To Rank Of Domestic Prelate

More than 700 people filled the Church of the Immaculate Conception to near capacity on Sunday evening to honor Very Rev. Dean O'Sullivan, who was elevated to the rank of Domestic Prelate of His Holiness the Pope. The investiture was presided over by His Excellency Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Peterborough, and henceforth this popular and well-known parish priest will be known as Monsignor O'Sullivan.

The newly-named prelate was educated at St. Michael's College, and continued his philosophical and theological studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, from whence he was ordained to the priesthood in his native parish of Campbellford, on November 4, 1897, by the late Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough.

Scholar-Writer

After serving five years as assistant at St. Peter's Cathedral in Peterborough the young priest served an equal number of years as assistant to the late Monsignor Casey at Lindsay. In 1907 Father O'Sullivan was named pastor at Port Hope, where he remained for 21 years. Prior to that he served as parish priest at Grafton.

During these years his talent as author and writer was recognized an dhighly valued inasmuch as he was associate editor of the Catholic Record for ten years and the Catholic Register for two years. During these years, too, he was contributing editor to another Catholic weekly in Ontario. In 1924 Father O'Sullivan was named President of the Catholic Truth Society, where he did invaluable work, leaving the society in a flourishing position after three years in office.

He was appointed Dean of Northumberland and Durham in 1927, and in the following year he was transferred by Bishop O'Brien, now Archbishop of Kingston to the pastorate of the Immaculate Conception parish in this city, succeeding Monsignor McColl, who was transferred to Lindsay.

His elevation to the purple comes to crown many long faithful and fruitful years as a scholar, priest and writer. His talent as a writer extended beyond the realm of newspaper work for he wrote "Chronicles of Crofton," a volume dealing with the light and shade, the ups and downs of a parish in rural Ontario. He also wrote "Epitome of a Priestly Life," and several pamphlets.

Bishop O'Connor, in a sermon of eulogy following the investiture, enumerated the many good works that have made Monsignor O'Sullivan a leader among the Catholic clergy of the Peterborough diocese.

Purchased Monastery

He said in part: "Over a period of years it was my earnest desire to bring the Sisters of Mercy to Peterborough. I was handicapped because I could not purchase a monastery. It was at that point your pastor came to the rescue. He took the money which he had set aside from his writings and purchased the property now occupied by the Sisters of Mercy on Robinson street, spending more than $4,000. Not to be outdone by this generosity I was able in the past year to direct a little more than $6,000 to this parish.

For nineteen years this was a basement church, but eight year ago it grew up, and the building of this superstructure was done under the capabel direction of Monsignor O'Sullivan. We accepted the lowest tender, saving several thousand dollars, and although the parish went in debt to do the work, nevertheless your pastor is reducing the debt in a satisfactory manner. To-day this church is a credit to the city of Peterborough.

All these facts of history were told in abbreviated form to the Holy See last November in the hope that he might be raised to the dignity of a Monsignor. I was the first to congratulate your pastor and at this time I wish to extend my congratulations again and with them my prayerful wishes for the years to come."

Bishop O'Connor pointed out during the course of his remarks that Monsignor O'Sullivan observed his 71st birthday on last New Year's Day and has been in the priesthood for 43 years. Next to Monsignor McColl of Lindsay he is the senior priest of the diocese.

Following the investiture, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by Bishop O'Connor, who was assisted by Rev. P. P. Butler of St. Peter's Parish, Father Kenneth Maane and Father J. Hoolihan of the Sacred Heart Parish. There were upwards of twenty priests from the district on hand for the ceremony, along with Monsignor Cline and Father McCormick of the Holy Name Parish, Toronto; Rev. Fr. McLaughlin, superior of St. Michael's College, Toronto, and Monsignor McColl of Lindsay.

Fire Damages School Roof At St. Peter's

Members of the Peterborough Fire Department began the new week in a lively manner, with four calls in two hours. Just before 8:00 a.m. a spark from the chimney was responsible for a fire on the roof of St. Peter's High School on Reid street, and while the firemen were attending to it their comrades at the station were called out three times.

The fire on the roof of the school caused about $150.00 damage, according to an estimate made by Fire Chief George Gimblett, and it was one which jumped from place to place. The north east corner of the roof is burned, and the west side, on the north end. The children of the school were given a half holiday, but were back at their studies this afternoon.

The other three fires were small ones, caused by defective chimneys, or overheated pipes. On Sunday night, a small fire resulted when a smoker threw a cigarette butt on the awning belonging to Brooks' Grill at George and Hunter streets; a hole was burned, but the damage was not of a serious nature.

Out Of Town Firm To Build Houses?

Several hundred houses to be built by private but out of town capital are suggested as an alternative to the federal government's pre-fabricated plan of emergency housing accommodation, it was reported here this morning.

Details of the proposal are lacking, but it is said that a company which would build a type of house conforming to the city's bylaw has been considering the prospect of a substantial investment in Peterborough.

Whether any building activity materializes out of this "news" this morning cannot be estimated at this stage of the spring's progress, but Alderman Swanston said it sounded to him better than a plan of pre-fabrication, although he added that he was not expressing any considered opinion.

Obituaries

BABY WHALEY

The funeral of Baby Whaley, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whaley, City, took place from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home on Monday afternoon, April 7, with interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

JOHN JOSEPH DOYLE.

A resident of Peterborough for the past 21 years, John Doyle, of 17 Park street, passed away at his home on Saturday evening after a sudden illness which took him from his work at the General Electric plant on Friday.

Born in Cape Breton 69 years ago, his family and all of his known relatives were killed in the Halifax explosion during the Great War. He had been employed in the toolroom of the General Electirc company, and his sudden death has shocked his many friends. He was a member of the Church of the Sacred Heart. A veteran of the Great War, he was a member of the Canadian Legion, branch 52, and was a staunch member of the Holy Name Society.

In tribute to his memory, the flag on the Legion Hall is at half mast, and the members feel that they have lost a sincere comrade and friend in the passing of Mr. Doyle.

Surviving are his sorrowing wife, the former Mary Gertrude Goff, and three children, Margaret, Eleanor and Jack, all at home.

The funeral will be on Tuesday morning, from the family residence at 17 Park street south, at 8.40 a.m., to the Church of the Sacred Heart for Requiem Mass at 9.00 a.m., interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Two Cars Collide On Otonabee Road

Patrick O'Hara and Gordon Moncrief, Otonabee, had a narrow escape from serious injury early Sunday morning when an automobile rolled over in the ditch after a collision with another car on the Flat Road in Otonabee township, five miles south of Peterborough.

O'Hara was fortunate in getting off with few scratches and bruises while Moncrief was unhurt.

O'Hara was driving south when a northbound automobile driven by Ray Johnston, North Monaghan came along and the two vehicles collided. After the impact O'Hara's machine shot off the road and turned over in the ditch.

It was badly damaged and Johnston's car also suffered heavily from the collision.

Johnston who was alone in the machine was not hurt.

Interning Repeater Criminals Justifiable Act In War Time

A galaxy of veteran police officers from Windsor, Toronto, and Peterborough, along with other eminent men who were in the city last week in connection with the burglary trial of four men agree that internment of repeater criminals would be a justifiable act in war time.

During a discussion in the anteroom at the County Building where the case is proceeding under Judge McGibbon, the men started to pass a few comments on this case which is listed as one of the most interesting in recent years.

Place in a Camp.

One police officer pointed out that every known criminal who is a repeater and who makes a living from a life of crime should be tucked away in an internment camp and made to work at projects which would help the war effort, for the entire duration of the war.

He went on to point out that Peterborough will have to pay for the preliminary hearing of these four men, pay for the trial, and the witness' fees and expenses will be high. All of this could have been avoided if men who are known to be professional safe crackers were taken out of circulation in his opinion would be justified because it would give police more chance to concentrate on fifth column activities, and would conserve money for the war effort.

"The work of criminals puts a country to great expense and trouble and they should be rounded up and put to work," said one Provincial officer.

Score Ball System.

The action of judges, magistrates, and Crown Attorneys in allowing bail to hardened criminals came in for a barrage of criticism from almost ever man in the room.

They argued that the bail system was never intended for the purpose of letting seasoned criminals have their liberty while awaiting trial. They agreed, however, that bail was an excellent thing for the man who is a first offender or who can show that there is some doubt of his guilt.

Round Up Alky Addicts.

An observation passed by one of the officers was that all the men in all municipalities who are confirmed wine drinkers and "alky" addicts, that is wood alcohol drinkers, should be rounded up and placed in military internment camps where they would have to work hard and get all the liquor out of their systems. Many of these men are able bodied, husky fellows, but when they get the wine and alky habit they lose interest in everything else and will even get up at seven in the morning to keep dates with the rest of the gang to figure out how money can be raised to get the daily crock of alcohol and wine.

Reference to this very point was made some time ago by Chief Constable Newhall, and the comments made by the out-of-town officers fitted in perfectly with the Chief's earlier statement.

Among the officers from outside centres who were here on the case were Det.-Sergt. John Nimmo, Det. Ed. Tong, of the Toronto City Police, John Borland, fingerprint expert, Toronto City Police, John Ramsay, special investigator for the C.P.R. Police, Lorne Henderson, head of the Investigation Department of the T. Eaton Company, Constable John McLauchlan of Windsor City Police, Provincial Constable Truax of Windsor, Police-Sergt. Pero of Windsor, and Professor Joslyn Rogers of the University of Toronto, expert in chemistry.

Robbins-Cutting Wedding Is Lovely Evening Event

Easter lilies and rose-pink snapdragons against a background of Boston ferns decorated Trinity United church for the marriage at seven o'clock Saturday evening of Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Cutting, 371 Park street, to Arthur Wheelock Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Robbins of Barrington, Rhode Island. Rev. G. S. Easton, M.A., B.D., officiated, and organ music was played by Miss Mabel Clarry, organist and choir directress.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white faille, fashioned on simple lines, with sweetheart neck and long sleeves, the full skirt extending into a graceful train. Her long veil of bridal net was held with a sheath of orange blossoms, and she carried an arm bouquet of white sweet peas and freesia. Miss Louise McKinney of Boston, Mass., maid of honor, wore rose-colored faille, made with high neckline and elbow- length sleeves. Her headdress was of matching ribbon and net, and her flowers were an arm bouquet of Pernet roses and blue fleur de lis. Mr. Donald G. Robbins, Jr., of Fairfield, Connecticut, was groomsman for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Edward J. Griffing of Toledo, Ohio; Mr. James E. Esson, Jr., Mr. Harlow Cutting, brother of the bride, Mr. Karl Duffus.

A large reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received in a gown of blue-grey chiffon and lace, with shoulder corsage of pink roses and fleur de lis. Mrs. Robbins, mother of the bridegroom, wore seafoam crepe, with embroidered girdle and sleeves, and corsage of roses. Included in the bridal party was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Nathaniel Harlow.

Art Club Program Is Held In Aid of B.W.V.F.

The beauty and poignancy of Alice Duer Miller's "The White Cliffs," was delightfully interpreted by Mrs. F. Adrian Brook of Toronto in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Saturday afternoon, when she presented this famous poem under the auspices of the Women's Art Association.

The author pictures sympathetically the two countries of the United States and Great Britain, touching upon the viewpoints of each with rare understanding. Throughout the reading, one could notice how skilfully the poet has made use of rhythm which changes constantly with every mood and situation, yet leaves a feeling of unity throughout.

The story begins just prior to 1914, and is told by an American girl as she arrives in England and first sees the "White Cliffs of Dover rising sleepily out of the sea that made her secure."

Following the account of this girl's experiences an reflections, including the marriage with an Englishman of the upper classes and his early death because of the First Great War, in which the love of her own America and of England, her new home, are curiously interwoven, the writer concludes with the words:

"The tree of Liberty grew and changed and spread,
But the seed was English. I am American bred,
I have seen much to hate here—much to forgive,
But in a world where English is finished and dead
I do not wish to live."

Mrs. C. S. Thompson, president of the Lyceum Club, Women's Art Association, thanked Mrs. Brook, who had given the program in aid of the English War Victims' Fund as "her wartime knitting." Proceeds amounted to $17.50.

Other wartime activities of the Art Association this season include the investing of $100.00 in War Savings Certificates, made at the height of the War Savings appeal. This money was originally raised toward establishing an art centre in the city. A collection for the Mary Spitfire Fund, amounting to $5.00 was made at the closing studo program Friday evening. In addition to knitting, $60.00 was raised during the year by the Guild of Arts of the Association, and turned over to the Red Cross, and tickets at present being sold on an antique pressed glass comport by the Home Arts Guild are in aid of the B.W.V.F.

Choir Is Heard In Maunder's Sacred Cantata

The sacred cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," by Maunder, was rendered in a creditable and impressive manner by the choir of St. John's Anglican Church Sunday evening, under the direction of F. G. Mann, L.Mus., organist and choirmaster. This cantata recalls simply and reverently the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth, and some of the reflections suggested thereby. The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and psalms, the view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olivet, the lament over the beautiful city, the scene in the Temple, and the lonely walk back over the Mount at night, form the chief feature of the first part.

Part Two opens with the supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes his disciples' feet, and gives to His friends the new commandment to love one another as the true sign of discipleship. From this the scene passes to the infinite pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the sudden appearance of the hostile crowd, Jesus forsaken by his disciples, His utter loneliness among ruthless foes, the tumult before Pilate in the Judgment Hall, the Passage of the Cross, the tragedy and triumph of Calvary.

Solo parts were very well taken by Joey McMahon and Leonard Cooper, soprano; Victor D. Coleman, tenor; and Messrs. L. F. Dyer, R. B. Pitchford, and R. Crocker, bass. During the offertory, Victor Coleman sang "King Ever Glorious" from Stainer's "Crucifixion." The cantata is admirably suited to a Palm Sunday rendering.

PUBLIC OPINION CANNOT BE WANTONLY FLAUNTED.

Young Girls Who Decry Advice and Run the Rosy Pathway Always End in the Thorn Patch of Shame.

A man who has a 19-year-old daughter who is running wild and who is beginning to be talked about asks me if I will write something that might, perhaps, stay her feet on the perilous path down which she is starting. I would gladly do so, but when did 19 ever heed a warning? Though you spoke to it with the voice of men and of angels, it would not listen, for the tragedy of youth is that it believes in its own immunity to punishment and is certain that, no matter how high a price others have paid for their follies, it will escape scot-free. It believes that all its elders are dotards whose ideas have been outmoded, and whose advice is just senile mumbling that is no more to be taken for a pattern of life today than Grandma's design for making ruffled petticoats in a day of streamlined lingerie. As for the vaunted wisdom of age, youth scoffs at it. Why, poor old Grandpa and Grandma didn't even know how to live. Grandpa toiled and scrimped and saved and Grandma washed and cooked and reared half-a-dozen children, and they thought it was scandalous for a girl to even show her ankles. They would have thought one who smoked a cigarette was no better than she should be, and that only the kind of women you don't know ever got drunk. The dumb clucks! They were dead and didn't know it. They weren't smart like their grandchildren who take their fun as they find it while they are young and can enjoy it. So what can I tell this girl of 19, who thinks she knows all of life because she knows nothing of it; who thinks she can take care of herself in a world in which she will be beset by dangers at every step; who believes that she can dance without ever having to pay the fiddler, and who triumphantly asserts that this is a changed world in which all of the old traditions and inhibitions have been scrapped?"

I can tell her that she is mistaken. That it is the same old world, run on the same principles, with the law of cause and effect working out in the same inexorable way, and that when we break these laws we are punished, just as the sinner has always been punished. And that no exception will be made in her case. But she will not believe me.

Gossip Is Never Quit.

I can tell her that no girl can snap her fingers in Mrs. Grundy's face and get away with it. She may say: "What do I care what some frumpy old women say about me? I am going to do as I please. And if I don't get home until 5 in the morning and my boy friend spends his Sundays in my little apartment, what business is it of theirs?"

None, perhaps. But women make public opinion. They give a girl her rating, and she stands or falls by what they say about her. Some day she may lose the job she wants or the man she is breaking her heart for because of her reputation. It isn't enough for a girl to be good, she has to look good.

I can tell her not to pay too high a price for her fun. When a girl is 19 is mad for pleasure and excitement, when her feet ache to dance and she wants to go places and do things, she doesn't count the cost of her dates.

If a boy will only take her to disreputable places where the music is hot and the company tough, she will go rather than stay at home. If a boy demands petting as the price of his attentions, she will suffer herself to be kissed and mauled. If the way to be popular with men is to be a wild woman, she throws all scruples to the winds and is the fastest in a fast set.

Always Day of Reckoning.

But there comes a day of reckoning. The men with whom she has drunk and petted drop away one by one. They have married tame little girls who will make good wives and mothers. The wild girl looks in her mirror and sees herself old and raddled before her time, for liquor and dissipation do horrible things to women.

When she is sober enough to balance her accounts she realizes what a losing bargain she has made when she traded off the peace and security and happiness of her life for a few parties.

I can tell the girl of 19 to watch her step when she falls in love and some attractive youth tries to persuade her to break the law of God and man and build a love nest with him. There is not a bedrabbled woman of the street who did not fall for that siren song that lured her to her doom.

"But," says the girl of 19, "these things can never happen to ME." But they can. They will, unless you walk the straight and narrow path.

Council Votes To Use Vacation Edition

HASTINGS, April 7—(ENS).—At the regular monthly meeting of the Hastings Village Council, held on Friday evening in the Council Chambers, Reeve L. E. Kelley, and Councillors Charles Lynch, S. Stevenson, Iden Bonds and William McEachnie were present.

A representative of The Peterborough Examiner was present, and spoke in regards to advertising the Trent Waterway. The Council was in favor of a special edition as a splendid means of advertising; so it was moved by Councillor C. Lynch, seconded by Councillor I. Bond, that the Council purchase a large ad in the Vacation Edition of The Examiner.

Mr. Bert Miller, the county road superintendent, was also present to address the Council in regards to county road surface paving. After considering the matter, it was moved by Councillor Stevenson and seconded by Councillor Bonds that the Council authorize the counties to do the surface treatment on the paved streets in the village of Hastings, if and when it was necessary. The payments be applied as the 1940 rebate and the succeeding rebates providing the work was done during the year. The motion was unanimous.

It was also agreed, on motion of Councillors Bonds and McEachnie that the collector's time be extended to the next regular meeting. Also on motion of Councillors McEachnie and Lynch, that Robert Simpson have the pasture on the commons adjoining his lot for the year 1941 at a rent of $25.

The following accounts as filed were given and, on motion of Councillors Lynch and McEachnie, ordered to be paid.

W. Wellman, constable salary, $18; George Lynch, salary, fire dept., $7; Mrs. Boyle, salary, town hall, $8.33; Bell Telephone: Fire Chief, $2.05; constable, $2.05; town hall, $2.47; Hydro Commission, light, $1 Counties Treasurer, $27.13; Wm. ful tea on Saturday afternoon, in honor of Miss Claudine Hoard, whose marriage to Mr. Eric Pulfer will be an interesting event in Trinity United Church on Saturday, April 12.

Sixteen ladies were present; three of those invited were unable to attend.

The table was most attractive with a beautiful lace cloth and centred with a basket of yellow daffodils on either side of which were yellow candles in silver holders. Tea was poured by Mrs. Sanford Hoard of Belleville, and Mrs. Stewart was assisted in the service by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Stewart, and Miss Ona Hoard.

During the afternoon, Mrs. J. E. Glover rendered a pleasing solo, "Daffodil land,' with Miss Carrie Doxsee as accompanist, after which Miss Claudine Hoard, the bride-to-be, was presented with a beautiful silver basket, a gift from the invited guests. In a few remarks the guest of honor thanked the ladies for their kindness. Those present were: Mrs. J. E. Glover, Mrs. A. V. German, Mrs. C. Hoard, Mrs. S. Hoard, Mrs. J. Jones, Mrs. J. Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Miss Bee Davis, salesgirl in Huntington's basement Budget Fashions, has some ideas of her own on selling. When she tries to advise customers as to what best suits them, she encounters trouble from the buyer, Miss Dane. Mr. Bradley, a handsome young floorwalker, cautions Bee against too much advising. But Bee determines that if Huntington's doesn't suit her, she'll make it over.

BEE EARNS HER PAY

CHAPTER XI

That afternoon so long ago, when she had slipped out of her car to the subway, Beatrice had been frightened at the swift approach of her marriage to Clarence. She had wanted to escape.

But now, her interest in this store that Grandfather had founded was lending point and direction to the madcap masquerade. She felt strongly that she could be useful here. There were so many things about the store she was sure Grandfather would not have approved, if he could know! She wanted to change the store, better it. Now she was learning it from the very bottom, in the most intimate and revealing manner.

Still, often, in the days that followed, Beatrice was tempted to throw up the sponge. This life was tough!

Waking up to the shrill cry of the alarm clock, drinking her breakfast black, battling for a seat on the subway, was not fun. It was not fun, either, to take what Toby called "Miss Dane's lip." It was not fun to be snubbed by customers whose grammar was incredible and whose manners were worse. Not fun to stand on her feet all day, enduring the agony of burning soles and aching arches while her lips held the smile which Huntington's insisted on.

And it was frightening to discover that she wasn't half so beautiful as she used to be. Without the customary three visits a week to the beauty salon, her hair had lost the sweet, clean upward sweep off her forehead. Its bright gold had darkened. "Or do I only imagine it? These curls I roll up myself on those wire gadgets are awful!"

She saw her own hands growing grubby, as Toby's had been that day on the subway. She did her own nails at night, and mutilated her cuticle. Without bath salts and massage, her very skin seemed to her suddenly leathery.

The morning that Toby looked scornfully at a picture on the Society page of the paper and sneered, "Beautiful young debutante, my eye! Who couldn't be beautiful with plenty of money?" Beatrice understood as she could not have done a month ago.

But every time she played with the notion of going back home, she thought of Miss Dane's hard, enameled face and brusque voice. She remembered the voice of that beast in Mr. Weeming's office. She looked at Mr. Bradley's straight, broad back, and Toby's vivid, heart-shaped face. "They can't quit. If they can take it, I can!"

Actually, it had been hardest during the first week when she sat on the edge of the bathtub every night with her feet soaking in hot water and the small of her back threatening to break in two. Her first pay envelope fixed that. What a thrill it had been!

"My own money! Money I worked for! Every penny of it is my own."

She had torn the envelope open eagerly, counted the bills with an elation she had never experienced before. Almost, she had gloated over that pay envelope. The small sum seemed more important, suddenly, than all the thousands of dollars the paying tellers at the trust company had handed her through their little wickets.

This pay envelope was a symbol of achievement. A reward for valor.

"I did stick with it, this whole week. This money is for my hurting feet; for smiling at customers, for letting Miss Dane insult me. This money means I'm worth something to Huntington's." She thought, too. "When I spend one of these dollars, I'll be actually buying for the first time in my life."

Reluctantly, she stowed the bills away in her bag. "There ought to be two kinds of money. Worked-for-money, and the other sort. Work-money should be 10 times as valuable as play-money."

She still slept on the lumpy couch in Toby and Vera's apartment. 'Don't move, Bee," they had pleaded. With you here, chipping in, we'll pay the rent on time."

Toby added, "You'd only be moving back in a little while. Because you're gonna get canned, the way you're doing!"

For Beatrice was still hunting up dresses with good, simple lines and pushing them at customers hopefully. She was still handing out advice that directly contradicted the kind of dresses that hung in rows on the racks—the dresses Miss Dane had bought. Miss Dane's sharp eyes followed her with ever-increasing hostility, and Miss Dane's tight lips rapped out orders with undisguised dislike.

"She can't fire me while I make my quota, every day."

"Yeah, you're making it. The hard way. But Saturday, when you told that customer in the dressing room what constitutes the foundation of a good wardrobe, Miss Dane nearly choked."

The customer however, had bought three basic dresses and proceeded to the accessories on the main floor to purchase belts, collars and some perky pins.

Toby said, "When they start asking for you, Miss Dane will take it out on Getzie, watch."

Getzie—Miss Getz—was the middle-aged woman with the carefully dyed hair and the determined air of sprightliness who had been so kind to Beatrice her first few days. Miss Getz had taken Beatrice into the stockroom and explained, in great detail how to locate everything. She had showed Bee a quick way to tally up her sales, at the end of the day; and helped her get her stock all neatly hung. Miss Getz was a wizard with the stock, her long years of experience evident in the very way she touched a dress.

But Miss Getz walked heavily, when no one was looking. She peered through surreptitiously lifted oxford glasses, behind the fitting rooms, in order to read the size and price on a tag. She had a habit of looking over her shoulder nervously, every now and then, and fiddling with the glasses dangling from the old-fashioned fleur-de-lis on her breast.

It was Miss Getz, indirectly who was responsible for the success of Toby's campaign to get Beatrice assigned to her own department. "I simply told Dribblepuss you were young and smart looking and so refined you'd lift the whole tone of Budget Fashions. She's hell on tone since they wished Getz on her. They have to do something with broken-down battleaxes like Getz, and the basement's the end of the trail."

She sighed. "Getzie really was good, up there in the women's dresses before they ritzed it up and called it the Clubwoman's Corner. She had a lot of old girls she'd been waiting on since before they wore size 42. Some of them come here once in a while, but they don't buy much. They don't wear $3.98 numbers. The store really ought to pension Getz off, that's the truth. She's not well. Ever see her hands shake?"

"Yes, I noticed."

"Twenty-two of the best years of her life, handed over to Huntington's! And you know what they'll give her instead of a pension? A testimonial dinner when she retires."

One reason why Miss Getz didn't make her quota was that she stressed the durability of a number rather than its style. Another reason was that the high-heeled, generously lipsticked customers nearly always avoided her, hurrying off to Toby or Miss Ryan or even Beatrice when they saw Getz coming. Miss Getz would then painfully pretend she had advanced to straighten a a dress on a hanger.

"Getz has a sick sister to support. Poor thing. She quivers every time Mrs. Bradley loks at her."

"She called him a floorwalker once. I thought he'd have a fit. He thinks he's in training to be a merchandise man, and being section manager is just temporary. Getz has forgotten more about ready-to-wear than he'll ever learn. But he's kinda cute."

"Cute?"

Mr. Bradley was so tall he stood out like a beacon among the groups of customers. He had shoulders rather more suggestive of football than of Budget Fashions. For a man so undeniably masculine, his work seemed a little silly.

Mr. Bradley ironed out complaints and misunderstandings, saw to it that no customer remained unattended for longer than five seconds, o. k.'d checks and charges, found out what had become of undelivered packages, supervised the sales girls, kept his eye on the appearance of displays and stock, and, in general, managed Budget Fashions as first lieutenant to Miss Dane, the buyer.

"Learning to be a merchandise man!" snorted Toby. "That's the line they hand 'em. Start from the bottom, work your way up. It's bunk. When they need a merchandise man, I've always noticed, they hire a big shot away from some other store.

"But Bradley's not a bag egg. When he first came, all the girls took a shot at fascinating him. No go."

She grinned suddenly. "Say, Bee, it's your turn now. How would you like to drag a date out of Bradley?"

Cricket Notes

With the cricket season only a month away we are without any information as to the Clubs' activities.

The annual Spring meeting of the Peterborough Club is overdue, and there were many items of detail to be settled left over from the Fall meeting, and time is on the wing.

The Toronto District Council will carry on, with probably three divisions instead of four. A bright spot in the picture is the presence in Canada of many cricketers from the other Dominions in connection with the Empire Air Training Scheme. The Australian boy takes to cricket as naturally as his Canadian brother does to skating. The New Zealanders, the South Africans and airmen from other parts of the Empire have among their ranks, many good players of the Imperial summer game.

The Trenton Air Force ran a team which visited here twice last summer. The school at St. Thomas had a strong team which, playing as Elgin County, reached the finals of the County Championship.

At the Toronto Manning Pool alone we hear they have material to form four teams, one of which will probably enter the Toronto District Council. Leading aircraftsman Bowden, formerly connected with the now defunct Toc H Club, who have played frequently against both the local clubs, is actively interested. They want away matches of May 10 and May 24. Squadron-Leader Russell is president and Sergeant-Major Such the acting Sports officer.

Montreal Leads Eastern Final With 3 to 1 Win

MONTREAL, April 7 — (CP). — Practically all the Allan Cup hopes of Sydney Millionaires hinged today upon finding an antidote for Montreal Royals' dazzling speed as the scene shifted to Ottawa with the Quebec champions one game ahead in their Eastern Senior hockey final.

Built on the offensive weight of three fleet forward walls, the Royals played through strength to defeat the Maritime titlholders 3-1 here Saturday night. The next game will be played at Ottawa tonight.

Given Ottawa as home ice for the best-of-five series after eliminating Hull Volants, the Millionaires gained a 3-3 draw in the first game Thursday on the Ottawa ice.

Leading the Montreal attack with a pair of counters was Johnny Mahaffy, slim centre who missed most of their Eastern semi-final with Toronto Marlboros through an injury. Little Pete Morin bagged the other goal, while Jack Atchison got Sydney's lone tally.

Both Montreal's first two counters came within five minutes of the start of the initial frame. Their "razzle-dazzle" unit of Morin, Buddy O'Connor and Gerry Heffernan staged a perfect passing play for the first, while Ronny Perowne laid down a long pass that Mahaffy converted to make it 2-0.

Early in the second frame, Mahaffy ticked home Defenceman Bert Janke's long shot for the Royals' third goal before Atchison ended the scoring with Sydney's lone tally. Taking the puck from Centre Bobby Walton, Atchison fired through a screen of players to beat Durnan.

Mel Snowdown, injured captain of the Millionaires, started the game on defence, but appeared only briefly. Coach Bill Gill said he may be able to take his regular turn in tonight's game.

Lodge Honors R. J. Edmunds

PORT HOPE, April 7—(ENS). — A veteran of the Great Lakes sailing days when windjammers plied the inland lakes, W. Bro. R. J. Edmunds, was presented with a fifty-year jewel by members of Hope Lodge No. 114, A.F. and A.M., on Friday evening. By coincidence the date he became a member of the Lodge fifty years ago and the date of the presentation fell on April 4.

Mr. Edmunds related he began sailing on the Great Lakes at the age of twelve years and nine years later became master of his first vessel, the Mary Ann Lydon. He sailed on his earlier voyages on the Atlantic, which was owned by his father. Other vessels were the Picton, Annie Minies, Aurora, Drummond, L. D. Drummond, and the W. Y. Emery, also the Speedwell. After forty years' service Mr. Edmunds retired from sailing and resided in Port Hope.

Rt. Wor. Bro. J. T. George made the presentation address, while W. Bro. George Taylor, W. Bro. E. T. Tape, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. W. Mitchell, P.D.D.G.M., and Very Wor. Bro. Harold Beatty also spoke.

Some Ball Camp Training Notes

By The Associated Press

LAKELAND, Fla., April 7—The Spring of 1942 will bring Detroit Tigers back to Lakeland to train for the ninth straight season. Owner Walter O. Briggs said as the Tigers broke camp today after releasing their former $70,000 beauty, Fred Hutchinson, Virgil Trucks, Earl Cook and Charley Fuchs, all pitchers, to Buffalo.

OWENSBORO, Ky.—Paul Derringer, Cincinnati ace, limited Boston Red Sox to one hit in three innings yesterday and he's being given serious consideration for the opening day assignment.

EL PASO, Tex.—Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics sat in the stands yesterday and let Al. Simmons run the team and the A's beat Pittsburg 14-12 in 10 innings.

ATLANTA—The New York Yankees' exhibition-game slugging has pretty well overshadowed their pitching, but they can't keep Lefty Gomez's comeback hidden. Gomez has pitched 25 innings in 5 games so far, allowing 19 hits and four runs. In his four-hit shut-out of the Memphis Chicks yesterday he didn't give a walk nor let a runner get past first.

JOHNSON CITY, Conn. — Cliff Melton, whose value to New York Giants was doubtful when training started, appears to have won himself a full-time pitching job since canny Gabby Hartnett has been catching and coaching him. The four-hit 2-0 shutout Melton pitched against Atlanta yesterday was the best of any Giant hurler this season.

LAKELAND, Fla.— Washington's Senators are convinced that if they have nothing tougher to beat than the champion Detroit Tigers this year they should be rated as an American League pennant contender instead of a long shot. Yesterday's 6-2 victory over Detroit was the fifth straight time they had knocked over the Tigers.

J. C. Macdonald Again Heads Ontario Ball

TORONTO, April 7—(CP).—President J. C. MacDonald of Chesley was re-elected head of the Ontario Baseball Association here Saturday at the 23rd annual association's convention.

Other officers named were: Vice-President, W. G. Ward, Niagara Falls; 2nd Vice-President, H. H. Berscht, Hamilton; Secretary, W. J. Snyder, Hamilton; Treasurer, A. Hillmer, Oakville; Executive: M. W. Lesson, Merriton; A. H. Lowe, Kitchener; B. Oliver, Sunderland, and A. E. Southerst, Windsor.

A clause permitting clubs to sign new players to replace players who have enlisted in the Canadian (Active) Army was placed in the association's constitution.

The age limit of Junior A and B classification players was raised from 20 to 21 years of age by May 1. The residence rule date was moved ahead one month, from April 1 to May 1.

In an effort to create interest the Senior A clubs in the province will play a round robin series this season.

Seventeen players, seeking transfers, will have to wait another week for decisions until the incoming executive has been given a chance to study their cases.

Fourteen leagues and associations affiliated with the O.B.A. Saturday. Hamilton returned to the fold but the Toronto Baseball Association did not file entry.

The convention date for the Ontario Association next year was moved ahead to the third Saturday in April instead of the first Saturday in April as in the past. The annual meeting will be held in Hamilton in 1942.

Toronto's Mayor, Fred Conboy, welcomed the delegates to the meeting here Saturday.

Births Marriages In Memoriam Cards of Thanks Deaths

BORN

WHALEY — At St. Joseph's Hospital, on Saturday, April 5, 1941, to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whaley, a girl (still born).

REED. — At Nicholls Hospital, on Tuesday, April 1, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reed, of South Monaghan, a daughter.

DIED

DIXON, Ernest A. — Entered into rest in Toronto, Ont. (144 Rosewell Ave.), on Monday, April 7, 1941, Ernest A. Dixon, beloved husband of Maurice Wendling, in his 41st year. Funeral from the family residence, 94 King street west, Oshawa, Wednesday, April 9. Service 3 p.m., D.S.T. Interment, Union Cemetery, Oshawa.

IN MEMORIAM

BURGESS.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Annie Burgess, who passed away April 8, 1935.

Deep in my heart is a picture
Worth more than silver or gold;
It is a picture of my dear mother,
Whose memory will never grow old.

—Ever remembered by son Alex, and daughter-in-law, Betty.

MEEHAN.—In loving memory of Normie Meehan, who drowned one year ago today.

From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we love,
Borne away from sin and sorrow
To a better home above.

—Ever fondly remembered and sadly missed by his Mother, Father, Brother and Sisters.

CARDS OF THANKS

Pte. Clyde Aker wishes to extend his thanks to J. H. Vernor, manager of the Western Clock Company, for his generous treatment following his enlistment with the Veterans' Guard of Canada. The Company having sent him a cheque for two weeks' full pay some time after he had left the company for active service.

We wish to express our deep gratitude to Rev. E. W. Rowland, relatives and friends, also fellow employees for their kindness, sympathy and floral gifts in our recent sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved son and brother.—Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Jewell and Sisters.

George Haggart and sister wish to thank Rev. G. H. Johnston, St. James' congregation, attending doctor, all who sent flowers, all friends and neighbors, who in any way helped during sister's illness and bereavement, and for service rendered by county snow plough.

CHECK YOUR SCREENS NOW!
Flies and mosquitoes will be swarming into your home before long. Are you adequately protected?
Check your Screens now and make sure there will be no last-minute repairs or replacements to cause trouble later. They probably need repairs ... others need to be replaced ... and couldn't you use a few more for windows that were kept closed previously?
We have Screens ready to install in almost every standard shape or size of window ... and can make new ones to fit odd shapes and sizes. Call us to-day about your Screens.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink St. Telephone 4638.

B. P. TILE FLOORING
An Asphalt Base Flooring in Squares 9" x 9". Will outwear linoleum. Many color designs and combinations to chose from. Patterns and colors do not wear off. Has already been installed in many Peterborough homes, offices and stores. Makes very attractive floor coverings in kitchens, bathrooms, vestibules, and recreation rooms. Can be laid on wood or concrete floors, and will last and wear for years. $2.70 per square yard laid and finished ready for use. Call us to show samples and give estimates—no obligation on your part.

OAK HARDWOOD FLOORING
9½c Square Foot. Room 10' x 10' would cost only $9.50.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
56 George St. Telephone 4638.

REPAIRS AND REMODELING ARE EASY AND INEXPENSIVE
Look at your Home through your neighbor's eyes. Is it modern or attractive—or it is a white elephant? If your home is old and out of style, but sound structurally, it can be easily and quickly modernized. Financing can be arranged through your Bank or our Bank to spread the payment of the cost over a period up to two years, at a low rate of interest. Call us for additional information.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink Street. Telephone 4638.

ARE YOU PLANNING A NEW HOME?
Come right in and see us to-day—we have all the tools for home planning you'll need. We have PLANS, FINANCING INFORMATION, IDEAS, SUGGESTIONS—and good contractor references. Interest on home mortgages is low—maybe the lowest it will be during your life time. Under the National Housing Act all you need to have as a down payment is 20 per cent. of the value of the house and lot — the 20 per cent. would include the value of the lot. So why wait? Call us to-day for additional information.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink Street. Telephone 4638.

PLANNING TO BUILD A SUMMER COTTAGE?
There are a good many question marks in the minds or most folks who plan to build a Summer Cottage. Our job is to eliminate these marks.
This means without obligation to purchase, you are free to consult us at any time.
We like to think of our establishment as a building headquarters, the services of which are open to the people of this community. You are free to consult us at any time without obligation or embarrasment.
Don't hesitate to do so.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink St. Telephone 4638.

DON'T WAIT FOR APRIL SHOWERS TO TEST THE ROOF
Your roof might have been perfectly sound last Fall, but has it sprung any leaks since then? When April showers drench the countryside you will know ....by telltale stains on walls and ceilings ...but this is a very expensive manner of testing a roof.
Repairs, or putting a new roof right over the old one, are reasonably priced. Let us check your roof now, and fix it if it needs repairs.
Inspection and estimates are free from cost and obligation.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, April 8

A DAY of progress and opportunity may be read from the dominant planetary aspects. While there may be some friction, anxiety, duplicity with want of cooperation from those in high places, there is nothing portended which may not be offset by the advent of a surprising and quite unlocked-for opening which may eventually lead to advancement, pleasure and probably unusual adventures. This may concern the emotional or romantic life as well as business prospects. The higher creative faculties are under splendid stimuli for original work.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may lock for a progressive and promising year, with sudden openings that hold gainful, constructive and pleasant culminations. The inventive faculties are under fine auspices for accomplishments along original lines. While there may be some minor friction, opposition and imposition, on the whole affairs should move into pleasant places, with romance and adventure among the fulfilled wishes.

A child born on this day should have excellent opportunity for expressing its creative talent and originality, with much genius in inventive, literary and artistic lines. Romance, adventure and unusual experiences bring pleasure.

Knowing Bright Phrases You're Never at a Loss

You can Avoid Panicky Silences

Tongue-tied the minute she's alone with an attractive man!

It's times like this when you MUST know bright conversation-starters like "Wonderful party!" . . . "Isn't the room glamorous with these colored lights?"

Easy to learn, but such simple, friendly phrases certainly help you to get acquainted . . . and they may pave the way to romance!

Pretty soon the man you're with may ask, "Why didn't we meet long ago?" And you, of course, know a charming reply: "Fate's been holding out on us!" You charm your hostess, too, when you remember to say, "I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed tonight!"

And if you collect vivid ways of saying things—"agog with expectation," "old as Methuselah," "once in a blue moon"—you become a really fascinating companion.

You impress influential business people, too, when you know the poised, efficient thing to say. On the telephone: "May I make an appointment?" After the interview: "Thank you for your time."

Armed with effective phrases you're mistress of any situation! Our 32-page booklet gives dozens of gracious phrases for many social and business occasions. Lists lively phrases to give color, freshness to your speech.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of COSTUME JEWELRY YOU CAN EASILY MAKE to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

CASH HONORS AT START

BEFORE embarking upon a cross-ruff, a declarer should cash any top honors he holds in the remaining side suit. Otherwise one of the defenders may manage to discard in that suit and then be in position to do some ruffing on his own hook when those honors are eventually led. Disregard of this principle has cost the loss of plenty of contracts by declarers who are impatient to get their cross-ruffing under way.

North: ♠ A K 10 7 2 ♥ A 4 3 2 ♦ A K 4 ♣ 5
West: ♠ 8 6 5 ♥ Q J 9 7 ♦ 6 5 ♣ J 6 ♣ K 8
East: ♠ 3 ♥ K 10 ♦ Q 8 5 3 2 ♣ Q J 9 7 3
South: ♠ Q J 9 4 ♥ 8 ♦ 10 9 7 ♣ A 10 6 4 2

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	6 ♠

After East led the club Q against this contract, the declarer saw right away that he could trump clubs in his own hand and hearts in the dummy. So with no further ado, he set sail upon his cross-ruff. He took the first trick with the dummy's club A, ruffed the club 2, laid down the heart A, ruffed the heart 2, ruffed the club 4, West discarding a diamond, then the heart 3. When he disregarded the danger of West's discard and led the club 6 for a third ruff of the suit, West threw off his second diamond, and the contract was doomed. There was no longer any way for North to keep West from ruffing one of his diamond honors, in addition to which he had to lose a diamond trick to East. So he was down one.

How easy it would have been for North, after winning the first trick with the club A, to rake in his diamond tops before starting his cross-ruff. Or he could have avoided that style of play entirely, by merely ruffing out his own three losing hearts, using the diamond tops for entries to his hand, and then winding up with a bunch of trump tricks. Either of these procedures would have limited his losses to a single trick in diamonds.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 10 7 4 ♥ 10 8 4 3 ♦ K J 8 7 ♣ 6 3
West: ♠ A 9 3 ♥ K 2 ♦ Q 4 3 2 ♣ A 10 8 7
East: ♠ 8 6 5 2 ♥ Q J 9 6 ♦ 10 ♣ K J 5 4
South: ♠ K Q J ♥ A 7 5 ♦ A 9 6 5 ♣ Q 9 2

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

In a match point duplicate tournament, if South bids 1-Diamond on this deal, West doubles, North bids 2-Diamonds and all pass, what type of defense should West launch?

G. W. Ballard Dies

HAMILTON, April 5.— (CP). — George W. Ballard, crown attorney, died in hospital here to-day after a brief illness. Mr. Ballard was for many years a leading figure in the educational world and in his younger days was a noted football player, being one of the stars of the Tiger team in its great days before the war. He was a former chairman of the Hamilton Board of Education.

Trolley buses are supplanting street cars in Spain.

100 "Big Steel" C.I.O. Heads Talk Walkout

PITTSBURG, April 7 — (AP). — Strike clouds were evident today as 100 Congress of Industrial Organizations leaders from mills of the United States Steel Corporation gathered to discuss progress of wage negotiations with "Big Steel" which informed sources said were now "absolutely deadlocked."

The corporation, with 261,000 employees, is the world's largest producer of steel and an important factor in the defence program.

It was the third time within a month that Philip Murray, C.I.O. president and chairman of the steel workers organizing committee, had called in the local union heads.

Murray was grim as he refused to affirm or deny reports from Washington about the breakdown of negotiations which began formally March 20 after he had rejected the corporation's offer of a 2½-cent an hour raise, insisted on a 10-cent boost, and re-opened the union's four-year-old contract with the corporation.

The Washington reports also said union leaders were planning to call a strike at midnight Tuesday unless an agreement is reached. The contract expires then unless a further extension is agreed upon or a new pact negotiated.

Violence At Ford's Great River Rouge Plant

Armed with clubs, barrel staves and hammers, strikers at Ford Rouge River plant, LEFT, are held in check at the entrance of the plant by mounted police. Covered with blood, a worker who tried to enter the plant, RIGHT, is led away by two men. The man wearing a United Automobile Workers' cap is carrying an iron pipe.

Westwood Bale Reaches England

WESTWOOD, April 7—(ENS). — A recent shipment of refugee clothing for the British war victims, sent to Eley, England, by the Westwood War Fund Society, has arrived safely, according to a letter of acknowledgment and grateful appreciation received.

The bale, valued at forty-six dollars, included the following articles: 26 dresses, 12 pr. pyjamas, 4 boys' suits, 11 panties, 2 nighties, 6 slips and 5 pr. combinations.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

The April meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Morris.

Miss Jessie Davidson took charge in the absence of the president, Mrs. James Clysdale.

Mrs. W. Morris, April group leader, took charge of the following program. Miss Zola Warr and Mrs. E. W. Sargent sang a duet, 'Since Jesus Came Into My Heart'; program, 'Apostle of the Outposts,' was a fitting theme for an Easter meeting. It told the story of Oliver Jackson, B.D., O.B.E., who, called as a young man to the service of Christ, devoted himself unstintingly to the work of the church in Newfoundland and then laid down his life in the path of duty.

Prayer by Mrs. J. E. Glover brought an interesting meeting to a close.

Play Is Presented At Hall's Bridge

HALL'S BRIDGE, April 7—(Special).— The play "Lena Rivers," depicting old-time Southern life in Kentucky was presented by local talent in the True Blue Hall to a large and appreciative audience. The characters were ably taken and were as follows:

Lena Rivers, Miss E. Carmen; Granny Nichols, Mrs. J. Gillespie, Mr. John Livingstone, Max Wilson; Mrs. John Livingstone, Mrs. B. Hall; Caroline Livingstone, Mrs. B. Walton; Anna Livingstone, Mrs. N. Windover; John Livingstone, Jr., Miss Vera Fulton; Mr. Frank Graham, N. Windover; Mrs. Frank Graham, Mrs. H. A. Shearer; Mr. Durward Belmont, Miss Thelma Fulton; Mr. Malcolm Everett, Roy Gillespie; Milly, the colored maid, Mrs. M. Hall; Ole Caesar, the colored man, Elwood Gillespie.

Sam Wood was chairman, and led in community singing, and Miss M. Windover entertained between acts with selections on the piano-accordion. The orchestra from Smith contributed several old-time numbers. The proceeds were very gratifying and will help to swell the Soldiers' Gift Fund.

THIS THIRD WORLD WAR

MORGANTON, W.V., — (CP). — Historian Thomas Ennis of West Virginia University says present conflict is the "Third World War" as the War of 1812-14 was first First World War, affecting "every European country" as well as Canada and the United States.

Profits from the extraction of chemicals from the Dead Sea are soaring.

2 British Ships Week's Sea Toll

LONDON, April 7 (AP).—Wholesale seizures by the United States and Latin-American countries of Axis ships dominated the shipping picture in the week ended April 4 and few reports came through neutral sources on the progress of the battle of the Atlantic.

Only two reports of sinkings were received in the period, that of the 8,799-ton Britannia and of the 5,759-ton Western Chief, both of British registry. Two small Yugoslav passenger vessels struck mines in the Adriatic and sank.

The British Admiralty's summary for the week ended March 24 showed 59,141 tons of British, Allied and neutral shipping sunk by enemy action in the period; some 6,000 tons below the average for the first three weeks of March.

ANIMAL AMBULANCES

CAPE TOWN—(CP).—Horses are still one feature of the British South African army and three animal ambulances, each to carry three horses, have been provided for the Veterinary Corps.

Centreville News

Miss Hazel Hall of Peterborough, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McRoberts, has returned home.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honey of Cavanville were guests at the tea hour of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson a few days ago.

Mrs. Lloyd Marvin of Port Hope is spending a week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Earle.

Rev. James Young of Omemee visited Rev. D. A. McKenzie at the manse on Monday.

The women of the village and Fourth Line, Cavan, have had several quiltings for the Red Cross.

Several farmers have tapped maple trees and report a good run of sap.

Cottesloe Group Enjoys Social

COTTESLOE, April 7 (ENS) — The Y.P.S. held their monthly social evening last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. McDonald with about 30 present. In the absence of both president and vice, David Forsyth took charge.

Jim Girvin read the Scripture from Daniel and Helen Tedford gave a most inpressive talk on the life of Daniel, saying that today Babylon was with us and like Daniel we should pray in earnest to the true God. Mae Webster gave a reading and Erwin Forsyth had charge of the Bible study period. At the close of this, the meeting was handed over to the recreation convener, Margaret McDonald, and an hour of fun was spent in games, contests and first of April jokes. Lunch was served and an offering taken for War Victims' Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton of McCracken's Landing were Sunday evening guests at the Webster home.

Master Keith Thompson of Sudbury is the guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gallagher.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Freeburn and Ronald McDonald were in Apsley on Sunday. On the return trip, as Messrs. Freeburn and McDonald were fixing a tire, a car sideswiped Mr. Freeburn, injuring his leg and tearing his clothes. As a result he is confined to his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Webster spent Sunday evening in Peterborough with their cousins, Mrs. George Peters and Mrs. Lily Dunford.

The carpenters are at work finishing Mr. J. S. Kidd's new house.

Misses Rena and Mary Toms of Peterborough were home for the week-end.

Mr. Jack Girven of Clarina is home and attended the social.

War Workers Meet At Hall's Bridge

HALL'S BRIDGE, April 7.—The war workers met in the hall Tuesday afternoon for their regular meeting. Sixteen ladies were present and Mrs. M. B. Hall was in the chair. After expenses were paid the proceeds from the play, "Lena Rivers," amounted to $23 to be used for the gift fund. Mrs. R. Montgomery gave a short reading, "A King That Walks With God." Mrs. Windover a paper on "Are You Doing Your Bit for the Empire." Mrs. Olmstead read extracts from letters from people in Coventry, and Mrs. D. Montgomery a short poem on "England."

Reports from the various committees were given: Knitting—a great number of knitted articles. Sewing—four layettes and five quilts from the ladies looking after the quilting. A bale is to be sent to the I.O.D.E. consisting of five quilts, eights scarfs, one sweater, eight pairs sox, three pairs mitts, two pairs sockees, and other articles.

Gunner Gerald Fulton and his mother, Mrs. A. Fulton, accompanied by Mrs. B. Walton and son, Rodney, and Mrs. M. B. Hall motored to Muskoka on Saturday to spend the day with Miss Olive Fulton.

Price Of Syrup Eases On Farm Market

An apparently adequate supply of maple syrup on the market Saturday definitely marked the beginning of a new season of production. Other intimations there were, also; for instance Norman Moncrief reports the 1940 apple crop is getting near the bottom of the barrels. The maple syrup makers, however, provided the day's feature, opening their syrup prices at $2.50 a gallon, and most of them clipping the price to 60 cents a quart at the noon hour. One of the regulars who was missed, at least by the Examiner, was the late Adam Humphries of Asphodel township. About the only season of the year he came to the Peterborough market was when the maple sap was flowing. This year the Humphries product was sold by his son, James Humphries.

A. Spencer and Sons of Havelock reported a fairly heavy run of sap during the week. Alf Elmhirst of Indian River, Healey Brothers of Westwood and Herb Doig of North Monaghan were others selling syrup.

Home Graded Eggs

Grade A, large, eggs were 20 to 23 cents a dozen, and others were down to 18 cents. Apparently the new grading law has so far been tempered to the convenience of producers selling on the local market. One woman said she guaranteed her first grade A eggs to conform to weight, and the others were correctly graded, too, but they had not been candled. However, they had been collected on Thursday and Friday, and that seemed to be assurance of general quality. Most of the baskets bore the names of the producers.

Potatoes were unchanged in price, Cobblers at $1 a bag, Chippewas $1, and White Stars at $1.20. Delbert Olan from vicinity of Millbrook said he had only about one hundred bags of last year's crop unsold. He convinced himself last fall that the price was unlikely to increase by the time Spring came, and he unloaded his stock steadily during the winter, and estimates that his opinion was sound and that he has not lost any money. Mr. Olan remarked that too many men are engaged in growing potatoes who do not know how to handle them properly in growing and also in storing. But, that is too long a story for a market comment.

Butter was 35 to 37 cents. Chickens were scarce and firm at 22 and 23 cents a pound, some up to 25 cents, and broilers were 33 cents a pound.

Harold Doig's apple prices were: Spies $1.50 a bushel, Russets $1.25 and Starks $1.25.

Norman Moncrief quoted his best Spies at 50 cents a peck or $1.90 a bushel with others at 40 cents and $1.40 a bushel; Starks 35c a peck or $1 a bushel and Russets 40 cents a peck of $1.40 a bushel.

Allen Gill's fresh meat prices were 12 and 14 cents for pork and 29 and 30 cents for lamb.

Dramatic Reader Is Heard In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, April 7—(ENS). — Rev. Herbert W. Piercy of Niagara Falls, dramatic reader and interpreter of literature, presented a program before an interested audience in the church hall of the Lakefield United Church on Monday evening, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the new manse fund.

Rev. G. F. Kelly was chairman, and before introducing the guest artist, opened the program with a hymn followed by prayer.

The following program was presented, with Mrs. H. E. Moore as accompanist:

"The Wheels of Time" (Florence Barclay), Mr. Piercy; vocal solo, Mrs. J. R. Hull; "How Rubenstein Played the Piano," Mr. Piercy; vocal trio, Mrs. Dora MacMillen, Mrs. M. Hamblin, Mrs. D. H. Webster; "How Bill Adams Won the Battle of Waterloo," Mr. Piercy; Community Singing; "The Master of the House," (Robert Herrick), Mr. Piercy.

GREEK DEATH BATTALION CLINGS TO RUPEL PASS

Nazis at Skoplje, Says Berlin

BERLIN, April 8 — (AP). — Germans claimed to-day that their troops from Bulgaria and Rumania had advanced to Skoplje, important industrial and military centre in Southern Yugoslavia about 100 miles north-west of Salonika. (There was no immediate confirmation from Allied sources.)

The high command claimed to-day that sixty-three opposing planes were destroyed in yesterday's operations—20 in airfights over Yugoslavia, 34 on the ground, five in air fights with British planes and four by anti-aircraft on the Western Front.

New damage to Belgrade's main railroad station was claimed by the communique as well as direct hits on transport and fuel trains and heavy damage to railroad bridges, stations and tracks along the Sava River.

In the air war against Britain, German sources claimed a power plant in the port of Harwich, on the English east coast, was hit directly and that a Rolls-Royce factory also was hit in bomb attacks on other points.

The high command enumerated Bristol, Liverpool, and Ipswich also as raid targets.

Reports From Rome

ROME, April 8.—(AP)—Italian troops in Albania have gone into action against the Yugoslav army, while other units have repulsed attacks by the Greeks and captured many prisoners, the Fascist high command claimed today.

Fighting between Italians and Yugoslavs thus far has consisted of actions between advance elements, the daily war bulletin declared, but there was no indication of the trend of operations.

(Reuters News Agency quoted the Yugoslav radio as saying Yugoslav troops had occupied the town of Scutari in Northern Albania.)

Rome Claims Derna Been Taken

No London Statement, Iraq Troops Seize R.A.F. Base

ROME, April 8 (AP)—The Italians claimed today that Italian and German troops have occupied the Libyan port of Derna.

(Confirmation was not immediately available in London or Cairo. Previously London sources had said the withdrawal of British advance forces in Libya was continuing.)

Derna is approximately 175 miles east of Bengasi, from which the British forces withdrew last week. A deep water port, it had been held by Britain since Jan. 30.

Previously the Italians had claimed Barce and Tocra.

Tocra is on the coast 50 miles east of Bengasi, which the Italians and Germans recently occupied, and Barce is about 10 miles inland.

(London sources said merely: "Withdrawal of our advance troops is proceeding.")

Iraq Seizes U.K. Base

VICHY, France, April 8 (AP)—A dispatch from Beirut, Lebanon, to the Vichy information office today claimed Iraq troops last night seized the British base of Cineldebane, near Baghdad.

Prince Regent Abdul Ilah, who took refuge in Basra after last week's coup d'etat at Baghdad, has left that haven to flee the country.

'Lone Ranger' Killed

Farmington, Mich., April 8 (AP)

EARL W. GRASER, 32, whose thrilling radio exploits as the "Lone Rangers" were heard by thousands of listeners, was killed early today when his automobile crashed into the rear end of a trailer.

Graser, whose familiar call "Hi, Yo Silver" was the trademark of his radio adventurers, had been on the air as the "Lone Ranger" for the past nine years on a network originating in Detroit.

Graser is survived by his widow and a daughter. He was born in Kitchener, Ontario, and came to the States as a boy.

Hint Salonika Now Only Minor Point

Too Close To Bulgaria; London Mum On Army In Greece

LONDON, April 8.—(CP)—Military circles maintained strict silence today on operations of the British army in Greece, but indicated the port of Salonika was only a minor point on the British strategy map.

"Salonika was the focal point in the last war," these sources said. "However, it may have lost something of its importance because it is in close bombing range from airfields in Bulgaria and is not immune from enemy attack as it was in the last war."

It was learned in official circles that the foreign office still is in touch with the British legation in Yugoslavia.

For security reasons, however, these sources said they could not say anything about the whereabouts of the legation or the Yugoslav government.

Military sources said today they lacked confirmation of Italian claims to re-occupation of Derna, in Libya, but declared the North African situation is fluid and swift changes of position are possible, "if our forces don't decide to make a stand at any particular point."

These sources said an Italian-German advance as far as Derna since the announcement four days ago of the taking of Bengasi, approximately 175 miles to the west, "would not be difficult if our forces withdrew," since the towns are connected by a good road.

Loring Christie Envoy To U.S. Passes

NEW YORK, April 8 — (CP). — Loring Christie, Canadian Minister to the United States, died today in Rockefeller Institute Hospital where he had been a patient since last November, reportedly suffering from a heart ailment.

Mr. Christie suffered what the Canadian legation in Washington called an "indisposition" in November during a visit to New York and was unable to resume his duties in Washington.

His office was recently taken over by Leighton McCarthy, who has at present the title of Acting Minister.

Mr. Christie, 56, was a veteran of the Dominion's civil service, dating back to 1913 when he was appointed legal adviser to the External Affairs Department. He attended the Imperial Conferences during the First Great War, throughout which he was associated closely with Sir Robert Borden, Canada's wartime Prime Minister.

Mr. Christie also attended the Paris Peace Conference, and the Washington Arms Conference in 1922, when he served for a time as secretary of the British Empire delegation.

He left government service in 1923 to engage in financial and legal work, but returned in 1935 to hold his post as counselor, continuing in that position until his appointment as minister to the United Staes.

Mr. SChristie, born in Amherst, N.S., attended Acadia University and the Harvard University Law School.

Retained His Post to Last.

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP). — Loring Christie who died to-day in New York held rank in Canada's Diplomatic Service as Minister to Washington although another man, also designated as minister, was carrying out the actual duties of that post.

Last February 19 Mr. Christie, 56 years old and ill since November, told Prime Minister Mackenzie King his recovery would take longer than was expected. The Prime Minister gave him extended leave of absence and on February 25 appointed Leighton G. McCarthy, K.C., of Toronto, to the post.

But Mr. Christie's services were considered so valuable that his status as Minister was left intact so his services could have been used again if his health had improved.

Plane Breaks Up Killing 2 Fliers

TRENTON, Ont., April 8 (CP)—A court of inquiry will open here today into the crash of a Royal Canadian Air Force training plane late yesterday that claimed two lives.

Killed in the crash were Sgt. Pilot V. J. Parker of Regina and Sgt. Pilot L. A. Broad of Belleville, Ont. Witnesses said that the plane was flying high when it went into a nose-dive and broke up in mid-air, about six miles from here.

Two men who were working on a farm near where the plane crashed said one wing fell away while it still was several hundred feet above the ground.

The body of Sgt. Pilot Parker will be sent to Regina today for burial after joint funeral services are held at the Trenton air station.

Greeks Hold Serb Front As Slavs Retreat, Nazis At Sea In Thrace

BERNE, Switzerland, April 8 — The Greeks were left alone today to defend a vital section of the Balkan front when Yugoslav forces withdrew in Southern Serbia, but there were no indications, despite evidently fierce fighting, that the Germans had won any decisive advantage.

The Greeks said they were holding firm at Rupel Pass where a German armored column sought to penetrate the Struma Valley.

The Yugoslav withdrawal was disclosed in a Greek general staff communique. It did not say whether this was after contact with Nazi divisions smashing toward the Vardar River, but it admitted that the Greek left flank had been thrown into jeopardy in that sector where the Germans might be able to break through to flank Greece's Struma River line.

Although German armored units were said to have swept 50 miles across Western Thrace to the shores of the Aegean Sea, driving a wedge between Greece and Turkey, the Nazi high command acknowledged tought going on the southeastern front, and made no specific claims of gains.

Drive Is Hammered On

It reported only that the German attack "was effectively continued" despite difficult terrain, blocked roads and "tough enemy resistance."

The Ankara radio reported heavy German losses in the opening blows on Greece and Yugoslavia.

Italy, too, evidently was imperiled in Albania by Yugoslav capture of Scutari, an apparent effort by the Yugoslavs to co-operate with the Greeks in squeezing the Italians from Albania.

Capture of Scutari was reported in advices reaching the Yugoslav Legation here. They said the Italian town of Zara, on the Dalmatian coast, also had fallen to the Yugoslav army.

If the Yugoslavs and Greeks can join forces in Albania, the Ankara radio predicted, Italy will be unable to "save 10 per cent of her troops there."

March Toll 4,259

London, April 8 (CP)

THE ministry of home security announced today 4,259 civilians were killed and 5,557 injured in air raids over Britain during March. The casualties included 598 children killed and 413 injured.

The ministry said 500 persons were killed and 500 injured in raids on the Liverpool area March 12 and 13, and 1,100 killed and 1,000 injured in the Edinburgh region March 13 and 14.

Casualty figures for the navy raid on London March 19 were not published.

Hun Ruse To Cut Lines By 'Chutists Fails 130 Taken, Others Shot

ATHENS, April 8 — (AP). — The Greeks were reported to-day to be holding firm at Rupel Pas, through which a German armored column was trying to penetrate to the Struma River, Valley.

This attempt, despatches from the front said, and other thrusts farther eastward along the Greek-Bulgarian frontier, met terrific resistance which already has cost the Germans heavy losses in men and material.

A German effort to cut communications behind the Greek lines by using parachutists failed, an announcement said, and 130 parachutists were captured and others killed.

The Greek General Staff reported that Yugoslav troops fighting in Southern Serbia have withdrawn, exposing the left flank of the Greeks who, nevertheless, are "defending the Fatherland inch by inch."

Death Battalion In Fore.

The Greeks have a death battalion meeting the brunt of the Nazi attack, the newspaper Kathimerini said, formed of volunteers for service in outposts. Every man, the paper sa'd, was highly qualified for the work of defending the positions to the last moment to cover the withdrawal of the main forces. After that, the paper said, their job was to blow up all communications and bridges before falling back.

The paper related that one group of 150 held back a German force 20 times as large for 36 hours.

Greek correspondents returning from Yugoslavia today brought only fragmentary accounts of the war. They said terrific air battles were

Kiel Sub Bases Feel Ruin Of RAF Bombs

LONDON, April 8 (CP)—British bombers raided Kiel for five hours last night, raining "hundreds of tons of very powerful bombs" on its submarine building yards and docks, the air ministry announced today.

Attacks on the ports of Bremerhaven and Emden last night and daylight raids on objectives in Denmark and the Low Countries also were reported.

Spotting their targets in bright moonlight, German bombers spanned the British Isles last night, blasting many scattered points in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

The moonlight also aided night fighters over the homeland and five Nazi raiders were shot down.

Nine persons were killed in Northern Ireland's first sustained air raid of the war. Northern Ireland had experienced sporadic raids before but last night the Germans struck at an unidentified town at midnight and unloaded bombs for more than an hour.

London, after its long night alert, had a brief daylight alarm at noon today.

Raids Are Spread Out

Of other activity, the Ministries of Air and Home Security said: "Though some districts experienced sharp attacks no heavy attack was made on any one district, but activity was widespread over the country and incidents are reported from many parts of Great Britain."

Among these incidents were:—

Italian Losses 283,155 Men

LONDON, April 8.—Italy has lost 283,155 troops, including dead, wounded and prisoners, since she entered the war only ten months ago, according to military estimates in London last night.

These losses, taking into account action on all fronts, include 140,000 casualties in the crushing of the Fascist North African Army in Libya, 31,000 in Italian Somaliland, 9,000 in Albania and 20,000 in Ethiopia.

The British losses on the same fronts for the same ten-month period were said to have been 2,966 dead, wounded and prisoners, or 1 per cent, of the Italian losses.

Passenger Route To Eire Shut 'For Safety'

LONDON, April 8 — (CP). — The Great Western and the London, Midland and Scottish Railways disclosed to-day they had closed one passenger route between Britain and Eire "for reasons of safety."

An alternate route is in effect, railway offices said after stating that the main route was closed yesterday. There also is a commercial air line connection between England and Ireland.

It had been announced earlier and erroneously that the Great Western cancelled all passenger sailings to Dublin.

Authoritative quarters declined comment. Informed sources, however, pointed out that the Irish Sea had been heavily mined for months.

Navicerts will be required for all goods shipped to Eire from neutral countries outside the European zone effective May 1, the Ministry of Economic Warfare announced today.

The statement said that navicerts —or British navigation certificates— would be needed even if the goods were to be trans-shipped to the United Kingdom.

An informed source said the new navicert regulations transferred from the Ministry of Shipping to the Ministry of Economic Warfare the job of rationing Eire's imports, and he added that it did not foreshadow any tightening of import restrictions.

Farm Control Board Looms

Held Necessary To Work With U. S. Supplying Britain Food

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP). — The need may arise for more adequate machinery to control farm products in Canada in order to co-operate with the United States in supplying Great Britain's food requirements, it was learned here today.

peaking in the House of Commons yesterday, Agriculture Minister Gardiner told of negotiations during the week-end in which British, United States and Canadian officials participated. An understanding was reached that Canada increase its bacon exports to the United Kingdom.

The situation is handled in Washington by a surplus board, officials here said, and it may be necessary for the smooth working of the co-operation that a similar board be set up in Ottawa.

While Mr. Gardiner referred only to bacon, it is understood many other lines of farm products have been under review and the extent to which Canada could supply British needs has been under close consideration.

While Canada now has a bacon board, dairy products board and other boards dealing with particular products, it is considered possible it will be necessary to have one board to supervise the handling of all products, with regulatory powers.

Word has come that Britain will buy a quantity of Canadian beans. Last week a deputation of bean growers from Western Ontario waited on Mr. Gardiner to urge some steps be taken to look after the surplus of white beans.

Western Ontario last year produced 1,500,000 bushels of beans, of which 1,000,000 bushels supplies Canadian market. In the past the surplus usually went to Great Britain. This year Britain stopped buying, but as a result of recent conversations the United Kingdom has decided to take up much of this surplus.

Three Plane Attacks On Egypt To Greece Run All Prove Vain

(Editor's Note. — Edward Kennedy, Associated Press Staff member, was with British advance forces in the North African offensive which pushed the Italians west beyond Bengasi. Stationed in Cairo since last summer, he has gone to Greece with the British Expeditionary Force. Here he describes that transfer of British troops.)

By EDWARD KENNEDY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

ATHENS, April 8—(AP).—A great British army, equipped with the best weapons the combined industries of the British Empire and the United States could provide, is spread over a large part of the Greek Peninsula ready for a major test with the Germans.

This expeditionary force, landed here with negligible losses compared with the extent of the operation, is composed of the pick of the Army of the Nile—the powerful military machine Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell assembled in Egypt the past year and sent on a victory sweep against the Italians through eastern Libya.

Supplementing this army, which has come to Greece prepared to profit by lessons Britain learned at Dunkirk and in Norway, is a battle fleet enjoying absolute mastery of the Mediterranean.

Although the Royal Air Force has been operating in Greece since Italy launched her invasion last October, the first ground units did not leave Egypt until March 10.

In the interim, vast quantities of stores, including food supplies for the Greeks, were convoyed across the Mediterranean.

Many of the supply convoys and the troop convoys which followed were attacked by planes, but losses were remarkably small.

My trip across apparently was typical. We set out from an Egyptian port with heavily laden British freighters, shadowed by a reconnaissance plane which was out of sight but whose drone was picked up by

LOS ANGELES, April 8—(AP). — Capitalizing on French errors, Greece quietly has evacuated 1,000,000 men, women and children from the Macedonia-Thrace theatre of war, President Spyros P. Skouras of the Greek War Relief Association of America reports.

Skouras called this the greatest, most dramatic wholesale evacuation in history.

Over night, cities of 50,000 population were drained of civilians and became ghost cities.

Northern Greece thus was vacated to its soldiers before the Nazis tried to move in. Greek fighting men were not hampered by demoralized civilians, as French troops had been.

Hun Drive Wedge To Aegean Across Western Thrace, But Main Struma Forts Hold

Yugoslavs Move Back On Greek Flank Baring Vardar Hinge

ATHENS, April 8—(AP).—Yugoslav troops fighting in southern Serbia have withdraw, exposing the left flank of the Greeks who, nevertheless, are "defending the fatherland inch by inch," the Greek General Staff reported today.

A General Staff communique said: "Yugoslav troops fighting in southern Serbia withdrew, uncovering the left flank of our troops who were heroically fighting on the border line.

"Despite this, our soldiers continue to fight with great self sacrifice, defending the fatherland inch by inch."

(The extent of the menace to the Greek left flank—hinged at the juncture of the Greek, Bulgarian and Yugoslav frontiers—was not explained immediately.

(However, the Germans have been driving into southeastern Yugoslavia toward Skoplje and the Vardar River, and a general withdrawal of Yugoslav forces from the frontier mountains in this sector might open to the Germans the broad Vardar Valley. It runs south of Salonika, cutting behind the present Greek defence system along the Struma.)

Main Lines Hold

The Greeks earlier announced the loss of two border forts in the Struma Valley and evacuation of Western Thrace, but said the main Struma defences were unbroken.

Withdrawal of "weak screening forces" from Western Thrace and Greece's frontier with Turkey was described by the High Command as "in accordance with our plan, and to avoid useless sacrifices."

That made the narrow, mountain-rimmed valley of the Struma River from the Bulgarian frontier to the Aegean Sea Greece's front line, and fort after fort there was reported to have stood off hard-driven attacks by German bombers, tanks and infantry.

Clusters of parachute troopers were reported dropped from German planes behind the Greek lines, but these were being captured, a Greek spokesman said.

British Imperials on the Job

The Greeks, whose defence positions were being strengthened by a steady stream of British Imperial forces, including veterans from the army of the Nile, reported counter-attacks of their own, said bayonet charges and hand-to-hand fighting left German dead heaped before the strong points they attempted to capture.

Forts Istinbey and Kelkaya, outposts of the Greek defences just south of the Bulgarian frontier along the Struma valley, were the

Sarajevo Set Aflame, Nazis Find Fierce Resistance In North

BERNE, Switzerland, April 8 — (AP)—Advices received by the Yugoslav legation here today confirmed earlier reports that Yugoslav forces had captured Scutari, Albania.

Reports received by telephone from the Yugoslav government's new headquarters at Vranje in the Serbian mountains also said the Italian town of Zara, on the Dalmatian coast, had fallen to the Yugoslav army.

Advices said Yugoslav troops after taking Scutari were smashing further south into Albania in an attempt to co-operate with the Greeks in squeezing the Italians out of Albania.

A telephone conversation was held just before noon with Yugoslav government officials, it was said. Vranje is a small resort near Carak on the railway line between Belgrade and Sarajevo.

Hitler's armored legions were reported to have gained a foothold on the shores of the Aegean Sea today, driving between Greece and Turkey after sweeping 50 miles southward across Western Thrace against intentional light resistance.

At the same time, the Germans claimed their mechanized forces, operating from bases in Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary, had penetrated 30 miles into Yugoslavia in some places in the wake of an air attack.

There were no indications, however, that the Nazis had captured

Apparently Yugoslavia was getting the heaviest fighting since the battle of France.

Dead Pile Ravines

Several ravines are heaped with German bodies and dozens of smashed tanks and armored cars, dispatches from the front said.

In one valley, these accounts said, the Greeks let the Germans advance some distance without opposition and then opened with heavy artillery and machine-gun fire from the forest and nests concealed on hillsides.

This column was nearly destroyed, the dispatches said. Those who survived fled.

In the hills around Nevrokopi there was a pitched battle which at first went against the Greeks but later was reported to have turned in their favor.

The German drive in the Struma region did not take the defenders by surprise, dispatches said.

Persons crossing the frontier from Yugoslavia said the German column which crashed through the Struma was very large and for days before the attack soldiers, vehicles and supplies had rolled through the valley to the frontier.

R.A.F. Out Raiding

ATHENS, April 8 —(AP)—British planes raided the Struma valley area of Bulgaria Sunday night, starting a fire in the railway station at Gorni Dsumaya and attacking a railway and road junction at Simitli, a British communique said today.

A motor transport convoy and troop concentrations were hit at Simitli, and another motor transport convoy was machine-gunned at Petrich, the communique said.

Yesterday the R.A.F. attacked a large motor transport concentration near Strumica, about 18 miles from the Bulgarian frontier in southeastern Yugoslavia.

(It was announced in London Monday that the R.A.F. heavily attacked Sofia, capital of Nazi-held Bulgaria, Sunday night.)

instruments.

We expected an attack, and it came an hour before nightfall, as three German bombers appeared, swooped low and dropped torpedoes which went at least a mile wide of their mark.

I was in the sailors' mess delivering a talk on my experiences as a war correspondent at their request when the alarm sounded.

Within a few seconds, the decks were cleared and every man was at his post with helmet and lifebelt on.

By the time I reached the bridge, our guns were cracking with a recoil that shook the ship as it zigzagged constantly.

Half an hour later, three other planes attacked, flying into a barrage being put up by four warships. Six big bombs landed not far from the largest vessel in the convoy.

One plane broke formation and scooted off, apparently damaged in the wing. It is problematical whether it ever reached its base.

Three more raiders came over at dusk and loosed torpedoes which failed to take effect. During the night a submarine was suspected to be nearby, and convoying warships dropped depth charges.

By dawn, the convoy was carefully picking its way through minefields in Greek territorial waters, and the rest of the trip was uneventful. The only casualty was a canary aboard our vessel, which apparently died of fright.

Much of the army equipment landed in Greece is glistening with newness, but there are also some of the tanks used in the Libyan campaign which since have been reconditioned.

A number of United States-made planes also are waiting to be tested in combat in this area.

Navy officials said one of the chief objectives of Forrestal's trip would be to see if some method could be found by which the British could use more American naval weapons and other equipment not standard in their navy.

For example, officials said the British use guns of different calibre than those of the United States Navy but if they would agree to take both guns and ammuniton which the navy has already on hand, it would greatly expedite furnishing of such aid.

Norfolk, Va., April 8 (AP)

NAVAL authorities reported that occupants of United States navy planes had sighted at sea about noon today the wreckage of a big naval patrol bomber missing since yesterday morning, with 2 officers and 8 men aboard.

Demand Is Made For Increase In Pay For Men

About thirty men, consisting of sawmill employees, truckers and yard men at the Peterborough Lumber Company plant on Monaghan Road delivered a demand for higher wages to the company officials on Monday afternoon and went on strike at eight o'clock this morning.

The demand, written as a letter and anonymous, was accompanied by a circular petition signed by the men. The letter pointed out that owing to increased cost of living and higher rents, an increase in wages was imperative. They asked for a general increase of 7½ cents an hour with a request that a reply be forthcoming by Wednesday morning, as many of the men had other jobs to go to.

Only one man from the plant itself accompanied the strikers, and this morning, Gordon Munro, and Vince McCabe, plant superintendent met the strikers and explained the position the company was in at the present time. They said also that a general raise in wages could not be given and if the men had other jobs paying more money they were quite at liberty to take them. At the same time it was learned that the company was ready and willing to give consideration to individuals whose ability and length of service justified an increase.

Most of the men affected have only been with the company for about six months and are more or less seasonal employees.

At noon several of the strikers reported for work so that at the present time not more than twelve or fifteen are out, and some of those may be returning for work in the morning.

None of the strikers were available when a reporter visited the plant but it was reported that one man said, "We went on strike and now we're fired," but this statement hardly fits in with the statement of company officials, who claim they are ready to discuss individual problems with any man, but not a general increase at this time.

It was learned that the company gave increases in pay to many of their employees last December, and have considerable work on hand so that employees are assured of fairly steady employment. The plant itself is operating normally today and all of the trouble is expected to be ironed out by Wednesday at noon.

LINDSAY

Highway Crash Brings $33 Fine

LINDSAY, April 8.—(ENS)—An accident occurred early Sunday morning near Reaboro, on No. 7 Highway, which had its culmination in the police court Monday. A car containing Orville Stinson, a man named Cosh, Norman Kimble and a married woman, all of Bobcaygeon, left Peterborough for Bobcaygeon around midnight Saturday. When in the vicinity of Reaboro, Stinson who was the driver, took the wrong side of the road and drove some distance with the wheels on the left side running on the shoulder. The car collided with a cement culvert and turned upside down. The occupants were dumped into the water. Cosh, who was the owner of the car, came to Lindsay and notified Traffic Officer Broughton that he was driving at the time of the accident. It transpired, however, that Stinson was driving.

The car was wrecked beyond repair and the woman and Norman Kimble were removed to the Ross Hospital. The woman, who sustained cuts and bruises, was shortly afterwards released, but Kimble was detained as the tendons in his wrist were severed. Monday in police court Stinson pleaded guilty to reckless driving and of not being the holder of a driver's license. He pleaded guilty to both counts and fines and costs totalling $33.80 were imposed.

A Liquor Raid

A few weeks ago the provincial police raided the residence of H. Webster, a retired business man of Lakefield. He later pleaded guilty in Lindsay police court to illegal possession. His counsel, I. C. Strach-residence was also declared a public place. Two weeks ago the provincial police renewed their visit and seized more liquor. Webster appeared before Magistrate Gee Monday to face a second charge of illegal possesion. His counsel, I. C. Strachan of Toronto, was not present, however, and the case was adjourned until April 16.

Shoots 3 Wolves

A pack of eight wolves, which have been killing deer in the Bobcaygeon district during the past few weesk, now number only five. According to Game Overseer Hodgson Howard Baptie, who resides in the Nogie's Creek district is responsible for killing three of them on the week-end. He came across the wolves in the vicinity of his barn.

While operating his wood sawing machine on the week-end at the home of Mrs. Herbert McNeill, near Janetville, Leslie Wright was the victim of a serious accident. He was placing a log on the cutting table when it was pushed forward by a helper, bringing Wright's hand in contact with the saw. The member was terribly mutiliated, and the fingers badly cut and mangled. The injured man was taken to Ross Memorial Hospital.

Matsuoka In Moscow

LONDON, April 8 — (AP). — Japan's Foreign Minister, Yosuke Matsuoka, went to the Kremlin today after his arrival here from Berlin and was received by Vyacheslaff Molotoff, Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar.

Rev. T. J. Floyd President Of Ministerial

The Peterborough Ministerial Association met in the Y.M.C.A. on Monday at 10 a.m., Rev. C. C. Boyter, president, in the chair. Present were Revs. W. A. Filer, H. L. Roberts, Dr. E. W. Young, F. W. Craik, V. E. R. Zufelt, M. E. Rowland, Adjutant Norman Buckley, J. H. Sutcliffe, T. F. Floyd and George Murray.

Rev. H. L. Roberts conducted worship.

The program for the Lenten services was arranged as follows: Tuesday, Murray street, Dr. E. W. Young; Wednesday, St. Paul's, Rev. H. L Roberts; Thursday, Knox, Adjutant N Buckley; Good Friday, St. Andrew's, 10:30, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

A letter was read from Miss Frances Clark of the Daily Vacation Bible School saying that the department workers are available for this year's school if a leader can be secured, and a place for meeting. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe said that a young man with Normal School training was available. It was decided that the offerings at the Lenten services after the expenses were paid should go to the school, as also the entire offering at the Good Friday service.

The secretary read replies from three social service secretaries, Rev. J. R. Mutchmor of the United Church, Rev. J. B. Thompson of the Presbyterian, and Canon Judd of the Anglican, relating to the widespread sale of indecent literature. Adjutant N. Buckley, Dr. E. W. Young and Rev. T. J. Floyd were appointed to deal with the matter.

Elect Officers

The nominating committee reported a slate of officers for 1941-2 as follows: President, Rev. T. J. Floyd; vice-president, Adjutant N. Buckley, secretary, Dr. E. W Young; corresponding secretary, Rev. Morgan Rowland; treasurer, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe

Dr. E. W. Young was the speaker for the day His subject was John Buchanan's book, "Memory Hold-The-Door." In this widely read book he said, we see memory at work, it is a record of impressions made on the author's mind by the various influences of his life. Dr. Young confined his thought to the influences that made this remarkable man what he was.

The first influence was that of wood, water, and hill. He was born in a manse in Fifeshire on the shores of the Firth of Forth. There are woods in that country through which he roamed as a boy. In the summer he went from one relative's home to another in the counties of Edinburgh, Lanark and Peebles. Here afe great hills, moorland and heather over which he roamed through the long days. He transfererd the fairy tales of the books, and the stories of the Bible to the woods in Fifeshire, and the hills of Tweedside. His childhood memories are stored with recollections of tiny nooks, woodland and hill. He became as a boy an expert climber and fisher, and spent much time out of doors. These instincts were never quenched, and in the later life he returned to these old haunts and revelled in them just as he did when a boy.

The second formative influence was that of the various classes of people he met as a boy. In his father's congregation there were a number of retired sea captains and sailors. He was freely admitted into their homes, and listened to their talk as they discussed their voyages in distant lands. As he roamed the Cheviot and the Pentland hills he met the shepherds and their families, he went with them to the markets and knew the prices of cattle. He knew the habits of sheep, cows and wild birds. By association with these humble people his outlook on life was broadened, and his imagination stimulated.

The third influence was that of his home circle. He describes family prayers at home and in his relatives' homes. These seasons are fragrant in his memory. His reverence for holy things never left him, and no matter what company he was in, whether at Glasgow or Oxford universities, in Parliament, in South Africa or in France he was always a defender of the faith. Strange to say the schools he attended as a boy had little influence on his life. He learned little from school books. Nature and home life moulded the personality of growing youth.

Minister Of Old School

There is much religious faith in the book, his father's life and work are affectionately treated. He was a minister of the old school, deeply versed in Scottish love, and an able defender of the Calvinistic faith. He had no sympathy with the later views on Bible criticism or theology. He did not possess however the Calvanistic temper. He preached conversion, and a simple practical gospel. At Presbytery and assembly he was generally in a minority, but that troubled him little. Lord Tweedsmuir had a deep knowledge of religious literature. He read the Bible daily in his youth, and kept up the practice in later life. He knew Bunyam's Pilgrim's Progress, and the Holy War so well that he said if the manuscripts were lost he could replace them word for word.

Rev. W. A. Filer invited the ministers to his Induction service in All Saints' Church on Friday, April 18 at 8 p.m. when the Primate of Canada, Archbishop Owen will preside at the induction. Special seats will be allocated for the local clergy.

DRIVERS ARE WARNED

Provincial Constable Archie Grayling at Havelock has declared war on motorists who drive with only one head light burning and other folk who are not careful about having their tail light going. He reports a large number of "one-eyed" drivers in the district and warns that the offenders will be brought into court. An information has already been laid against one man whose car had only one head light and no tail light.

Obituaries

MRS. ROBERT MOORE.

WARSAW, April 8 — (ENS). — Mrs. Robert Moore died at her home in Warsaw about 3:30 a.m. on Friday after a lingering illness.

The late Mrs. Moore, formerly Hattie J. Hamblin, was 71 years of age, and was born in Warsaw in the house now occupied by the Misses Crowe, almost opposite that in which she died. She lived all her life in or near Warsaw.

She married Robert Moore and lived in the village for four years, then moved to the farm now occupied by her son Everett. After 17 years Mr. and Mrs. Moore and family moved to the farm where her son Percy now lives, and lived there 17 years. Twelve years ago they moved to Warsaw to the home where she died. To Mr. and Mrs. Moore were born ten children. Those who survive are Mrs. Charlotte Cooper, who lives at home, Elsie, Mrs. Clifford Ritchie of Sudbury, Percy on the old home near Warsaw in Dummer, John in Asphodel, Allen and George in Peterborough, and Roy at home.

Mrs. Moore was a member of the Methodist Church until union, then of the United Church. From the time she was old enough to do so, she taught in Sunday School and taught the Bible Class in Warsaw for a long time. She was very active in Church work, and was president of the W.M.S. for several years. She taught in Cottesloe Sunday School when she lived near there.

Besides her husband and children, Mrs. Moore leaves three brothers, George Hamblin, Warsaw, Harold Hamblin, Peterborough, and Roy Hamblin in Dande, Man.; four sisters, Mrs. T. W. Oke, Port Credit, Mrs. Jerry Marshall Stirling, Mrs. George Reynolds, Dande, Man., and Mrs. William Bartindale, Conquest, Sask. There are twenty-six grandchildren.

Funeral service was held at the house on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Moore had been confined to her bed practically since she and Mr. Moore with all their family, except Mrs. Ritchie, celebrated their golden wedding.

FARM PROBLEMS DISCUSSED AS HOPE TOWNSHIP FARMERS MEET

Seek To Form Branch Of Federation

CANTON, April 7. — (ENS).— Hope township farmers met Monday evening at Canton Community Hall under the chairmanship of Reeve W. R. Prouse. Despite the spring break-up on the roads a fair turnout was present to discuss numerous agriculture problems.

In view of some school sections not having representation present, organization of the township as a federation of agriculture unit was limited to appointing a director from each school section.

A. E. Summers, Durham county agricultural representative, spoke briefly.

Every spring farmers become interested in fertilizer problems and the manner in which to settle it. Soil tests, he said, would show the need of the required fertilizer. Ten or a dozen samples should be taken preferably in the autumn. He described the manner in which the samples should be taken from the top six inches of soil, correctly dried and submitted to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

The discussion included the merits of respective fertilizers.

Referring to the seed problem Mr. Summers suggested discarding grain germinating less than sixty per cent.

A soy bean field test will be conducted in Hope township this year, Mr. Summer announced.

Egg Grading.

Speaking on egg grading Mr. Summers said new regulations would not interefere with egg routes. The only difference is that now the farmer's name and the grade of egg must be attached to the container. None of the farmers present had egg routes it was revealed.

"What are we going to do for farm help " Mr. Summers asked. He had a number of application blanks for farm help.

"There likely will be a lot of neighbourly work this year," Mr. Summers said, suggesting the extended use of tractors by those who already own them.

President Speaks

J. F. Heyland, president of the Durham County Federation of Agriculture and Darlington county farmer, spoke.

The farmer has three jobs: production, marketing and a voice in formulating farm policies, Mr. Heyland said.

He was of the opinion marketing was neglected and though co-operative buying and purchasing would assist farmers.

Referring to formulating policies in which the farmer is affected, Mr. Heyland said he had the right to be heard, including tariff changes, price policies and labor problems. It was his contention that organized groups such as labor and capital were heeded at Ottawa because they were in a position to push their aims. In this respect the Canadian Federation of Agriculture will be an instrument to voice agriculture's problems.

The pegging of butter prices and the recent changes in milk prices were forwarded as two reason the federation should be considered.

Mr. Heyland reviewed the federation as it is constituted at present in Canada, and then referred to the county organization.

The necessity of financing the federation in a proper manner was emphasized.

One-Fifth Mill

A one-fifth mill on the farm assessment is being considered as a means of financing the federation, Mr. Heyland said. In the meantime the organizations in the county unit are contributing to the financial picture.

Women should be members of the federation, Mr. Heyland held, for on the farm as in no other business, women are a part of the organization.

COBOURG

Safety Pictures Shown To School Children

COBOURG, April 8 — (ENS). — Officials of the Ontario Safety League gave a film demonstration here yesterday to students of the public schools. Both the west-end school and the main school on George street sent their pupils to the two showings, which took place in the Capitol Theatre. The correct form of bicycle riding was shown, including the manner which riders should act while travelling on the public highways, roads, etc.

Fire prevention also came in for film lectures. Forest fires, as well as fires in the home were pointed out to the children in many cases to be the result of carelessness.

An educational comedy feature was also part of the instructive program.

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter —the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the Kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatic Pains, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. As a health safeguard —as a wise precaution—regulate your kidneys frequently with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over fifty years the favorite Kidney remedy—non-habit forming. 108

Veterans To Speak At Vimy Dinner

COBOURG, April 8 — (ENS). — The speakers for the Vimy banquet, to be held at the Baltimore Hotel tomorrow (Wednesday) will be His Honor Mayor J. D. Burnett and Cpt. Roy Wilmott. Both men are ex-service men and the veterans' gathering will be hearing "those of their own" on the anniversary of the great achievement. All veterans are invited to attend the dinner which will begin at 7.30. A large gathering is expected here by those in charge of the annual dinner.

Broken Window Brings Ten Dollar Fine

COBOURG, April 8 — (ENS). — Aftermath of a recent disturbance Earl Simple paid $10.00,, and costs, here in local Police Court on Monday. Simple was arrested by Constable Atkinson of Brighton and brought to Cobourg by Constable Don Erskine and Provincial Constable Dave Adair, who laid the charge. Simple had smashed a window and created a disturbance at the home of Mrs. George Cotton.

Easter Is Theme Port Hope Y.P.U.

PORT HOPE, April 8—(ENS). — The Easter message was the theme of the program at the meeting of the United Church Young People's Union which met Monday night.

The president, Jack Garnett, was in the chair and conducted the business portion of the meeting.

The Fellowship convener, Fern Hodgson, was then given charge of the program. A duet, "Along," was rendered by Betty McArthur and Bill Hodgson.

Easter hymns were sung and the story of the arrest of Christ was told by Betty McArthur. Doris Brooks told of the trial and death of Christ. The resurrection was dealt with by Bill Hodgson.

PORT HOPE

Dimes For Victory Box Is Stolen

PORT HOPE, April 8 — (ENS).— Port Hope police on Monday afternoon recovered a 'Dimes for Victory" box stolen from a local hotel early on Monday morning by the district's most despicable thief. The contents of the box were missing. The front had been pried off, but otherwise was undamaged by the sneak thief.

The night man reported the box was intact on Sunday evening, but on Monday morning it was not in its acustomed place. Search revealed it had been thrown away in a nearby churchyard after the contents had been stolen.

The draw was held as usual on Monday evening, with a long list of prize-winners declared.

PORT HOPE

Discount Is Offered For Prompt Payments

PORT HOPE, April 8 — (ENS).— The Board of Waterworks Commissioners announced a 10 per cent cash discount rate for prompt payment of accounts to-day. The resolution was passed at a recent meeting of the Commission.

Port Hope water rates, the Commission said, are as low as any community its size and much lower than other centres.

The Axis Bribe

ROME, April 8 (Delayed)—(AP). —The Italian Government declared today Italy and Germany promised Yugoslavia the city and port of Salonika Greece, when Yugoslav leaders, later overthrown, signed the Axis pact at Vienna.

Smashed Door In Effort To See His Wife

PORT HOPE, April 8—(ENS). — Jack McDowell's efforts to see his wife cost him $5 and costs in court Monday afternoon when Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell found him guilty of damaging George Williams property by smashing down a door. The accused claimed he had attempted to see his wife on different occasions to effect a reconciliation but influence had been exerted on her by other members of the family. "I admit my nerves got the best of me," he told the court, stating he pushed the door when refused admittance.

George Williams, McDowell's brother-in-law, said he came to the door between two and three o'clock in the morning and was told he could not see his wife. Lawrence Williams, a neighbor, told the court, "I was awakened between two and three in the morning by someone hammering on a door. I waited a few minutes and raised a window at the front of the house. Mr. McDowell said he wanted to get the party next door."

"I closed the window and thought that he would go away," Williams continued. "The next thing I heard was a crash and Mrs. George Williams called for help." Dressing, Mr. L. Williams went next door, where he testified he found "the lock had been forced and a splinter broken off the door jamb."

James Wishart, who is also McDowell's brother-in-law and resides in the same terrace, related there was a commotion and he summoned the police.

COBOURG

Badminton Club Planning Dance

COBOURG, April 8 — (ENS). — The Badminton Club of St. Peter's Church, Cobourg, will hold their annual Easter dance in the gymnasium of the Parish Hall Monday evening, April 14.

This dance is one of the social events of the year for the young people of Cobourg and surrounding towns, and the committee in charge, Mrs. B. Till, Miss Maxine Roberts and Miss Grace Tait are confident this will be no exception to other year.

Tierney's orchestra, Oshawa, will be in attendance to furnish the music for dancing.

Personals.

Port Hope Dorothys Contribute $110

PORT HOPE, April 8 — (ENS).— The "Doro.hy Spitfire Fund" committee reported on Monday afternoon that $110.40 had been received from Port Hope women interested in the fund. The sum of $26,000 is sought from Dorothys across the Dominion to purchase a Spitfire for Great Britain. In Port Hope Mrs. Dorothy Boulden was instrumental in guiding the campaign which has now turned in the splendid total of $110.40 to the headquarters staff in Montreal.

Recent supporters have been Miss F. Croll. Mrs. W. Rutter, Miss M. Curtis, Mrs. H. V. Smith, Mrs. L. Watson, Mrs. E. N. Wickett, Miss H. Smart, Mrs. D. Trew, Miss B. Bray, Mrs. C. Smity, Miss D. McElroy, Miss D. Watson, Miss D. Steen, Miss D. Matthews, Miss D. Ough, Mrs. Dorothy Bouskill.

New War Zone

BERLIN, April 6 (delayed)—(AP) —Germany declared the Eastern Mediterranean, including the Aegean, a war zone today and warned merchant shipping against entering these waters.

More Coal On Hand

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP). — Canada's coal supply in February was estimated at 1,952,051 tons, compared with 1,883,956 in the some month of 1940. Coal imports were 11.1 per cent higher at 508,412 tons.

Cobourg Council Blocks Move To Amend Market Meat Bylaw

COBOURG, April 8 (ENS) — Cobourg council held its monthly meeting in the council chamber Monday night with all members present. The agenda was full but the council had as its most important item of business, a communication from the business men's association, requesting a change in the present market by-law.

The suggested change was in the matter of the fresh meat sale at the market. The letter asked a ruling be made requiring all persons selling fresh meat to sell only that which they raised on their own farm. A second change, making it illegal for any retail butcher to sell fresh meat on the market was also asked. It was disclosed another letter bearing some 250 names had been sent to the council. This letter when read, asked that no change be made in the present market by-law.

Bone of Contention

Mayor Burnett stated this has been a bone of contention for years. In view of the fact that the council had been elected for a two-year term he would hesitate to take drastic steps. If the people did not approve any action that might be taken they would have no recourse this January. He had always felt that you can trust the people, therefore if the business men's association desired it he would be in favor of an appeal to the people on this issue. Council was in unanimous agreement with the mayor, and a motion was passed that the by-law in regard to the market would be set to a vote if the business men's association desired this.

Reporter Welcomed

At the beginning of the night's session Mayor Burnett stated he was glad to see Clerk Alex Young back at his duties. He expressed the feeling of the whole council, he said. The Mayor also welcomed The Examiner reporter to the press table on behalf of himself and council.

The various communications were read after the adoption of the minutes of the last meeting. A letter from Mrs. Irish was first regarding a falling tree which had injured her house and broken electric lead-in wires. The town men had been removing the tree at the time. It was referred to the Insurance Company.

Thomas Grieve wrote stating he could not say a transport company had improved the conditions on James street. A letter on the matter from Mr. Bell was read, stating that their head office had been informed and there would be an improvement shortly. The council moved to send a letter to the transport company seeking improvement.

Given Opera House

Mrs. Joseph Randall received permission for free use of the opera house for the presentation of a concert by the local young people, the proceeds were for the British War Victims' Relief Fund. A letter from the church hockey league asked help in securing a community rink was read. President Gordon of the league briefly stated that the league would like council to ask for a free night for the league.

Mrs. Burwash sent a letter asking that a car repair bill be paid by council. She had encountered water underneath the subway on Division street on Sunday, March 23. The engine of her auto had been damaged by the water. The bill was referred to the insurance company.

J. D. Miller, Department of Highways, wrote regarding William street subway. The department had complaints as to the icy condition there. The letter was received and filed. Mrs. Woods asked permission to use the Horse Show Park in the name of the district B.Y.P.U. for their annual picnic. The permission was granted.

St. John's Lodge sent a letter saying they were thankful for the very fine job of renovating in the lodge room. The letter was received and filed.

Residents of Burnham street asked regarding the placing of a light near C.P.R. subway. Request was referred to fire, water and light committee.

Council passed the following committee accounts: Highways and streets 439.40; public buildings and printing 552.95, police 8.50, fire, water and light 19.84, market 7.46, health and sanitation 42.50, finance of harbour 452.29.

Shutting Off The News

There is not by any means what can be described as an interrupted flow of news coming from the scene of the newest war in the Balkans. The usual channels of communication have been blocked off. The hours at which anything may be communicated by telephone or cable have been severely restricted, and there is no disposition to allow much news come through which has to do with the movement of troops. Nor is there anything coming which suggests future policy on the field.

Those who are well acquainted with the country say that the German drive was bound to meet with initial success because the ground over which their mechanized divisions would travel was not such that it could be defended. It is when the battle goes to the mountains that the real struggle will commence.

A plain indication of the scarcity of reliable information comes from London where the Yugoslavian ambassador said he was out of touch with the situation by direct communication, and had to depend on a round-about method which was much slower.

There are reports in circulation, some of them being picked up by short wave radio machines, and it might be possible to print a great deal of such material. The trouble is that it is not reliable, and much of it is undoubtedly coming in the way of propaganda. When the stage is completely set it is certain the news will come easier and in greater volume. We know in advance that it will be a tremendous struggle. It will possibly detract from attacks on Britain in the meantime, and it has already given rise to the report that if Germany is well engaged in the Balkans the British may consider getting their own invasion plans of Europe under way.

Better Forget It

Hon. Senator Dandurand, Liberal leader in the Senate, made quite a statement about the manner in which British industrialists held up production in Canada early in the war by refusing to forward blue prints. The idea was that they did not desire to encourage too much manufacturing in Canada. The same matter has been mentioned in the House of Commons, and Senator Meighen picked it up again in the Senate, wanting to secure copies of correspondence.

All of which may or may not be interesting, but at the moment it seems a pity to have grown men wasting their time trying to trace the course of water which has long since gone over the dam.

The people of Canada are vitally and exclusively interested at the moment about what we are doing today and about what Britain is doing today and what the Germans are doing today.

If, when the war is over, one desires to write an account of the bungles and mistakes which were made there may be curious folk who would like to read it. But put it to one side now and leave it there.

No Italian Air Force

Italy does not possess 1,000 planes which could be taken off the ground, and Italian factories are today making only parts for the Germans.

If 1,000 planes could be found they would be of the sort which were used in the Spanish war, and would be useful only when there was no modern opposition.

Italy was going to depend on the air force to rebuild the Roman empire, long the dream of Mussolini. Air force was to be used to curb the British fleet in the Mediterranean; the air would be used to carry supplies and equipment and troops to the North African section of the expanding empire.

We are informed that Italian officers themselves are well aware of the change which has come to pass, but they dare say nothing of it. It would touch the pride of the Italian people. That is if there is much of it left to touch.

When there were reports of Italian planes taking part in recent engagements it can be accepted as a fact that they were not such. They were from Germany, every last one of them.

In the first Ionian Sea battle Italian planes rushed off in a hurry and started dropping bombs, but on their own ships. They did not hear the frantic radio messages for them to quit. And right there is one reason why the Italian air force today is a minus quantity. Their men were not properly trained; they showed little aptitude for the air.

The same authority claims that the Italians based their air program on the Spanish war and their aircraft were made accordingly. They were hopelessly out of date when the present war started, and the pilots who took them up were simply going to a slaughter.

The reason is said to be that the Fascists insist on loyalty. The men of the air force were made to believe that it was a substitute for training. Today Italian air force is something which exists only in the memory of Mussolini's high hopes.

Just One More Puzzle

The layman may be pardoned if he finds it difficult to understand what it meant when Russia and Yugoslavia sign a peace treaty, a document of non-aggression and friendship. The signing of the document was considered of sufficient importance to attract Stalin himself to the gathering.

Russia at the inception of the present war also signed a non-aggression pact with Germany, and then proceeded to cut Poland in two and take possession of the small states bordering on the Baltic when there was no one present to offer resistance. So it is confusing to know what Russia means by signing a pact with Yugoslavia. Yugoslavia is an ally of Britain, and Germany is the enemy of Britain, and yet Russia has signed pacts with each of these nations.

The fact that it is a peace and friendship agreement means little enough in these days when there is so little of peace and friendship. That such an agreement existed between Russia and Yugoslavia would mean virtually nothing at all when Yugoslavia was fighting for its existence unless Russia were to take action which would give some clear understanding of what is meant by peace and friendship.

The Russian official press is not at all clear on that point, although it does deny definitely that Germany has any right to claim Yugoslavia had sought the war which broke on her at the beginning of the week. What the pact actually means is something which is as great an enigma as Russia has been since the war started.

Caught In The Act

Within recent days the German propaganda department has been turning its full force in the direction of Yugoslavia. That was to be expected, and it is such an old method that its use cannot possibly excite surprise.

The Berlin method was to show that Yugoslavia was preparing to attack Austria; that it was taking vengeance on towns and villages where the minority sections of the population lived, and it actually named some of these villages which had been burned and utterly destroyed.

The newspaper Vreme of Belgrade sent its staff photographers to these villages and there a number of pictures were taken; taken too, following the announcement of Berlin that they had been destroyed. These pictures have since been published and they show that the villages are standing there just the same as they have been for years past. It was found that life is normal in these villages and there had not been a fire of any sort.

The lie is just as much a part of German equipment as anything else which that nation uses in war time. It is used just as deliberately as though an order were given to a body of troops to proceed from Berlin to the Balkans. This time the newspaper in Belgrade had enough intestinal fortitude to go and nail Germany in the act, and in so doing that newspaper was performing a mighty fine service for its own country.

Statistics On Wheat

Copies of Hansard in recent days have the appearance of volumes issued on the wheat situation in Canada. There are facts and figures crowded into the pages which are difficult to find elsewhere. And there are arguments, but in no place does there appear to be enthusiasm or even mild approval for the policy which is going to set aside $35,000,000 for paying farmers to quit growing wheat and let their land lie fallow or turn it toward pasture or coarse grains.

The suggestion is made that the initial price to the farmer should be increased from 70 to 85 cents; that the processing tax for home consumption be increased from 15 to 50 cents per bushel; federal assistance to farmers for the building of storage facilities on their own property and the payment of advances to the farmers for grain stored there as well as in the elevators.

Then there was the argument that when the price was fixed at 70 cents it had the effect of depressing the market and discouraging buying. It can be argued in support of that contention that the price of May wheat in Winnipeg today is 76 7-8 cents, while in Chicago the figure for the same future reads 92½ cents.

It is evident that in spite of bad years the wheat-growing possibilities in Saskatchewan are large. In 1928 when there was the record production in the West of 544,598,000 bushels, the Saskatchewan yield was 247,336,000; again in 1940 when the yield was 525,000,000 bushels Saskatchewan had 241,440,000 of those bushels. The acreage given over to wheat in 1940 was the largest yet recorded—27,750,000. In 1908 the number of wheat acres was 5,624,000.

The yield per acre is not what can be called high; in fact to a good many Ontario farmers it would look rather low. The year 1915 was the high point with an average yield of 25.97 bushels per acre, but in 1936 it was down to 8.13 and in 1917 it went lower to touch the bottom figure of all times—6.37 bushels to the acre.

But after quoting statistics and presenting arguments—and how those Western members can talk about their own business!—it does seem that the voices raised in support of the Government proposal to bonus non-production are faint, while the voices raised in opposition are well nurtured and somewhat stentorian.

But not at any point does there appear to be an inclination for the members to herd their ideas in one field with a restraining fence cast about it. We have no doubt that the proposal of the Minister of Agriculture will be adopted in the end because there is sufficient majority to put it through, but we are also certain there will be those voting for it who will not believe it is a solution or even a particularly wise emergency measure. There may yet be truth found in the claim that during a war the nation cannot have too much wheat.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Boston appears to have a better Canadian hockey team than Toronto.

Horse meat is now being rationed in France. Sections taken from the race horses were going too fast.

One report is that Italian troops will be sent to France to relieve the German army of occupation. "My invincible legions" ought to be able to handle a job of that sort.

The jail in Rowan Co., Kentucky, is full of prisoners from the outside. Evidently the people who own the jail are not taking advantage of all the facilities their county provides.

Riverside, a suburb of Dayton, O., had a benefit dance for the police department, and there is but one policeman there, which would simplify the business of distributing the funds.

In Drumheller, Alberta, collectors for the War Services fund almost passed up a good spot. There is a Chinese cobbler in that town, and after some delay a visit was made. Then it was found he had $40 waiting for them.

Rule is that girls entering beverage rooms in St. Thomas are asked to show registration cards to prove their age. They come in two classes, (1) those who are too young to enter, and (2) those who are old enough to know better.

Potato producers in London, Ont., decided to ask that all potatoes be inspected. It does look as though being an inspector of one kind or another is likely to be quite a frequent source of occupation.

ROBINS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I watched a robin build a nest, and pick the stuff that it thought best, it seemed a simple thing; it gathers up some straw and stuff, perhaps it looks a little rough, and then a bit of string.

¶ He uses mud to plaster it, it never seems to shift a bit, nor does it seem to turn; and in between he quits a spell, quite certain that the nest is swell, and goes to dig a worm.

¶ The robin did not buy a lot, paid nothing for the stuff it got, no building permit there; no architect to draw a plan, he didn't even hire a man, and had no rule or square.

¶ No way there is to heat the home, no smoke stack sticking through the dome, no paper on the wall; he won't stay there so very long, the family will be raised and strong, quite early in the fall.

¶ The robin never spends a cent, he pays no taxes and no rent, I am quite sure of that; the folk are glad to see him come, of enemies he has but one, and that's the family cat.

¶ I think the robin's plan is good, works out about the way it should, he'll feed each hungry mouth; and then before we have our snow, I know that he'll pack up and go — and winter in the South.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

DURING the present week both Catholic and Protestants will celebrate Easter in their own fashion. Although we observe it as a Christian festival, Easter was a great occasion thousands of years before the birth of Our Lord, and was the time of rejoicing at the coming of spring. Before the present complicated system was adopted for deciding the date of Easter it was customary to celebrate it on the first Sunday to follow the vernal equinox. Students of ancient cultures have shown us that the idea of death and resurrection was one very near to the hearts of most pre-Christian peoples. Of course it varied greatly according to the intelligence and state of cultural advancement enjoyed by each people; among the primitive people of northern Europe it was quite a different thing from what it was among the Egyptians or the Greeks. It was a part of Druidical teaching and the great temple of Stonehenge is thought to have been used for spring ceremonies, among other things. But for all peoples it was a time of rejoicing that the death of winter was passed and that the new life of spring was at hand.

C & B

Many interesting and deeply significant ceremonies were evolved in the Christian church for the fitting celebration of Easter, and these are known to most of us as names, although we may not belong to churches in which they are still carried out. Last Sunday, for instance, was Palm Sunday. In Catholic churches it is usual to carry palms or branches of trees in procession, in remembrance of those which were strewn before Jesus when he rode into Jerusalem. Before the Reformation the procession walked through the streets; the element of Communion, or Holy Bread, was born on the back of an ass, and the richest fabrics, as well as palms and branches, were spread for it to walk on. After the procession the palms were preserved to be burned on the following Ash Wednesday. We have all seen motor cars driving through the streets on Palm Sunday with the palms fastened to them in some prominent place. I do not believe, however, that this practice has the sanction of the Catholic Church.

C & B

Such processions undoubtedly did much during the Middle Ages to instruct the illiterate public in religion and to impress the gravity of Easter upon them. But as anyone knows who has ever had anything to do with the organization of a procession or parade, the final effect is not achieved without hard work and a few incidents which are anything but solemn. Also, the people who acted parts or marched in the procession sometimes demanded to be paid, so that in the records of one English parish we find this seemingly incongruous item: "For the hire of an angel, for one day, eighteen pence. That was in 1520. There must have been a slump in the market, for we find that in 1535 an angel could be hired for fourpence, and in another parish in the same year a prophet was hired to march in the Palm Sunday procession for the same sum. As well as the ass which bore the Sacrament the procession was made up of people dressed as angels, prophets, apostles and other Biblical figures.

C & B

MOST Catholic ceremonies were forbidden in England during the reign of Henry VIII, but that monarch declared that "the bearing of palms on Palm Sunday was to be continued and not cast away," and as the ancient custom persisted until the second year of the reign of Edward VI., But remnants of it were to be met with in Protestant communities less than a hundred years ago. In Cornwall, in rural districts, it was an old custom to take a palm to church, give the clergyman a small present, weave the palm into a cross and toss it into a well. If the cross floated it was a sign of good luck; if it sank, it meant that its owner would be dead within a year. In Lanark until late in the last century, the boys of the grammar shool used to parade the streets on the Saturday before Palm Sunday, bearing a palm which was decorated with daffodils and the foliage of the box-tree. Of course, no palms grow in England, but a variety of willow was used for this purpose so long that it became, as it were, an honorary palm.

It used to be a proverb in some parts of rural England that "he that hath not a palm in his hand on Palm Sunday must have his hand cut off." Just as the Yule log was dragged into the house of every nobleman or person of consequence at Christmas a giant willow, called a sally, was brought in with great ceremony the week before Easter. Before the war some small boys might usually be seen on the streets of London with slips of willow in their hands and in their buttonholes and bearing switches of the same substance in their hands. They would bother passers-by for a penny or two, much as they did on Guy Fawkes' day or on the first of May. Palm was also sold in the streets, usually by gypsies, who declared that it was "very lucky." I have heard one or two Cockneys, who did not know one tree from another, express surprise that there should be palms in England; certainly most people who bought it had little idea why they did so....I shall continue this discussion of Easter ceremonies next day.

Letters To The Editor

WHEAT PROBLEM

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I was attracted to that editorial item on "the wheat problem" in the Examiner the other day, closing on the following note: "The situation is that we have a world-size production, but no world market in which to sell it . If the farmer members at Ottawa can herd their ideas around that central point and suggest, find, discover, even intimate or hint at a way out, then they will be serving their constituents, and the entire country, well."

I agree; but think the solution is nearer to the ground!

Sometimes this reader gets the impression that the wheat problem alters with the geographic viewpoint from which it is observed, and I submit the following brace of opinions from two Canadian experts which I read on the same day, and which may be considered of current interest to urban as well as rural readers of the Examiner:

(1) "In fact, the four great wheat-growing countries—Canada, United States, Argentina and Australia—have one billion bushels on hand, and the 1941 crop might well add at least another 500 million bushels. Thus 1.5 billion bushels is enough to feed the whole continent of Europe for a full year if no wheat is grown there, a decidedly remote possibility. Even in the so-called poor year of 1940 this area produced 1.4 billion bushels. Even in the case of Britain, our sole remaining export market, domestic wheat output has been increased about 50 per cent as a result of dire war need and lack of shipping space, a condition that does not make the post-war export picture look any brighter...." (D. B. Wallace, in Toronto Saturday Night, March 22, 1941.)

(2) "But even granting that food surpluses are desirable, is 500 or 600 million bushels of wheat too much? Actually, while it seems a large amount, it is only relatively a small quantity compared with the world's annual consumption. The world uses approximately 6,300 million bushels of wheat a year, so that even 600 million bushels represent only about 10 per cent of the world's annual use. And even adding to the Canadian carry-over that carried over in other countries, the entire total surplus wheat in the world is less than 60 days' supply. Wheat ever has been regarded in war-time as the best munition of war. No person has ever starved, nor have any wars ever been lost, because of an abundance of wheat...." (Maj. H. G. L. Strange, in The Canadian Countrymen, March 22, 1941.)

There is, of course, plenty of room in the middle ground of opinion, as between those two experts. If this farm reader had to choose as between the above views, I would take the latter.

"CERES."

• That Word "Corruption"

From Hansard

Mr. GARDINER: I see a lot of trouble ahead for me.

Mr. ROWE: The minister says he sees a lot of trouble ahead for him. I can see in the far distance—I do not like to state it in advance—

Mr. GARDINER: Say it.

Mr. ROWE: The minister says, "Say it." I can see plenty of political corruption in it too, in western Canada.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Oh.

Mr. ROWE: Some hon. members say "oh." Here is the government bringing down his proposals for agriculture, and the hon. member for Portage la Prairie (Mr. Leader) says that he does not want to have anything to do with the baby. The hon. member for Wellington North (Mr. Blair) also said that he did not want to have anything to do with this baby. No wonder that, as I said the other evening, neither the Minister of Agriculture nor the Minister of Trade and Commerce (Mr. MacKinnon) was courageous enough to father this child alone, so they introduced it jointly. I do not known which of the two might best be called its father, but it looks to me more like the Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Does the hon. member want to adopt it?

Mr. ROWE: No, I would not want to adopt it, because I think it will prove the most difficult child that has ever been raised by this house.

Mr. GARDINER: On a point of order. Mr. Chairman, my hon. friend a few moments ago threw out the insinuation that there had been some corruption in connection with this act. As I understand parliamentary procedure, any member who makes a charge of corruption in connection with anything having to do with the administration of a department places his seat at the disposal of the house.

Mr. ROWE: Mr. Chairman, on a point of order—

Mr. GARDINER: I should like to suggest to my hon. friend that if he is prepared to do the only thing which is called for under the circumstances, we can settle the question whether there is any such corruption.

Mr. ROWE: That is pretty cheap. On a point of order, let me state to the Minister of Agriculture that if we were to stake our seats upon the mercy of the public at the present time, I would take my chances with his popularity in the country at this time.

Mr. GARDINER: On a point of order—

Mr. ROWE: No, Mr. Chairman, I am speaking on a point of order.

Mr. GARDINER: —I ask the hon. gentleman to withdraw the word "corruption."

Mr. GARDINER: The word "corruption" is not parliamentary, and I ask the hon. gentleman, if he does not want to make a charge, to withdraw the expression.

Mr. ROWE: I do not withdraw a statement I did not make. If you, Mr. Chairman, in your good judgment consider that by my saying I can visualize in the far distant future the possibilities of political corruption, that is a charge of corruption, I withdraw it. But I made no representation in this particular instance that there is any political corruption reported in the auditor general's report. I leave it to the committee if I did not say this, that when the minister—I do not think he wants to do me an injustice, and I believe he misunderstood me—

Mr. GARDINER: I did not misunderstand the hon. member, and I wish to state the point of order again. My hon. friend referred to these particular regulations, and inferred that they made provision for corruption.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): No, no.

Mr. GARDINER: Then he proceeded to read this report to prove that such things had been done before.

Mr. HANSON (York - Sunbury): What the hon. member said was that, in the vote now before the committee, he could visualize political corruption in the future. That is what he said.

Mr. GARDINER: And then he immediately proceeded to illustrate it by what he is going to read from this particular report.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): He is referring to another topic altogether.

Mr. GARDINER: So long as my hon. friend agrees that he is not trying to prove any such thing, that is quite satisfactory to me.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): All right.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): All right.

Mr. ROWE: I notice that the Minister of Justice says, "All right." I know he heard it the right way. I do not want to charge the minister with being hard of hearing; but with being too keen. It has not been my practice to charge corruption across the floor of the house, and I had no thought of charging corruption as such.

A Bit of Nonsense

How It's Done

Hubby: "What are we having for dinner?"

Wife: "Sponge cake, dear. I sponged the eggs from Mrs. Jones, the flour from Mrs. Brown, and the milk from Mrs. Smith."

Urgent

The furious diner bellowed to the waiter: "What's the matter with you, man? I began with fish, and now you've brought me soup. Surely you know that soup comes first."

"Yes, sir, quite, sir," said the waiter in a whisper, "but between ourselves, sir, the fish couldn't wait any longer."

Unassisted

An English tourist travelling in the North of Scotland, far away from anywhere, exclaimed to one of the natives:

"Why, what do you do when any of you are ill? You can never get a doctor."

"Nae, sir," replied Sandy. "We've just to dee a natural death."

COMPLIMENT

A NAVAL OFFICER with 30 years' service who was on leave in London recently said to a Fleet Street colleague:

"I want to get back to 'safety' in the Mediterranean as soon as possible, for this bombing on land gets me down. I'm amazed at the way Londoners can take it. A Fleet manned by such people would beat any navy in the world."—Glasgow Herald.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

In the meantime when there gathered together an innumerable number of people, insomuch as they trod one upon another, he began to say unto his disciples first of all, beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.

For there is nothing covered which shall not be revealed, neither hid that shall not be known.

Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light, and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops.

And I say unto you, my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do.

But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: Fear him which after he hath killed hast power to cast into hell; yes, I say unto you: Fear him.—Luke 12: 1-5.

Violence Rages At Ford's River Rouge Plant

Violence raged at the Ford Motor Co.'s River Rouge plant as workers attempted to enter the plant through C.I.O.-United Automobile Workers' picket lines. U.A.W. pickets are shown here belaboring a worker who attempted to enter the plant. The victim is attempting to shield himself with his overcoat. This fight, confined to a few men, was of short duration, but was repeated in a score of places around the plant as the strike grew in violence.

Junior Institute Donates To Red Cross

LAKEFIELD, April 8—(ENS). — Lakefield Junior Institute members answered the roll call on Thursday at the regular meeting held at the home of Miss Jean Garbutt, with a donation of wash cloths, soap, handkerchiefs or pillow cases for the Red Cross.

Eight members and two visitors were present.

It was decided to donate ten dollars for yarn for Red Cross and also order yarn for four sweaters to be knit by members.

Mrs. Gilbert Bullock invited the members and their friends to her father's home for a crokinole party on April 23, the admission to be 15c.

A feature of the meeting was the demonstration by Miss Muriel Bullock and Miss Eva Higgins of a variety salad.

The May meeting will be the election of officers and conveners are asked to present their various reports.

Public Speaking Class A Success

Two speakers addressed the Holy Name Society public speaking class on Sunday afternoon in the Community Hall, Ashburnham, to wind up the activities of this group until next fall.

Jack Primeau gave a talk on fabrics and styles in men's clothing, pointing out the various types of cloth and the most popular styles in suits and topcoats. Pete McGillen spoke on newspaper work, punctuating his address with several amusing experiences as a reporter, and he also traced the growth of news gathering facilities, explaining that the Examiner was the second provincial daily to install a Creed printer.

Mrs. J. G. Wharry was chief critic and after analysing the two speeches and correcting them, she proceeded to congratulate the men on the success and progress that had been formed since the class was formed in February. She urged that the class be started again next fall and promised every assistance should she be called on.

Leo Hatton, assistant manager at Zellers, voiced the thanks of the group to Mrs. Wharry for her able assistance, and he pointed out during the course of his remarks that a professor at Western University teaching public speaking had not shown a bit more proficiency than had Mrs. Wharry.

The speakers were introduced by Patrick O'Toole and John Driscoll, and James McCormick moved the vote of thanks. Campbell Rowatt was a capable chairman.

A standing committee was formed on motion of Ron McPherson and Jack Primeau, and this committee will formulate plans for the class to be held during next fall and winter. One angle that will be discussed is whether the class will be arranged to embrace all three Catholic parishes in the city. The committee is as follows: Pete McGillen, chairman, Ron McPherson, secretary, Paul Roche, James McGrath, Jack Primeau, Jim McCormick, Jack Lebarr, Campbell Rowatt, Leo Hatton and William Moher.

Lakefield Band Gives Concert

LAKEFIELD, April 8 — (ENS).— The Citizens' Band assisted by members of the Peterborough Brass Band presented an enjoyable program in the Memorial Hall on Sunday evening, the proceeds amounting to $19.14, were handed to J. McKerchar, local chairman of the British War Victims' Fund.

Reeve C. S. Tanner was chairman and in his opening remarks welcomed all present on behalf of the band.

Local talent also assisted in the program by contributing vocal numbers, "Love's Old Sweet Song," by Miss Jean Clark, accompanist Mrs. Alice Kennedy; "There's a Land," by Mrs. J. R. Hall, accompanist Mrs. H. E. Moore "Land of Hope and Glory," Mrs. W. J. Millage, accompanist Mrs. Harold Trude.

During the playing of the band the audience joined in the singing of many of the hymns, and "There'll Always be an England."

Numbers by the band were: "O Canada," "The Star Spangled Banner," "O God our held in ages past," "Soldiers of the King," "Sons of the Brave," Under the British Flag," "Fight the Good Fight," "Sons of Britain" and "Abide with me."

J. McKerchar was called to the platform, and told of the great need of money in the "Old Land." By reading portions of a letter recently received from his sister, the need for more clothing and funds in her part of the country was forcibly emphasized.

From various comments heard as people were leaving the hall, the concert was successful and it is hoped that the Citizens' Band will be heard in public again in the near future.

A. H. Clark on behalf of the Band extended a vote of thanks to all those who assisted in making the evening a success.

Group Plans Pageant For Easter Sunday

LAKEFIELD, April 8 (ENS)— "Following the way of Love and Victory" was the topic studied at the regular meeting of the W.M.S. of the Lakefield United church held at the home of Miss Margaret Sandersan on Tuesday afternoon, who, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Milburn, was in charge of the program.

Twenty members and four visitors were present.

It was decided to present an Easter pageant "Faith Made Victorious" in the church auditorium on Easter Sunday at the evening service.

Mrs. J. A. Porter invited the society to meet at her home for the May meeting.

Miss Margaret Milburn had charge of the chapter from the study book entitled "The Apostle of the Outpost of Newfoundland."

Lunch and a social half hour concluded the meeting.

Colonization Is Discussed By Norwood W.I.

NORWOOD, April 8—(ENS). — The April meeting of the Norwood Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Stewart with a good attendance. President Mrs. George Bitten in the chair. The meeting opened with the Institute Ode followed by the Lord's Prayer, in unison. A letter was received from headquarters regarding the war work of the branch from October 1 to March 31.

It was decided to give a quilt, part of a layette, and groceries to a local needy family.

Arrangements were made for a euchre to be held on April 15 and prizes for same were donated by various members.

The war work on hand was four pairs of pyjamas and a quilt to be quilted, the top of which was donated by Mrs. E. Paterson, the lining by Mrs. Graham and the batt by Miss Buck. It was decided to work on these this week at the home of Mrs. Ointment.

Mrs. Innes, the convener, then took over the meeting. Mrs. Golloher gave a recitation, "The Welsh Clergyman," and a duet followed by Mrs. Goden and Mrs. Rogers, and two community songs followed.

A paper on Colonization was given by Mrs. Golloher who took the book "Should Canada Encourage Land Settlement of Immigrants?" as the basis of her remarks. An outline was given of settlement in the Canadian West and the officiating policies connected therewith, stressing the human side of the story, and particularly the effect of the settlement by wheat farmers in the "Palliser's Triangle." It was pointed ed out how the bumper crop and good prices of 1915-1916 in this area led to the ultimate undoing of the settlers. By 1920 settlement of the dry areas, particularly in Alberta and Saskatchewan was complete. Roads, telephones, schools, churches, commercial and social services of all kinds were demanded and provided, the whole superstructure literally built on stalks of golden wheat, in a foundation of shifting sand. Then came the years of drought discouragement, and dispair, and the covered wagon, and the settler on the move again, northward ever northward to the darker soils and the wooded fertile belt, another lease of life when drought again followed the wholesale abandonment. Good homes that had been built in the years of prosperity became nightmares of swirling dust partly buried in drifting sand. Mrs. Golloher spoke of her own experiences in this district when staying at a hotel, she said the dust storms were so intense it was impossible to see out of the window. Such was the history of the Palliser's Triangle." Yet we possess half a continent which contains the best undeveloped natural resources in the world awaiting the hand of the pioneer and community builders. When peace comes it is not unlikely, that many people from Northern Europe and the British Isles will desire to come to this country to seek a permanent home. Our gates should be open to the kind of people who have the pioneer spirit. They would help us in our development, and with the right policy Canada's future is undoubted. We should give serious consideration to these problems now so that when the time comes we will be fully prepared to meet them wise and well.

Meeting closed with The King, after which lunch was served, and a vote of thanks passed to the hostesses.

Conn Batters Gunnar Barlund In Pre-Louis Fight

Trophies Given Winners In Basketball

The Ladies' Basketball League wound up a most successful season in fitting style last night when an enjoyable banquet in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A. offered an occasion for presenting the trophies to the championship teams and for the teams to honor their coaches for the help given during the campaign.

All six teams were represented practically one hundred per cent at the gathering. Howie MacDonald, president of the League, was a very adequate chairman and at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vernor, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Gentles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Rankin, C. E. LaBranche, Joe Cooper, chief referee of the League, and Miss Caroline Littlefield and Miss L. Brownscombe of the Y.W.C.A. staff.

The ladies of Knox church served a very enjoyable dinner after which community singing led by Howie MacDonald with Doris Ackford at the piano got the gathering in proper mood for the rest of the program.

The guests were welcomed to the Y.W.C.A. by Miss L. Brownscombe who said that she hoped the girls would not only continue to use the Y.W.C.A. for basketball but make use of its other facilities as much as possible.

In his opening address Howie MacDonald referred to the success of the season, and to the co-operation the officers had enjoyed. The speaker congratulated the two championship teams, Westclox the senior winners and St. John's who captured the junior title, and also the other teams upon the showing they had made. He suggested that possibly the girls themselves could take over the officers' duties and also help in the task of refereeing the games.

Guest speaker of the evening was former mayor George A. Macdonald who gave a most interesting address upon the origin of basketball by a Canadian, Dr. Naismith, and upon the popularity of the game. In the United States he said it drew more spectators than baseball of football, crowds of 18,000 gathered in Madison Square Gardens to see important games played and millions of Americans played basketball every winter. Mr. Macdonald congratulated the teams upon the sporting spirit they had shown during the season and wound up by giving a basketball A. B. C. that was full of sound advice to the players.

The toast list was brief. It opened of course with a toast to the King and the only other toast was to "Basketball" proposed by Willa Saunders, captain of the Westclox, and responded to by Teresa Laws, captain of St. John's.

The championship trophies were presented by Mrs. J. H. Vernor, Willa Saunders receiving the senior trophy for Westclox, Teresa Laws the junior trophy for St. John's and Peggy Lawless the runners-up cup for Quaker Aces.

Under the direction of Miss Caroline Littlefield presentation were made to the coaches of all six clubs. Whitty Thirnbeck, coach of the Westclox, received a coffee table, Howie Macdonald of the Quaker Aces an electric clock, Victor Coleman of St. John's a set of military brushes, Hymie Smith of Y Gym a dunnage bag, Lloyd Grose of the Quaker Cubs a pen and pencil set, and Bill Ferguson of the Y Cadets a bill fold. Presentations were also made to Sybil Ecobichon, the official scorer of the league, and Joe Cooper, head referee and to the press before the enjoyable affair was brought to a close with the singing of O Canada.

The red, white and blue color scheme, carried out by decorated lights, table flags, napkins, candles, streamers, and place-cards, was the work of the decorating committee: Peggy Lawless, Dorothy Weese, Eleanor Kirn, Mary Duncan, and Bernice DeMaio.

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—Manager Del Baker doesn't know where his Detroit Tigers will finish in the coming American League race, but he cheerfully adds, "Neither does anybody else." Instead of predicting, Baker says: "All I can say is that we'll do the best we can with what we have."

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Add Jimmy Foxx to Gene Thompson's admiring public.

"That kid," said the Boston Red Sox slugger of the Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, "broke over two of the best curves I've looked at in many a day in fanning me. I wish he was with us."

Tied at six wins each, the Reds and the Red Sox met for the 13th time today.

DURHAM, N.C. — Babe Phelps, who had to get into shape at his own expense after refusing to visit Havana, and Van Lingle Mungo, whose suspension was lifted Sunday, were back on the Brooklyn Dodgers' expense list today. Phelps got down to 210 pounds, while paying his own dinner checks.

PULASKI, Va.—If Bill Terry did not have so many other problems in getting his New York Giants ready, he might be worried about their failures afield. The Giants have played 13 games in which they have made one or more errors. Four were marked up in yesterday's tilt with Cleveland, three by Mickey Vitek.

WICHITA, Kansas. — If Frank Lamanna shows anything against the Browns today, he likely will be the Boston Bees' fifth starting pitcher when the season opens.

Down The Ladder

HELENA, Mont., April 8— (AP). —Shari Surman, two, became locked in an upstairs room. Her mother, alarmed, called firemen. Big Richard Coe, assistant chief, soon reached the child, forced the door. But Shari was adamant. "An' piggy back," she insisted. So back down the ladder went Coe, a delighted Shari on his shoulders.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

This is one of the screwiest hockey years on record. One night a team smears another outfit all over the landscape and the next time the two meet the losers makes the first night winner look as if the club didn't belong in the same rink. That is the way with Montreal Royals and Oshawa Generals. Saturday night the Montrealers with a convincing display of speed and power defeated Oshawa 7 to 4 and looked so good in doing it that Toronto fans shook their heads doubtfully and surmised that history would be made this year and for once a team from Montreal would take the Eastern Canadian honors. The two clubs met again in Toronto last night and this time the Generals couldn't do anything wrong and showed so much speed and combination that the boys from Montreal appeared to be dazed. When it was all over the Generals had won 10 to 2 and might have made it worse on the scoring chances they had. You simply cannot figure hockey like that; it doesn't make sense.

We are sorry to notice that after all the trouble the C.A.H.A. ran into with a phoney military replacement rule this winter the Ontario Baseball Association has adopted a similar regulation. Surely the baseball magnates have been asleep all winter or they would have been very hesitant about adopting a rule that has developed into something like a racket in hockey circles. The trouble with the replacement idea is that the club in a position to take advantage of the plan naturally looks around and picks the best possible player from some other club to fill in. Right now the Winnipeg Rangers are sparked by the captain of the Portage La Prairie team who was brought in when one of the Rangers enlisted, and the same sort of thing has cropped up in other places.

The Lethbridge Maple Leafs with which club Harvey Barnes who starred as a defence man with the Petes two seasons ago is playing were defeated in the first game of the Western Canada senior finals the other night by Regina by one goal to 0 and the strange thing about it was that the solitary Regina counter was scored when a player in centre ice lifted the puck high above the lights and it dropped into the Lethbridge cage. That kind of scoring goes away back to the old days when defence men used to hoist the rubber the length of the rink and often register when the puck would drop in front of the goalie and take a bad hop into the net. Probably the greatest performer Peterborough had in that kind of lifting was A. A. Hollingshead. About the last player seen in action here to use the lift shot was Grosse of the Berlin team who scored two goals against Peterborough that way in a game played 30 years or so ago.

Wind Up A Fine Season

The annual banquet of the Ladies' Basketball League in the Y.W.C.A. last night formed an appropriate climax to a very successful season and the wholesome atmosphere of good sportsmanship about the whole affair helped to explain why the girls' basketball loop is one of the most flourishing organizations in the realm of local sport. The teams battle hard out there on the floor and there has been decidedly keen competition in the league all season but once the whistle blows to end the battle rivalry ceases. At last night's affair the losers were almost as warmly congratulated as the winners and there were special words of praise for the game Y Cadets, the team of youngsters who failed to win a game but always turned up when they were scheduled to perform. It was Westclox and Quaker Aces who battled for the senior title, the former winning but when the Quaker girls wanted to make a presentation to their coach it was a Westclox electric clock they selected. And as Jack Vernor pointed out last night the Westclockers have trained on Quaker Oats.

* * * * * *

Some interesting suggestions were thrown out by Howie Macdonald, president of the loop. One was that the girls might take over the task of running their own league. Always they have elected men as officers but Prexy Macdonald thinks the time has come when they might well consider the advisability of trying a few girls in the executive positions. He would also have girls do some of the refereeing. There does not seem any obstacle in the way of carrying out either or both of these suggestions but the league has been operating so smoothly and is on such a firm basis of popularity that the girls would hesitate a long time before tossing the present setup out the window.

* * * * * *

While we are on the subject of basketball it might be interesting for fans to learn that there is a possibility that open air cage games are a possibility here this summer although the thing at present hasn't got any further than the tentative stage. A few local basketball enthusiasts have been considering the chances of operating a summer league playing under the lights at the lacrosse stadium. They point out that it looks like a dearth of summer sports and they have an idea that this might be a good opportunity to sell one of the fastest games in the world to a lot of folk who at present know nothing about it. The stream-lined basketball played now is becoming the most popular game in the United States. It is outdrawing both baseball and football now and is constantly making new friends. Local enthusiasts are satisfied that once Peterborough sport lovers see the game played under proper conditions there will be an army of new fans here.

Bostons Are Favorites

Even the fact that Milt Schmidt and Bobby Bauer are on the injured list and may be handicapped if they get into action tonight the Boston Bruins are 2 to 1 favorites to take the second game of the Stanley Cup finals, played tonight in Boston. After this evening the teams move to Detroit for two games, the first on Thursday night. This series will be a tense affair but one of the most colorless in the history of the old mug. All season the two clubs have been standing each other off. They have met nine times and the Red Wings have yet to win a game over the Bruins but have been good enough to hold the National League champs to a tie. What the clubs will dish out in this series is not likely to strengthen the claim that hockey is the fastest game of the world for both will play wait-for-the-breaks hockey and there is nothing worse than that, specially when two outfits play at it at the same time.

* * * * * *

Joe Louis has a date tonight in St. Louis to meet Tony Musto —many of you have never heard of him and more of you won't remember him a month from now—and if any local folk want to stay up that late to hear something drop, the bout gets under way at 11.30 o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Musto has one advantage over a lot of the pushovers the champ has met. He's built lower to the ground and won't have so far to fall. At that he's so squat that it may take Louis a round or two to locate the target. The good citizens of St. Louis however are taking the bout seriously enough to make a new fight attendance record in the Mound City a certainty. Better get your station picked out in ample time. The bout may be over before you get tuned in.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Still not a murmur from the local baseball front....Bob Feller pitched a mighty sweet seven innings against the Giants yesterday. The Indians won 7 to 1....Meanwhile Boston Red Sox were trimming the world's champion Cincinnati Reds 5 to 2 on good pitching by Rich and Wilson....Oshawa Generals scored two goals against Royals in the first two minutes of last night's game, the pair coming eight seconds apart....There will probably be more at the Toronto ball club dinner htan there were at some of the games last season....The Bowling League banquet will be held tonight at the Empress Hotel.

Y.M.C.A. Girls Drop Four League Lead

The Y.M.C.A. girls, who had been sailing along in the first place in the Ladies' Bowling League most of the season until last week, when they were finally tied by the Outboard Marines, dropped off the top step entirely last night as a result of being handed a defeat by the Westclox five who came up with a really smart performance to dethrone the erstwhile leaders.

The Kawartha Ladies turned in the best team performance with a smashing total of 3113 which included a 1153 effort in their second game. Outboard Marines and Westclox also topped the 3000 mark.

There were some fine individual scores in last night's card. Mrs. J. P. Watts was hitting the wood to the tune of 764 for three games and Marg. Hawthorne came through with a 703 total. The league winds up its schedule next week.

The standing to date: Outboard Marines 21, Y.M.C.A. 17, Westclox 17, Kawarthas 12, Lucky Strikes 11, Commercials 11, Examiner 7.

Lethbridge Team Trims Regina 3 1

REGINA, April 8 —(CP)—Sheer courage and confidence carried Lethbridge Maple Leafs to a 3-1 win over Regina Rangers, New York Rangers National Hockey League amateur farm club, here last night and put them on even terms in the Patton Cup Western Canada senior hockey final. Rangers won the opener of the best-of-five series 1-0 Saturday at Saskatoon.

The series continues at Moose Jaw tomorrow night. From there they go to Calgary for the fourth game Saturday night and the fifth, if necessary, Monday night.

Don't Swallow The Lake, Lady

Almost like waterwings is the spray thrown up by this young lady, but she doesn't need any swimming help. It's Lorraine Fischer, of Buffalo, N.Y., and she is one of the ranking feminine natators of the United States.

Breast Stroke Race To Pinch

Under direction of Coach Gordon Minty the local junior swimming club held a 40-yard breast stroke swim last Friday evening in the Y natatorium. Don Pinch, classy junior swimmer, set a new junior record for the event, swimming the 40 yards in the fast time of 28.3 seconds. Second position was taken by Reg Seabrooke, who was closely followed by Jack Thirnbeck. Another feature of the evening was the presenting of the swimming club shield to Jack Thirnbeck by Mr. Gillespie at a banquet held in the dining hall of the Y.M.C.A. Thirnbeck has won this shield twice in a row and needs only to win it once more to earn a special trophy donated by Jimmy Thompson of Hamilton Aquatic Club.

Complete results of the swimming events are as follows:

First Heat—1, Jack Matthews; 2, Don Pinch.

Second Heat—1, Jerry Pinch; 2, Reg. Seabrooke.

Third Heat—1, Jack Thirnbeck; 2, Andrew Brown.

Semi-Final—

First Heat—1, D. Pinch; 2, J. Thirnbeck; 3, J. Matthews.

Second eHat—1, A. Brown; 2, R. Seabrooke; 3, J. Pinch.

Final — 1, D. Pinch; 2, R. Seabrooke; 3, J. Thirnbeck.

Time—28:3 seconds.

Callura Whips Perrin In 12th

NEW ORLEANS, April 8—(AP).—Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., Canadian featherweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Perrin of New Orleans last night with a second to go in the fourth round of their scheduled 12-round bout. Callura weighed 126½; Perrin 127½.

Perrin, who has met and defeated many of the ranking featherweights, outboxed Callura for the first two rounds, ran into a terrific left hook in the third, began slugging, and went down for counts of eight and nine in the fourth round. Referee Red Dolan stopped the fight after Callura sent him to the floor again.

OSHAWA GENERALS EVEN SERIES LACING MONTREAL ROYALS 10-2

Sawyer, Wilson And Nelson Turn 'Hat Trick'

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP). — Oshawa Generals, so hot on occasion that they sizzle and so cold at other time they would give an Eskimo a chill, had hockey thermometers showing high temperatures once again today as they were established heavy favorites to win their best-of-five game series with Montreal Royals for the Eastern Canadian Junior championship.

The Generals, Memorial Cup champions for the past two years, gave one of their frigid displays here last Saturday night to lose the first game of the series 7-4. But last night they showed a complete reversals of form to trounce Royals 10-2. The teams meet here tomorrow night in the third game.

Criticized by theri supporters for failure to back-check in the first game, the Generals played the complete 60 minutes of the second contest with a business-like air. They were particularly good in covering up in front of their net, in comparison to a loose display by the Royals when the Generals were in the Montreal end.

"Hat Trick" for Trio

Three of the Oshawa players—Roy Sawyer, Ron Wilson and Ron Nelson—turned the "hat trick" while the other General goal went to Norm McAtee. The three goals scored by Sawyer ran his total for the series to five. The Montreal scores went to Ken Mosdell and Bunny Glover.

Royals, who scored five goals in the last ten minutes to win the first game, never were in the running in the second contest. They got off on the wrong foot when McAtee and Sawyer scored in the first two minutes of play and from then on the only thing in doubt was just how high the Generals would run the score.

Goalie Dick Schad of the Generals, who looked weak in the first contest, wasn't bothered much in the second game due to the tight checking of his teammates. Whenever a Royals player went to shoot in front of the Oshawa net it seemed that an Oshawa man was always on hand to edge him off or raise his stick.

Flash Gordon Out In Yanks' Exhibition Game

Joe Gordon, first baseman for the New York Yankees, is pictured being put out on third base in the seventh inning of an exhibition game between the Yanks and the St. Louis Cards. Bert Haas of the Cardinals is making the putout. The Cards trimmed the Yanks by a score of 4-2, in a game played in a high wind at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Sydney Stages Comeback To Whip Royals

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP). — The hockey package which Eastern Canada will toss into the Allan Cup finals against the West still was bound with question-marks today following the comeback of Sydney Millionaires last night to tie at a game apiece their best-of-five series with Montreal Royals for the assignment.

Millionaires, who drew 3-3 with Royals here last Wednesday in the round's opener and then lost 3-1 at Montreal Saturday in the second game, pegged last night's 5-3 win over the Montrealers around a three-goal splurge in the middle frame without a reply.

Matching a crafty aggressiveness against the smooth, powerful Carlin machine, the fleet Easterners broke through repeatedly on Goalie Bill Durnan in a game where the net-minding saves were easily more spectacular than the goals. Durnan and Bill Dickie in Sydney's cage were in rare form all night.

Top hand for Royals was little Pete Morin, whose two goals in the clash brought to five his total for the series. Flashy Russ McConnell got the other Montreal counter and Sydney scorers were Jack Fritz, Steve Latoski, Johnny McCreedy, Dick Kowcinak and Bobby Walter, in that order.

Quakers Upset Rangers 4-1 To Even Series

WINNIPEG, April 8 — (AP). — Sparked by a superb goal tender, Russ Certell, Saskatoon Quakers rode right back into the running for the Junior hockey championship of Western Canada here last night by whipping Winnipeg Rangers 4-1 before 3,100 fans.

Saskatoon's triumph tied the best-of-seven series for the Abbott Cup at one game each. Rangers captured the first game Friday 6-4 and the third contest will be played here Wednesday.

Tested only occasionally during the first two periods, Dertell backed his teammates to the hilt with a sparkling third period performance. Time after time the Rangers broke through on top of the Quaker net and each time but once Dertell was their master.

Quakers backed their scoring punch with dogged back-checking which handcuffed the flying Rangers almost before they got going. In the first period Rangers' net minder, Hal Thompson, stopped nine shots while Dertell blocked seven and in the second period Dertell was called upon to stop only four drives on his net while Thompson turned 12 aside.

Force dto take the offensive in the last session, Rangers stormed the Quakers' goal. Twenty-two times Dertell kicked, blocked or smothered the puck as he scrambled to hold the fort.

Saskatoon's superior polish around the nets made itself felt in the final session as the Quakers netted three of their 10 shots on Thompson in return power plays.

Harold Laycoe opned the scoring for Saskatoon midway through the initial period. The second session was scoreless, but Saskatoon counted three times and Rangers once in a whirlwind finish.

Eddie Watson, smooth winger, got the second Quaker goal on a solo effort, Mike Shabaga took Laycoe's pass for the third and Ken Ullyot finished the scoring after Defenceman Hughie Millar banged into Glen Harmon's relay for Rangers' single goal.

Nine penalties were served during the rugged contest; five by Quakers and four by Rangers.

Ex-Grocery Boy To Test Louis Tonight

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—(AP).—Everything else having failed, a former grocery boy has been drafted to oppose Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis to-night.

Tony Musto, a Chicago Italian as short and stubby as a crew haircut, is championship target No. 16 in the parade of fistic talent that has included fat men, skinny men, clowns and even an orthodox pugilist or two in Louis' stop-a-month tour of the country.

Musto, who graduated from delivery boy to steel puddler before turning fighter, will be one of the few persons among the 20,000 expected to jam the arena who thinks he will subdue Louis.

Few bets are available that the scrap will go beyond five rounds—and that curfew is forecast with Musto flat on his back.

Despite the anticipated outcome, Mike Jacobs, New York promoter and shepherd of the Louis interests, thumbed through $38,000 in advance sales and predicted the total receipts would be $55,000.

The only thing that distinguishes this stop on the Louis tour is that the champion encounters a foe with fights naturally from a crouch.

Except for Tony Galento and Al McCoy, who adopted the underslung style for a night, Louis has tangled only with upright young men. Arturo Godoy, the South American dancer, and rugged Red Burman unsuccessfully offered techniques approximating that of Musto.

And Musto has had both of these on the floor in his 39 previous bouts.

Delaney Defeats Wallace Cross

NEWARK, N.J., April 8—(AP).—Al Delaney, Oshawa, Ont., veteran, scored his second victory over Wallace Cross Monday, by outpointing the 19-year-old East Orange Negro in Lauret Garden's feature eight-round boxing bout. Delaney weighed 190, Cross 210.

Delaney outsmarted and outpunched the former National A.A.U. champion in a vicious punching duel to take three rounds on Referee Joe Mangold's scorecard. Cross took one while the other four were called even.

No Comeback For Bobby Jones

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8—(AP).—There'll never be another Bobby Jones, say the golf professionals who meet him annually in the Augusta masters' tournament. They expect that Jones, the champion, never could come back.

Jones, who retired after his unequalled grand-slam in 1930 when he won the British and United States open and amateur crowns, wound up his eighth try in the Masters' Sunday with 307. The score, compiled on four rounds of over-par golf, left him 40th in a field of 47, 17 strokes behind the new champion, Craig Wood. But he preserved his retirement record; he was yet to take more than 79 in competition.

The abdicated king of golfers shoots 66's and 68's on his home course, Atlanta"s East Lake Country Club, and played brilliantly at Nassau recently in a Red Cross benefit match with Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen.

Could Bobby come back if he hit the golf trail again? The top-flight pros of today think not.

"The field is a lot faster today," says United States Open Champion Lawson Little. "Where Jones had 10 competitors in 1930, he'd have 50 today. He's still a great golfer—he could be an even better one if he got tournament tough. But never the Jones of 1930. There'll never be another Jones or another grand slam."

News You've Never Read...

A Message from
The Newspaper Publishers Committee
HON. W. A. BUCHANAN, CHAIRMAN

"PETER ZENGER, publisher, was jailed here today for using the columns of his newspaper to accuse Cosby of converting public funds to his own use."

Probably none of you have ever read this story. It happened in 1724! If we're lucky, you'll never have to read anything like it. Because the trial of Peter Zenger, who was actually thrown in prison on these grounds, was one of the historic steps in winning the freedom of the press we enjoy today.

Peter Zenger was only a poor printer. Probably you've never heard of him. But you all know the name of the thing he helped win. A free press is a vital ingredient of democracy—but we have enjoyed it so long we have almost forgotten how to fight for it. Yet unless we all stop taking it for granted, the future Canadian way of life may not be so free, even when the war is won! Not with things happening in the world as they are today.

It's up to you. Today the freedom of the press is an established thing. But it will mean nothing the moment the men and women of Canada no longer cherish it.

Remember that in the first stages the rise to power of a totalitarian government depends on voluntary even if misguided surrenders of individual liberty ... This shall be printed. That may not run. This shall be made more attractive than it really is. That advertisement may not appear. History shows how dangerously plausible the first small steps in dominating the press can be.

Canada cannot afford to be complacent. There is no active plot to seize power over us. There is now no one whose motives we can suspect. But still our citizens should be alert. Because little curtailments of liberty are at first so innocent they may be far more dangerous than open attack.

To stay free, we must have the FACTS!

You want our newspapers free to tell you what's going on. If there's trouble ahead, you want to know it. If a public official does a good job, you want to know about it so that you can re-elect him. If he is inefficient, dishonest, dictatorial, you want to know about that so you can get rid of him. You don't ever want glowing accounts in the news columns inspired by the politicians in office. You want the facts!

What's more, you want the editors of your papers free to express their opinions, too. You may not agree with them all the time . . . but nobody says you have to agree with them. That's one of the beauties of Democracy, and also the only way it can persist. If you're going to have government by the consent of the governed, then the governed have to know what the government is up to, and must have access to facts on the state of the nation.

So if the newspapers have any axe to grind, it is only to win your understanding of what a free press means ... to make you alert to protect it! If we have any selfish motive it is only in that we wouldn't want to go on living in a Canada where your freedom was lost!

NOTE: The Newspaper Publishers Committee, speaking through its chairman, will bring you one of these institutional advertisements in this space each week. Clubs, patriotic societies, business firms or individuals who would like reprints may have them by writing to the Business Office of this newspaper.

Sir Howard Signs Ukrainian Golden Book

When Sir Howard d'Egville, secretary of the British Parliamentary Association, signed the Golden Book of the Ukrainian Canadian Committee at Regina this month he gave added impetus to the current movement to unite all Canadians of Ukrainian descent behind Canada's war effort. Shown in this picture besides Sir Howard, who praised the Canadian-Ukrainians for their patriotism, are Cpl. J. Lotochinski, of the R.C.A.F., Father A. Fyk; Julius Krause, chairman of the Regina committee; Orest Zerebko, Ukrainian member of the Saskatchewan Legislature, and Miss K. Pukess, secretary. The Golden Book will record the names of all those who enlist in the armed forces or help the Canadian war effort in other ways.

Vegetable Growers Urged To Take More Care In Marketing Produce

Telling that the first pair of long pants he ever owned belonged to the uniform of the 57th Regiment, a native son of Peterborough returned on Monday night to speak to the members of the Peterborough Vegetable Growers Association in the Empress Hotel. He is M. M. (Bobby) Robinson, for 26 years a member of the editorial staff of the Hamilton Spectator and finally city editor, he retired into politics.

He is now chiefly concerned with growing and is intimately connected with the Canadian Food Council; forsaking in effect his old love—sports, he has turned his interests and ability in the direction of the farmers of Ontario.

Warning the growers, Mr. Robinson said that they must recognize the fact that what happens to their produce from the time it leaves their hands until the consumer takes it home is of the utmost importance. He declared produce must be advertised properly and presented in an attractive manner.

Market Outmoded

The Toronto Wholesale Market came in for plenty of criticism when it was said that it is the governing factor in price setting in suburban centres, and that the style and conduct of the market is outmoded. The whole setup of the system is contrary to the objects of the association which strives to have markets orderly in fashion.

Ontario farmers, as well as those from other parts of Canada, must realize what is happening in the direction of competition from the United States, and must govern their marketing accordingly. This year the farmer will be protected to a greater degree in that potatoes coming from American farms will have to be bigger because of government regulations, and the smallest potatoes allowed to be imported will be at least one and seven-eighths inches.

The free lance trucker was scored by the speaker when he told of the evils produced in marketing under his conditions. The trucker was given credit for doing as much toward the weakening of good marketing conditions as any other class. He destroys the chance, for an orderly market, Mr. Robinson said. In some cases the chain store is an evil, especially in the matter of vices created by advertising. It is necessary for the chain store operator to prepare his weekly advertisement on Tuesday that it may go into Thursday's paper to encourage week-end shopping. The manager of the store must then anticipate prices of foodstuffs that this may be so, and it is impossible for him to do so with anything like consistent success. The result is evident. loss leaders are created, and price cutting feuds arise.

Watch Control Board

The farmer should watch very carefully the antics of the Wartime Price Control Board. the speaker warned, for it is not a fairly operated body if it does not protect the producer of farm commodities. If the prices of the articles necessary to his production are not fixed, it is not fair that the prices of his produce should be pegged.

The trend is now toward a seller's market, and if higher taxes do not virtually curb the buying of the public, the farmer should find himself in an advantageous position this summer. The reason for this is the numbers of farmers who are now working in factories. The result will be less produce, and the market will not be glutted. Caution was recommended, however, and a warning issued against overplanting.

The speaker was introduced by Frank Paterson, Peterborough Agriculture representative and secretary of the Growers' Association. He gave a short history of the speaker's attainments and qualifications.

A balanced program had been arranged under the direction of the president. Harold Johnston, including community singing and selections by several well-known artists. Mrs. H. Doig sang two solos, being accompanied by Mrs. Cecil Searles; Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholls played a duet, and Mrs. Ed. Johnston sang two numbers while accompanied by Frank Millard. Walter Farr sang "Till the Lights of London Shine Again." George Nicholls led in the community singing, and Bert Arnott was heard on his harmonica.

Short talks were given by Bruce Johnston, Melville Johnston, Frank Kitney and James Geraghty, who moved a vote of thanks to the speaker. The meeting was the second of its kind since the organization of the association 23 years ago, and the accomplishments during its existence were told by Bruce Johnston who is a charter member.

Bewdley Sale Sees Good Prices

BEWDLEY, April 8—(ENS).—In spite of the muddy roads the auction sale at the estate of Albert Lightle, east of the Port Hope highway, drew a very large crowd of men. Quite a number of ladies attended also as there was some furniture sold as well as stock, implements and grain.

John A. Noble, Coldsprings, was the auctioneer, and buyers were noticed from as far as Springville, Elizabethville, Fenella, Grafton.

Everything sold well, the implements were in excellent condition and brought good prices. Oats sold at 45 cents a bushel. Although almost evening before the cattle were sold, they too went well. One cow brought $90 and her calf, a few days old $12.

The farm was offered but a sale was not made. Five thousand dollars was the highest bid.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Benson and Miss Ida Morton attended the funeral of their cousin, Mrs. A. Jamieson, Dale, Welcome Road, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Jeff Morton has returned home from a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Jack Miller, in Bowmanville.

Ronald Manley is spending the week-end in Cobourg with his cousin, Lylle Landymore.

The pupils of Bewdley school are knitting blocks for a Red Cross quilt under the direction of their teacher, Miss M. Douglas.

Fred McMahon, Duke Ducette, Jack Benson, Tubby Ernshaw and Bill Halligan are home from the Hydro camp at Agincourt to work with others on this section of the new line putting on vibrators.

Sugar Stocks Up

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP). — Canada's stocks of refined sugar at March 22 were 162,614,636 pounds, compared with 147,358,494 a year ago, while raw sugar stocks amounted to 74,452,261 pounds compared with 104,990,488.

any major centres of resistance on either the Greek or the Yugoslav fronts, and all reports—even from Berlin—made it evident that both embattled nations were making a determined fight.

British authorities said their troops—including Australian veterans of the African campaign—were taking an active part in the fighting in Greece, and the Royal Air Force was trading blows with the Germans.

Britain, meanwhile, severed diplomatic relations with Hungary, thereby paving the way for British air attacks on German bases in that country which already have been attacked by Yugoslav bombers. The German thrust through Western Thrace from the Bulgarian border to the Aegean apparently was executed upon a strategic Greek retreat from territory regarded as indefensible.

It appeared that the Greek-British strategy was based on the hope of halting the Germans along the line of the Struma River, approximately 50 miles east of the Aegean port of Salonika and some 150 miles west of the Turkish frontier.

Charter Defence Lines.

Such a move would shorten defence lines on this front from about 180 to 75 miles.

The Greeks said their lines were holding firm in the face of German attempts to advance down the Struma Valley, although they announced the loss of two forts. The Greeks also said their troops were inflicting terrific losses upon the Nazis in heavy mountain fighting.

Greek soldiers defending the two fallen forts were said to have resisted to the last man. Many Nazi parachutists were captured, the Greeks declared, and 500 more Italians were captured in Albania.

Most of the reports on the fighting in Yugoslavia came from German sources, no direct word having been received from the Yugoslav Government since the Nazi invasion started early Sunday morning.

Beyond saying their troops had penetrated Yugoslavia to a depth of 30 miles in unidentified sectors, the Germans were vague about their drive's progress.

They claimed, however, their air force had bombed the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade for the fifth time last night, setting many new fires, and boasted it was shattering vital lines of communication.

Belgrade was said to be cut off from telephone communication with the front, and telegraph and radio facilities were said to have been disrupted.

City Bombed To Ruins.

The Germans also claimed their aircraft had left in ruins Sarajevo, the Serb town where the assassination of Austrian Archduke Franz Joseph touched off the First Great War in 1914.

The German propaganda agency declared the Nazis had shot down nine more Yugoslav planes, bringing to 117 the total claimed destroyed in the air or on the ground within 48 hours on the Balkan front.

The Bulgarian High Command announced several persons had been killed in an air raid on Sofia—apparently a reference to the Royal Air Force attack Sunday night in which British authorities said they had bombed military concentrations, railway junctions and warehouses in the Bulgarian capital.

Reports from Budapest claimed 10 Yugoslav planes had been shot down over Hungary by Hungarian anti-aircraft guns and indicated a state of undeclared war existed between the two countries.

tia, was appointed to Canada's "top flight" diplomatic post on September 15, 1939, when the outbreak of war had pushed to the fore the industrial, commercial and political relations between the Dominion and the United States and when relations between the United States and the British Commonwealth were assuming ever-greater importance.

For three years before he went to Washington, he had served with the Department as counsellor. He represented the Government at conferences on Trans-Atlantic air services in Ottawa and Washington in 1935 and the Imperial Conference at London in 1937. He took part in the Canada-United States civil aviation conference in 1938 and here in 1939.

Mr. Christie, a career diplomat, became an attorney in the United States Department of Justice in 1910 after completing his law education at Harvard University. From 1911 to 1913 he was assistant to the United States Attorney-General.

He returned to his native Canada in 1913 and entered the External Affairs Department as legal adviser. During the First Great War he served as technical adviser to the Canadian delegation headed by Sir Robert Borden at the various Imperial War and War Cabinet conferences, and later at the Peace Conference.

two the Germans seized yesterday.

Beyond them, forts Rupel and Ussita withstood "intense bombardment from the air and heavy artillery" and beat back tank-led attacks with which the Germans tried to break a way through one of the Struma's narrowest passes.

The high command gave this account of the defence at other strong points:—

"On the high Neverokppi plateau (east of the Struma), the enemy managed to penetrate forts but, after fighting in the subterranean galleries, the attackers were decimated and the forts remained in our hands.

"Further enemy efforts in the direction of Fort Lyssi made by tanks were repelled, and many tanks were destroyed by gunfire.

Bags Tanks on Bridge

"In the same region, an officer at the head of one of our detachments entrusted with destruction of a bridge to the north of the Neverokpi waited until the enemy tanks were crossing it before firing the charge and destroyed all the tanks.

"Echinos and Nymphaeon forts (guarding the way from Western Thrace) Withstood attacks and prevented the passage of heavy material . . ."

At the same time, the Greek communique reported "vigorous action" against Italian forces in Albania and said 500 prisoners were taken and large quantities of arms and supplies seized.

Thousands of British Empire troops—from the United Kingdom, Australian and New Zealanders—brought to the Greek front lines the best weapons Britain and the United States can provide.

Most of their equipment was described as glistening new, but there also were reconditioned tanks and armored cars used in the Libyan campaign.

British Royal Air Force units in Greece have been reinforced, especially with new planes built in the United States and never yet used in this arena of the war.

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, from whose forces much of the British expeditionary army was drawn, was said to have remained in Africa.

Norwood Baptist Mission Rallies

NORWOOD, April 8—(ENS).—On Thursday afternoon the Baptist Mission Circle held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Bannon; the president, Mrs. Bob Baker, in the chair.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. William Hubbel sang a duet entitled "Lead Me to Calvary," followed by prayer led by Mrs. Ferns. Mrs. Hubbel gave the topic for the afternoon, "Christ died, but rose again."

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

During all of this week, excepting Saturday, each evening at 8 p.m., the Baptist Church is holding a special evangelistic service. Two missioners are present: Mr. May, who gives the message, and Mr. Baer who is an accomplished pianist. Together they present the following ensemble of instruments: Hawaiian electric guitar, Spanish guitar, theremin, vibra harp, accordion and solovox.

On Good Friday evening a special kind of service will be held, when the message will take the form of pictures on the Life of Christ.

C.B.4 Bread

NOW..

"Vitamin-Enriched"

Every loaf of C.B.4 Bread now contains 600 International Units of Vitamin B_1 Plus Wheat Germ

MEDICAL authorities tell us that each person requires from 300 to 500 International units of vitamin B_1 per day. They advise this all-important vitamin B_1 be taken by restoring the required amount of B_1 to those of our foods which should naturally contain it, such as bread.

Canada Bread has done exactly this for you in the "vitamin-enriched" C.B.4 loaf. Ordinary white bread contains approximately 75 International units of vitamin B_1 per 1½ pound loaf; C.B.4 bread contains 600 International units of vitamin B_1. In addition to this, C.B.4 is Canada's highest quality loaf, full-flavoured, rich, snowy-white and fine textured and enriched with Wheat Germ!

No better bread can be made than C.B.4. Amply fortified with vitamin B_1, C.B.4 is the most economical, nourishing and efficient energy food you can secure.

LEAVE FOR KINGSTON.

A bus load of recruits for the light anti-aircraft battery who were recruited in Peterborough left on Tuesday morning for Kingston to undergo instruction.

ICE MOVING OUT

More than half the ice has moved out of Lake Katchawanooka and there is open water the entire length of the big lake that stretches from Lakefield to Young's Point. Clear Lake is also starting to open up, as the warm sun takes its toll.

HOLY WEEK SERVICE.

The Holy Week service being conducted under the auspices of the Ministerial Association will be held this evening in the Murray Street Baptist Church, with the Rev. Robert Moynan of Toronto preaching. The service will commence at eight o'clock. On Wednesday evening the service will be held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

KEMPTVILLE GRADUATES.

Among the present graduates of the 1941 class of Kemptville Agricultural School are Douglas Deviney of Vernonville, Howard Evans of Warkworth and William Newman of Norham, all three from Northumberland county, and in hor... economics Miss Grace Lewis, Hastings, R.R. 3.

LECTURE TONIGHT

Andrew McKenzie is speaking tonight at Knox Church on the subject, "The Empire of the Saguenay." It is to be an illustrated lecture on power developments of Ontario and Quebec. The admission is twenty-five cents and the proceeds will be given to the British War Victims Fund.

BUSINESS BOOMING.

Plenty of sunshine and ideal spring weather during the last ten days has sky-rocketed Easter sales along the main street, and some merchants claim large increases over the same period for last year. The streets are thronged with shoppers every afternoon and many commodities besides Easter finery are being purchased.

LIKE CAPASTRANO.

Peterborough welcomed the swallows on Tuesday morning, when numbers of them were reported from different quarters of the city. One resident of Ashburnham contends that they are early this year and that the usual date for their arrival is April 12; others, however, claims Capastronic qualities for this city, and say they always arrive on the same day. However, Alex Kay, bird authority, said the birds were about a week earlier and they come from the West Indies.

TWO BROTHER ACTS

Leo Grisdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Grisdale, Dufferin street, has enlisted with an artillery unit reinforcement. His brother Jim is serving with the S. D. and G. Highlanders at Debert. John McMurray, son of Mrs. Helen McMurray, Munroe Avenue, has also joined up with the artillery, and he, too, has a brother with the Highlanders. The brother is Patrick McMurray. A first cousin, John McMurray of Kirkland Lake, was listed recently as wounded in England.

THE O'DETTE CANOE.

Friends of J. B. O'Dette are reminded of the draw next Monday for the hplendid canoe and paddling accessories which he and his sons built especially for the purpose of the British War Victims Fund. He has been making boats all his life, and he feels that this canoe is probably the best one he has ever turned out. He wanted it to be the best anyway. "J. B" was bereaved in the last war of his son Jack, the second "J. B.", and all the local friends of the family can help a great cause and warm the heart of an old Peterborough citizen by buying tickets this week on the O'Dette canoe. It is in the Examiner window. Tickets may be obtained in various places, Grafton's, Scarfe's and the Examiner are three spots downtown.

MARCH FIRE LOSS.

Chief Gimblett reported 82 fire alarms in March. Total damage was determined at $2,447.27, of which $2,206.47 was on property.

All wickets will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. The public lobby will be open from 6.30 a.m. until 6 p.m. Special delivery service will be as usual and all mails will be received and despatched as usual. There will be evening collection from the street letter boxes. No delivery by the rural route couriers will be given.

BREAK WINDOWS—AIR RIFLE

Three boys got together with an air rifle in a pigeon loft on Murray street Monday night and as a result of the target practice that followed four windows were broken in the Canadian Legion Hall, the police confiscated the rifle, the parents will have a bill for the windows to pay and there was probably a session or two in the woodshed following the visit of the boys to the police station.

INCREASE MILLK PRICE

Price of milk in Lindsay was ordered increased from 10 to 11 cents a quart and 5 to 6 cents for pints, by a ruling of the Milk Board today. Lindsay has not named a consumer representative, consequently the order was made on application of producers and distributors without consumers being notified.

MEMORIAL ROSES

Frank Mitchell of Windsor, head of the Peterborough Bus Lines, has offered one hundred hybrid tea roses to the city for special memorial to the late Alderman Stocker. This offer has been accepted by the Park Committee, and Alderman Roy reported Monday night the rose garden will be laid out in Confederation Square. The bushes will be selected by Mr. Mitchell from his own garden, and a suitable tablet may be provided to designate the memorial purpose of the rose plot.

HAIL SONG SPARROWS.

A group of melodious little visitors arrived during the night and were gratefully welcomed by whole community this morning. They were the song sparrows, and they cast briefly a spell of illusion as if the first moment of hearing them was timeless, something out of all those other springs, an April morning and its music in any of all those years. It recalled the eternal yearning from the Keats line: "For ever piping songs for ever new."

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Two small boys who rode down Murray street hill on the one bicycle Monday afternoon happened to flash across the path of Constable C. J. McGillen and the result was a visit to the police station and a lecture from the traffic officer as to the dangerous nature of the practice, all too common, of riding two on a bicycle built for one. The wheel was held by the police until last night.

RENTS GOING UP

Prosperity in Peterborough has brought a mild boom and a fair share of good times to the village of Lakefield. Today it is learned that houses are at a premium in the village and landlords have taken advantage of the demand to raise rents. Many people working in Peterborough and unable to find accommodation in this city, grabbed off all the houses in the village and the scheme is working out fine for all concerned.

Bridge Party In Cincinnati Nets Fund $72

Canadians living in Cincinnati, Ohio, are responsible for a donation of $72.32 received by F. G. Mann at the Examiner office this morning. The group headed by Miss Camilla H. Park and Miss Emily Fessenden staged a bridge party in the Westminster Building in the American city and the fine contribution represents the proceeds from the affair.

Accompanying the large donation was an American five dollar bill, and Miss Park indicated in her note that the donor prefers to remain anonymous. This action on the part of Canadians in the States followed an acknowledgment by Mr. Mann to a donation received some months ago, and his gracious reply prompted them to make a greater effort to assist in aiding the war victims.

Silver Tea Service, $118.00.

The highest donation received today comes from the sale of tickets for the silver tea service donated by Mrs. David McPhail, whose husband obtained the set as a souvenir from the German ship Dusseldorf. The draw was held under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club and the Junior Club and the total amount raised is $218. The draw was made Monday night at a social evening held in the club rooms, with S. Eastwood, the president, acting as convener. Tickets were made up by Miss Irene Howarth as an economy measure and the draw was made by Mrs. Edna Stewart of Toronto. Miss Mary L. Carey, 576 Aylmer street, holder of ticket No. 363 was the winner of the service.

Routley's China Shop has donated a Queen's Bouquet set of China to the Fund and tickets for the draw on this gift may be obtained from the Thumbs Up Club, headed by Miss Edith Rennie. The set is one of the most popular sellers at the present time. It contains 97 pieces, for 12 people, and is a replica of a bouquet presented to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth during the Royal Visit to Canada in 1939. Tickets may also be obtained at Routley's China Store and at the Examiner office. The list to date is as follows:—

Case Dismissed Against Woman

Ivy Pryde, one of the three Toronto women arrested along with two men last Thursday night after an attempt on the part of four burglary suspects to escape from the county jail had been discovered was brought down from Lindsay jail this morning and came before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to face a charge of vagrancy.

The girl was not to have been tried until tomorrow when the other four will appear in court but by her consent and that of the crown the matter was speedily disposed of this morning.

When the charge was read the accused said "Not guilty." Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said "I am not offering any evidence, the magistrate said "The case is dismissed" and that was that.

Holy Week Service Held In St. James'

The uniqueness of Jesus was the topic given by Rev. Robert Moyhan of Toronto, at the opening meeting of the Union Holy Week services at St. James' United church last night.

Rev. Moynan, until his recent appointment as field secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance, was the minister of the New Westminster Presbyterian church at Hamilton, Ont. He is a graduate of the Toronto Bible College, and McMaster University of Hamilton. He is also a son-in-law of the famous Dr. Jonathan Goforth of China.

His message on the Uniqueness of Jesus was thought provoking and helpful. He described this uniqueness as arising out of the authority of Christ. The authority of his character, personality, and teaching. "The purity of His character, the power of His life, the permanency of His teaching, have never been equalled" he said. The world but dimly grasps the hope that is offered in Him. He is the world's only hope. Tribulation such as war has a way of directing the world's attention to the Saviour they must ultimately accept if civilization is to continue.

Rev. Craik was assisted by Rev. Boyter. Mrs. Ernest Kitney sang a beautiful solo entitled "Calvary." Stan Northrop presided at the organ.

The service is at the Murray Street Baptist church this evening.

P.C.I. Graduate

Leading Aircraftsman D. F. Quirt, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Quirt, 772 Water street, received his wings at No. 8 Service Flying Training School near Moncton on Monday. He graduated from the P.C.I. two years ago and is believed to be the youngest flier in the graduating class. Two of his brothers are serving in the active forces, one in the air force and another in the 4th Anti-Tank.

Cemetery Board Re-appoints A. E. Higgins

LAKEFIELD, April 8 (ENS)—A. E. Higgins was re-appointed Superintendent of the Lakefield cemetery at the annual board meeting held in the council chamber on Monday afternoon.

The property committee will appoint a helper for four months and Mr. Higgins to hire his own help if at any time he is unable to carry out his part of the work.

It was also decided to ask for young trees from the township reforestration committee which will be placed where necessary at the cemetery.

The superintendent's report showed fewer burials, there being 41, and a smaller number of foundations and lots sold. His report showed: expenses $763.94 and receipts $730.50, leaving a deficit of $23.44, which was comparatively less than the previous year.

George H. Spence, secretary-treasurer's report showed a receipt of $1,801.72, with a balance on hand of $523.99, after expenses of $1,277.73 had been paid.

A. E. Higgins thanked the board for the accommodation given him while ill and unable to fulfil his duties last year.

Contracts Awarded For Clothes And Oil

Purchase of overcoats and uniforms for the firemen was authorized by the Council Monday night, adopting the special committee's report as follows: 22 overcoats to be brought from Selkirk Men's Shop at $30 each; and 22 uniforms from Grafton and Company, Limited at $32.50. The uniforms are to be delivered by May 15, and the overcoats by September 15.

Purchase of shirts and caps for the members of the Fire Department was left to Alderman Ovens and Chief Gimblett.

Tenders for gasoline for the city's use were accepted from Cities Service Oil Company for supplying Koolmotor at 16 cents a gallon for a period of six months beginning April 1; and McColl-Frontenac Oil Company's Red Indian at 16 cents for six months beginning October 1.

The tender of the British American Oil Company for supplying Autolene oil at 68c a gallon was accepted. This company is to supply all the city's motor oil and grease for one year beginning April 1.

12-Year-Old Girl Suffers Broken Leg

Joan, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hiller, 544 Murray street, had her leg broken Monday afternoon when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile on McDonnel street in front of the Bonner-Worth plant.

The car was driven by Albert Blondin, 161 Murray street, an employee of the Bonner-Worth plant who had just left work and was driving east on McDonnel street when according to the story told by the driver to police the young girl walked in front of his car.

"I tried to swerve to miss her," said Blondin last night, "but the front fender of the car caught her and knocked her over."

The injured girl was picked up and taken home. Dr. Raymore Scott reduced the fracture.

Rent Increase Is Protested To City Council

Third reading of a bylaw to borrow $7,000 for the construction of a temporary wing to Nicholls Hospital was suspended by the council Monday night, until the proposal has been submitted to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval.

This project was reported at considerable length following the meeting of the finance committee last week, when it was recommended to the council by a vote of 6-4. Its details were so familiar to all the members that Alderman Cotton moved in the second reading that "it be taken as read." Alderman Roy seconded the motion, and there was no further comment. The third meeting was postponed until the next meeting of the council, providing the bylaw receives the assent of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The trustees of Nicholls Hospital are planning an addition which is estimated to cost $17,000. Permission to borrow $10,000 was granted last year, but essential changes in the plans require an extra $7,000 funds which now rest on the decision of the Municipal Board.

Approve Subdivision

The council also declared its approval of the H. J. McCannan subdivision on Monaghan Road. The propert is south of Douglas avenue, and will be opened with a new street which is to be called McCannan avenue. It will be divided into thirty-seven lots, and prospects point to the likelihood of three or four houses being built there early this season, if some of the first enquiries materialize.

Sale of three city lots was authorized by bylaws introduced by Alderman Swanston on the condition that houses be erected within the next twelve months.

A Rent Complaint

Thomas F. Clancy, 420 Stewart street, between Hunter and Brock streets, informed the council that the rent of the house has been increased from $27.50 a month to $35. He said he had written the Rent Control Board at Ottawa, and received an answer that the owner should not charge more than $30 a month. Mr. Clancy said he had asked in March for the papering of the house, agreeing to pay for the work if the landlord supplied the paper. A week later, he stated, he was notified by the agent, J. A. Gibbs, to vacate the place.

The property is a double house on the east side of the street. Mr. Clancy has been a tenant for six years, and James Armstrong has occupied the other half for about fifteen years.

Replying to Alderman Dutton regarding previous rental of the house, Mr. Clancy said he understood that Mr. Armstrong had at one time paid $35 a month. During the depression the rent had been reduced to $25. Since then it was raised to $27.50 and finally to $35. The owner is James Jopling of Bridgenorth.

Alderman Dutton said the increase from $27.50 to $35 had been too sudden.

"Cases like that will bring Peterborough under the Rent Control Board," Alderman Bradburn remarked.

Remodelling Planned

Mr. Gibbs told the council that each of these two houses is comprised of seven rooms, with oak floors, hot water heating, and an attached garage with sleeping quarters over it. He said that the owner felt each house was worth $35 a month, the amount that used to be charged. Mr. Jopling decided to make a duplex of each house, remodelling the property into four separate dwellings if he could not get $35 a month for each half. That was the reason for the notice to vacate.

Alderman Gordon said the Rent Control Board at Ottawa could not visualize all the circumstances. Their opinions in such remote cases were formed on a mathematical basis. In this case two people were occupying a seven-room house that might be large enough for seven or eight persons.

No action was taken by the council. "I'd like to look at these two houses," Alderman Gordon said, "before I would make any decision about them. I don't think this council desires any hasty action in a matter involving this question of rent control."

"That is the way I feel about it," Alderman Roy said, and Mr. Clancy's complaint that apparently he was going to be put out of the place was left at that stage of aldermanic examination of the premises.

Safety Clubs In Schools Are Discussed

Four public school principals gave unanimous endorsation to a plan of the local Lions Club to form Children's Safety Clubs in the schools of the city. The school teachers along with Constable Archie Menzies representing the police department were guests of the Lions at the Kawartha Club on Monday night at the regular club meeting.

Harry Savage of Toronto, who is associated with Red Foster enterprises explained the purpose of these safety club, and also pointed out how the clubs are formed and function. He showed a reel of colored film with sound which depicted the amazing progress made in school child safety work in the States. The organization of safety clubs in schools in the States in under the direction of the American Automobile Association. The idea has grown from a single club until now it embraces 300,000 school children. In the States each school has its own safety patrol, and police officers work in close cooperation with the teachers and junior patrol officers bringing a high state of efficiency and fewer traffic mishaps.

Mr. Savage told the meeting that some people have the mistaken idea that these patrol officers are traffic officers and that they stand on the centre of the road and direct traffic. This is untrue, the boy on patrol never leaves the sidewalk, and he holds back the children until traffic is clear.

R. J. Bolton, principal at Central School, G. S. Mattice, principal of Prince of Wales School, F. H. Dearborn, principal King Edward school, and F. E. Kerr, principal of King George school, who were present spoke briefly approving of the idea, and they promised their complete cooperation, providing of course that the Board of Education approves of the plan. Following the dinner meeting the Safety committee held a meeting with the school teachers and police and discussed the formation of a safety club at Central school, as this school is in the heart of the city and the children have to cross streets carrying heavy traffic.

Herb Jamison, president of the Lions Club tendered a warm welcome to the guests and the thanks of the club was expressed by A. R. Girven to the speaker, Harry Savage.

Grey Kemp, talented young trumpet player, entertained the members following the dinner with three trumpet solos, that were well done.

Touching Presentation Is Given Of Play "Thy Will Be Done"

Those who were privileged to see the Passion Play in the Auditorium at Mount St. Joseph on Monday evening came away charmed and touched by the fine, convincing presentation of the world's greatest tragedy in the drama of Our Lord's Passion, "Thy Will Be Done."

This tragedy of Calvary was depicted on the stage in three settings namely, "In the Garden," "In the City," and "On the Hill of Calvary." Among the tragic events, a lovely romance is woven. Elias, son of Caiphas, the weak high-priest who, to retain his prestige with the mad populace, condemns the innocent Jesus to death on a cross, is in love with the Christian Jewish lady, Sarah, a staunch follower of Christ. This story, together with that of the faithful Constantia, wife of Gallus, a Roman soldier who assisted in the cruel crucifixion, and of her crippled son Claudius, sustain interest in the drama from beginning to end. The cast is well-chosen and without exception, each measures up to the part assigned.

The Male Voice section of St. Peter's Cathedral Choir supplied the choral background as the tragedy developed. The tonal beauty and clear expressive enunciation of this four-part choir was exceptionally fine. One was ever conscious of an almost perfect tonal balance throughout.

The stage settings were appropriate and characterized simplicity and splendid color harmonies.

The Final Tableau, enhanced by effective lighting and inspiring choral music, was an excellent climax to the play. The grouping of the main characters at the foot of the Cross seemed to give a tone of victory in the culmination of faith and love brought about by Christ's crucifixion.

The following are the members of the cast:—

Herald, E. J. Wolff. Apostles—Peter, Nick DiCarlo; James, J. DiNoble; John, B. Murphy. Christ, Anonymous. Judas, F. Galvin; Gallus, a Roman soldier, E. Murphy; Marcellus, a Roman soldier, E. Prete; Claudius, son of Gallus, K. Ferren; Constantia, wife of Gallus, Helen Ross; Sarah, a Jewess, Mary McFadden; Esther, a Jewess, Anne Schiarizza; Cornelius, a Roman soldier, E. O'Toole. Jewish Servants—Ruth, Helen Schiarizza; Martha, Cleta Galvin. Elias, son of Caiphas, R. Baldwin. Companions of Esther—Rachel, Agnes Mayock; Anna, Eleanor Collins. Mary, Mother of Christ, Theresa Corbett.

The Choir.—Rev. G. Wolff, G. Daley, A. Lee, A. DiNoble, A. Mastreanni, R. Baldwin, Rev. E. Grant, W. McFadden, F. Galvin, E. Murphy A. Seidel, H. Coulson, J. Mercier. Rev. E. Grant, director. Marion Best, pianist. Katherine Corkery, violinst.

The play will be repeated tonight.

Enlisted Early

Pte. Fred Hand enlisted with the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment and was one of the first to don the uniform. For several years this man was employed by William Lewis, Percy township farmer, as a farm laborer, and he has many friends among the younger set in the Hastings district. He has been overseas for many months.

Drover Appears On Charge Theft Of Hogs

With a lrage number of farmers from the Norwood district as interested spectators the trial of Alex Leaitch, Asphodel drover, charged with taking, stealing and carrying away five hogs, the property of Leo Herr, Indian River, began before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning. This was a new charge against Lealtch, who had previously been charged with obtaining livestock from a number of farmers under false prtenses.

T. J. Carley, K.C., appeared in behalf of the accused while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Leo Herr, the first crown witness, said that Lealtch's truck had come to his place for five hogs and had taken them away. Although no special agreement had been made with Lealtch on that occasion, the witness said, the arrangement on other occasions was that Herr was to be paid the liveweight market price of the hogs and anyihing that Lealtch made from the Canada Packers on the deal was his own.

Herr swore that shortly after the hogs had been taken away he had received a cheque from Lealtch for $58.75 and when he had attempted to cash the cheque the bank had refused payment. The cheque, put in as an exhibit, was marked not sufficient funds, the witness said.

"Was that amount the full value of the hogs?" asked Mr. Carley.

Herr answered in the negative, explaining that a short time before Lealtch had sold him a fat hog on credit.

The witness said that along with the cheque from Lealtch he had received a statement showing the weight of the hogs.

S. Heard, weigher at the Canadian Packers and Gordon Marshall, member of the office staff, were called by the crown in regard to the delivery of a shipment of hogs by Lealtch at the C.P.C. plant here and the various steps in the transaction were gone into in detail.

The case will continue this afternoon.

Mayor Asked To Call Meeting Of Builders

Mayor Hamilton was requested by the council Monday night to call a meeting of contractors, real estate men and building tradesmen for the purpose of considering Peterborough's housing requirements this year.

The proposal was embodied in a resolution by Alderman Curtis, seconded by Alderman Cotton, and Mayor Hamilton said he would try to arrange for this meeting as soon as possible.

Alderman Curtis said it should be of interest to all those in the building industry to ascertain what housing activity is likely to be undertaken in Peterborough. The council is fully aware of an increasing demand for houses, and the general hope is that the prefabricated expedient may be avoided.

Sweden will push its electrification of government railways.

City Council Endorses Salvage Drive

Leadership by the council in promoting a salvage campaign in the city and its adjoining townships for war purposes, as suggested by Alderman Sullivan Monday night, was swung in behind the Ladies' War Auxiliary Council who are meeting this afternoon to organize a thorough combing for scrap materials.

Alderman Sullivan said that other communities were engaged in this form of obtaining money for war ends, and as the housecleaning season was on the threshold it could be associated with a community salvaging drive.

"The whole council will be behind it," Alderman Cotton said. "It is just a matter of who is going to take the lead," and as the Ladies' War Service Auxiliary is volunteering their capable direction, the council in a motion by Aldermen Sullivan and Dutton, endorsed the scheme and pledged their help.

Salute To Britain.

Alderman Dutton called attention to the national plans for a Salute to Britain on the ancient feast day of St. George—and Merrie England. A musical festival had been proposed but other concerts had been arranged and for that reason the general community celebration was abandoned for this year.

The city hall is to be decorated for that day, and will fly the Cross of St. George from one of the lower brackets. Mayor Hamilton is authorized to issue a proclamation appealing to the public for their co-operation in the observance of this tributary expression of esteem and homage to the people of the Old Country, and His Worship is also to send an appropriate message to the Lord Mayor of London and through him to the citizens of the other towns and cities. The motion was by Aldermen Dutton and Swanston.

A joint meeting of service clubs is proposed for that week, and other groups of the community are expected to assist in the Salute to Britain.

Three Accidents

Three accidents involving claims for damages were reported to the council last night. Mrs. Mildred A. Hubb, 192 Stewart Street, suffered a fractured wrist in a fall at Aylmer and Perry Streets; Lillian Constable, 154 Rubidge Street, is in Toronto General Hospital, suffering from a broken hip. She fell on the west side of Park Street, north of London Street, on March 20; and Irene Wilson fractured her right ankle on Alfred Street, March 10.

Thanks To Council.

A number of letters were received by the council expressing appreciation of various forms and aid and co-operation given to different organizations. One was from the Victorian Order of Nurses, "for assistance in every way and in helping us to get organized." Another letter was from W. H. Somerville, national chairman of the War Savings Committee, for providing certain advertising space. Adjutant Norman Buckley thanked the council for helping to entertain the group of cadets who recently visited the city.

MANY PERSONS

are now realizing that spinal manipulative treatments are effective in overcoming a wide variety of physical disorders. Very often people who come to us for the correction of some major ailment are delighted to find that minor troubles are also relieved.

This is because the spine has a controlling influence on the whole nervous system and spinal manipulation aids in promoting a general building-up of all the tissues of the body.

When your nervous system functions normally and you live in harmony with nature's laws you have a fair chance to be healthy.

Douglas gave an interesting account of the different means of making money and carrying out war work as discussed at the recent Toronto conference. It was decided to hold a card party April 30 at the home of the president, Mrs. J. Douglas, Young Street. Mrs. E. Jones, 48 Morrow Street, is to be hostess for the May meeting. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Hospital Penny Sale Is To Open on May 10

The annual Penny Sale of the Nicholls Hospital Women's Auxiliary is to open May 10, with the final draw to take place June second, it was announced Monday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Auxiliary in St. Andrew's Church Sunday School Hall. A splendid array of prizes is being arranged, with a special draw to be made each Saturday night. Mrs. V. M. Eastwood presided at the meeting, and a welcome was extended to the group by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young.

Due to almost continuous warfare throughout the past 2,000 years, most research work seems to have been concentrated on implements of war and other destructive equipment, Dr. D. K. Magee, guest speaker, stated during an address in which he outlined some of the problems of civilian defence. He described the various types of bombs, their effect, and the method of protection used against them.

Dr. Magee referred to the use of surface shelters and refuge rooms, and how they are built. The various types of gases were enumerated, chlorine, which acts as a lung irritant; tear gas, which has no permanent effect; sneezing gas, a nose irritant, and the most dangerous of all, mustard gas, a liquid which blisters and burns wherever it touches. Exhibited were gas masks used by civilians, and the more comfortable ones, equipped with air valves, which are issued to military men. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Ford Turner.

An average of eighty-six patients a day was reported by the hospital superintendent, Mrs. E. M. Leeson. Mrs. R. Ross stated that 416 hospital visits had been made since last November; Mrs. J. Detcher, sewing committee convener, reported 1500 articles out and 1130 returned. 2300 Members for Peterborough and district were reported by Mrs. S. J. Graham, with the life membership standing at 61.

"The Call of The Kawarthas' Is To Be Presented

The sum of $648.31 has been the total of donations made so far to the British War Victims' Fund by the Women's Auxiliary to the War Service Council. At a meeting held in the Board Room of the City Buildings Monday night, with Mrs. R. J. Kearns in the chair, plans were made for the presentation of Mr. F. L. Roy's pictures, "The Call of the Kawarthas" on April 25, with entire proceeds to be used by the auxiliary for direct war work. The Board of Education has offered the free use of the Collegiate Auditorium for this effort, Mr. Roy is donating his pictures and services, and Mr. H. L. Garner is arranging publicity. Mrs. Geo. Benton, Jr., of 762 Water street, is convener of tickets, and each women's organization is expected to take as many tickets as can be handled.

Twenty-five dollars has been raised to date through the organization for the Mary and Dorothy Spitfire Fund, of which Mr. D. B. Falkner is treasurer. The sewing committee has completed 22 quilts for use in underground shelters, and 200 pairs of children's felt slippers. Following the approaching Salvage Campaign, a contribution is to be sent direct to Lady Craig of Peterborough, England, who has made an appeal for assistance in the care of the families of soldiers and sailors there.

Women's War Work Increases

Nearly one million articles have been contributed in the last three months by women of Ontario to the comfort of Canadian men in the forces, to women in Britain's voluntary services, and to air-raid victims and refugees in England. This was announced at an executive meeting of Ontario Division, Canadian Red Cross Society, at which the president, Mrs. Wallace Campbell, presided.

Woollen comforts for soldiers, sailors and airmen, and hospital supplies totalled 595,032 articles. This included 191,126 pairs socks, 29,930 sweaters, 34,762 scarfs, 62,524 mitts and gloves, 29,339 gauze handkerchiefs, 15,740 pyjamas. For the women in voluntary services overseas were turned out 9,279 comforts, of which helmets, underwear, stockings, cardigans, gloves, figured largely. Clothing for air-raid victims totalled 314,441 garments. This included 18,130 quilts, which were made from scrap materials and cost almost nothing to assemble.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

After the formal opening of the Queen Mary Home and School Association meeting Monday night, Mrs. L. H. Ingram, president, gave the chair to Mr. C. E. Wagar for the annual Fathers' Night program. The guest speaker, Mr. W. R. Philp, was introduced by Mr. O. M. Steer, and chose as his topic, "Observations in Latin America," where the educational system turns out scores of lawyers, priests and poets, but, alas, nothing so practical as an engineer! "Perhaps as a consequence," Mr. Philp suggested, "the difficult business of building railroads and transportation facilities in this country has been sadly neglected."

The mixture of native Indian element with the negro, upon which background is super-imposed the classical culture of old Spain, gives us the rarity which is the Latin-American citizen. Their social laws are unaffected by American influence. In fact, Spanish culture gives them a rigidity which to their northern neighbors almost borders on the ridiculous. A business man cannot have a girl stenographer, and if a young man desires to take a female acquaintance to the theatre, he finds himself faced with the necessity of escorting the entire family. A gentleman never, under any circumstances, affronts a lady by removing his coat in her presence.

Much time and effort is given to the study of music and poetry, while such an essential as ordinary sanitation is almost entirely overlooked. Seventy-five per cent of the population of the peon is peasant class. These people are practically immune to salesmanship as we know it, for, while they profess to admire very passively, of course, the article in question, they have no desire whatsoever to own it, and little or no curiosity concerning things strange to them.

The Germans have penetrated deeply into the South American life. Airlines have been developed by them, and their boats are superior to any in operation there. While the citizens of other countries, there temporarily, are anxious to do what has to be done and be off home, the German chooses a comfortable location and there settles himself, with every appearance of permanence, into the life about him, always maintaining, however, his own characteristics and loyalties. Because of the dense ignorance of the majority of the population, Mr. Philp considers them fertile soil for Nazi propaganda and leadership.

Mrs. T. J. Carley's summary of events in the war zone was comprehensive and interesting. Mr. W. N. Gordon, with Mrs. H. V. Dobson at the piano, entertained with two old favorite songs, "Oft in the Stilly Night" and "The Ministrel Boy". Several numbers by the school orchestra, led by Mr. J. Telford, delighted the audience. These young people have responded earnestly to the work of their leader in the past year, and are conducting themselves in a manner which would do credit to older and more experienced musicians. A cornet solo, "Land of Hope and Glory" by Dickie Crowe, a member of the orchestra, was much enjoyed.

The baby layettes, completed by members of the association, their friends, and children of the school, were on display previous to being sent to England. The receipt from Mr. Steer of $22.10, proceeds of the last paper collection, was acknowledged. The convention of the Ontario Educational Association in Toronto was announced for the 15, 16 and 17 of April, and all who could were asked to attend, as these conventions are for the purpose of presenting ideas helpful to the conducting of Home and School Association work.

Fathers were privileged in the banner count, their presence conceding the room to which their children belonged two votes instead of one. Miss I. Madill's class carried off the Junior and Miss M. Stenton's the Senior banner. Gratitude was expressed by Mr. C. J. Crawford to the guest speaker, Mrs. Carley, and the entertainers.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

An interesting paper entitled "What a Good Home is Like," was read by Mrs. G. R. Penhall at the King Edward Home and School Association meeting Monday evening. Pictures and maps of the new area of war in Yugoslavia were shown and a commentary on current events given by Mr. D. Crawford.

Accompanied by Mrs. C. Renaud, Mrs. L. Groombridge sang two pleasing numbers, and violin selections were rendered by Mr. Jack Harris, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Wallace.

A nominations committee was appointed, with Mrs. E. Cook, convener, to be assisted by Mrs. W. Stanbury and Mrs. A. Beggs. Items on the program for Thursday of the Home and School Conference in Toronto were read by the president, Mrs. E. Chambers, and it is hoped that several members will attend.

Letters were read from the Federation expressing grateful thanks for the splendid response to the call for baby layettes. Miss C. Adam's class and Mr. D. Crawford's class will share the attendance banner next month. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

Religious education was the theme carried out at the Home and School meeting in the Kindergarten Room of the Queen Alexandra School Monday evening. A sing-song consisting of familiar hymns, with Mrs. D. R. Morrow at the piano, and Mrs. E. G. Wellwood directing, opened the program. Rev. H. L. Roberts, pastor of George Street United Church, was guest speaker, and chose as his subject "Character Building." His message, inspired by the text, "He shall grow as the Lily," was thoughtful and informative, urging all parents to guide the character of the child in the channels of purity, depth, breadth, beauty of mind and soul, and usefulness.

The singing of "O Canada," followed with prayer by the president, Mrs. C. C. Doughty, and The Lord's Prayer, opened the business meeting. Reports from the standing committees were heard, and it was decided that the president would represent the association at the Home and School Convention in Toronto April 16 to 18. Mr. E. R. Frost's room won the prize for attendance of mothers and fathers.

A handsome quilt, made for the Red Cross by the girls of Miss E. Eagleson's room, was on display.

A highlight of the program was a chorus of the girls and boys of Mr. E. R. Frost's room, including also some pupils from Central School. It was a splendid exhibition of what has been accomplished by the singing instruction of public school pupils. The pupils sang beautifully four three-part songs unaccompanied, and two choruses, closing with the new number, "There is an Empire Back of the Union Jack." Eleven of the pupils taking part are those who will represent Central and Queen Alexandra School at the convention. They were presented to the audience by Mr. E. R. Frost, and conducted by Miss Musa Cox, music instructor, who also accompanied them. The National Anthem closed the program.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Bee refuses to give up, dispite the hard work at Huntington's. Her first pay check—the first money she has ever earned—is adequate reward. She pays more attention to Mr. Bradley, who hopes to work up in the business. Toby says he has no time for girls, suggests Bee try to get a date with him.

QUARREL WITH MR. BRADLEY

CHAPTER XII

Beatrice felt her heart thump, astonishingly. A date with Mr. Bradley! "The idea is ridiculous!" she snapped.

Yet, the next morning she found herself witching him. He listened with courteous attention as an indignant customer poured out her wrath. He listened with the same politeness while Miss Dane waved her blood-red nails under his nose, laying down the law.

He was quite different Miss Miss Getz, though. Not quite deferential, but not merely polite, either. Gentle, that was it. The old silly, why did she shake as he surveyed the department? It was his job to keep everything up to scratch. He certainly wasn't spying on her, or even thinking about the fact that she wasn't as fast and busy as the other girls.

This morning, under the usual gardenia in his buttonhole, he wore a black and white badge with a crimson ribbon.

"SCOTCH SALE" proclaimed the letters on the badge.

Beatrice's lips quirked. There were banners all over the basement in celebration of Scotch Sales, but this badge was too much.

"Miss Davis," he called.

"Yes, sir?"

"You're not wearing a Scotch Sale badge."

"Oh, was I supposed to?"

His throat, above his immaculate white collar, grew brick red. As if he guessed she'd been laughing at him.

"You will find a badge at the wrapping desk." He added, coldly, "Perhaps the badge will help customers to distinguish you as a salesperson. I saw two customers walk right past you with dresses over their arms."

"I—I thought Miss Getz was taking care of them," she said softly. She had deliberately turned them over to Getzie, that's what she'd done.

Mr. Bradley had the grace to look less severe. A salesgirl at the other end of the department raised an arm, signaling for him and he left her.

A harried, perspiring matron, herding a sulky, 16-year-old girl before her, claimed Beatrice's attention. "Have you something suitable for a formal dance, miss? She wants an evening gown, but I think some kind of dress she might be able to wear on Sundays afterwards—"

Beatrice had written seven more sales slips, and waited on two women who had promised to come back after they looked about some more, when Mr. Bradley stopped her as she started for lunch. "I see you never bothered about the badge, Miss Davis."

"Oh!" She had genuinely forgotten the stupid badge. "I've been so busy. Anyway, it can't mean much, one way or the other. The customers seem to know there's a sale on, and I've done very well without a badge."

Mr. Bradley's brown eyes snapped, and his big hand gripped the edge of the wrapping desk. "Are you trying to make a fool of me?" he asked angrily.

"Well, really, Mr. rBadley!" She was honestly astonished. "I don't understand you. Just because I forgot to get one of those silly badges . . . "

She was suddenly angry. Everyone around her with the slightest scrap of authority seemed positively determined to exercise it, insultingly, on her! "As for trying to make a fool of you . . . don't you manage rather well by yourself?"

Painful red flooded into the man's lean face. He opened his mouth. The brown eyes took in the heightened color of Beatrice's cheeks, the snapping eyes, and suddenly Mr. Bradley closed his mouth again, without saying anything.

"You're all riding me!" Beatrice cried. "Just because I don't talk the way the other girls do! Just because I know something about style and fashion and try to help these blundering idiots who come in here rigged up like caricatures!"

Mr. Bradley's expression changed.

Beatrice said quickly, "Excuse me for saying that about being a fool . . . I didn't mean it. It's just that I've taken so many gratuitous insults from so many people around here lately, and haven't been allowed to retort even once. I'm not accustomed to this Spartan self-control." Her smile flashed. "Will you forgive me?"

Mr. Bradley said quietly, "Forget it. I couldn't fire you if I wanted to, if that's what you're thinking. My authority is extremely limited. So limited it is non-existent. And like you, Miss Davis, I'm not accustomed to Sparton self-control either."

Miss Dane's rheumy eye spied them. She hurried over, her tight black dress straining at the seams, her blood-red nails startling against the pearls she pulled on nervously. "Aren't you going to lunch, Miss Davis? Don't hold us up!"

Beatrice looked at Mr. Bradley and he looked back at her. Then she went to get her handbag.

At the elevator, he was waiting. "It's my time to eat, too. Do you mind if I—if I lunch with you?"

"I'd love it."

All at once, the feud was over. Yet, in the cafeteria, he leaned across the table and said, "I've had the feeling, ever since you came, that you've been laughing at me. Why?"

"I haven't been." But she had been amused.

"I know I look a clown in that department full of women! But I'm learning a business. I'm starting a career. If they told me to sweep up the floor, I'd grit my teeth and do it."

"I didn't know that was the way department store executives started."

"It's supposed to be the best way. The man I room with rides me about it. He kids the gardenia, and every time someone calls at our place he bows, 'This way, moddom.' If I even start hunting for a shirt, he's right there with, 'Underwear in the second aisle to your left.'"

"You shouldn't pay any attention to him! It makes you self-conscious. That's probably why you thought I was laughing at you, too. But I wasn't. I've been busy learning my job. It's all new to me. I've concentrated on making that quota. And I thought I was doing fine when you bawled me out for advising the customers. . . . "

He played with a fork. "Miss Dane's orders."

"She doesn't know as much as she thinks she does! Times have changed since she started. I'm sure what I was trying to do is much better than selling a customer any dress, just to sell it. And it's my dream to prove I'm right."

"It's my dream to get out from under her thumb," he said. "In a couple of months, I ought to be way out. I—I'm studying merchandising at night, in a school of business administration."

"How wonderful! But aren't you dog tired at the end of the day?"

He grinned. "I almost explode with stifled yawns." Then he asked, "How did you ever get into Huntington's? You're so different from the other girls. I mean—just as you said when you were angry with me—you talk differently, you've been—well, differently educated . . . "

"So have you, haven't you?"

"I used to think I'd be an architect," he admitted. "An old friend of the family wanted to see me through, but I couldn't let him support me indefinitely until I established myself. And an architect doesn't become established overnight.

"Besides, I figured it out that store merchandising and management has structure and form to it, too. I—I can't explain exactly. But it takes the same kind of mind. You plan for effects, results. You're building. Of course it's not so tangible, and maybe I'm crazy . . . "

"You're not crazy!" She looked around the crowded room where salesgirls, wrappers, stock girls, shipping clerks, markers, and alteration hands were eating their lunches.

"Most of the people who work for a store like this seem to have drifted into it. They're not career people, they don't bring superior minds and any enthusiasm or even interest to the job. Oh, I'm not blaming them, most of them never had a chance. But, Mr. Bradley, if you see it the way an architect sees the vision of a house that hasn't even been started yet—if you're really so absorbed and sincere that you're going to school at night after a hard day here—why, I think nothing can stop you from coming out on top!" She was breathless, carried away. "You could be general superintendent, some day!"

"I don't think Mr. Bruce Sheldrake need do any overtime worrying," he smiled. "But if you think I'm a ball of fire, you're the first girl who ever did. And that's heartening."

"Lots of girls must have l-liked you . . . " She dropped her eyes. Suddenly she caught sight of her wristwatch. "Mercy, I've got to run!"

"There's not much time for mutual understanding in Huntington's, is there?" he asked ruefully. "I haven't a class tonight. Could I come around and call for you after dinner? We could go into this ball of fire stuff more thoroughly."

SMART NEW CAPES

By ALICE ALDEN

THE CAPE is very much back in the style scene this Spring. In keeping with the military mode, it is cited by nearly every designer for signal honors. But it is the very long or full length cape that is clicking, rather than the short or shoulder cape. Charles James, brilliant young American designer, favors the cape costume. Here is one of his new creations, rich in color and line. The cape is of fine wool in a deep garnet red, almost an American beauty shade. The simple crepe dress designed on sculptured lines, is in pure white, and pure white crepe lines the cape. A jewelled ornament picks up the glowing color of the cape.

WE . . . NOTICED

....That Easter suits and frocks were hidden under warm winter coats, and trim slippers were encased in motor boots for the Easter parade last year, when this happy day was celebrated on March 24, the earliest date on which Easter has or will fall for many, many years.

....Balmy Spring days are already arriving for colorful parade this year, and it looks as if the opportunity will be afforded those who desire to sport gay ensembles to gratify the wish.

....It is little wonder that everyone feels the need of a change at this particular season of the year after months of winter which can become more depressing with each passing week. It is the season of the year when nature dons her most alluring colors, and the awakening of all things begins within the earth.

"Miss Babes" Agree To Settlement

DOROTHY M. WILLET — DOROTHY OLIVE NEWMAN — EDITH COLLINS STEWART

Three "Miss Babes" and a church agreed to settle with the testator's relatives the disputed will of William J. Wright, eccentric Toronto plumber, by sharing the Wright estate. The will named as chief benefactress a "Miss Babe" who Wright saw on a burlesque stage in Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1918. At that time "Miss Babe" was five years old. The will provided that if she could not be traced, the $12,251 involved would go to a Toronto church. Three women were claiming to be the "Miss Babe" in question and the settlement was made to prevent costly court litigation from dissipating the estate.

Collapse Of Social Structure Is Followed By "New Orders"

"The spread of Nazi rule into other countries is as inevitable as the spread of cancer unless you cut it out," declared Rabbi Samuel Sachs of Toronto in an address on "The Issue of the Present Hour," before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon Monday. "It is a process that feeds incessantly and must eventually accomplish self-destruction," Rabbi Sachs said.

The speaker, who was introduced to the club by Rotarian R. J. Goring, said in beginning, that whenever the social structure collapsed there was always an immediate attempt made to building up a new social structure. Thus in Russia the Communists had established a new order of economic security based on dictatorship, force and violence and revolution. This was followed by the advent of Fascism in Italy and Nazism in Germany which had at first been regarded as a deliberate endeavor to save the same old regime on behalf of big business, but was now known to be a new order as revolutionary in character as anything seen in Russia.

State Is Supreme

Under Nazism, the speaker said, the state was supreme. The state absorbed the whole body of society. Nothing was allowed to exist apart from the state. Trades unions, fraternal societies, co-operative societeis, merchants' societies and everything of that nature had been ruthlessly destroyed.

Rabbi Sachs dealt with the German doctrine of the supremacy of the Aryan race, pointing out that the new generation of Germans had been brought up to believe completely in the idea that Germans were a superior race and all other peoples merely worms to be crushed under foot at will. The whole Nazi doctrine, he said, was a doctrine of hate.

Hitler's Fifth Column

"We Jews," said the speaker, "have for years tried to convince the world that anti-Semitism was Hitler's fifth column, but until recently we were not believed. Now it is realized that anti-Semitism was used to open the breach and open the way for the spread of Nazism."

The speaker said, that having shown what were were fighting against, he proposed to show what we are fighting for. Democracy, he said, meant that the individual was supreme, that in the final analysis the individual owned everything. The people of the British Empire, he said, were willing to sacrifice everything, even their security, to preserve their liberty. The doctrine of democracy was love thy neighbor.

The issue today was a struggle between love and hate, between liberty and totalitarianism, between the freedom of the individual and the supremacy of the state.

Only Worthy Cause Held

"It is because of the worthiness of our cause that we have been able to endure during the past year and a half," Rabbi Sachs said. "We were unprepared from a military viewpoint, and only a worthy cause could have held on."

In conclusion, he predicted that perhaps sooner than we expected the German system would collapse.

Rotarian Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Rotarian James Dutton said that a movement was on foot, inspired from Ottawa, to have St. George's Day, April 23, fittingly recognized. The tentative program included special services in churches and a day of prayer for peace and victory and he urged that the service clubs of the city get together on April 23 and hold a dinner to commemorate the anniversary of England's patron saint.

The matter was referred to the Social Service Club Council of which Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin is chairman.

One Killed As Explosion Levels Toronto Seed Plant

One man was killed and two suffered injuries in a terrific explosion which rocked houses, damaged nearby buildings and completely demolished a Toronto seed-cleaning plant, in one of the worst blasts in the city's history. Dust accumulation in the air was blamed by investigators after a quick study of the wrecked building. Firemen are shown here pouring water on the wreckage and working to clear away the debris. At TOP LEFT is one of the injured men, his face cut by flying wreckage. Damage will amount to $25,000 or more.

Canuck Cruiser Scares Huns Into Scuttling

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP). — Navy Minister Angus L. Macdonald said yesterday that a Canadian armed merchant cruiser had intercepted two German ships, the Hermonthis and the Muenchen, in South American waters and the enemy vessels had been scuttled by their own crews.

He made the disclosure in an address to the Canadian Club of Toronto, but did not name the ships. Later he confirmed a despatch from Lima, Peru, in which the Hermonthis, a 4,833-ton merchantman, and the Muenchen, a vessel of 5,619 tons, were reported to have been scuttled when intercepted by the Canadian auxiliary cruiser Prince Henry five days ago.

In his address he said the cruiser had intercepted the ships in the Pacific Ocean and these ships, "in the good German way, scuttled themselves."

He said the Germans had set their ships afire and when the Canadian crew were unable to extinguish the fires, the vessels were sunk. "They are now lying at the bottom of the Pacific. While they are no good to us, they are no good to Germany either."

Dodged Peruvians

The Lima dispatch said that the two enemy merchantmen had sailed without papers from Callao the night of March 31 and evaded Peruvian warships sent to intercept them. The crew of the Muenchen had landed at two Peruvian ports last Thursday and reported they had taken to the lifeboats after scuttling their vessel. They said it was likely the crew of the Hermonthis were taken aboard the Prince Henry.

Mr. MacDonald gave no further details of the encounter in his address beyond saying that one of the enemy vessels was of 4,800 tons and the other about 5,000 tons.

He made the disclosure as he told of the far-flung activities of Canadian ships and men. "There is not a sea in the world where Canadian ships or sailors are not seen. The sailors are either in Canadian ships or attached to British ships."

He declared that he thought one of the things Canada should do at the present time is to undertake the building of destroyers. It had been said, he recalled, that the need for cargo ships was greater at the moment. "But cargo ships are of very little use today unless they are escorted," he said.

"We have got to have cargo ships but we have got to have destroyers and escort ships to guard them."

A Naval College

The other thing which he said Canada should undertake was the establishment of a Naval college. He expressed the opinion that such an institution is "absolutely essential to this country." It would be a means of training young Canadians who wished to devote themselves to the navy and perhaps men with a career in the merchant service in view could be trained there.

In his address Mr. Macdonald traced the development and growth of the Canadian Navy from 1909, which he said was the year that marked "the real beginning of a Canadian naval policy," to the present time when the navy consists of 17,000 officers and men and 197 ships.

In 1910 the Naval Bill was passed and the organization of the Navy began under the Department of Marine. Present plans, he said, call for a Navy of 27,000 officers and men by March 31, 1942, and by then we hope to have 400 ships in the service of Canada."

The Navy had grown 10-fold since the outbreak of war when 1,774 officers and men were on active service and Canada has six destroyers and seven smaller ships.

One of the important duties of the Canadian Navy was that of assisting in the convoying of merchant vessels from this country across the Atlantic to Britain. Since the outbreak of war, he said, 4,500 ships with a total of 27,000,000 tons had left these shores "and the number of losses considering the hazards from submarines, surface-raiders and airplanes has been surprisingly small."

Mr. Macdonald said Ontario had given more men to the Canadian Navy than any other province. Nova Scotia stood next. He described the response from the Prairie provinces as "very significant."

Germans Forced To Gamble In New Putsch

(By EDWARD E. BOMAR.)

WASHINGTON, April 8—(AP). — At the start of the tremendous war drama in the Balkans, an initial series of military triumphs for the German military machine and tragic battering of Yugoslavia and probably Greece appear all but inevitable.

Far from inevitable, however, is it that such victories as the early capture of Belgrade and overrunning of the Yugoslav's richest areas will be followed by the smashing of all obstacles to the Nazi drive to the east.

Only the verdict of fateful battles to the south, at or near the Greek frontiers, can decide whether Hitler's generals, against mounting difficulties, can match in the Balkans the quick victories won in the Low Countries and in France last year.

They are forced by necessity to try to execute in a hurry Hitler's injunction to smash the dangerous new British-Greek-Serb alliance and drive the British forces from Southeast Europe. With United States aid increasing steadily though slowly, time is no ally of the Nazis.

Amid the confusion of the fast-moving developments attending the war's latest turn, several considerations stand out prominently.

Second Front Established

Britain against odds has won a gamble in establishing a new major front to menace the Axis, has enlisted a doughty new foe against the Nazis, and has forced easing of punishing pressure against the British Isles.

The German Army, too, has been forced now to gamble. Supply lines are long and inadequate for the big force in Bulgaria, and are exposed to attack and sabotage.

Germany is faced with the necessity of a quick decision to avoid the alternative of a long struggle with its perils that Turkey and even Russia might join her foes.

Battered Italy is obviously in danger of being forced entirely out of Albania by a combined Greek and Yugoslav onslaught.

Watch Move in Libya

These are among the answers to the contention advanced in Berlin that Britain has been forced to overextend dangerously her war effort, and the boast that Salonika is destined to be another disastrous Dunkirk.

The other side of the picture is that Hitler has undertaken an all-out attempt to regain the initiative, and that the Balkan campaign is only the major part of an attempt to wrest control of the entire Mediterranean from Britain and to win the war this year.

Neutral military men are watching with interest the unfolding of the obscure Nazi campaign in Libya, suspecting that it may develop into an attempt to close the Mediterranean at Gibraltar from the south — with or without the aid of the idle French Army in Morocco.

Geography Against Hitler

Even more than in the Balkans, hazards are involved for the Axis in North Africa, however, since arms and supplies must run the gauntlet of Britain's naval dominance of the Mediterranean.

In the Balkans, the meagre first reports indicate that the German drive will follow the first Great War pattern, as hinted in advance by troop dispositions. Military geography demands that the main blow be aimed toward Salonika and involve an attempt to win control of Yugoslavia's Vardar River gateway to the Aegean Sea as well as the lesser Struma River line from Bulgaria.

Geography is on the side of Hitler's foes, but the anti-Axis armies face a bitter struggle to prevent a break-through.

The outcome depends as much on the outnumbered Royal Air Force and slender British supply lines across the Mediterranean as on the valor and determination of the embattled Greeks, Serbs and the British Expeditionary Force.

Town Hall Park Suggestion Is Frowned On

CAMPBELLFFORD, April 8. (ENS) —Councillor Anderson's suggestion of the town using vacant lots for the purpose of a ball park, met with little response at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Council Monday evening. Councillor Anderson stated that $150 would put these lots in shape for a good ball park also for an outdoor skating rink for the kiddies in the winter, as it is we are now paying H. C. Davidson $200 per winter for the use of his arena for the Public School children and have nothing to show for it, stated Councillor Anderson, whereas for a smaller expenditure we could have something permanent.

A representative from the Peterboroug Examiner and Evening Telegram addressed the council regarding tourist and industrial advertising in their repective papers, after much discussion it was decided to leave this matter in the hands of the industrial committee to report back at the next special meeting of council.

Mr. Gerald Hay requested the council to again grant him a license to operate his dance hall. Upon motion of council the treasurer was requested to issue Mr. Hay his license.

Mr. Bain from A. E. Wilson & Co. appeared before council soliciting a renewal of their liability insurance, which was again renewed through the local agent, Mr. J. P. Archer.

The clerk read a letter from the secretary of the Ministerial Association, which stated a resolution was passed that the association was being left out of social functions re farewell to soldiers much discussion centred around this letter and it was explained that when the mayor asked through the press a few weeks ago for volunteer cars to bring the boys home from Belleville only two of the local clergy offered their cars, the Rev. Father McAuley and Adjutant Graham, the same two Reverend gentlemen offering their cars to take the boys back to Belleville after the expiration of their furlough, therefore it was felt the council had not shown any disrespect to the Ministerial Association and their resolution was laid on the table.

A representative of the McCaskey systems was present for the purpose of selling the corporation a suitable safe for the safe guarding of the treasurer's books and documents, the council placed an order for the safe.

Mayor Long had the clerk read a reply to a letter he had written to Mr. H. N. Carr, M.P.P. regarding the paving of Number 30 Highway Mr. Carr stating in his letter to the mayor that he was keeping in with the Minister of Highways and if any new road work was being done the Brighton road would receive consideration.

Assessor H. Townsend addressed the council regarding the purchasing of dog tags by soldiers on active service. Mayor Long stating that in his opinion it was only fair that all soldiers on active service owning dogs should be granted a free license.

A request from Mrs. Kenny, through Mr. R. N. Morrison asking for a sewer to her proptry on Raglan was left in the hands of the egal committee to be reported back at the next council meeting.

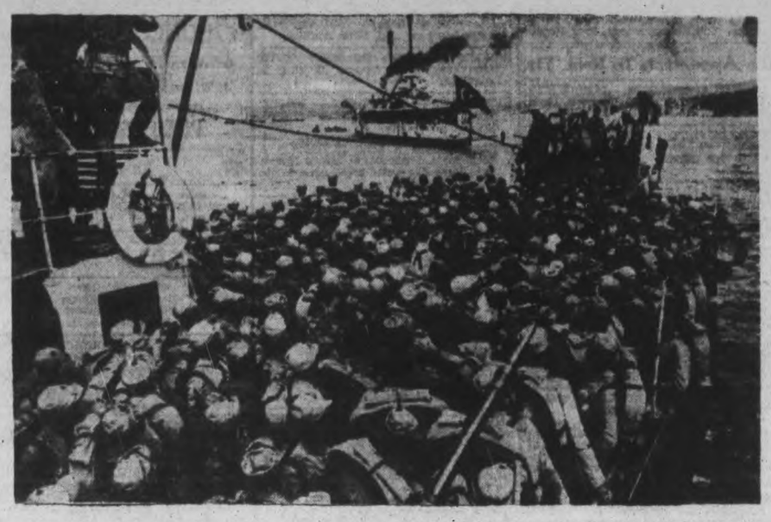
Turkish Troops Man Bulgarian Border



Turkey called thousands of new troops to the colors and speeded military preparations. Men of the classes of 1910 and 1911 streamed out of Istanbul to join their military units. They numbered about 350,000. It was estimated possibly 150,000 are eligible and fit for immediate duty. Elaborate anti-aircraft exercises were ordered for the Istanbul area during the next two weeks.

BORN

HAIG.—At Nicholls Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Haig (nee Irene Drummond), 207 Stewart a son.

DIED

WARDLE, Miss Amelia.—On April 7, 1941, at the home of her nephew, Bertram Wardle, 211 Dalhousie st., Amelia Wardle, daughter of the late Richard Wardle and Susanah Yarwood, of Manchester, England; in her 80th year. Funeral service on Wednesday, April 9, at 2.30 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street; Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church officiating. Interment, Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

WATKINS.—In loving memory of my dear father, Joe Watkins, who passed away April 8, 1935.
For many years he bore his pain,
Waiting for the cure that never came;
Till God at last thought it best
To take him home with Him to rest.
You left behind some aching hearts
That loved you most sincere.
That never did and never will Forget you, father dear.
—Ever remembered by his son Bill, and Family.

PANTER.—In loving memory of my dear little grandson, Gerald, who was drowned five years ago today:
To think we could not say good-bye
Will always bring regret,
But the ones who loved you dearly
Are the ones who don't forget.
—Ever remembered by Grandma and Grandpa Panter.

PANTER.—In loving memory of our son, Gerald Franklin Panter, who was drowned five years ago today, April 8, 1936.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered by his loving Mother, Father, and sister June.

WATKINS.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joe Watkins, who passed away six years ago today, April 8, 1935.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green, and never fade away.
—Ever fondly remembered by Wife and family.

CHECK YOUR SCREENS NOW!
Flies and mosquitoes will be swarming into your home before long. Are you adequately protected?
Check your Screens now and make sure there will be no last-minute repairs or replacements to cause trouble later. They probably need repairs others need to be replaced ... and couldn't you use a few more for windows that were kept closed previously?
We have Screens ready to install in almost every standard shape or size of window ... and can make new ones to fit odd shapes and sizes. Call us to-day about your Screens.

REPAIRS AND REMODELING ARE EASY AND INEXPENSIVE
Look at your Home through your neighbor's eyes. Is it modern or attractive—or it is a white elephant? If your home is old and out of style, but sound structurally, it can be easily and quickly modernized. Financing can be arranged through your Bank or our Bank to spread the payment of the cost over a period up to two years, at a low rate of interest. Call us for additional information.
H. R. SCOTT LIMITED
George at Rink Street. Telephone 4638

ARE YOU PLANNING A NEW HOME?
Come right in and see us to-day—we have all the tools for home planning you'll need. We have PLANS, FINANCING INFORMATION, IDEAS, SUGGESTIONS—and good contractor references. Interest on home mortgages is low—maybe the lowest it will be during your life time. Under the National Housing Act all you need to have as a down payment is 20 per cent. of the value of the house and lot — the 20 per cent. would include the value of the lot. So why wait? Call us to-day for additional information.

PLANNING TO BUILD A SUMMER COTTAGE?
There are a good many question marks in the minds of most folks who plan to build a Summer Cottage. Our job is to eliminate these marks.
This means without obligation to purchase, you are free to consult us at any time.
We like to think of our establishment as a building headquarters, the services of which are open to the people of this community. You are free to consult us at any time without obligation or embarrassment.
Don't hesitate to do so.

DON'T WAIT FOR APRIL SHOWERS TO TEST THE ROOF
Your roof might have been perfectly sound last Fall, but has it sprung any leaks since then? When April showers drench the countryside you will know ....by telltale stains on walls and ceilings....but this is a very expensive manner of testing a roof.
Repairs, or putting a new roof right over the old one, are reasonably priced.
Let us check your roof now, and fix it if it needs repairs.
Inspection and estimates are free from cost and obligation.

With the Boy Scouts

this week, weather permitting, there will be a pack hike. All cubs will meet outside the Sunday school at 1.30 sharp, bring a lunch along with you.

Cubs are reminded of the hobby show, and sixers, don't forget your special work for the hobby show beside your other articles already in the making.

Sixers, please meet Baloo at the corner of Brock and George streets on Tuesday evening, April 8, at 8 p.m. sharp.

The Crew.—A meeting of St. John's crew was held on Tuesday; six members being present. Alex Chivas, one of the original members was back again.

Arrangements for the rover social being held on Tuesday, April 22, were discussed. Tickets are now being distributed.

Another Leader Goes

Scouter Charlie Jefferries has left Peterborough to take up work in Hamilton, and his leaving makes a gap in the old faces of scouting around Peterborough. We surely wish him Godspeed in his new undertaking. Charles started scouting at Havelock some years ago. Coming to Peterborough he was attached to St. John's troop and was one of the young men who 2first formed the St. John's Rover crew.

When a group of gentlemen decided to start a group of scouts up in the north-end, Alex Chivas and Charles Jefferries were chosen to lead the group.

Last year Scouter Chivas went to Belleville, and Scouter Jefferries carried on last Friday night. Mr. Chivas took charge of the group again as a temporary measure.

Scouter Jefferries was known as Judge to his many friends. Our loss is Hamilton's gain.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, April 9

Excellent opportunity for a productive and progressive state of affairs is read from interesting astral figures. The influence is distinctly expansive and warming, with every prospect of placing the interests on a solid and enduring basis. Industry and fidelity may expect happy rewards, finances should be stabilized and all sorts of possession, investments and securities should thrive.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of much progress, achievement and enduring growth and expansion. This success and gratification reaches all department of life. Possessions increase, work wins due rewards, possibly of a public nature, and litigation and finances may respond to expansive influences.

A child born on this day should be truthworthy, diligent, solid and ambitious, with many faculties for attaining a fruitful and pleasant life.

Exercise Ends Bulges That Give an Old Look

Middle Age Starts at Middle

That discouraging matronly bulge at the waist! You push it in, girdle it in, but out it pops—unless you exercise it away!

Middle age begins at the middle. Abdominal muscles may get slack as early as twenty-five, and when they do, it means a thickening waist, drooping shoulders, a forward head and then—a "dowager's hump." You'll be looking old while still young.

So harden your abdominal muscles, be slim-waisted, erect, young! This exercise gets happy results if you do it faithfully every day:

1. Lie on black, arms at sides, knees bent, feet flat on mat.
2. Lift hips upward and pull in abdominal muscles hard, at the same time raising arms overhead.
3. Return to position. Repeat 5 times and rest; another 5 times and rest.

Or is your special problem fatty hips or heavy legs or a drooping bust?

Our 32-page booklet has exercises to remedy those figure faults, too. Tells how to correct poor posture, faults of shoulders, bust, arms, waistline. Gives exercises to relieve foot troubles, constipation, nervous tension, also a daily routine for the entire body.

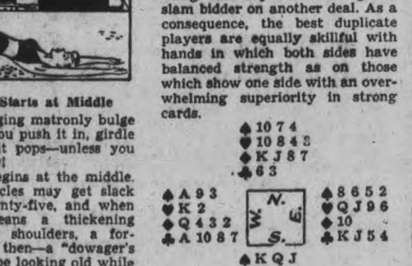
Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of COSTUME JEWELRY YOU CAN EASILY MAKE to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

LITTLE HANDS ARE BIG

ONE OF the greatest attractions of match point duplicate to its devotees is the fact that there are no "little" or "unimportant" hands. In this style of play, your points depend upon whether you do better or worse than other pairs with exactly the same cards. You can get just as fine a top score, in match points, by scoring 140 points on a deal which nets the others 110, as you can by being the only successful grand slam bidder on another deal. As a consequence, the best duplicate players are equally skillful with hands in which both sides have balanced strength as on those which show one side with an overwhelming superiority in strong cards.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	Dbl

When everybody passed that low bid, play began on one of the kind of deals that usually settles match point tournaments, because there are so many such hands. With no response from his partner, West decided the best thing to do was to try to beat the diamond bid by the defense indicated from the bidding. Considering North pleased with the diamonds, but weak in general, he counted on the declarer as probably trying to ruff out one or more losers. So he led his diamond 2.

South expected from this that East would have the Q, as underlead of such a guarded honor by West might cost a trick. So he ducked in dummy, East of course put on the 10, and he won it with his A. To confuse the issue, he now led the spade K, followed by the Q, which West won with the A.

West then made the crucial lead, his diamond 3. South was sure now, after study, that East had the Q, probably doubleton, so tried to drop it by coming up with the K in dummy. That made it a sad story. As soon as he lost a trick then to West, the latter cashed the diamond Q and led his fourth diamond. That kept South from any ruffing at all, so he had to lose all told three tricks in clubs, two in hearts, one in diamonds and one in spades, seven in all, setting him two tricks and giving his opponents 200 points, a clear top on a deal which could not possibly produce that much on the offense for either side.

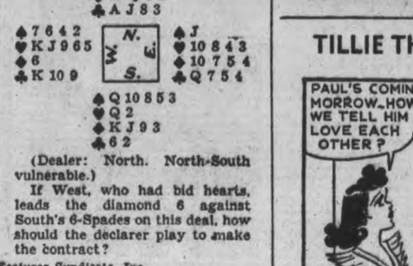
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If West, who had bid hearts, leads the diamond 6 against South's 6-Spades on this deal, how should the declarer play to make the contract?

Village Marys To Help Spitfire Fund

LAKEFIELD, April 8—(ENS). — Health and child welfare was the topic presented by Mrs. Roy Bullock at the regular Institute meeting held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Garbutt on Thursday afternoon. She also distributed health literature received from the department, to those present.

The members answered the roll call with a "Health habit for children."

During the business discussion it was decided to postpone the Made in Canada Fair until a later date. A committee of the 'Marys' present was appointed to canvas the Marys of the village for the Mary Spitfire Fund.

Miss Jean Garbutt contributed a pleasing solo, accompanying herself on the guitar.

The May meeting will be held in the Memorial Hall and will be the annual meeting, with reports and the election of officers.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Garbutt for her hospitality, Mrs. Bullock for her paper and Jean Garbutt for her musical selection.

St. James' AYPA Plans Easter Euchre Party

BOATE'S CORNERS, April 8.—(ENS)—Rev. G. H. Johnson gave an interesting talk on Passion Week at the regular meeting of St. James' A.Y.P.A. on Friday evening, the first part of which was in charge of the president. It was decided to have one more euchre party during Easter week, before the closing meeting. It is expected that all members will attend the church service on Good Friday evening.

Guild Meets

The regular meeting of the Ladies Guild of St. James' Anglican church was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Clark, when the roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture starting with the letter "B." Mrs. Clark read the Scripture, Luke 23: 1-25.

After the business period the ladies quilted a quilt for the Soldiers' Aid, donated by Mrs. George Franks. After the quilting, a pot luck supper was served to members and visitors.

Votes of thanks were extended to Mrs. Clark for her hospitality, to Mrs. George Franks for the quilt top and to Miss Helen Franks for the lining. The National Anthem concluded a pleasant social afternoon.

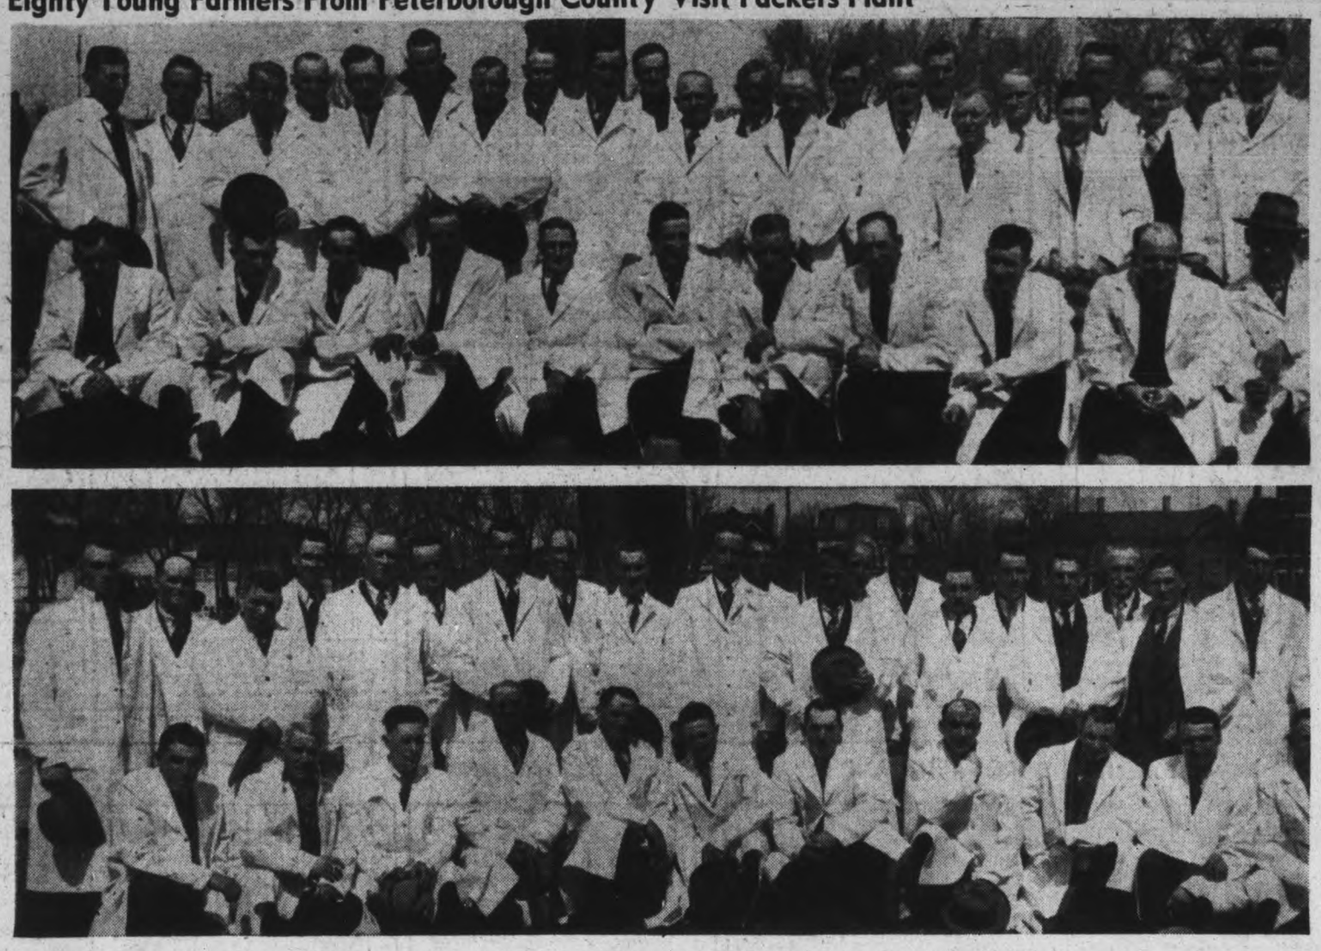
Eighty Young Farmers From Peterborough County Visit Packers Plant



Eighty farmers from all parts of Peterborough county were guests of Gordon Matthews, manager of the Canada Packers, Limited, this week, when they visited the local packing plant and had modern hog grading explained to them. The men spent most of the day in the big plant watching the processing of hogs, and they also took part in a hog grading competition in which they rated the live hogs, then followed them through the plant, seeing the finished product and how close they were in their grading. Charlie Moore and Alfred Sturzenger were the prize-winners. At noon the visitors were entertained at a banquet in Murray Street Baptist Church, where short talks were given by Mr. Matthews and Frank Paterson, local Ontario Department of Agriculture representative. The group includes Charlie Moore, Alfred Sturzenger, Roy Northey, S. Tully, G. Taylor, Gordon Payne, Harry McIntyre, Roy Kempt, Thomas G. O'Brien, John Smith, James Young, James Devlin, F. Towns, C. W.A. Of Bethany Lays Tea Plans

BETHANY, April 8 — (ENS). — The meeting or the Women's Association of the United Church was held last week at the home of Mrs. James McKinnon with an attendance of 23 members. Mrs. Harding led in prayer. The roll call was answered by Easter thoughts. It was then decided to hold a spring tea on April 26. Mrs. Ginn, leader of Group 4, took charge: Reading by Mrs. Waddell entitled "Faith," reading, Mrs. Ginn, "The Easter Message"; duet by Mrs. Ross Carr and Mrs. Bigelow, Mrs. Thorndyke accompanied at the piano. Mrs. A. H. Monk gave a splendid talk on the religion of our hymns, telling how they expressed the needs of our everyday lives.

E. O'Connor's Sugar Bush Popular Sunday Afternoon Rendezvous

MARMORA, April 8 (ENS)—The rendezvous for many strollers on Sunday afternoon was the sugar bush of Earl O'Connor, reached by about two miles of walking from Marmora village. The first thought on the hikers' part was the enjoyment of the outdoors in the sunshine of the day and the second thought as to what presented the best goal for a stroll. Fallen logs water holes and rocky formations which would be encountered after leaving the highway before the destination was reached, were not considered insurmountable to Mr. O'Connor's visitors, several of whom had made the pilgrimage before in previous years.

"The children like to trek out here" said Mr. O'Connor, though I haven't had so many today as sometimes. I have had about fifty visitors, chiefly adults, and this is a good average for a Sunday afternoon when the season is on."

"Earl" as he is the more familiarly known, is not a farmer who taps intermittently. For the past six seasons he has boiled down at the present location of his evaporator but since his return from overseas service in the last war—from the Spring of 1920 to be exact—he has given the matter of maple syrup production his diligent study and has produced each year since then, so that this year is a sort of coming of age for his business. Though extremely practical, he still indulges in the theoretical, seeking enlightenment from all reliable quarters as to whether or not he can the more perfect his product, despite the fact that tests have shown it to be of highest grade.

This year he has tapped 840 trees but hopes plans will so materialize so as to tap 1000 trees next year. He said that the number of runs had been less this year than in most years but they had been individually heavier. He anticipated that the weather would permit a few more runs before Easter.

Thus far, he has produced about 115 gallons and he has plenty of orders to fill.

He packs his product in crates holding five or six gallons and is licensed to ship syrup out of the province.

Nations Are Facing Their Gethsemane

KEENE, April 8.—On Sunday the topic of the sermon as preached by Rev. Murray in the United Church was based on Gethsemane: "Christ's resolved to do the wil of God." When Christ said "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt" it was then that the triumph of the Cross was assured. "Many of the world's tragedies have turned out to be the triumphant victories over the powers of darkness. In these days our Christian democracies are going through a seeming Gethsemane but our triumph is in the acceptance of the challenge: Not our will but God's will, that this menace of the powers of darkness be removed from our civilization. The cross and anguish we must face but by God's strength we shall ultimately triumph, Rev. Murray said. The choir sang appropriate music which was appreciated by the large congregation.

On Easter Sunday the service at Keene United Church will be held at 10:45 a.m. standard time, the choir will render special music and the sermon will be on the topic, "The Power of Christ's Resurrection."

On Good Friday at 7:45 p.m. a service will be held in the United Church when pictures will be shown on the "Life and Sacrifice of Christ."

Marmora Names Legion Officers

MARMORA, April 8.—(ENS)—At the regular meeting of Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, held in the Legion room on Friday evening officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President, T. E. Pritchard; first vice-president, G. Jarvis; second vice-president, W. Bedore; sergeant-at-arms, N. Hipson; secretary, C. Tandy; treasurer, J. W. Hickey.

The new president was duly installed by the retiring president, W. Mumby.

The April meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Association was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine. The president, Miss M. Brown, conducted the devotional and business periods. Mrs. W. J. Park read the Psalm and a hymn was sung.

The roll call, "A verse of a favorite hymn and the author's name was answered by the majority of the goodly number present. Miss M. Brown read an informative article on "Lent." Mrs. W. P. Fletcher gave a reading on hymn writers and their work which was very interesting and Mrs. Percy Fletcher sang two of the beautiful hymns referred to. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher and the hostess assisted by Mesdames D. Sanderson, F. Grant and W. Hamilton served lunch.

Havelock News

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryans of Toronto spent the week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryans.

Mother Not to Blame for the Children's Colds

Despite all the mother can do the kiddies will run out of doors not properly wrapped up; have on too much clothing; get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes, and do a dozen things the mother cannot help.

Half the battle in treating children's colds is to give them something they will like; something they will take without any fuss, and this the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a remedy used by Canadian mothers, for the past 48 years.

Roseneath W.I. Seeking District Annual

ROSENEATH, April 8 — (ENS). —Many items of business were cleaned up at the last meeting of the fiscal year of the Women's Institute held on Friday afternoon in the Town Hall. Mrs. Barton Thackeray was hostess and Mrs. L. Tucker, president, was in the chair. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Frank Brown, announced approximately $50.00 in the treasury.

A communication was received from Miss Florence Wright, instructor at the rugmaking course held the previous autumn asking that a demonstration of the rugs be arranged early in May.

Notifications were receivel of a meeting in Cobourg on May 3 of district directors and conveners of standing committees, and of the district annual to be held at Fenella on May 28.

Committee Named.

A nominating committee for the annual election of officers at the May meeting was appointed as follows: Mrs. Leslie Sherwin, Mrs. Clark Sandercock, Mrs. J. W. Pacey and Mrs. Clarence Down. It was decided to extend an invitation to hold the 1942 district annual at Roseneath.

The highlights in the news for the past month were presented by Mrs. J. W. Pacey in current events. Community singing preceded a paper on "Agriculture and Canadian Industries" by Mrs. C. Down. Mrs. Down outlined the principal industries in each province and named products from farm, forest, mine, river and lake.

Mrs. C. Grigg conducted a questionnaire on agriculture.

Two Presentations.

Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite, program convener, presided over this period. Mesdames Charles and Clark Sandercock arranged and conducted an amusing quiz contest, and Mrs. A. Nill sang a solo.

The convener presented Mrs. Clark Sandercock and Mrs. L. Tucker each with dainty pottery vases in acknowledgment of their large sales of tickets for Red Cross activities.

Following the singing of the National Anthem the hostess served refreshments.

2 Torontonians Die

RANSOMVILLE, N.Y., April 8—(AP) — Three Torontonians were killed and two injured Sunday night when the automobile in which they were riding left the road and rolled over into a 25-foot ravine. The dead were identified as John S. Thomson, 42, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Thomson, 40, and Ernest Pitman. Injured were Mrs. Margaret Thomson, 46, wife of the dead man, and Louise Thomson, 13, daughter of the dead woman.

The injured were taken to the Memorial Hospital, Niagara Falls.

To Ferry Bombers

"Isn't it better than no war at all?" is the wry question Michael T. H. Adams, "baby" of the R.A.F. bomber command, asks a reporter. Adams—holder of the D.F.C.—and 21 other R.A.F. bomber pilots are in New York on a sort of "vacation"—all they have to do is ferry American-built two and four-motor bombing planes over the Atlantic. While waiting for their new ships to arrive Adams and his companions are doing the town.

Had Bad Stomach; Backache Dizzy Spells and Headaches

Suffered Five Years, Was Surprised at Quick Relief Syntona Gave Him. "It is Years Since I felt So Well At This Season," He Says.

MR. HERBERT FAULKNER

"I don't know when I felt so well at this season before, and I attribute it to the fact that I have just taken a treatment of Syntona," said Mr. Herbert Faulkner, 611 Dundas St., London, Ont., in a recent statement.

"For fully five years I suffered with stomach troubles, headaches, dizzy spells and backache. Food just seemed to sour in my stomach, and scalding sour liquids would rise right up into my throat. In recent months the pains and lameness in my back was so bad I could hardly straighten up and I thought I would have to stop working altogether. I tried all kinds of kidney medicines but nothing helped me until I began taking Syntona.

"Before I had finished the first bottle of Syntona, my stomach felt better and the pains in my back were not so bad. Now, after taking a few more bottles, the pains have left me entirely. I am free of headaches and dizzy spells, my food digests well and my whole system feels more healthy and energetic."

Syntona is a splendid medicine for anyone to take at this season. Each spoonful is loaded with the finest medicinal herbs to improve the action of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and to rid the system of excess acids and irritating waste matter. Syntona is pleasant to take and will not harm even the most delicate constitution.

If you live in Peterborough or vicinity go to Elliott's Drug Store and find out about this pure herbal tonic that is doing so much good here. Remember the name, Syntona, and avoid disappointment.—(Adv't.)

Next, Churchill Warns Russia

LONDON, April 9 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill told Britain to-day of the grave extent of Germany's smash through Greece and warned Soviet Russia the Nazi drive is heading her way.

In a war report to the House of Commons, Mr. Churchill announced German troops had entered Salonika at four o'clock this morning.

He said that "up to the present the British and Imperial troops have not been engaged" in the fighting in Greece.

He did not give any indication of what would be done with British troops in the "widespread battle."

Mr. Churchill declared there are increasing signs that Germany would pounce on the wheatlands of Russia's Ukraine. He also:

1. Announced British capture of the Eritrean port of Massaua and virtual completion of the conquest of Italian East Africa.

2. Disclosed that 10 United States coastguard cutters had been turned over to Britain for the Battle of the Atlantic and would soon be operating against German submarines.

3. Appealed anew for use of ports and airfields in Eire to guard Britain's north-west approaches.

4. Told France she would be blockaded strictly and that British guns would resist any Vichy attempt to transfer French naval vessels from Africa to Metropolitan France where Hitler could get them.

5. Said that "heavy losses" to German planes, submarines and cruisers would cripple the British merchant marine disastrously without the "gigantic United States building program" which would give Britain "several million tons" of shipping next year.

6. Announced that the Royal Air Force had grown to such an extent that some raids on Germany had "exceeded in severity" anything the Germans had done in any single raid on England.

Good Chance Of Success

The Prime Minister said that before the battle of Greece opened Gen.. Sir John Dill, British chief of the Imperial general staff, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander in chief in the Middle East, and the Greek commander, Gen. Papagos, advised their governments that "a sound military plan giving a good prospect of success could be made."

He added: "It remains to be seen how well these opposing risks and duties have been judged, but I am sure there is no less likely way of winning the war than to adhere pendantically to the maxim of safety first."

He forecast "hard and severe fighting" against the German armored column operating in North Africa, and revealed that capture of Cheren in Italian Eritrea cost Britain 4,000 casualties.

Mr. Churchill shocked the House into complete silence with the announcement of the German entry into Salonika. But he drew cheer after cheer with the disclosures of the capture of Massaua and of increasing United States aid.

A dramatic moment came near the end of his speech when he turned to his right, looked up at the diplomatic gallery where Soviet ambassador Maisky was leaning over the rail, and declared:

"There are many signs that point to a Nazi attempt to secure the granaries of the Ukraine and the oilfields of the Caucasus."

He pictured this attempt as part of a drive to amass tremendous resources for war to the death against the English-speaking world.

Hope In United States.

Then he half turned to face United States Ambassador Winant and two other key men in the United States plans to aid Britain—President James Conant of Harvard University and Averill Harriman, Mr. Roosevelt's "defence expediter," and said:

"Once we have gained the battle of the Atlantic and are certain of the constant flow of American sup-

German Divisions Split Greece In Two; 15 Miles From Italians, In Slavia; No British Troops Flung Into Battle Yet

Greek Resistance Wiped Out Salonika To Turkey

Royal Air Force Bombers Shatter Tanks And Motor Convoys On Both Fronts As Bitter Battle Rages Without Halt

BERNE, Switzerland, April 9 (AP).—Salonika fell to the Nazis today and Greek forces cut off east of the port surrendered.

The German forces fighting westward over mountain terrain were said to be within 15 miles of a junction with the Italian forces in Albania.

British authorities said their mechanized expeditionary force still had not gone into action. Its whereabouts in Greece were not disclosed.

Other German forces drove across Yugoslavia to occupy Skoplje, rail town at th head of the Vardar valley some 55 miles from the Bulgarian border, and swept on to launch fierce assaults on Katchanik Pass.

The Yugoslav high command said its forces had inflicted "enormous losses" on the advancing Germans and were battling fiercely against their drive toward Albania to join Italian forces there.

A British military spokesman here said "We have no indication that our troops have yet established contact with the enemy, nor is there any indication when that contact will be effected."

This was contradicted by Stefani, Italian news and propaganda agency, which claimed the Germans had broken through Australian and New Zealand troops in the Struma valley.

BERLIN, April 9 (AP)—The German high command today reported German troops have smashed a way down the Vardar River valley, captured Salonika and forced the surrender of the eastern wing of the Greek army between Salonika and the Turkish border.

Other German forces have taken Skoplje and Veles, Yugoslavia, and are advancing toward the Albanian border to attempt a juncture with Italian forces there, it was claimed.

The high command also said Nazi troops had broken through to Xanthe, a town about 30 miles northwest of the port of Kavalla in northeastern Greece.

Nazi troops also claimed Nis, railway town in Yugoslavia. On the northern front, the high command said. Maribor has been taken and the River Drava crossed.

ATHENS, April 9 — (AP). — With the same speed and power which smashed the Allies in Northern France, a German armored division has split North-eastern Greece in two, but the British forces have not yet gone into battle.

Nazi mechanized forces drove a wedge into the rugged country west of Salonika, cutting off the big Macedonian port and isolating troops along the Struma River line.

(London sources said the Germans had entered Salonika.)

Off to the north-west, Yugoslav soldiers, after abandoning Skoplje to the advancing Nazis, were fighting in the mountains north-west of the town, a Yugoslav communique said.

These forces, the communique said, hoped to prevent the Germans from cutting the country in two. Despite "enormous losses," the Germans were said to have passed Skoplje, some 55 miles inside Yugoslavia from Bulgaria, to attack the Katchanik Pass, 31 miles from the Albanian frontier.

A British military spokesman merely said no contact had been established with the Germans, "nor is there any indication when that contact will be effected."

Victims Mainly Innocents

ATHENS, Greece, April 9 (AP)—The Yugoslav government announced today that Belgrade, Yugoslav capital which had been declared an open city before the German invasion, had been turned into a mass of debris by German bombers, "its streets filled with the bodies of dead women, children and old men."

R.A.F. Takes Toll

ATHENS, Greece, April 9 (AP)—Royal Air Force bombers blasted German tanks and motor convoys repeatedly yesterday in vigorous assaults upon German invaders in Greece and Yugoslavia, the R.A.F. command announced today.

Kiel Battered; Coventry Is Hard Hit

R.A.F. Night Fighters Down Six In Grim Night

LONDON, April 9 — (CP). — Powerful forces of Royal Air Force bombers raided the German naval base at Kiel again last night, also attacked Bremerhaven and Emden and bombed oil tanks at Rotterdam, the Air Ministry announced to-day.

The raid on Keil, aided by favorable weather, was described as "even more impressive" than the assault on the preceding night.

The night's forays cost the R.A.F. five planes.

While the R.A.F. was pounding German targets, the Germans hammered anew at battered Coventry and other objectives in England.

Two German planes were reported shot down off the Welsh coast this morning in an attempt to renew assaults by daylight.

The Coventry raid lasted several hours. Damage was considerable, and it was feared casualties might be heavy.

The raid on Germany's submarine nest at Kiel was the second in two nights. Of last night's raid, the Air Ministry said the port was "heavily and successfully attacked."

R.A.F. night fighters reported destruction of six German bombers, and the Air Ministry News Service said others were "damaged and known to be in trouble as they made for home."

Aside from the concentrated assault on Coventry, Nazi bombers struck in force at other factory towns in the industrial Midlands, while scattered flights ranged widely across England, attacking sharply in the south-east and on the south coast towns.

London had an early alarm, followed by anti-aircraft fire, but no bombs, and the all-clear sounded before midnight.

Pressure On Japan

Tokyo, April 9 (AP)

HOME MINISTER Kiichiro Hiranuma told a conference of provincial governors today that Japan "faces increased economic pressure by the United States and Britain."

"We cannot tell when a new, serious crisis may develop in East Asia," he added.

Turks Just Watch

Ankara, Turkey, April 9 (AP)

THE Turkish government, it appeared today, is watching development of the Balkan war calmly and it was unofficially reported that some Greek troops cut off by the German advance had taken refuge in Turkey and would be interned.

Widespread air raid precautions drills were ordered for the Istanbul area April 13.

Turkey, it was reported unofficially, is trying to mediate the Iraq crisis resulting from a military coup last week.

Urge Deeds Sold For Cottages On Crown Lands

TORONTO, April 9 (CP) — The Ontario Legislature had before it today the varying findings and recommendations submitted in majority and minority reports of the legislature's select committee that investigated the province's timber resources. Both reports recommended the sale of deeds instead of occupational licenses to owners of summer homes on crown lands.

The reports were tabled in the legislature last night. The majority report of approximately 15,000 words was tabled by the chairman, James Cooper (Lib. Sudbury) and the minority report of approximately 12,000 words by Conservative Leader George Drew.

Recommendations of the majority report include: Exportation of a certain amount of pulpwood be permitted each year as long as such exportation does not prejudice the demands of Ontario mills; establishment of an equitable policy among members of the pulp and paper industries of Ontario and Quebec; continuance of a system of proration because it acts as a stabilizer to the industry; initiation of efforts to effect a readjustment of freight rates which at present give British Columbia timber an advantage over Ontario timber; the taking of all possible steps by the government to re-acquire timber resources, particularly in the case of these granted railways.

Commission Not Needed.

The majority report adds that it can see no justification for setting up a commission to administer the timber resources.

Recommendations of the minority report include: Establishment of a commission, similar to that supervising Hydro, to administer the timber resources; codification of all legislation relating to forest re-

Third Attack Cuts Line At Skoplje

Huns Repeat Tactics Used At Sedan To Pierce Yugoslavs

ATHENS, Greece, April 9—(AP).—Yugoslav evacuation of the railroad town of Skoplje was announced today in a communique from the Yugoslav general headquarters issued by the Yugoslav Legation here.

The communique, which covered April 6, 7 and 8, declared large Nazi forces were driving toward Koumanovo, 17 miles northeast of Skoplje, gateway to the Vardar River Valley.

"Despite stiff resistance," the communique said, "we have been compelled to evacuate Skopije."

After occupying the town the Germans were said to have struck with armored units at the Pass of Katchanik, about 16 miles northwest of Skoplje. The communique said the fighting there continued.

Stubborn Yugoslav resistance was reported also in the vicinity of Caribrod, and Yugoslav planes were said to have inflicted heavy losses on the Nazis.

Caribrod is southeast of Nis, only a few miles from the Bulgarian frontier.

Slavs Aim at Tirana

On the western front, Yugoslav troops reported striking into Albania and one drive was said to have carried across the Drin river into central Albania north of the capital at Tirana.

"Small battles of local character" were reported along Yugoslavia's northern frontier.

Belgrade was reported bombed Monday and Tuesday, in addition to air attacks on Skoplje, Kragujevac, Chabats and Lazarevac.

The communique said the bombings caused enormous damage and killed civilians. "Several dozens" of attacking planes were reported shot down.

Two correspondents who crossed the Yugoslav-Greek frontier just ahead of a German division driving down the Vardar valley toward Salonika declared Serbian troops hurled the Nazi panzer attacks back twice before falling back before the onslaught.

"As we neared the border, a Yugoslav troop train sped past, and we learned the Germans had broken through," one said, "but when we reached the frontier we learned reserves which just arrived had plug-

Norway Gobbled In Nazi Coup Year Ago Today

LONDON, April 9—(CP.)—A year ago today, Nazi troopers occupied Denmark and invaded Norway in a lightning move to which this week's invasion of Yugoslavia and Greece, ending nine months of stalemate in continental Europe, bears a striking parallel.

The Denmark-Norway drive proved to be a stroke to safeguard Germany's flank for the attack on France through the Low Countries a month later.

The Yugoslavia-Greece drive today could be a similar feint to safeguard the German flank for an open attack on Turkey, with the Suez Canal and Egypt as the ultimate objective.

Then, as now, Germany engaged two adversaries at once on their soil with Britain coming to aid.

Then, as now, German charged Britain with "impairing the neutrality" of the countries invaded.

The Scandinavian-Balkan parallel narrowly missed being coincidental. Denmark capitulated; Yugoslavia was on the verge until an internal coup d'etat last month ousted the men who favored giving in to Germany. Norway fought; Greece is fighting.

One major difference between the Scandinavian and the Balkan campaigns is in the British position.

Britain had no troops in Norway when a startled world learned Germany had seized Denmark and broken the back of resistance in Norway. Today a large British force is in Greece.

Sub Pack Rises Amid Convoy

An East Coast Canadian Port, April 9 (CP)—Crewmen of a big British freighter lying at anchor in this harbor told today the story of several enemy submarines which brazenly rose to the surface in the midst of their convoy, sank eight or nine vessels, launched a torpedo at a British warship and then disappeared.

They said they believed the warship was damaged but that she was able to proceed on her way from the scene of the attack, off Freetown, Sierra Leona, Africa. Their own ship made for this port after the assault.

Crewmen said their craft came out of the attack unscathed but that eight or nine other ships heading for Britain were sunk by the audacious U-boats. They declined to talk further about the incident.

Massaua, Duce's Last Colonial Capital Yields

CAIRO, Egypt, April 9—(AP). — British troops have occupied Massaua, chief seaport of Eritrea, virtually completing the conquest of Italian East Africa, the Middle East command announced today.

The Italian defenders of the Red Sea port capitulated yesterday, a communique said, and the Imperial forces quickly moved in.

With the fall of Massaua, the Italians have been routed from all their main bases along the Red Sea and Indian Ocean coasts and the capitals of Mussolini's three East African colonies are in British hands. They are Addis Ababa, Ethiopia; Asmara, Eritrea; and Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland.

In addition, the British forces have recaptured Berbera, capital of British Somaliland, which the Italians had seized early in the African war.

Today's communique said that pursuit of retreating Italian forces in Ethiopia "is being maintained."

A Delaying Action.

The British rearguard was "heavily engaged all day" yesterday in delaying German-Italian troops advancing across Libya, the Middle East command announced today, but no mention was made of Derna, which the Italians claim to have occupied.

Last Minute News

BERLIN,— (AP)— The German high command claimed today German and Italian troops had captured El Mechili, 80 kilometres (about 50 miles) southwest of Derna, Libya. Six generals and 2,000 prisoners were taken, the high command claimed.

(There was no immediate comment from British sources.)

Overboard At Sea

Toronto, April 9 (CP)

AB. George Paden of Toronto, home on leave today, told of his rescue when he was washed overboard in mid-ocean as the Canadian naval vessel on which he was serving was struck by a heavy sea.

Paden said he and a shipmate, A. Hudson, were thrown into the water as they were trying to secure a raft which broke loose. The Toronto seaman was rescued after remaining afloat half an hour but he never saw his shipmate again.

Beaten, Robbed

WINDSOR, Ont., April 9—(CP).—Slugged and beaten mercilessly by two young thugs in his garage today, 62-year-old Z. Katzman, was robbed of $130 in bills, as he lay semi-conscious among a pile of tools in the corner.

5 Million Daily War Order

1,600 Engaged In $1,500,000 Year Of Buying For Canada, U.K.

OTTAWA, April 9—(CP). — The Munitions and Supply Department today celebrated its first birthday and its orders, placed for the Canadian and British Governments, now have reached $1,500,000,000.

"Purchases are growing so rapidly they are soon expected to reach $5,000,000 a day, the department said in a "birthday review of operations.

Some 1,600 men and women are responsible for department operations under Munitions Minister Howe. A year ago 300 persons were employed in the department.

The department gave these facts in its review of various phases of its operations during the year:

Construction workers tackled a $110,000,000 defence building program; for industry and the armed forces they put up nearly 2,700 buildings and constructed 106 air fields; outlay for plant extension and construction now is about $300,000,000.

The new plant program for manufacture of chemicals and explosives embraces some 19 projects, and an expenditure of about $110,000,000. Five major and five smaller plants are either producing or about to do so.

The shipbuilding program, involving an expenditure of upwards of $120,000,000, is summarized as follows: Corvettes, 80 ordered, 47 launched; minesweepers, 60 ordered, 15 launched; auxiliary cruisers, three ordered and delivered; vessels converted to naval use, 27 ordered and delivered; also ordered are 24 patrol boats, 12 special minesweepers, and 20 cargo ships; deliveries are being made constantly under the $6,000,000 small boat program which includes the construction of hundreds of craft ranging from pulling boats to fast torpedo boats.

A total of 190,000 motor vehicles have been ordered by Canada and other Empire countries, and more than 100,000 have been delivered.

ROME, April 9 (AP) — Italian troops continued to stand guard over the United States Embassy today as rumors circulated that Mussolini might call his ambassador back from Washington because of the "sequestration" of Italian ships in United States ports.

A Fascist spokesman claimed the crews of the Italian ships had been "accorded inhumane treatment, with most of them confined to squalid quarters without the least hygiene and decency which is one of the privileges of which American civilization boasts."

An authoritative source declared that the Italian government had withdrawn Admiral Alberto Lais,

Gallow Gang Is Remanded

Members Alternate Pleas As To Guilty Or Not Guilty

Louis Gallow almost threw a monkey wrench into the proceedings in police court today, when along with Thomas Nicholls, Lawrence Burns and William Bradd he was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on a charge of attempted jail break.

He was the second member of the quartette to make an election and after Nicholls had elected trial by the magistrate, Gallow declared that he wanted to be tried by a judge and jury.

As all four men were charged jointly, that would have meant that instead of a trial the affair would have been turned into a preliminary hearing and the magistrate would have had to commit the four to a higher court, if he found that a prima facie case had been established.

However, Gallow eventually changed his election, and the four prisoners all elected trial by the magistrate.

Then came another hitch.

How They Pleaded

Nicholls pleaded guilty to the charge; Gallow promptly pleaded not guilty; Burns, after first saying "not guilty, laughingly changed his plea to guilty, and finally Bradd announced that he was pelading not guilty.

The crown was not ready to go ahead with the case, and the four men were remanded until Thursday, April 17, for trial. Mannis Frankel, counsel for the accused, consenting.

The court-room was crowded for the proceedings.

The fourmen were brought into court in prison garb and handcuffed together. None of them, however, seemed to take his position seriously, and all four smiled frequently during the hearing.

The charge against them was that they, being prisoners, they had attempted by force, by sawing metal bars and making a breach through a brick wall, to escape from cus-

Coast Guard Cutters For UK

States Prepares Craft For British Convoy Duty

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)— The release of 10 United States Coast Guard cutters to Britain was announced at the White House today.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters the vessels had not yet been delivered but were being prepared for transfer under terms of the lease-lend bill.

He said he preferred not to disclose the names of the cutters but said they were built from 1928 to 1932.

No commercial ships or naval craft are involved in the deal, Early said. Presumably, he added, the cutters will be turned over to British crews this side of the Atlantic.

Panzers Batter Way Down Vardar Valley Cut Off Hellenes Holding Struma; No Contact With Hun By British Army Yet

Slav Troops Attack Bulgar Outposts; British Lines Intact

BERNE, Switzerland, April 9 — (AP). — Fast German mechanized forces, hitting across the southeast corner of Yugoslavia into Greece, threatened today to seize the port of Salonika and cut the hard-pressed Greek army into two segments.

Simultaneously the Italians were reported to have launched an eastward drive from Albania in an attempt to hammer a wedge between Greece and Yugoslavia by joining hands with another German column, which already has moved west from Bulgaria more than half-way through the 100-mile wide "waist" of Yugoslavia.

Indications that the Bulgarian army soon might take an active part in the war on the side of the Axis were seen by observers, meanwhile, in reports from Sofia that Yugoslav troops had attacked Bulgar outposts.

The Greeks disclosed that communications with their troops fighting off German onslaughts on the Bulgarian frontier northeast of Salonika had been severed by the Nazi drive toward that port, which was said to be seriously menaced.

There was no immediate indication, however, that any part of the big British army in Greece was with the Greek troops north of Salonika, and it appeared that the British forces still were intact.

The British, profiting by their experiences at Dunkirk, presumably were drawn up in a second line of defence southwest of Salonika.

This theory appeared bolstered by comments in London yesterday that Salonika, important allied base for Balkan operations in the first Great War, could not be considered vital in the present campaign and that possession of the coast in that area would avail the Germans little without command of the sea.

The Greeks said the way for the German drive on Salonika was paved by the retreat of the Yugoslav right wing, which enabled the Nazis to seize the town of Doiran near the junction of the Greek-Yugoslav-Bulgarian frontiers.

From that point, the Greeks declared, the Germans struck swiftly to the southeast, parallel to the Vardar River Valley, overpowering by weight of numbers Greek forces which were able to do no more than fight a delaying action.

Although virtually cut off, Greek troops north of Salonika were reported to be making a determined stand against frontal attacks by the Germans in the Rupel pass atop the Nevrokop plateau.

The Greeks asserted they had retaken one fort in this area by a counter attack, had captured nu-as was done in the case of the 50 destroyers released to Britain in exchange for defence base sites.

Outnumbered Greeks Make Struma Valley Slaughterhouse

ATHENS, April 9—(AP).—A British military spokesman said today, "We have no indication that our troops have yet established contact with the enemy, nor is there any indication when that contact will be effected."

LONDON, April 9 — (CP). — German troops have entered Salonika following virtual evacuation of the port by Greek troops, reliable sources said to-day.

ATHENS, April 9 (AP)—A German armored division has driven a wedge into Greece west of Salonika, cutting off the Macedonian port and the Greek forces holding the Struma River.

Salonika itself apparently was about to fall. But the hard-fighting garrisons of the Struma valley forts held out grimly.

Flat lands and good roads of the Vardar valley, which the Germans took after a surprise dash across southeastern Yugoslavia, enabled them to proceed at considerable speed after dawn toward Salonika.

Outnumbered Greeks were said to be fighting only a delaying action, and it was indicated they intended to give up Salonika rather than have it subjected to heavy fire such as destroyed it in the first Great War.

The Germans will find the city virtually deserted. Paul Thorne, American Red Cross representative in Greece, and one of the last to leave Salonika before roads across the Vardar valley were cut, declared thousands were streaming from the Aegean seaport.

Many in Macedonia remembered the Bulgar occupation of the port during the last war when thousands starved, disease took a heavy toll plies which are being prepared for us, then however far Hitler may go, or whatecer new millions and scores of millions he may lay in misery, then it is sure that armed with the sword of retributive justice we shall be on his track."

In the battle of the Atlantic, Mr. Churchill said Britain already is confident of coping with air attacks on shipping in the western approaches.

"I hope eventually," he said, "that the inhabitants of the sister isle (Eire) may realize that it is as much in their interests as it is in ours that their ports and airfields should be available for naval and air forces which must operate ever further into the Atlantic."

"Suddenly, the people of Yugoslavia saw their peril and with a universal spasm of revolt...resolved at the 11th hour to guard their freedom and honor with their lives."

"A boa constrictor who had already covered his prey with his foul saliva and then had it suddenly wrested from his coils would be in an amiable mood compared with Hitler, Goering, Ribbentrop and the rest of the Nazi gang when they experienced this bitter disappointment," Mr. Churchill said.

Vengeance Warned

"A frightful vengeance was vowed against the southern Slavs...Hungary was offered large territorial gains to become an accomplice in an assault upon a friendly neighbor...

"Count Teleki (Premier of Hungary) preferred to take his own life rather than join in such a deed of shame.

"A heavy forward movement of German armies was set in motion ...The open city of Belgrade was laid in ashes and at the same time a tremendous drive by German armored forces was launched."

Mr. Churchill throughout his speech wove into it references to aid and sympathy from the United States. One of the most pointed of these was when he warned that the Royal Navy would resist any movement of French warships from Africa to France.

"Such movements," he warned, "would alter the balance of naval power and would thus prejudice the interests of the United States as well as our own."

Mr. Churchill significantly declared in his report on operations in East Africa that "the Red Sea has been virtually cleared of enemy warships, which is a matter of considerable and even far-reaching convenience.

(The United States has been reported read to declare the Red Sea open to United States vessels carrying war supplies for the British Middle East forces and their allies in the Balkans, as soon as that body of water is cleared of belligerent activity).

The Prime Minister said jovially that the army commanded by the Duke of Aosta, Mussolinis Viceroy in Ethiopia, is "retreating into the mountains, where it is being attended to by the patriotic forces of Ethiopia.

He predicted the "complete destruction and capture of all Italian forces in Ethiopia.

Then his mood changed to one of wrath as he outlined German penetration into the Balkans and the final devolopment of the Balkan campaign.

The Loss Of Bengasi.

...The loss of Bengasi and the withdrawal imposed upon us by the German incursion into Cirenaica are injurious chiefly on account of the valuable airfields around Bengasi which have now passed into enemy hands.

Apart from this important aspect we should have been content, in view of the danger which was growing in the Balkans, to have halted our original advance at Tobruk.

The rout of the Italians, however, made it possible to gain a good deal of ground easily and cheaply and it was thought worth while to do this, although in consequence of other obligations, already beginning to descend upon us, only comparatively t forces embduoceloply h kdkiwd? light forces could be employed to hold what we had won.

The movement of German air forces and armored troops from Italy and Sicily to Tripoli had begun even before we took Bengasi and our submarines and aircraft have taken a steady toll of the transports carrying the German troops and vehicles.

But that has not prevented, and could not prevent, their building up a strong armored force on the African shore.

With this force they have made a rapid attack in greater strength than our commanders expected at so early a date, and we have fallen back upon stronger positions and more defensibe country.

It is fortunate that the Italian collapse in Eirtrea, Ethiopia and British and Italian Somaliland is liberating progressively very substantial forces and masses of transport to reinforce the army of the Nile.

Not All Victory.

A fortnight ago I warned the public that an unbroken continuance of success could not be hoped for; that reverses as well as victories must be expected.

Since I used this language... Cheren was stormed after hard fighting which cost us about 4,000 casualties.

The main resistance of the Italian army in Eritrea was overcome.

After the fall of Cheren the army advanced. Asmara has surrendered, the port of Massaua is in our hands. The Red Sea has been virtually cleared of enemy warships...Harar has fallen and our troops have entered and taken charge of Addis Ababa.

The Duke of Aosta's army has retreated into the mountains, where it is being attended upon by the patriot forces of Ethiopia. The complete destruction or capture of all Italian forces in Abyssinia, with corresponding immediate relief to our operations elsewhere, may be reasonably expected.

Besides these land operations, the Royal Navy under Admiral Cunningham, splendidly aided by the fleet air arm and the Royal Air Force, have gained the important sea battle of Matapan, decisively breaking Italian naval power in the Mediterranean.

When The French Quit.

When we look back upon the forlorn position in which we were left in the Middle East by the French collapse, and when we remember that not only were our forces in the Nile Valley outnumbered by four or five to one by the Italian armies, that we could not contemplate without anxiety the defence of Nairobi, of Khartoum, of Cairo, Alexandria, Jerusalem and the Suez Canal, and that this situation has been marvellously transformed, that we have taken more Italian prisoners than we had troops in the country, that the British Empire has fought alone and conquered alone except for the aid of the gallant Free French and Belgian forces who, although few in number, have borne their part. When all this is recalled amid the unrelenting pressure of events, I feel confident that I can commit this resolution to the House, and that it will be most heartily and enthusiastically acclaimed.

Step by step we have seen this movement of German military power to the east and southeast of Europe.

More than two months ago, by the traitorous connivance of the Bulgarian King and Government, advance parties of the German air force in plain clothes gradually took possession of Bulgarian airfields.

Many thousands of German airmen, soldiers and political police were in the key positions before the actual announcement of the accession of Bulgaria to the Axis was made. German troops then began to pour into Bulgaria in very large numbers. One of their objectives was plainly Salonika, which I may mention they entered at four o'clock this morning.

Eden Blocked By Prince Paul

It has never been our policy nor our interest to see the war carried into the Balkan peninsula. At the end of February we sent Eden and Dill to the Middle East to see if anything could be done to form a united defensive front in the Balkans.

They went to Athens, and to Ankara and would have gone to Belgrade but they were refused permission by Prince Paul's government. If these three threatened state had stood together they could have had at their disposal 60 or 70 divisions, which with a combined plan and prompt united action taken, might have confronted the Germans with a resistance which might well have deterred them altogether and must in any case have delayed them a long time, having regarding to the mountainous and broken character of the country and the limits of communications...

On the first occasion Eden and Dill met the Greek King and the Greek Prime Minister, the latter declared spontaneously on behalf of his government that Greece was resolved at all costs to defend her freedom and native soil against any aggressor, and that even if left wholly unsupported by Great Britain or by Turkey and Yugoslavia, they would remain faithful to their alliance with Great Britain, which came into play at the opening of the Italian invasion, and would fight to the death against both Italy and Germany.

This being so, our duty was clear. We were bound in honor to give them all the aid in our power if they were resolved to face the might and fury of the Huns...

The British Move In

Early in March we made a military agreement with the Greeks, and the considerable movement of British and Imperial troops and supplies began.

The Yugoslav Picture.

I ,therefore, turn to the story of Yugoslavia.

If they had made common cause with the Greeks when the Greeks hurled back the Italian invaders, the complete destruction of the Italian armies in Albania could have been certainly and swiftly achieved long before the German forces could have reached the theatre of war.

Even in January or February this extraordinary military opportunity was still open.

Then at last the people of Yugoslavia saw their peril and with a universal spasm of revolt swept from power those who were leading them into a shameful tutelage and resolved at the 11th hour to guard their freedom and their honor with their lives.

A heavy forward movement of the German armies already gathered in Autsria was set in motion through Hungary to the northern frontier of Yugoslavia.

The open city of Belgrade was laid in ashes and a tremendous drive by the German armored forces in Bulgaria was launched westward into southern Serbia.

southern Serbia. xz

Other powerful forces rolled forward into Greece where they were at once unflinchingly encountered and have already sustained more than one bloody repulse at the hands of the heroic Greek army.

No British In Battle Yet

The British and Imperial troops have not up to the present been engaged. Further than this, I cannot attempt to carry the tale...

I welcomed cordially the declaration of Marshall Petain that France would never act against her former allies or go to war with her former allies...Though it is not for me to speak for any government but our own—such a course might alienate from France for long years the sympathy and support of the American democracy...

sources; repeal of the Forest Resources Regulation Act; continuance of research work; institution of a judicial inquiry into the collapse of the Lake Sulphite Company; establishment of a long term plan for conservation, reforestation and silviculture; public notification before forest areas are granted to any company or individual; appointment of a committee of experts to examine the effect of the present pulpwood export policy of the industry as a whole; appointment of a committee to explore possibilities of creating special war work at the Espanola and Sturgeon Falls mills and preparation of plans to create employment in the industry for demobilized veterans and munitions workers at the end of the war.

With regard to pulpwood exports, the committee's majority report says that if all native pulpwood was converted into pulp and paper before exportation it would be of greater benefit to the province. For that reason it is suggested that as industries are created for the processing of pulpwood, the exportation of the raw product should be proportionately diminished.

However, as the chief market is in the United States, exportation should continue to that country as the whole future of the industry is dependent upon "the preservation of good-will in its dealings with its principal consumer." The policy governing these exports should be reviewed each year by the Department, the report adds.

Some Rate Differences.

The majority report said it found that the railway rate on lumber was higher from Vancouver to Port Arthur than from Vancouver to Montreal, owing to the fact Montreal is covered by a special rate. This created an "unsatisfactory" condition and it was recommended an effort be made by the Government to effect a readjustment of rates.

The minority report said it was impossible to get specific recommendations from many witnesses "because they were fearful of prejudicing the companies with which they were connected if they gave evidence which appeared to reflect upon the administration of the Department."

The minority report referred to the "incredibly unbusinesslike methods" of Lands Minister Heenan and said that from the evidence it "was clear that he takes full responsibility for all major decisions with little or no information before him from the well-trained experts of his Department."

Mr. Heenan was charged with arranging contracts involving properties with a potential value of hundreds of millions of dollars "in the most casual manner without any competition."

Since the Minister took office, the minority report continued, eight contracts have been signed with eight different companies in which each undertook to build pulp and paper mills within a fixed period of time which has since expired.

Urge Probe Held.

All these companies are now in default and in the case of the Lake Sulphite Company, the report asked for a judicial inquiry.

"When an attempt was made before the committee to inquire into the financial transactions preceding the disastrous bankruptcy of this company while it was still far short of reaching the production stage, the chairman ruled no questions could be asked regarding the financial affairs of this company....

"The conduct of the minister in this transaction was most reprehensible. His recommendation for an Order-in-Council misrepresented the true financial position of this company and also misrepresented the position in regard to limits then held by other companies."

The minority report said that Mr. Heenan by his own admission "had not even a scratch of the pen on record to show why it was considered advisable to grant such large and valuable areas to particular companies, without competition or public notice of any kind.

"No attempt was made to obtain financial reports of the standing of the companies and in at least one case the minister admitted he did not know who the directors of the company were. It is not possible to imagine a more unbusinesslike method of handling the public domain than that which was disclosed by the minister's own evidence. The casual manner in which the minister dealt with these contracts obviously opens the door to serious abuse."

Regarding proration, the minority report said the desirability of it which was brought out in the evidence "does not overcome very serious objections to the method of enforcement employed by the Ontario Government, which can only be described as "legalized blackmail."

"A large sum is demanded by the Government under an order-in-council which in no ways refers to proration but the company is given to understand that if it will undertake to abide by the proration provisions, the order-in-council will be cancelled."

Proration could be enforced more effectively under the War Measures Act, rather than under the "indirect" method devised by the Ontario and Quebec Governments, the report added.

"Representatives of the newsprint industry made it clear that they thought proration would be very much more effective if it could be carried out as a national measure.

Judgment Is Reserved In Leaitch Case

(See Page 9 for Tuesday Morning's Evidence.)

After a session that lasted all day, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Tuesday afternoon reserved judgment until Thursday on a motion made by T. J. Carley, K.C., for dismissal of the charge against Alex Leaitch, Asphodel drover, of stealing five hogs from Leo Herr, Indian River, last August.

"If I had to give judgment now" Magistrate Langley said after the motion for dismissal had been argued by Mr. Carley and by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. "I think I would have to find that this transaction between Lealtch and Herr was between principal and principal and therefore entirely a civil and not a criminal matter. However I would like an opportunity to read over Herr's evidence and to consult some of the authorities."

D. B. Cutcliffe, manager of the Royal Bank at Norwood, was called by the crown at the beginning of the afternoon session, while the bank's dealings with Lealtch were investigated in detail. Cutcliffe stated that last August the bank found it necessary to refuse any more Leaitch cheques. On several occasions before that he said there had been similar difficulty but the money was eventually forthcoming. From time to time there had been overdrafts but they had been taken care of. Lealtch's credit balance with the bank was six cents, he said.

Questioned as to whether Lealtch had made any arrangements with the bank to meet a number of cheques produced witness replied in the negative.

Percy Wilson, who said that he had a transaction with Lealtch over hogs and had not received his money, told of a conversation he had recently with Lealtch in which he had asked the accused what he had done with the money received from his hogs and Lealtch had replied that he had paid his brother-in-law and several other creditors.

"I said to him" said the witness "that he had a lot of friends here and that he had run away, and he replied that was where he had made a mistake. I told him it was too bad he had not paid his brother-in-law with a cheque too."

"You pretended to be friendly to him" said Mr. Carley "in order to get him to tell you something, and then you went to the crown with the information."

"I thought I was entitled to an accounting and that the crown was, too" replied the witness.

At the conclusion of the crown's case Mr. Carley made his motion for dismissal and the case was adjourned until Thursday when Magistrate Langley will give judgment. A number of other cases hinge on the result of the Herr finding.

In two recent consecutive weeks, Canadian airplane factories produced more than 40 planes per week. Since the beginning of the war some 1,300 aircraft have been built in Canada, and several hundred imported planes have been assembled.

Canadian plants are now producing Bren guns, two types of anti-aircraft gun barrels, several varieties of aerial bombs, universal carriers, and armor plate.

"Shortly, said the department, "Canada will produce her first tanks and 25-pounder field guns. Work is in progress leading to the latter production of complete anti-aircraft guns and carriages, and three types of artillery guns and carriages. Extensive orders also have been placed for four types of naval guns. Depth charges, anti-tank mines, rifle grenades and mortars are on order."

Ilsley Scores Attempted Tax Dodging

Raps Lavish Spending To Run Up Costs Outlines Changes

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP)—An outline of proposed changes in the excess profits tax is before Canadian business today. It was given by Finance Minister Ilsley in the House of Commons yesterday in advance of the budget, to let business men know what is expected of them in respect to profits earned in the calendar year 1940.

While the amendments make no change in the principles of the act which levies a tax of 75 per cent on all profits in 1940 and succeeding years in excess of a pre-war normal, they do impose on taxpayers the responsibility of computing their own taxes and the pre-war standard of profits on which the excess profits are computed.

Thus persons liable to excess profits tax are to be treated in the same way as income taxpayers. They must figure out their own tax bills, pay them and let the government check up on mistakes later.

Interest After May 1

Returns and tax payments under the proposed amendments must be made by the end of this month. After May 1 interest will be charged on excess profits taxes remaining unpaid.

The amendments, Mr. Ilsley said, are designed to simply administration and remove discriminations and inequities. From departmental sources it was learned no estimate could be made of their effect on revenue.

One change, fixnig $5,00 as the minimum pre-war standard profit is expected to reduce revenue by exempting some small business from operation of the act. Another, providing fo ra fixed adjustment of 7½ per cent where capital employed is increased or decreased is expected to result in increased returns.

The changes announced will all be included in budget to be presented in the House of Commons after Easter, but will apply to 1940 profits. Other contemplated changes in the act which will apply to future profits were not revealed by the minister. He said some would be designed to reduce deterrents to expanded production on the part of particular industries.

Hits Tax Smugglers

The minister coupled with his announcement a vigorous denunciation of the practice of making unjustifiable expenditures to avoid taxation.

He said he did not believe the practice was general, but there had been rumors that some firms were handing out money which would otherwise go in taxation with lavish hands. Managers and directors who permitted higher costs because the burden fell principally on the government were "guilty of serious misconduct," he declared.

The proposed amendments make the standard period for the computation of pre-war standard profits the calendar years 1936, 1937, 1938 and 1939, instead of the four fiscal years of the taxpayer corresponding to these.

They make a concession in favor of a firm which had an unusually bad year in that period, likely to drag its standard profits so low that the excess profit would be unduly high. If in any one year the profit is less than 50 per cent of the average of the others that year may be disregarded and the average of the other years in the period taken as the standard.

Other changes relate to any period of inactivity between the legal start of business and the actual start, to the treatment of depreciation allowances and cash dividends paid in relation to capital employed, to procedure for fixing standard profits in business depressed before the war, to the power of the board of referees to be set up under the act, to reserves allowed again. Possible decline in inventory values, and to reciprocal allowances for similar taxes paid in other countries.

Cocoa For a Crowd

1 cup of cocoa, 1¼ cups sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 quart water, 2½ gallons milk, 2 teaspoons vanilla. Mix the cocoa, sugar and salt in a saucepan. Add the water and mix until well blended. Cook over low heat for ten minutes, stirring constantly. Scald the milk in double boiler. Add the cocoa syrup to the scalded milk and cook for 10 to 15 minutes. Beat the cocoa with a rotary egg beater until light and frothy. Add vanilla and serve. Yield: 50 servings.

Sergeant Fined For Assaulting Cobourg Woman

COBOURG, April 9.—(ENS)—His actions termed by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell as pretty contemptible conduct for a sergeant in the air force for five years and a "shameful piece of business" Sergeant W. W. Baron of the R.C.A.F. of Jarvis, was fined $25 and costs here Tuesday in police court. The fine and conviction imposed by Magistrate Campbell arose out of a recent after midnight fracas in which Miss Josephine Church of Cobourg received facial injuries and bruises to her forehead and jaw. She charged Baron inflicted the hurts, and was the complaintant in the charge of unlawfully assaulting a female and did thereby cause her actual bodily harm. Baron pleaded not guilty and the case took nearly two hours before the hearing was complete.

Young Women Called

In the course of the trial three young women took the stand to testify. The first of these, Miss Church, gave her age as eighteen. She was dressed in a light gray coat and wore a ribbon in her dark hair as her only head adornment. An attractive girl she spoke in a soft low voice and told of the incident which occurred when she called out to Baron as he passed a local restaurant in which she was sitting. Going outside she said Baron came back and before she could speak he knocked her down. As a result she had required the service of a doctor, who gave a description of her injuries to the court. She had known Baron a year and at one time there had been an understanding between them.

Miss Jesse Taylor, a tall, dark, good-looking young woman was the next witness. She had not witnessed the actual incident but had waited in the restaurant until Miss Church had returned, when she had accompanied her home. Miss Church's face was bruised around the eyes.

Baron and Pte. Ashton stated there had been no actual blows struck. Baron had attempted to dissuade Miss Church from hitting Betty Claremont, who had been in their party. He might have pushed her down accidentally but that was all. Betty Claremont, who had been somewhat of a mystery woman, was finally found and she took the stand for the defence. She had witnessed no blows being struck.

Miss Church had used abusive language and had swung at her. Sgt. Baron had tried to separate them and Miss Church might have fallen then.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman prosecuted while Baron acted for himself. He was in the presence of Pilot Officer Factor from the Trenton station who was holding a watching brief for the R.C.A.F. in the case. The Flying Officer stated that Baron's service record was of the highest and he had no marks on his crime sheet.

Cobourg Firemen Called

COBOURG, April 9.—(ENS)—The local fire brigade had an after supper call last night when it made a run to a vacant field to extinguish a grass fire burning back of the property owned by Dr. O. S. Kerr at the corner of Albert and Ontario. No damage was done.

A second fire occurred later in the night with the department being called to the home of W. Jenkins, John street where a small shed was ablaze. The fire was confined to the small building and no other damage was done.

Red Cross Garments Shown In Port Hope

PORT HOPE, April 9—(ENS).—A fine display of garments was shown at the Red Cross Tea Rooms, Tuesday afternoon. The garments were made by the Red Cross group of the United Church. This group meets weekly at the church, and have aided greatly in the clothing they have made for children in Britain.

The ladies were in charge of the tea and secured $14.25. The conveners of the tea were Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Ward, with Mrs. Giddy, Mrs. Hodgson, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Hancock as assistants.

Groups Meet

Nine groups of the W.A. Society of the United Church held meetings Tuesday evening. War work of different types was done at each meeting. Programs were very short, consisting mainly of recitations and songs. Business and worship periods were conducted and a social hour enjoyed.

Cobourg Plan To Issue Data Booklet

COBOURG, April 9.—(ENS)—The meeting of the Cobourg Council's manufacturing committee was held Tuesday night in the town hall with Mayor Burnett presiding. The only council absentees were Councillors Rollings and Glenn. The interlocking committe of C. P. Jones, W. Maize, Walter Johnston, A. Hodgetts and W. J. Burtt were also on hand. W. W. Stephens was present in a technical capacity W. F. Lindsay and Frank Lapp were also present as members of the press and printing representatives The meeting decided to issue a filing cabinet holder in the near future which will contain all of the manufacturing data available here as well as pictures of the harbor, schools and the town hall. Pages in the the folder will be devoted to descriptions of the transport facilities, utilities, early history, community activities, and an inter-set map of the town with a key page. The commercial possibilities of the town will be fully outlined in the booklet.

Town Clerk Alex Young will compile a draft of the agenda prepared by the committee while J. W. Burtt will act in an locating capacity for the map outline. The booklet will then be presented to the committee for approval.

Summer Season Open In Cobourg

COBOURG, April 9.—(ENS)—The official summer season may now be declared open as the first visitor to the tourist camp here has already taken up trailer space. Mrs. Thomas Gutteridge of Belleville is here for the summer season with her family, a little baby boy three months old. Her trailer home is very modern being equipped with every convenience that goes with smart living. Mrs. Gutteridge stated that this is the first time she has taken up trailer life. She expects it to be a great experience which she hopes to enjoy. A constant companion is her black spaniel dog which goes everywhere with her.

The tourist camp is a mecca for summer visitors and as many as seven hundred camps, trailers, etc., have been set up there.

Buying Problem Bewilders Town Council

PORT HOPE, April 9 (ENS) — An agitation of long standing in council appears nearing a solution as further investigation of a plan to set up a central purchasing agent for the corporation's needs will be conducted. For some time the feeling has existed that a more thorough check up on purchases made for the town should be installed. Until the present time, however, it has never received sufficient backing as the opposition felt it would incur too much work on the part of committee chairmen, particularly the street and bridge committee chairman who is the head of the busiest committee. At a recent council meeting a resolution was introduced to make the town clerk the central purchasing agent. The chairmen of all committees would inform him of purchases made in the town's name and in this way it was hoped a check could be maintained. However, the resolution was shelved temporarily. When the topic again cropped up in council Mayor S. Gifford suggested the chairman of the finance committee and the chairman of the street and bridge committee should get together and discuss the situation. The two chairmen are now left to recommend a plan which will be mutually agreed upon.

Mrs. G. Page Is Elected Head Of Cobourg W.I.

COBOURG, April 9.—(ENS). — The Cobourg Women's Institute held their annual meeting in the Baptist church S.S. hall Tuesday afternoon when election of officers for the coming year took place. Mrs. Rouse, the president, was in the chair.

The reports from conveners of the many committees were very encouraging and show the interest taken in the work of the different activities carried on by the Institute.

War work was one of the special efforts and a quantity of sweaters, sox and knitted garments were presented to the Red Shield of the Salvation Army for Canadian boys at home and overseas. One feature of the meeting was presenting a quilt to the army.

The election of officers resulted in the following ladies being elected: President, Mrs. G. Page; 1st Vice-Pres, Mrs. C. Hobart; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. D. Lonsberry; Sec.-Treas., Mrs. H. Wicks; Asst. Sec., Mrs. D. Prestredge.

Branch Directors— Mrs. Francy, Miss M. Cowin, Mrs. F. Rouse, Mrs. Roblin, Mrs. C. Parsons, Mrs. R. Patterson.

District Representatives—Mrs. G. Page, Mrs. C. Hobart, Mrs. W. Sloper, Mrs. F. Stillwell, Mrs. W. Marshall.

Conveners of standing committees—Peace, Mrs. W. McKechnie; Community Activities and Relief, Miss Olive Page; Historical Research, Mrs. Bingham; Health and Child Welfare, Mrs. Davis; Education, Mrs. Hendry; War Activities, Miss D. Cowin.

Sunshine Committee—Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Edgell, Mrs. Rollings.

Pianists—Mrs. Vansickle, Mrs. J. Patterson, Mrs. Roblin.

Auditors— Mrs. Lees, Mrs. McMahon.

The next monthly meeting will be held May 3rd when the district directors and conveners of standing committees will attend and the district annual meeting will be held at Fenella May 28.

Suckers Running In River At Port Hope

PORT HOPE, April 9 (ENS)— The suckers are running in the Ganaraska River and right behind them are rubber-booted young men armed with clubs. The fish are edible at this time of the year when they first leave the lake for spawning.

The river water has resumed its normal flow following several days high water when the snow waters were escaping, enabling the fishermen to see the suckers make their way up the rapids. They are caught by guiding them into shallow water and clubbing them before placing the catch in sacks.

Each evening the river bank in the vicinity of the leather factory is lined with spectators watching the catch. The run is early yet and may become more numerous with warmer weather.

John Lavis Will Appeal Verdict Parks Board Expropriating Land

COBOURG, April 9—(ENS).—A decision in the case of the Cobourg Parks Board to take expropriation proceedings against the property of John Lavis was handed down on Friday last by Judge L. V. O'Connor. The decision, one of arbitration, set the value of the lake front property at $2,500.00 and the cost of the arbitration proceeding was set at $100 with the arbitrators fee being $60. The costs were assessed to the Parks Board. Mr. Lavis conducts a business on the water front south of the tourists park in the Victoria Park. A roller skating rink, canteen, as well as boats for hire are among the interests of Mr. Lavis. The Parks Board desires to have Mr. Lavis' holdings removed from their present site. Mr. Lavis will appeal the ruling it is understood.

Because of high building costs and scarcity of building materials Malaya has stopped work on most construction projects.

The German Method

The Yugoslavians might just as well have spared the effort which it took to declare Belgrade an "open city," and therefore undefended. That is a recognized custom in any civilized part of the world in war time.

But the Germans bombed it just as they had previously done in the Low Countries and in France, and the result was that thousands of homeless people took to the roads rushing to seek some place where they could escape.

And that of course is present-day German technique. They want the roads clogged and cluttered with refugees and their effects. When the people are in that state of mind they become frantic and they spread fear. They take up all the time available of officials; they crowd places where the army would prefer to have ready access to methods of transportation, and when the Germans get around to it their air force can fly low and machine-gun the refugees.

The Nazis prefer things that way, and roads congested with refugees fit in so well with their plans that they deliberately bomb undefended cities in order to create that clogged situation.

No Room For Argument

York Township Council discussed one of those irritating incidents which come to the surface now and then. At a funeral service of a former member of the Council some of the relief recipients had used the communist salute, the clenched fist. There were two views expressed in the discussion, the first being that such salute was entirely wrong, and the other that in a democratic country people "are entitled to their own views, the same as in any other political party."

Actually there is not room for two views on this question. There is not room at the moment for the belief that in this country it is quite all right for one to use a communist salute. Communism as such has been outlawed in Canada and we take it that the salute would go with the rest of the business. Giving such salute would be one plain way of acknowledging allegiance to communism, and the fact that the people making use of it are on relief makes no difference at all.

Such opinion is not evidence of bigotry but merely a facing of facts. We know all too well that the clenched fist of the communist is not going to help preserve this land so that it can hold up its head as one of the surviving democracies of the world.

The Right Thing To Do

There will be a meeting called by Mayor Hamilton of contractors, real estate men and building tradesmen in order that there may be a fair survey made of proposed house building operations in Peterborough this year. And that appears to be the right thing to do.

Peterborough has not been an easy place in which to find a house in recent times, and it has become increasingly difficult. The only practical answer is—more houses. If there can be a fairly accurate answer given to the question by those in the business then there would be a more adequate idea of what might have to be done in the way of using prefabricated houses for which provision has been made by the Government.

The situation is one which needs attention because there are more complaints being sent to Ottawa about rental matters here, and these are not easy of settlement when there is no control board operating in the city. Any answer which might be given without an inspection or knowledge of the properties could be regarded as little better than a snap judgment.

That is why it should be helpful to have the whole situation reviewed. There is urgency in the matter because many of those who require housing are — or will be—engaged in essential war industry and such folk will not have time on their hands to be much engaged in the business of house hunting. If they are family men then we want the families here. It is better for the family and better for the city. Out of the meeting called by the Mayor there might be brought into existence a more or less permanent body to deal with the situation because it is one which is not going to pass from us readily.

It's An Old Question

A dispute which stretched itself into a week's duration has been settled in Kingston. It had to do with the wages of bricklayers who had been receiving $1 per hour, but asked for an increase of 10 cents per hour. In the end this was cut in two and $1.05 becomes the accepted wage.

That cannot be regarded as unduly high because the bricklayer does not work regularly. There are seasons of the year when he is not working at all.

But each increase which comes bears down on that old problem of how the man who is receiving less wages than the bricklayer is going to be able to purchase the services of the more highly paid man. If wages increase and if there is an increase also in the prices of material (and that is quite apt to take place in the period of greater demand) the man with the lesser and stationary income is farther removed from the desire he may have to own a home.

It is not an isolated problem, but one which is general. A farmer spoke of it in this office only a few days ago when he said that the farm income was not large enough to buy back what he referred to as the services of the professional class, the lawyers, doctors and dentists. He named those three. He mentioned an operation on a member of his family, and he said the bills and hospital costs had "set him back" for more than a year. He would have paid the bills at once, but he couldn't because his income did not allow him to have the money ready.

We admit candidly we have not the remedy to suggest, but the problem of one man with a modest salary trying to purchase the services of those who come in the higher brackets is so real that it hurts.

He Was Full Of Complaint

The driver of a not overly large truck pulled into a local service station, and he was complaining. He was as full of complaint as it would be possible for a truck driver to be. While he was getting gas and oil he was talking about the roads. He said they were awful in spots, and he was sure something ought to be done about it. When he started down some of the sideroads with his truck he never knew what was going to happen. We think he also said the roads were a disgrace.

We cannot believe he had a good case. When a road is not paved it is bound to have a bad spell in spring, and the man driving over it with a truck is making it worse. Even the paved roads in spring have "Bump" signs ranged along the edge.

The frost is in the ground and the frost is in the roads and in the natural order of things it has to come out in its own way. We never yet heard of anything which would hasten the process. Trucks on sideroads in spring are probably doing their full share toward shoving the gravel top so far down that it will be useless.

The "Murder Rate"

Ontario has its Queen Elizabeth Way, between Toronto and Niagara, the finest stretch of highway in the province. There was no skimping when it was built; four lanes, shrubbery, grass, lighting, and all that could be devised to justify a cost of $180,000 per mile.

Discussion in the Legislature centred around one idea—the accident rate on this new road. It is higher than it used to be when the highway was infested with curves, twists and danger spots.

Hon. Mr. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, said he did not believe the accident rate was out of line with the density of the traffic. On heavy days there have been 36,000 cars there, and an average day will show 16,000. Leopold Macaulay referred to the "murder rate" on that stretch, admitting that he felt unsafe when driving there.

It is likely there will be more patrol men placed on duty, and that will be done because we do not know of anything else to do. There was the suggestion that the Department as a safety measure should start to re-examine car drivers, and that suggestion was also made because there was not a better one in sight. There would be days when thousands of U.S. cars would be on that road, and we cannot examine those drivers. It is also a plain fact that when drivers are being examined they are all very careful and very decent drivers. Such examination is apt to prove nothing at all.

Present plans are for an extension of these four-lane highways. In time there will be one for No. 2 Highway, and if the record of the Queen Elizabeth Way means anything at all, it indicates the murder rate will become more operative.

It is not possible to agree with the claim of the Minister of Highways that the death rate is not out of line with the amount of traffic. That means if we encourage traffic then we also encourage an increase in the death rate, and we must be content to abide by such increase. That is entirely too complacent.

It does look as though it were a matter of speed, and right there are two points which cannot be overlooked. (1) The speed law of this province is either 50 miles an hour or it is not, and regardless of what our own people or tourists think about it, that should be the starting point. (2) Mr. Macaulay said he had a feeling of fear on that fine highway because the speed was so great. If he does not drive over 50 miles an hour he should feel no fear, and he and every other driver who observes the law is entitled to all the protection the province can give.

If more patrol men are needed, then put them to work, but back of it all make certain that observance of the law is going to be maintained. We approve too of that term "murder rate" which is being applied. It comes closer to the truth than calling them accidents.

Traitor Bereaved

Lord Haw-Haw's father, Michael Joyce, died recently in London and the London Sunday Express dug up some interesting information about the family which provided Dr. Goebbels with one of his most effective radio voices. It was physical heart disease which killed the father, but a shamed and broken heart may have had something to do with it. Michael Joyce sired a nest of traitors but was apparently himself thoroughly loyal to Britain and deeply humiliated by the fact that his son William (Lord Haw-Haw) was in Germany helping the enemy and that two other sons, Quentin and Frank, were in internment camps in Britain, says the Kingston Whig-Standard.

All three sons in the period before the war were members of the National Socialist League, a Fascist organization. At the outbreak of war, Quentin was an air ministry clerk. He was interned for his propaganda activities. Frank was on the BBS technical staff before officers took him away to an internment camp. William fled to Germany to the job which Dr. Goebbels gave him.

Mr. Joyce and his wife were both from the west of Ireland but had lived for a while in New York, where Lord Haw Haw was born. In addition to the three sons who went Fascist, they had a younger son and a daughter. One of the earliest effects of the war against England was that of rendering the Joyce family homeless. During the first severe night raid in September, a German bomb fell so near their house at Dulwich that they had to vacate it.

PROBLEM

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Alfalfa tries another plan, for dealing with her slow-voiced man, he's hung around too long; she's tried most everything she knows, so his intentions he'll disclose, her plans have all gone wrong.

¶ She's fed him when he came at night, and stuffed him till his skin was tight, to show that she can cook; he seemed to need a greater shove, before the man declared his love, perhaps a spike or hook.

¶ Alfalfa knit a sweater too, to show him just what she could do, in style it was the best; and he could wear it so she said, face zero with no fear or dread, and cover up his chest.

¶ And so Alfalfa changed her ways, she looks at him with distant gaze, she'll soften up his dome; when he calls round at eight o'clock, he hears in answer to his knock, that she is not at home.

¶ And if he gets beneath the roof, she smiles at him but quite aloof, she blushes not at all; the nightly lunch has gone its way, till he supplies the oats and hay, he must feel rather small.

¶ Alfalfa goes out now and then, and trots about with other men, her campaign is severe; if she'll succeed I do not know, for new weeks come and old weeks go—and victory seems not near.

Claims Japan Could Not Block Panama Canal

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—"As crazy an idea as there is in circulation in this country today is the suggestion that Japan, under present conditions, may try to do something to put the Panama canal out of business."

Chas. P. Stewart

My informant was Dr. Vicente Villamin. He's an eminent Filipino economist, lawyer and politician. He also writes for the Manila press. For some time he's been in the United States lobbying to prevent the Philippines, if he can, from graduating into independence in 1944, as Uncle Sam originally had planned. If they do get their independence, he's convinced that Japan will take it away from 'em in short order, and he'd a deal rather have 'em dependent on us than on the Mikado. If anybody knows more about the Japs than he does, it's the Japs themselves, and they won't tell. He will, and he certainly is an authority.

"More than anything else in creation," explains the doc, "what the Japs want is to have the bulk of the Yankee fleet filter out of the Pacific into the Atlantic. After the American fleet's done that, if it does, then look out for 'em to attempt corking up the canal, to keep the United States warships bottled up in the western ocean, as far as possible.

"You see," continues our Filipino visitor, who also has specialized on Germany in connection with his study of the Oriental situation, "the Mikado and Herr Hitler really haven't a thing in common despite their Axis compact.

"The Nazis naturally don't want war with the United States. Not yet, I mean. They're too busy elsewhere. But they do want Japan at war with Uncle Samuel, because that would force him to concentrate in the Japs' direction, largely eliminating him as an Atlantic oceanic factor.

JAPAN'S HOPE

"BUT Japan doesn't want war with Uncle Sammy, either. War with this country would distract Nippon's attention from a lot of grabbing it's endeavoring to put across in Asia and the Pacific. But the Mikado surely does want Germany and the United States at war. That would leave the Japs comparatively free to go ahead with their Oriental and Australasian grabbing.

"That's the whole secret of the Jap-Axis dicker.

"Japan and Germany each aimed at enticing the other into doing its chestnut-pulling. Neither wants war with the United States—not now. Each wants the other to go into it.

"Jap-German economic aims clash, too.

"Germany, if it wins the war, hopes to get back into Asia on a big commercial and maybe territorial scale. It was well entrenched there before the last world war, but Japan took advantage of that conflict to chase the kaiser out of it.

The Germans, provided they're victorious in Europe this time, will try to recover all they lost previously and a lot more also. They won't pay a cent's worth of attention to the Japs' claims and the Japs know it.

"The Japs' scheme is to finish off all Occidental influence on their part of the globe, land and water—Germany's influence included.

"Herr Hitler talks about a 'new order.'

"THE Mikado talks about 'Pan-Asiatic co-operation.' That is, the rest of Asia's to produce raw materials. Insular Japan hasn't the room or soil or sources to produce 'em. But the Japs are to process the raw stuff. In other words, they're to boss the job and scoop in 99 per cent of the profits. The rest of us are to be the hewers of wood and drawers of water.

"What we non-Jap Asiatics are afraid of is that we'll get nothing but the 'co.' with the Japs getting all the 'operation.'

"However, that's distinct from the question of war between the United States, Japan and Germany.

"Uncle Sam's strong point is this: "Germany desperately desires a Jap-American war and Japan desperately desires a German-American war, but Germany doesn't want to start it for Japan's benefit and Japan doesn't want to start it for Germany's benefit.

"It's a queer conflict of interests, but a mighty nice one from the American standpoint."

QUICK HELP FOR PILOT

As a Post Office lineman was tracing a fault on a telephone subscriber's circuit in a remote part of Somerset an airplane made a forced landing in a meadow. The pilot was out of petrol and stated that it was imperative for him to report back to his headquarters before dark.

The Post Office man saw that the machine was British and checked the pilot's identity before agreeing to summon assistance. It was several miles to the nearest village, so the lineman tapped into the wire with his portable telephone. The exchange answered and connection was made with a garage.

In less than 20 minutes the petrol had arrived and the airplane had gone on its way.—London Times.

OR DO THEY?

"Of course they sound happy, Matilda. Given good food, fresh air, and routine, these gals soon forget their former flippancies."
—London Daily Herald.

Letters To The Editor

UNSIGHTLY PLACES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Would you please allow me a small space in your paper to express my views about the tourist advertisement of the Kawartha and Peterborough district? From year to year there is a lot of money spent to draw tourists to this section of the country.

I was told the other day that Mr. Fred Roy has been showing his pictures of this district down through the United States. I have seen them and they are real good pictures. Just a few days ago I got a folder from the Peterborough tourist bureau showing several pictures, such as the lift locks, Chemong bridge, and others, and I for one think we will have a lot more American tourists this year than in past seasons.

But what is the use of this spending money to bring people to our district if we don't take more pride in cleaning our places up? I was out for a drive on Sunday and couldn't help notice the unsightly scenes along the road ways that could be cleaned up.

If I had had a camera with me I think I could have made a picture of these unsightly places which would have been a bigger knock to this district than Mr. Roy's pictures were a boost. The county of Peterborough has a bylaw that takes care of this sort of thing. Why don't they enforce it and see that these unsightly places are cleaned up? The department of Highways have the same law and they too should put more force on.

Let every one put his or her shoulder to the wheel and clean up and make this county a more attractive one. Thanking you for your valuable space.

• These Ships Sail Again

A DESTROYER damaged in collision was brought into harbor with her upper deck within nine inches of the water. A patch measuring 29 feet by 19 was fitted by divers under water, and the ship pumped dry and towed to a re port. She is now back in servic

A large merchant vessel was bombed and set on fire. Two salvage ships went out to sea and brought the fire partially under before taking her into harbor. Then the fire broke out again, raging furiously for three days. So they took the drastic step of beaching the ship and flooding the after holds, which successfully extinguished the flames. The vessel was only two years old and had cost £780,000 to build. Her cargo was worth another £400,000.

The total damage to ship and cargo did not exceed £150,000, so her salvage represented a saving of over one million. But for the help given she must have been lost.

Another ship, severely damaged by enemy bombs, was towed into harbor with a heavy list to port and her deck awash. She was successfully beached, and divers set to work to patch or plug all the main inlets, discharges and auxiliary valves, together with the bomb hole and over 100 splinter holes. The compartments were then pumped dry, and 15 days after being beached the ship was refloated and towed away for repairs.

A large tanker worth £500,000 was torpedoed, and later bombed, shelled and machine-gunned by aircraft while in a helpless condition.

Racing to the spot the salvage ship found her with six tanks, the engine-room and all the after compartments flooded. Her after deck was nearly awash, and her bows cocked well up. She seemed likely to founder, so pumps were put on board the ship kept afloat for four days while divers went below and patched the bomb damage. The damaged compartments were then pumped dry, steering gear and auxiliary pumps put into working order, and the ship towed into port for repairs.

But for the salvage people she, too, must have been written off as a total loss.

A Bit of Nonsense

The Result

The teacher had asked her class to write a short composition on the subject "Water."

One scholar seemed to be having difficulty, but finally he turned in his paper, and here is what he wrote:

"Water is a light-colored wet liquid which turns dark when you wash in it!"

Anything Else?

Sandy joined a golf club and was told by the professional that if his name was on the golf balls and they were lost they would be returned to him when found.

"Good," said the Scot. "Put my name on the ball." (The pro did so.)

"Would you also put M.D. after it?" said the new member. "I'm a doctor." (The pro obeyed.)

"There's just one thing more," went on the Scot. "Can ye squeeze 'hours 10 to 4' on as well?"

Bright Lads!

Teacher: "Well, boys, late again this morning! What is your excuse, Jack?"

Jack: "I was dreaming I was going to Ireland, and I thought the school bell was the steamboat's signal to start."

Teacher: "Were you dreaming too, Joe?"

Joe: "No, teacher, I was just waiting to see Jack off."

Gas Vs. Electric

Mr. Sharp arrived home from the office looking hot and bothered. He flopped into the nearest easy, wiping his brow.

"What's wrong, dear?" queried his wife.

"It's those darned gas-masks," he snapped. "They get heavier and heavier each day."

"They do, darling," she sweetly agreed. "But this morning you went off with the electric iron box."

LACKS PUBLIC OPINION

Of the 180,000 farmers in Ontario 100,000 placed themselves in jeopardy of the weed laws last season. With an army of inspectors ready to enforce the regulation the one thing lacking is public opinion that will back up any action taken in the courts. Progress is slow in cutting down the $30,000,000 annual loss.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

A report from Kingston confirms the story that the 93rd Battalion will train at Barrie field Camp.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

As the heart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God.

My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God; when shall I come and appear before God?

My tears have been my meat day and night, while they continually say unto me, Where is thy God?

When I remember these things I pour out my soul in me, for I had gone with the multitude, I went with them to the house of God, with the voice of joy and praise, with a multitude that kept holyday.

Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquited in me? hope thou in God for I shall praise him for the help of his countenance.—Psalm 42.

"Come Again Later"

This is the story of a subaltern who was wakened up in the night before Bardia with the news that 500 Italians wanted to surrender.

"Tell them they can't," he said sleepily, "the battle isn't till tomorrow. Tell them to come later."—"Peterborough" Daily Telegraph and Morning Post.

C.G.E. Bowling League Winners Given Prizes

Prize money amounting to $400 was divided last night when the players of the C. G. E. Bowling League gathered at the Empress Hotel for the annual banquet and presentation of prizes..

Over 100 bowlers attended the most enjoyable affair which was preceded by a bowling match at the Duffus alleys for special prizes.

After an appetizing dinners had been served prizes were presented and a short but enjoyable list of speeches followed.

A feature was the presence of Ian F. McRae, new works manager of the Canadian General Electric Company who told the bowlers he intended to keep open house in his office at the plant. "My predecessor, Mr. Salmonsen," he said, "always made it a point to hold open house in his office. That policy still holds and I am going to extend it. There will be no locks on the door, no appointments will be necessary and you will be free to come and see me anytime you have anything to offer for the welfare of the company or if there is anything we can do for you." The statement of the works manager was greeted with loud cheers.

Frank Kirkaldy, president of the C.G.E. Bowling League, in a brief opening speech, referred to the success of the league this season, pointing out that 24 teams had entered the league.

The Prize Winners.

Tommy Miller, treasurer of the loop, took charge of the presentation of prizes, informing the gathering that there was $400 in prize money to be distributed. The prizes were announced as follows:

Group No. 1—1, Machine Shop; 2, Switch Gear No. 1; 3, Brass Foundry; 4, Shipping; 5, Switch Gear No. 3; 6, Armature; 7, Structural Steel No. 2; 8, Switch Gear No. 2.

Group No. 2—1, Switch Gear No. 4; 2, Switch Gear No. 1; 3, Switch Gear No. 6; 4, Industrial Motors; 5, Fittings.

Group No. 3—1, Fractional Motors; 2, Production No. 1; 3, Stores and Orders; 4, Drafting Room; 5, Accounting No. 1; 6, Accounting No. 2; 7, Stores and Orders No. 2.

Winners of special prizes in last night's matches were as follows: 1, W. Howes, 847; 2, Roy Parnell, 839; 3, G. Stevens, 836; 4, J. Dawson, 826; 5, W. Martin, 811; 6, J. Playford, 805; 7, F. Willison, 802; 8, A. Prout, 801; tied for 9, T. McPhate 799, H. Darling 799.

Other prizes presented included one to D. Abraham for an average of 240 for 60 games, Frank Woods for a 242 average for a lesser number of games, and Jack Wade for high single of 389.

Frank Robinson, president of the Social and Athletic Club, congratulated the league on its success, and wished the C.G.E. bowlers luck in their game in Toronto for the R. S. Cotton Trophy.

Ald. R. S. Cotton declared that the bowling league was one of the mainsprings in the social activities of the shop and the opportunity it affords of getting together means a great deal.

The veteran, R. E. Layfield, declared that he had only missed two bowling seasons in the past twenty years, once when he was in Vancouver and on the other occasion when he was in hospital.

Roy Parnell paid a tribute to the work done by Treasurer Tommy Miller and Secretary G. Walton, and suggested that the election of officers might take place on the occasion of the annual banquet when a good attendance was assured.

Others who spoke briefly were G. Walton, William Hurrell, and Dick Flood of the Toronto plant.

Before the gathering dispersed a collection was taken up for the British War Victims Fund.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association will be held in St. Catharines on Friday and local enthusiasts will be glad to know that Dave Leether of Peterborough is in the running for the first vice-presidency of the association. He deserves promotion on his record of good service and in view of his experience and his enthusiasm. Dave has done a lot for softball in this part of Ontario, has been a tireless worker, and given freely of his time and energy to promoting the interest of the game in this neck of the woods and he has earned a step up the ladder in the personnel of the governing body. Local fans will pull for his success at the annual meeting of the Ontario Association on the day after tomorrow, and he should be sure of the support of all delegates from the eastern end of the province.

A number of proposed amendments are to come before the annual gathering this season and the nature of the game will be very materially altered if the recommendation of the Toronto Association is adopted. The Queen City proposal is to make things a little easier for the batter by putting the pitcher back another two feet, in other words to make the pitching distance 40 feet instead of 38 feet as it is at present. On the other hand while the batter would get a better opportunity to glimpse the ball, under the Toronto suggested rule he would have to hit it a little further for it is suggested that the distance between bases be extended from 50 to 60 feet. The Nickel Belt Association would also like to have the bases extended but would be satisfied with 55 feet. For the present these recommendations would only hold good in the senior series. They would alter the nature of the game considerably, bringing the diamond closer to the hard ball dimensions.

The death of George Ballard, crown attorney in Hamilton, will bring back memories to older football fans here who will recall Ballard when he was one of the stars of one of the greatest of all Hamilton Tiger football teams. Ballard played for the Tigers at the time Peterborough's native son Ben Simpson was the ace kicker for the Hamilton squad. In 1906 when Art Poe, American college star was coaching the Petes who were in the senior O.R.F.U. at that time Ballard played with the Tigers against the local team at Riverside Park and incidentally the Tigers handed the home talent a memorable shellacking on that occasion. Peterborough had a rooters' club all primed up to sing football songs but when the Tigers started rolling the chorus folded up and was entirely mute before half time.

Bowling League's Good Season

The C.G.E. Bowling League capped a most successful season last night when the annual banquet was held and the prize money distributed. Tommy Miller handed out so many envelopes containing money that the affair almost developed into a a pay parade. The jack pot had been built up to the $400 level and the result was that many of the players shared in the Santa Claus handout. The C.G.E. pin crashers have had a fine year with 24 teams competing and some high class rolling was done during the campaign as is shown by the fact that Doug Abraham captured the high average with a 240 score for 60 games which is nice travelling in any man's league. The C.G.E. bowling club has provided a lot of recreation but more than that it has done much to establish an esprit-de-corps among shop personnel and that is not to be sneezed at.

Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard says that there are now suggestions for the Combines to go into senior baseball as many of the student hockey players are also good at hard ball and they plan to work in Kingston this summer. "With the pick of Kingston's junior league," says Bill "strengthened by the students and perhaps a good pitcher a good senior team could be formed but the business on hand at present is planning for the seventh game of the O.H.A. Senior B championship which will probably be delivered with the Easter eggs." It is worthy of note that the Kingston scribe is not very informative as to where a Kingston senior team would operate, if one should be organized. There seems little prospect of a revival of the Central Ontario League, trips to play in the Toronto loop would be out of the question and Kingston never had much success trying to locate in an eastern senior group.

Number 2 For The Bruins

In the same kind of close, tense, hockey that has distinguished their last half dozen games the Boston Bruins won the second battle in the Stanley Cup finals last night defeating Detroit Red Wings 2 goals to 1. Incidentally that is the fourth win for the Bruins during the playoffs by that score. Last night Art Ross's team had to come from behind to turn the trick. There was no score in the first two periods but early in the final session Mud Bruneteau bobbed up with the first counter of the game. Three-quarters of the period had almost gone before the Bruins were able to tie it up. Rookie Terry Reardon who has been one of the Boston stars all along during the cup games doing the gunning. Then Roy Conacher whose sharp-shooting has been kept thoroughly under control came through with his first goal of the playoffs to win the battle for the Bruins. Now the teams move into Detroit for the next two games and two tough battles loom up. Those Wings are especially rockbound on their own cushion.

Whether Joe Louis is losing some of his lethal punch or whether he ever had as much dynamite in his Sunday blows as some of the sporting writers have claimed, the fact remains that for the second time in three weeks a third-rate mitt artist has stood out there and taken everything the champ has thrown at him for round after round and still remained on his feet. Tony Musto whose name has never been in the lights in the fistic arena lasted nine rounds against Louis last night and was still in a vertical position when Referee Donovan stopped the fight and gave Louis a technical knockout. In fact the squat challenger from Chicago was only knocked down once during the bout and that time he was up again at the count of one.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Buddy Baer got a technical knockout over Tony Galento last night if that makes any difference to anyone....Boston's farm team, the Hershey Bears, have evened up the American Hockey League championship defeating Cleveland last night 4 to 3....Dutch Hiller of the New York Rangers has been sold to Detroit at the waiver price of $5,000. Lester Patrick has evidently decided he can no longer stand pat with his outfit....Boston's winning goal was a break last night. They were changing lines on the fly last night and the Kraut line was just replacing the Conacher-Wiseman line when Schmidt broke away with the rubber and Roy Conacher who had not got off the ice wheeled and raced in to take the pass and drive home the marker that meant victory.

Tony Declares His Hand Broken; Quits The Bout

WASHINGTON, April 9—(AP).—His comeback attempt smashed by Buddy Baer's methodical jabbing and a somewhat mysterious injury to his once potent left hand, Tony Galento was just another bandaged-up heavyweight fighter to-day.

Tony, claiming his hand was broken, quit after six rounds of a scheduled 10-rounder with Baer last night, and Buddy, the Livermore, Calif., giant, was awarded a seventh-round technical knockout.

Dr. Marvin McLean, District of Columbia Boxing Commission physician, examined the badly-beaten Galento's hand in the ring as fans and officials crowded around. Dr. McLean refused to confirm Galento's claim of a break or serious injury and when Tony failed to appear early to-day for an X-ray examination at a hospital, the Commission ordered the fighter's share of the purse held up.

The Commission announced an inquiry would be started to determine whether Galento was able to continue the fight.

Tony landed his left hand on Baer's face just before he went to his corner at the end of the sixth yelling he was hurt. One of his handlers started to remove Tony's glove, and when the bell rang for the seventh Referee Eddie Lafond awarded the fight to Baer.

The New Jersey barkeep was bleeding from the nose and numerous small cuts about the face from the third round on. In the sixth, when Baer landed a score of painful jabs and twice jarred Galento with right uppercuts, Tony looked ready to call it a night.

Left and right jabs and occasional uppercuts, not of the knockout variety, were about all Buddy showed, but the Californian kept Galento at a distance after the second round through his 11-inch advantage in reach. Baer, a 6 foot 6 inch 240-pounder, gave away seven pounds to Galento.

About 8,500 spectators paid approximately $25,00 to see the fight.

BOSTON GOES TWO UP ON SERIES BY WHIPPING RED WINGS 2 TO 1

Roy Conacher Flips Winner 2 Minutes To Go

BOSTON, April 9—(CP).—Boston Bruins today seemed well on the way toward recapture of the Stanley Cup they won two years ago, but as they head with Detroit Red Wings for Detroit and the third and fourth games of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final, at least one member of the Detroit team must have concluded that virtue has no reward.

Jimmy Orlando, Detroit defenceman, led the field in penalties during the National Hockey League schedule. Orlando went penaltyless last night when Bruins beat Detroit 2-1 in the second game of the Stanley Cup final. He had a similar spotless record when Bruins won the first game 3-2 on Sunday night.

When Orlando was plowing around defence in his usual robust manner, drawing penalties right and left, Wings were successful. They finished third in the N.H.L. schedule and while Orlando drew 25 minutes in penalties in the five Stanley Cup preliminary games in which Detroit participated, Wings won four of them. Since he stopped getting penalties, Detroit has stopped winning games.

Minds His Business.

The burly one played a good game in Boston last night, starting the play for the first and only Detroit goal. He stayed on the ice and minded his business as Detroit beat off heavy Boston power plays throughout the game. But his revised attitude toward the opposition was of no value apparently, for Bruins socked home two goals late in the third to win the game and take a full-Nelson on the series.

In the third period Bruins staged a hard drive on the Detroit nets but a swift Detroit break counted the first goal when Orlando passed Syd Howe's rebound to Mud Bruneteau, who beat Brimsek from close in. Detroit showed all the fight and fire o winners for the next few minutes, then the Boston pressure began to tell.

Boston tied the score in the 14th minute when Terry Reardon converted Herb Cain's pass-out from a corner. Desse Smith had started the play. Just after that goal, Herb Cain and Harold Jackson exchanged blows in centre ice and both drew majors.

For the next few minutes play was wide open. The winning goal came when both sides were short-handed. Roy Conacher, unable to get off the ice during a Boston line change, turned from the boards and sped in on the Detroit goal with Milt Schmidt. Just after they crossed the blueline Schmidt slipped over a short pass and Conacher won the game with a 25-foot drive that Mowers didn't touch.

Joe Takes Eight To Finish Weaver Musto

ST. LOUIS, April 9—(AP). — On the basis of his showing against squat Tony Musto, Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis has a mighty rough Summer ahead of him.

Musto entered the ring last night unhonored and unsung. He left it 8½ rounds later at Referee Art Donovan's orders, bloody but unhurt except for a cut over the right eye.

The stubby Chicago Italian was the fifth straight victim fed to the champion in his stop-a-month tour and it was an unimpressive and perplexed Louis who needed almost a half hour of action to win.

Great in the past against good foes, Louis was even below the calibre he displayed two weeks ago in disposing of Big Abe Simon at Detroit.

Musto's bobbing and weaving made the champion miss frequently. The Chicagoan fought in such a crouch his head was almost at a right angle with his belt buckle and he appeared as though he were busy all the while looking at his shoelaces.

Despite the time Louis consumed there never was any doubt as to the ultimate winner of the bout that lured 17,472 customers who paid a gross of $52,993.75 to attend a ceremony a majority didn't expect to go beyond the third round.

Down One in Third

The champion, sluggish at 203¼ pounds, punched Tony to the floor in the third, but Referee Donovan got only to "one" before the challenger, who weighed 199½ despite the six-inch difference in height, was back in his half-crouch.

For the remainder of the frame Louis stood over him like a Missouri farmer waiting to caress a rooster's neck in preparation for Sunday dinner.

But he couldn't straighten Tony up and his right hand wasn't sharp enough to come up from below.

After the scrap Louis said the hand never had healed completely from a ruckus with Simon two weeks ago. "That Musto was a brave boy all the way," he added.

Musto's first comment after reaching his dressing room under his own power bore out Louis's statement.

"He doesn't hit any harder than any of the other fellows I've fought," said Musto.

10,000 Expected For Royal, Sydney Battle

MONTREAL, April 9 — (CP) — Geared for speed, Montreal Royals pitch their top-heavy offensive strength at a balanced Sydney Millionaires unit at the Forum tonight, with the stake a strangle-hold on Eastern Canada's berth in the Dominion senior hockey final.

Advance sales indicate a near sell-out crowd of 10,000 will watch the all-important fourth clash in the best-of-five series. With one draw and a victory each, the winner tonight will need only a tie in the fifth match Saturday to advance into the Allan Cup playoff with the Western champion.

Created by the ruling allowing a team to dress only 12 men in Allan Cup playdowns, the respective merits of two distinct hockey systems will be rested in the game. Sydney, Maritime titleholders, use an orthodox balanced lineup but the Quebec champion Royals are top-heavy with forwards.

Their cup bid in the past two seasons foiled primarily by defensive weakness, the Royals hoped to solve it this year by using three forward walls and only two defencemen in front of the brilliant Bill Durnan, goalie of last year's champion Kirkland Lake Blue Devils.

Sydney, on the other hand, uses two complete forward lines and an extra pair of wingers, one of whom, Bud McEachern, also is a utility defenceman, Goalie Bill Dickie, every bit as good as Durnan so far, is fronted by three defence stalwarts.

So far, neither plan has proved superior. The teams played a 3-3 draw in the first game in Ottawa and the Royals won 3-1 in their next meeting in Montreal Saturday, only to have Sydney tie it up with a 5-3 victory in Ottawa Monday night.

Remember When—

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association eight years ago today, adopted two professional playing rules. Forward passing in three zones, instead of two, was drafted into the books and kicking the puck in the third zone was ratified.

The second world balkline billiard tournament was begun in New York 35 years ago tonight. At the end of 12 days play, George F. Slosson emerged as champion, defeating Willie Hoppe.

Hershey Shades Barons 4-3 Evening Series

HERSHEY, Pa., April 9.—(AP).—The Cleveland Barons probably are thankful to be back in their home town to-day on the shores of Lake Erie.

Their Hershey "jinx" kept them from winning the American Hockey League championship against last night. Hershey won 4-3 to tie the best-of-five game final playoffs at two games apiece. The deciding game will be played at Cleveland tomorrow.

Not once has Cleveland beaten Hershey here this year. It looked as the "jinx" might be broken when Cleveland won the first and second games of the playoffs at Cleveland, but instead the "jinx" worked overtime to keep the Bears in the running. It was a Cleveland player who kicked in the winning goal for Hershey last night.

With Hershey ahead, 3-1, in the third period, Goalie Alfie Moore stopped three Hershey shots in quick succession. The third shot left the puck on Moore's pads as he lay on the ice. His team mate, Larry Molyneaux, reached for the puck, but accidentally knocked it into the net. Gordie Bruce, of Hershey, received credit for the goal.

This made the score 4-1, just enough to offset Cleveland's late rally that brought two gaols in quick succession and forced Goalie Damore to make save after save in the closing minutes to avert possible defeat.

A crowd of 7,700 saw the game.

Quakers Thump Rangers Two In Row

WINNIPEG, April 9.—(CP)—Lorne (Baldy) Northcott went out on a limb today for agile Russ Dertell, Saskatoon Quaker goalie who was the No. 1 stumbling block in a row of impediments responsible for the downfall of Winnipeg Rangers in the second game of the Western Canada junior hockey finals.

"Dertell was certainly in there Monday night," said Northcott who coaches Rangers. Quakers handed Rangers a sound 4-1 thumping Monday to even the best-of-seven series at one game each. Rangers won the first contest 6-4.

"He played an exceptional game," Northcott said. Baldy played in the National Hockey League for a number of years, first for Montreal Maroons and then for Chicago Black Hawks, and has seen numerous "exceptional" displays in the big time.

"Of course, we don't know whether he plays like that all the time, but if he does all we can do is hope for the best." Dertell blocked Rangers at every turn during the first two periods of Monday's battle, then scrambled, dived and batted his way to goaling heights by turning aside 22 blazing shots in the final session.

Good As McManus

"On his game last night he looked every bit as good as did Dinny McManus last spring when Oshawa Generals won the Canadian championship," added Northcott. Generals defeated Kenora Thistles in the finals here last year, winning the Memorial Cup for the second straight year.

Asked whether he thought Dertell showed as much promise as did Turk Broda, now goalie for Toronto Maple Leafs in the N.H.L., or Charley Rayner, whose goal tending was a feature of Kenora's climb to the Dominion finals last winter and who finished this season with New York Americans in the N.H.L., Northcott said:

"I've seen them all play and to my mind Dertell showed as much natural ability Monday as any of those fellows did at his stage of the game."

Third game of the series will take place here tonight, with the fourth in Saskatoon Saturday and the fifth scheduled for Saskatoon next Monday. If sixth and seventh games are required, they will be played Wednesday and Friday next week on Quaker ice.

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP).—It's just a week until the major league season opens, so let's get down to business and see what's going on... Bill Terry finally decided Harry (the Horse) Danning wasn't an outfielder (which anyone could have told him after watching hank misjudge flies)....But Bill still thinks so much of Danning as a catcher that he won't talk trades unless he's given his choice of any three players from the other club....Joe McCarthy's troubles with the Yanks are different....He has 14 good pitchers in camp, and he can't give them all enough work to decide which ones he will drop.

Today's Guest Star:

Zipp Newman, Birmingham News: "Fans hereabouts thought Joe E. Brown's idea of a national Connie Mack Day was a swell one...Now if the Athletics would catch the spirit and make it Connie Mack Year, it would suit lots more fans."

Jimmy Johnston, Abe Simon's manager, claims Abe really thinks he's going to be the next heavyweight champion. "And I'm not going to tell him different," adds J.J.J.....Ray Dumont, who believes even the umpires should be seen as well as heard at his national semi-pro baseball tournament, will have his arbiter dressed in white from head to foot this year....Sorry to heard that Travis Jackson, the former Giants' infielder, is a patient at a sanatorium near Shreveport, La.

Joe hit Musto with gusto
And Galento was bent-o.

President's Mother Greets Lady Halifax

President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, greets Viscountess Halifax at a luncheon in New York, given in honor of the envoy's wife by the world emergency committee of the Y.W.C.A. In receiving line are Mrs. H. P. Davidson, Lady Halifax and Mrs. J. S. Cushman.

17 Are Received Into Church At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, April 9 (ENS)—A class of young communicants was received into membership in St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday morning, when the Easter communion was observed following the sermon.

Three adult members were received, through transfer by letter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matchett and Mr. John Pinsmore, and fourteen young people by the reception ritual of the church, conducted by the minister, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., the Clerk of the Session, Dr. A. Jemison, extending the right hand of fellowship on behalf of the congregation and the church official board.

Following reception into full membership, the following received the sacrament for the first time: Teddy Sisco, Donald Edmunds, Roy Dawson, Fred Ridge, Orval Challice, Jack Kidd, Russell Kennedy, William McMasters; Mary Sanderson, Betty Thornton, Isabelle Aiken, Marguerite and Irene Powell, and Kathryn Elson.

The firemen had a short run on Sunday afternoon, about 3 p.m., owing to a bad chimney fire at the parsonage, the pipes becoming red hot from the furnace to where they entered the chimney, and thick black smoke from the latter making the air heavy in the immediate neighborhood. The use of the chemical apparatus soon put matters right, and no damage was done.

Corporal William Ridge of the Midlands, Ottawa, was home for the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ridge.

Leading Air Craftsman Kenneth Little, of the R.C.A.F., St. Thomas, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Smith and son, Connie, and Mr. Leonard Bradd, of Port Hope, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Armstrong.

Reeve W. E. and Mrs. Ball were guests at the tea hour on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Armstrong, Bailieboro.

Flying Officer E. L. Burnham, of the R.C.A.F., Manning Pool, Toronto, is home on ten days' leave, having completed his final examinations, presumably, before going overseas. He and Mrs. Burnham spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

Captain Gordon Armstrong of Debert Camp, Nova Scotia, spent a few days at the home of his mother, Mrs. H. R. Armstrong, at the week-end, and the remainder of his leave with his wife in Peterborough.

Harold McCamus, who expects to join the R.C.A.F. shortly, was home from the University of Toronto for the week-end, and was accompanied by his cousin, Miss Ruth Ball, of Whitby, both spending the brief holiday with Mr. T. A. McCamus, and her mother, Mrs. Kathleen Ball.

The annual community prayer services for Holy Week will be carried through by joint action of the three churches of the village on Wednesday, Thursday and Good Friday nights this week, opening promptly at 7.45 p.m. The general theme is: "The Royal Redeemer."

Warsaw Guild Plans Layettee

WARSAW, April 9 — (ENS). — The Anglican Ladies' Guild met at Mrs. Vivian Jackson's home on Thursday afternoon, practically all the members were present, and Mrs. Thomas Davis presided. Mrs. Elmer Cooper read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Gordon Cuffe read the minutes. The Guild decided to make a baby's layette for the Red Cross War Workers, each members making an article. The quilt the Guild had donated to war work was sold, and the funds used to buy supplies. Mrs. Jackson served afternoon tea. Next meeting will be at Mrs. Donald Davis' home.

The annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's Church was held at Mrs. Donald Davis' home on Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Floyd in charge. The secretary, Vivian Jackson, gave the cemetery report, Gordon Cuffe, people's warden, and Donald Davis, clergyman's warden, gave their reports. All the officers were returned. Gordon Cuffe is caretaker of the cemetery. There was a balance after all accounts were paid. Ladies' Guild gave their report, and have a good working balance on hand. Easter Sunday service will be at one o'clock p.m. Standard Time.

The United Church W.M.S. was held in the Sunday School Room on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. George Taylor presided. Mrs. James Hawthorne sang "I heard the Voice of Jesus say," with Mrs. Wilkinson playing the accompaniment. The study book lesson was on the Apostles of the Outposts, Newfoundland in particular, and Rev. Oliver Jackson the special missionary.

Others who took part were Mrs. Roland Payne, Mrs. Sidey, Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. Sharpe, Mrs. Harold Payne, Ms. Wilkinson. Resolution cards were distributed. Mrs. Taylor, assisted by some of the ladies, served afternoon tea.

Warsaw Town Hall was fairly well filled on Tuesday evening when the Buckhorn Y.P. under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wood, put on the play "Lena Rivers," which was most thoroughly enjoyed.

Those who have eggs to sell do not think much of the new regulations. They are an added expense unless they have large supplies and ship themselves. A customer takes a basket or crate of eggs to a merchant who simply counts them and pays the lowest price for eggs, then sends them to a central grading station. Here they are re-handled, candled and graded, the customers' slips filled with the grading and extra amount sent to the merchant, who pays it when the customer calls again.

Peterborough's Oldest Resident Mrs. G. A. Mitchell Passes Away

MRS. G. A. MITCHELL

Regarded as Peterborough's oldest resident in continuous years of living in this community, Mrs. G. A. Mitchell, 279 Sherbrooke street, died at her home last night after an illness of more than two years. She would have been ninety-six years old in September.

Mrs. Mitchell was born in Ogdensburg, N.Y., in September, 1845. When she was five years old she came to Peterborough with her parents, and she had lived here all her life. Her father, John Baker, a foundryman, was engaged to come to Peterborough to take charge of the William Hamilton Company, then, and for many years the old town's most important industry. He remained with the company until his death; his son John Jr. was also employed with the company throughout his active life time; and his grandson, Charles Baker, was foreman of the boiler shop when the operation of the plant ended within comparatively recent years.

Of the people who were living in Peterborough on the day Mrs. Mitchell arrived here as a girl with her parents, she was the only survivor, an extraordinary circumstance of a long lifetime. She had been a witness of all the marvels of invention of the Victorian era, the practical use of electricity in industry, replacing the old water power that had come down through the ages, the refinements in living, that is in community life, streets and sidewalks, stores and parks and pavements, and also in home life, typified by the relegation of candlesticks to the domestic discard.

Mrs. Mitchell had always been keenly interested in the life that flowed around her. She felt herself to be part of it, and went along perceivingly with its stream until the onset of pneumonia of old age only a few days ago. Her keen attitude toward life was to live in the present. The past was gone, and the future was not yet, and might never be for her, and the present was replete with wonders that were never dreamed of in her girlhood. Mrs. Mitchell kept in touch with current events, the war and its progress, and most of the happenings from day to day.

Her husband was G. A. Mitchell who was born on a farm in Emily township eleven miles from Peterborough. That property has been in the Mitchell family 120 years.

Mr. Mitchell was a school teacher. Two schools he taught were at Auburn and in Otonabee. Some of those who recalled their early school days under his instruction were members of the Matchett and Deyell families of Otonabee and the Curtis Brothers of Auburn.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by her son, S. H. Mitchell, and daughter, Mrs. B. Jenks, both of Peterborough.

The body is resting at the home of her son, S. H. Mitchell, 454 Mark street until 2 p.m. Thursday, when the funeral service will be held at George Street Church of which Mrs. Mitchell was the oldest member. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Hastings News

Mr. and Mrs. William Whitred spent several days in Ottawa with friends and with their son, Signaller William Whitred, who expects to be transferred to another military post.

Miss Mary Pickens, Reg.N., of Peterborough spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pickens.

Mrs. Clarence Scriver (nee Keitha Mouncey) of Detroit, with her infant daughter, Elaine Marie, has returned to Hastings from St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Clarence Scriver returned to Detroit after a two-weeks' visit with his wife and other relatives.

Saguenay Saga Is Told By Andrew Mackenzie To Men Of Knox Church

"The Empire of the Saguenay" was the subject of an interesting and unstudied lecture by Andrew McKenzie under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Knox Church last night in aid of the British War Victims' Fund.

In the simple manner of a travelogue, Mr. McKenzie took his audience far from the beaten trails of tourist traffic into the vast timber country of Quebec, up the Saguenay River to Lake St. John, and moved across to the Ontario boundary to the Gatineau, then to the canyon of the Abitibi River, to the Nipigon and finally to the Beauharnois power site on the St. Lawrence River.

His story was confined largely to the natural resources of the woods, with their production of lumber, pulpwood and newsprint, and the harnessing of tremendous water powers in both provinces, literally a great empire in the wilderness of the Laurentian hills and westerly to the watershed of James Bay. And it was embellished with little glints of humor from human nature, and with descriptive beauty that found a deep reflection in the appreciative spirit of Mr. McKenzie.

The narrative was unfolded not only against the panorama of virgin country and of men's enterprise in exploiting the resources of a great timberland, but also against successive pictures of engineering ingenuity and skill and labor in harnessing for the first time turbulent rivers whose electrical output is helping to develop the remoter places of eastern Canada. Presumably most of the electrical equipment installed in these distant power sites, to say nothing of the Beauharnois and Chats Falls, nearer the channels of commerce, was manufactured in the Peterborough plant of the Canadian General Electric Company, but Mr. McKenzie's innate modesty excluded mention of any personal connection with the places to which he conducted his audience.

Such names as Saguenay, Tadousac and Chicoutimi were invested with the reality of their past and present from Mr. McKenzie's description of them and their people and the vast engineering works have built in these and other out of the way places. With the timber country of the Saguenay and the harnessing of that tremendous river tumbling through its deep gorge, Mr. McKenzie associated the enterprise and the personality of William Price. For many years, he said, Chicoutimi had been almost an isolated community living unto itself, providing its own necessity and using its own script currency. Finally the scrip of the Price lumbering and residents worked in labor battalions.

Tactics of Poland, France

Resistance above Salonika gave way gradually as the German division, moving with the speed of the campaigns in Poland and the west, hit the lowlands where the Vardar empties into the Aegean, then wheeled eastward toward the city.

The move completed the separation of the Struma valley defence garrisons, farther east, from the rest of the Greek and British forces. Earlier, the high command announced communications with the Struma front had been broken.

In the Eastern Macedonian trap, however, the Greeks were reported determined to fight to the last man against continual heavy frontal assaults down the narrow Struma Valley from Bulgaria, disregarding the presence of the other Nazi forces at their backs.

As the Nazi legions redoubled their assaults down the valley, the forts blocking their way were reported holding out sometimes to the death of the entire garrison.

There was no suggestion of surrender.

The defence was costing the attackers thousands of lives, the Greeks declared. They said intense fire from Rupel, Usaite, Palouryoni, and Karatash forts had covered the sides of the narrow passes with Nazi bodies.

R.A.F. Hitting Hard.

British bombers operating from Greece struck at the communication and supply line behind the advancing column.

A Royal Air Force communique said: "In spite of most unfavorable weather conditions yesterday, R.A.F. bomber formations attacked with success throughout the day German motor transport and tank columns in the Strumica area of Southern Yugoslavia."

This is the section in the southeastern corner of old Serbia through which the Germans struck to take the Vardar Road to Salonika.

(Dispatches from Greece contained no estimate of the number of troops who might be cut off by the German wedge, nor any indication whether British expeditionary forces were among them. Withdrawal to the east apparently would be blocked by German forces who won a corridor to the Aegean there yesterday as the Greeks evacuated Western Thrace as indefensible.

(Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, reported from Ankara, Turkey, that some of the Greek forces who had been in Thrace were falling back toward Alexandroupolis, near the Turkish frontier.

(Winston Burdette, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent at Ankara, said in a broadcast last night that British forces were forming a second line of defence across the Greek peninsula southwest of Salonika).

The Flanking Shift.

The High Command gave this account of the sudden Nazi flanking attack:

Soon after the Palm Sunday invasion of Yugoslavia and Greece by Hitler's Balkan armies, the Yugoslavs withdrew in Southeastern Serbia (possibly in an effort to protect the important rail centre of Skoplje which the Germans reported taking yesterday).

This uncovered the Greek left flank, which had been hinged at the juncture of the Greek, Yugoslav and Bulgarian frontiers.

A German armored division which cut through Southeastern Serbia, pivoted sharply south past Lake Doiran and reached the Greek frontier Monday night.

At dawn yesterday, the division drove into Greece through a corridor east of Aixoupolis, a town along the Vardar 12 miles inside of Greece and 38 miles north of Salonika.

Despite a delaying action fought for hours by outnumbered Greek mechanized forces, the "enemy succeeded in advancing dangerously in the direction of Salonika," the high communique said.

Forts Stand Up.

A Greek spokesman said the line of forts extending from the steepsided Rupel Pass in the Vardar Valley just south of the Bulgarian frontier to the Venrokop plateau farther east had withstood continued heavy frontal assaults and beaten off efforts by German infantry to attack the Struma Valley positions from the east and west.

"Rupel fort was attacked violently by heavy artillery, strong air force units and tanks," the spokesman said. "One of the strongest attacks launched by the Germans was repelled by Greeks who held their positions. A violent attack by tanks was launched against Fort Usaite, but the German attempt was broken up...Forts Lisse, Rhinos and Nomphaia, defended by restricted forces, held fast against air bombing and shelling."

Greeks said Nazi troops got a foothold in two other forts, Perithori and Davtavil, but were driven out.

On the Albanian front, the Greek high command said strong Italian positions were taken and 500 soldiers and 10 officers captured.

ged the gap in the lines, smashing the Germans back into Bulgaria.

"Once again, the Germans broke through another spot only to be driven back, but a third time the break through succeeded."

One correspondent said the break was made with tactics like those of last Spring at Sedan when the Germans pierced the French line.

He said a small number of tanks first penetrated the Yugoslav line, followed by a flood of armored cars and trucks packed with soldiers.

The newspaper men said the Germans concentrated the full striking power of their air force on railroads in Yugoslavia during the first two days of fighting, bombing every station from Skopije to the Greek frontier.

merous Nazi parachutists and had smashed repeated German tank assaults.

No Claims of Gains

The Germans reported they had captured numerous prisoners on this front, but made no claims of specific gains.

The silence which had shrouded Belgrade since the German invasion began Sunday was broken last night when the Yugoslav government broadcast a communique saying: "On all fronts the situation is in our favor."

MAIN STREET TOPICS

COMMUNITY GARDENS

Continuance of community gardens will be considered by the relief committee of the council this evening. It is understood that the committee is in favor of this work being carried on again.

TO RED CROSS WORKERS

Red Cross workers are requested to note that the work room at the Public Library will be closed on Good Friday, and wool cannot be given out that day. Suspension of its activity will be only for one day; woll may be obtained again on Saturday.

DRIVE CAREFULLY

Motorists report that the gravel section of No. 7 highway east of Peterborough has heaved in several spots where the frost is coming out of the ground, and driving at high speed on this road is courting trouble. The bad spots are marked and highway crews are busy making what repairs are possible. There is a bad spot also between Lakefield and Young's Point.

THE DRIVE GOES ON

Pressure of Easter examinations failed to halt the selling drive by Collegiate students and the report for the week just finished is on a par with other weeks, when the students had more time. Total sale of War Savings Stamps for the week was $540.00 and for War Savings Certificates the amount taken in was $232.00, an increase over the previous week.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS

The Peterborough Branch of the Grenfell Labrador Mission is making the annual appeal for funds. These gallant people of British stock have been sending their men to fight for the Empire mostly with the British Navy and Merchant Marine while the women are endeavoring to carry on at home. Canadians are asked not to fail these men and contributions will be gratefully received by the treasurer, Mrs. G. R. Langley, 239 Burnham street, or they may be left at the Examiner.

SONGSTERS TO TORONTO

The Songster Bridage of the Salvation Army is going to Toronto Saturday to assist Commissioner Orames in the Easter Sunday services. Fifty-four choristers are leaving the Simcoe Street Temple by chartered bus at 1.30 p.m. on Saturday. A special Easter pageant is being presented at the local Temple Good Friday night, under the direction of Mrs. Henry Parnell. The soloist will be Mrs. Mendell Braund, and Mrs. S. Routly will be at the organ. Adjutant Buckley will speak.

CHEESE BONUS.

Payment of the cheese bonus for the last three months of 1940 probably would be made shortly, Agriculture Minister Gardiner told Gordon Fraser in the House of Commons Tuesday.

LITTLE TRAPPING YET

Indians report little successful trapping so far, the ice conditions handicapping the efforts of the trappers. The ice is still solid in the lakes and marshes, although the creeks are now open.

CONTINUE AS RETAILERS

A. Blade & Son, west end florists, announce today that they are discontinuing the growing of flowers, but will continue their retail business.

LENTEN SERVICE

The Lenten Service conducted under the auspices of the Ministerial Association is being held this evening in St. Paul's church with the Rev. Robert Moynan of Toronto preaching. On Thursday evening it will be in Knox church.

NEW WAY?

The highway sign post at the northeast corner of Reid and McDonnel streets spells Chemong with a "u" and has Peterborough citizens wondering if the spelling has been changed recently. The spelling, as it appears on the sign is C-h-e-m-u-n-g.

CHILD IS HIT

Three-year-old Kerry Shannon, Lansdowne street, was bruised and shaken up Tuesday afternoon when she ran into a passing automobile and was knocked down by the bumper. The car was driven by Ronald Stuart, 53 Park street, who was driving west on Lansdowne street. Another car and truck had passed in an easterly direction and the child had run out as soon as they had gone by, police report.

STAINER'S CRUCIFIXION will be sung in ALL SAINTS' CHURCH GOOD FRIDAY EVENING at 8 p.m. with full choir and first class soloists. All seats free. Collection for choir expenses.

Two Women Are Given Freedom

Helen House and Mary Rogers, two Toronto women who were arrested here after the attempted jail-break in the county jail last Thursday night re-gained their liberty this morning when the crown offered no evidence against them on a charge of vagrancy and their cases were dismissed.

Noel George Charon and Morris Rosenfarb, two Toronto men who were arrested at the same time were not so fortunate.

They pleaded not guilty to a similar charge this morning but Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., asked for a remand.

Mannis Frankel who represented the two objected.

"I don't think my friend will be in a better position to proceed a week from now than he is now," said defence counsel. "I would suggest that these cases should be adjourned with the understanding that if either of these men is ever found again within fifty miles of Peterborough he will be immediately re-arrested."

Mr. McElderry however would not consent to that disposition of the case.

"There are other matters that the police are investigating at the present time," he told the court.

"I don't know that that in itself is sufficient reason to justify a remand," replied Magistrate Langley.

"A number of witnesses is not here," added the crown attorney.

A remand was effectived until April 17, Mr. Frankel declaring that he would have to be in Kitchener on Wednesday and that he would consent to a remand until the following day.

Nearly 15,000 spiritualists of Brazil recently held a meeting in Curitiba.

Grand Old Lady Of Young's Point Marks Her Ninety-first Birthday

MRS. RICHARD ANGLESEY

Ninety-one years of age today, but still she knits mitts for the sailors in the navy. This is the proud record of Mrs. Richard Anglesey, life long resident of the Young's Point district, who is quietly observing her birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Young, a mile north of Young's Point.

Mrs. Anglesey was born in Tipperary, Ireland, and came to Canada with her parents when she was three years of age. Her maiden name was Margaret Gleason, and she is the daughter of the late William Gleason and Honorah Coleman, pioneers of the north country who followed close behind the Youngs when they first settled the Point.

After the stormy passage across the Atlantic and up through Ontario, the elder Gleason purchased the partially cleared landsite now occupied by Joe Ayotte on the Burleigh Road, and he finished clearing the land, built barns, and enlarged the cabin. Here the family was raised and every day they walked down to Young's Point to attend school.

Old Log School

"The first school I attended in Young's Point was a log cabin and the roof was so low that we could stand up and touch the rafters. This building was on the property the school still occupies and when the new school was built this old cabin served for years as a woodshed," Mrs. Anglesey said.

A rugged constitution and a kindly disposition are two assets which served to help Mrs. Anglesey through the world with a minimum of friction, and she looks back today on a host of pleasant memories.

She married Richard Anglesey and the marriage was blessed with nine children, all of whom are living. They include in order of age, Samuel of Toronto; Pat Anglesey of Peterborough; Mrs. Cyril Tarte (Maggie) of Hamliton; Mrs. T. F. Hollihan, (Mary) of Royal Oak, Michigan; William of Chicago; Mrs. W. C. Young, (Norah) Young's Point; Frank of St. Paul, Minn.; James of Toronto and Jack of Detroit. Mrs. Lewis Lebarr of Peterborough is a niece. There are thirteen grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Anglesey still reads the Examiner, wearing spectacles and she is worried over the war. Her sympathetic nature makes all other peoples troubles, her troubles, and even if a stranger has a motor accident with bodily injury, this kindly old lady voices sympathy for him when she reads about it in the newspaper.

Practice Moderation

Moderation in everything is the secret of longevity, Mrs. Anglesey says. "Years ago the old women used to have their long clay pipes and they would smoke by the fire and at all social gatherings. I can't see that a cigarette now and then will hurt any woman so long as she doesn't abuse the habit and smoke heavy."

"I do object to a girl wearing dresses too short. I don't like to see a girl's knees and I think if they wore them just four inches below the knees, they would still be comfortable and stylish, but modest as well."

Mrs. Anglesey can recall when the men used to fish through the ice in the winter time and she said it was not unusual for a man to catch ten or twelve maskinonge in a day. This was before the game laws came into existence, and white fish were also caught in Clear Lake.

Thirty-eight years ago, the Anglesey family moved to Peterborough from Young's Point and they lived at 149 Rubidge street for about eight years, at which time Richard Anglesey the father died, and since then for the most part, the mother has lived with her daughter, Mrs. Young.

"We should be patient for we know Hitler will be vanquished. Napoleon ran on for a long time, but he flew in the face of God and he lost most of his army retreating from Russia. God will punish Hitler when the time is right and I hope that time will be soon." Mrs. Anglesey said when the reporter started to talk about the war.

Commit Youth On Assault Count

Ted Corrigan, 22, of Downer's Corners, was committed for trial by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning, after a preliminary hearing of the charge against him of assaulting Mrs. Charles Yardley of Downer's Corners with intent to rob her.

The hearing began late on Tuesday afternoon with the accused defended by W. J. Arthur Fair and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuting.

Mrs. Yardley at Tuesday's session told the court that she was alone in her house when she heard a tap at the door. A man with a plaid scarf over his eyes and wearing a brown hat had come in and demanded her money. When she told him she hadn't any she said that the man seized her by the shoulder and pulled her around several times, still demanding money. She thought her assailant had something black in his hand. Finally she said when no money was produced the man had left the premises.

Mrs. Yardley said the scarf and hat produced in the court had been worn by the man who attacked her. To-day John M. Lowes, Otonabee market gardener, told of driving past Mrs. Yardley's house on the way to Peterborough on the day of the alleged assault. He said he saw Corrigan standing about 200 yards north of the Yardley home and as the witness approached, Corrigan had started walking south in the direction of the Yardley residence.

Provincial Constable David Silvester said that he had searched Corrigan's home, armed with a search warrant, on March 25, after arresting Corrigan on the previous day, and that he had found the plaid scarf and the brown hat that had been produced in court.

"It's a wonder you did not arrest me," said Mr. Fair. "I have been wearing a scarf and a brown hat all winter."

"I know. I've seen you," said Constable Silvester.

The officer stated that Corrigan's mother had told him that the hat did not belong to Ted but was the property of his brother.

FOTO-NITE AT THE REGENT

Mrs. Ken Campbell's name was the first name selected. As she was present at the theatre, Mrs. Campbell will receive $100.

Ask $20,000 Bail

KITCHENER, Ont., April 9 (CP)—Bail of $20,000 cash or two "substantial" securities of $20,000 each was set by Magistrate John R. Blake for both John Charles Parkes, Windham Centre, and Joseph Feeney, Toronto, appearing in police court today on two charges of armed robbery of a bank and a further charge of shooting with intent to kill. Both were remanded for one week at the request of defence counsel A. W. Boos.

Lakefield Band Concert Aids Funds By $19.14

Contributions to the Peterborough District War Victims' Fund neared the $12,000.00 mark today, as donations came in from the district with the Citizens' Band of Lakefield adding $19.14, the proceeds from a concert held recently.

Amazing returns are going to the fund from raffles conducted throughout the city under the approval of the fund director, F. G. Mann; and today the highlight is the returns from tickets sold on a dog donated by W. E. Welch, well-known dog breeder, who handed over the pedigreed animal along with the papers for the lucky winner. Employees of the Canadian General Electric Company undertook the sale of tickets and with characteristic thoroughness put the job across in top style.

The draw was made at the Examiner office by Rollie Glover, who lifted ticket No. 444 from the box, and the new dog owner is J. Dunlop, 76 Aylmer street, Peterborough. The total proceeds from the raffle is $183.25.

Last week the fifth £500 was sent to the air raid victims in England, and already $700 has been raised towards the next £500.

$10.00 From Fraserville

Fraserville Community Service Club added their support to this Eastern Ontario fund today, when they sent in a cheque for $10.00, indicating that another small district centre was behind the drive to raise money for the English people. Bewdley, further down the highway, will probably be the next to report.

The Y.P.U. at Fairmount in the Cavan district sent along $7 to keep the contributions coming from this section, which has supported the fund in a generous manner for several weeks now.

Junior Red Cross, Queen Alexandra School, Grade 6, and Mrs. A. Denmark returned with repeat donations today, each adding $2 to the fast-growing total. This group of small children at Queen Alexandra School deserve credit for its fine work.

J. McKerchar, bank manager at Lakefield, had another donation to turn over today along with the contribution from the Citizens' Band, when he received $6 from the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Every week some organization in Lakefield gets the name of the village into the column of donors to this praiseworthy effort.

The complete list is as follows:

Make Church Centre Of New Order

A large congregation is expected at St. Paul's Church tonight when the Union Holy Week service will be held in that church, and special prayers for peace through victory will be included in the devotional program.

The service was held in Murray Street Baptist Church on Tuesday evening, with the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe conducting the service and the Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church led in prayer. Mrs. Walter McCall sang the lovely old hymn, "Rock of Ages," and among the special Easter numbers sang by the choir under the direction of Arthur Collison, was "They Have Crucified My Lord."

Rev. Robert Moynan is the guest preacher for the services at the different churches during the week, and last evening, the second service on the week's series of sermons dealing with the "Unique Things of the Gospel," he spoke on "Lost Chords in Modern Christianity."

Christianity The Only Cure.

During his sermon he emphasized the uniqueness of the Christian ideal of the Kingdom of God, particularly in contrast to the various isms that are flourishing today and which claim solutions to the complex problems of our modern world. It was the speaker's opinion that in this world in our day when so many great problems face the people, there is a great need for a new world order and the Church is not making enough of her social ideals as represented in Christ's conception of the Kingdom of God.

Christ's inaugural address was a message on the Kingdom ideal and it formed a large part of His earthly ministry. So fundamental was it in His thinking that He commanded that men should "Seek first the Kingdom of God." The unique emphasis in Christian social ideal is that stress is placed not on legislation that will change wrong conditions but changing me who in turn will change the conditions that make life oppressive and miserable for so many. He declared that the logic of the New Testament ruled out any possibility of a new social order succeeding that did not recognize the necessary of creating a new people —that the reformation of society is dependent upon the reformation of the individual. Hence the significance of the old gospel exhortation, "Ye must be born again." This all indicates that religion, the religion of Jesus, was not only something to believe in but something to work out in all aspects of our daily lives.

Cyclist Suffers Injury To Legs

Bob Kent, 16 years old, of 386 Murray street received scratches and bruises on both legs and an injured ankle in a traffic accident at Charlotte and George streets last night when the bicycle he was riding came into collision with an automobile.

Stanley Dunford, R.R. 3, Peterborough, was driving north on George street and was just crossing the Charlotte street intersection when Kent rode down George street on his bicycle and made a left turn in front of Dunford's car to go east on Charlotte street. There was a collision and the boy was knocked off his bicycle and fell under the front wheels of the motor vehicle but fortunately was not run over. His bicycle was wrecked.

116,000 Needed To Reinforce Canadian Army

OTTAWA, April 9—(CP).—In the first public appeal for recruits since the war began, Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power and Navy Minister Macdonald last night said upwards of 116,000 men would be needed during the current year to reinforce Canada's armed forces.

The three ministers spoke over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Their addresses disclosed the army will absorb up to 72,000 men in the year, the air force about 35,000, and the navy about 9,000.

In his review of air force needs, Maj. Power stressed the need for at least 2,500 radio technicians to operate Britain's new weapon against German air attacks. He said it is "of vital importance that we get these men and that we get them immediately."

Mr. Macdonald said one of the navy's pressing needs was for marine engineers. The immediate requirement in this field was 250 men.

Col. Ralston, referring to enlistment of skilled workmen in the army, said he thought a highly-skilled man engaged in war production "can be of better service to his country just now by sticking at his trade for the present and giving the chance to serve to others who will make fine soldiers but who can be better spared from war industry."

Machine Gun Team Is Awarded Cups

"D" Coy. of the Prince of Wales Rangers was honored last night on Battalion parade, when Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., ED., presented Major James McGrath, M.M., with a shield emblematic of the machine gun team from that company now holding the regimental championship. The presentation was accompanied by the giving of cups to the four members of the winning team, Cpl. R. E. Huffman, Pte. P. Beattie, Pte. E. A. Nicholls and Pte. R. E. Woodhouse, all of number 13 platoon, under the command of Lieut James Turner.

In making the presentations, Col. Dewart said he would like to associate the name of Turner with that of Major McGrath in receiving the shield, and wished the company luck in future competitions.

Sees US 100 Days From Mass Production

WASHINGTON, April 9—(AP).—Charging that the United States is 100 days from mass production of defence supplies, John D. Biggers said yesterday that "every industrial manager, every worker must realize that the history of the world may depend on what we all do in these 100 days."

He appeared before the House of Representatives committee investigating delays in the defence program.

Biggers, defence production director in the office of Production Management, testified after Labor Secretary Frances Perkins had said that labor and employer had a responsibility to co-operate in avoiding delays in defence production.

Miss Perkins was the first witness in the committee's investigation of labor conditions in defence industries.

Biggers contended that some manufacturers are "hoarding unwarranted stocks" of strategic materials through "selfishness," and thereby creating a defence shortage. He added:

"Some union leaders, also prompted by selfishness, are sponsoring unnecessary strikes. They also are impeding our program."

Recording More Chapters In Nazi Aggression

This picture, released by the German propaganda machine, and radioed from Berlin, records for history one more barbaric encroachment on free countries which would not bow the knee to the Nazi war god. It shows German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, RIGHT, listening while an aide reads Hitler's message to his armed hordes poised on the Greek and Yugoslav borders, which sent them over the boundaries of these two Balkan nations. The group listening with Von Ribbentrop are referred to as news correspondents.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

The plans were stolen from the Manhattan offices of the Pump Engineering Service Corp.

Variety Program Proves Huge Success

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9. — (ENS).—St. John's Young People's Union scored a success with their variety program staged in the Sunday school parlour of the church in place of the regular meeting. The program which has been planned for the past two weeks presented a variety of talent and brought representatives of nearly every church organization to the platform with some contribution to the evening, thus bringing a large adience.

President of the Y.P.U. Len Smith presided at the opening expressing satisfaction at the tremendous support the entertainment was given and thanking all those who by the contribution of their time and talent had assisted in making the program possible. He called on Rev. G. N. Maxwell who was chairman of the evening. One of the principal features of the program was a short comedy drama presented by the combined forces of the Woman's Association and the W.M.S. entitled "Thursday's At Home." Characters for this were Mrs. J. D. Mills as Mrs. Samuel Larkin; Mrs. W. F. Scott as Miss Post; Mrs. A. D. Bennett as Sara the maid; Mrs. A. J. Armour as Prudence Pearce, the book agent; Mrs. A. E. Burgiss as Mrs. Metz; Mrs. A. G. Watson as Henrietta the beauty specialist; Mrs. E. C. Roberts, Hilda the carpet sweeper sales lady; Mrs. C. K. Stephen, the vacuum cleaner saleslady; Miss Grace Payne as Vera Ketchum the photographer.

Other contributions were from the beginners class under Leitha Davidson and Doris Mason which provided three recitations by Barbara Fox, Billy Fink and Dorothy Ferris. The Mission Band in charge of Mrs. G. N. Maxwell offered a short dialogue by John Bale and Arthur Labrash. The Primary Class in charge of Gladys Stephen provided three spring songs by June Ames, Patsy Redden and Carol McArthur. The Brownies under Miss Grace Payne did their "Opening ceremonies," while the Guides did an amusing skit entitled "The Awkward Squad." From the Boys' Brigade came Jack Bleecker, who gave a piano solo and from the Board of Stewards came Geo. Lucy to give a vocal number, "The Old Refrain." The choir provided a mixed quartette by Mrs. S. Twigg, Miss Nellie Hoover, Mr. H. M. Donald, Mr. G. W. Lucy with Mr. Chas. A. Howie providing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Frank Potts of the Mission Circle gave a vocal solo and Miss Patricia Ironside representing the Sunday school, gave a piano solo. Two readings by Mrs. Donald Holmes of the Y.P.U. wound up the program. During the intermission the Young People sold homemade candy.

Sabotage Charged

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Bernice and Mr. Bradley quarrel, then, strangely, make up. Lunching together, Bee discovers that he is ambitious, anxious to improve Huntington's. She is delighted, compliments him. He asks for a date.

BEE KEEPS A DATE

CHAPTER XIII

Beatrice could scarcely wait until she had cornered Toby Masters in one of the fitting rooms.

"Mr. Bradley asked me for a date!"

Toby's eyes flew wide open and her mouth gaped. "Eureka!" She looked at Beatrice knowingly. "And you're kinda worked up about it, too. Aren't you the gal who said she wouldn't be interested?"

The store was mobbed with customers, they had to hurry back to the floor. But all through the afternoon Beatrice was happy and excited.

She wore a Scotch Sale badge, now. She pointed to it, once, when Mr. Bradley's eye caught hers, and he grinned. At 5:30, when the closing gong sounded through the store, he bent over her as she totaled her sales. "I don't know where you live," he whispered.

"Flatbush." She scribbled the address hastily on the edge of her tally card. He looked at it, then she erased it. There was a rule in the store that employes must not have dates. Grandfather, evidently, had come to the conclusion that it ruined efficiency.

On the subway, she wondered why she had never been as eager and expectant about her dates with young men who bore the names of famous families, young men who spent more money in a week, probably, than Mr. Bradley earned in a year.

She caught Toby's sleeve. "Mr. Bradley! I don't even know his first name!"

"Neither do I," said Toby. "But I'll ask him as soon as he sticks his nose in the door. By the way, do you want Vera and me to evaporate?"

"Oh, no!" The idea of entertaining Mr. Bradley in the apartment alone left her panicky. "No, you must stay."

"This is Wednesday," calculated Toby heartlessly. "Not likely that he's got much money, so close to pay day. So he won't be taking you out. Are you sure you want us to stick around the whole evening?"

As soon as they reached home, Toby told Vera the news. "She's captured the idol of the department. Handsome Bradley, six feet two in his stocking feet. Wait till you see him, Vera. He puts Terry definitely in the shade."

"I don't value Terry for his beauty," said Vera. She cupped her chin in her hands and asked dreamily, "Shall we hang Japanese lanterns around the place in honor of your floor walker, Bee? Or would a little judicious dusting be plenty?"

"I'll clean up myself," Beatrice told her. "And if you two will kindly keep the lid on your own particular brand of low humor, I'll appreciate it."

"I can only answer for myself," said Vera. "But you know Terry."

"What? Is that egg coming around tonight?" Toby cried.

"He is."

"Be a sport, Vera," Toby suggested. "Take him walking in the park."

But Terry, who arrived shortly afterward, refused to walk in the park. "I want to see this guy," he insisted. "Here I've been working on Bee for days, trying to fix up a date for a friend of mine, and she's too highhate. Let this wonder crooks his finger—"

"If you tell him that, I'll murder you!"

Terry settled himself on the studio couch. "You can't object if I merely point out to him that you're a very, very tasty dish; miles above my ilk; a user of impeccable diction; an abominable cook, but beautiful?"

Terry nearly always made Beatrice uncomfortable, for he had shrewdly discerned too many things about her. She went straight to the point. "Mr. Bradley possesses a Harvard accent to match my own high-brow diction, darling. He, too, is not a toothpick addict."

"We guttersnipes enjoy gawping at the upper classes," said Terry.

"No sir, no park for me. I stay right here!"

Beatrice was feverishly combing her hair, trying for the dozenth time to make the curls stay put the way they used to, when the doorbell rang. She ran out of the bedroom. "Terry, one wisecrack and I slay you!" She went to the door.

* * *

Mr. Bradley stood in the hall with his hat in his hand. "Come in," Beatrice greeted him. She leaned forward. "What's your first name?" she whispered. "Toby's going to say something dreadful the first chance she gets and I want to be prepared."

"Anthony. What's yours?"

"Bee."

They went in together. He seemed to dwarf the tiny living room and Terry cried out at once, "Watch it! You'll knock your head on the door frame!"

"Mr. Bradley," Beatrice said "This is Mr. Terence Donahue. Guaranteed worthless. This is Vera Conlon, and, of course, you know Toby Masters."

Terry moved over on the sofa, and Anthony sat down. Beatrice thought "What do I do now?" At home, she would have rung for the maid and cocktails on a tray would have appeared. But cocktails were sinful luxuries in Flatbush.

Terry came to the rescue. "Bee doesn't want me to talk to you, Bradley," he said with a perfectly straight face. "That makes things a little complicated. Because I'd like to know how it feels to spend most of your waking hours in a dress department. Surrounded by dames and bargains."

"It feels awful," said Anthony. "What do you do?"

"I'm a photographer."

"I used to be a nut about cameras when I was at school. I still have a Leica I trot out when I can manage to buy a film. What kind of photography do you do?"

* * *

The awkward moment had been bridged, and half an hour later Beatrice was wondering whether Anthony had come here to see her or to talk cameras with Terry.

"You see what happens when a gal has no privacy," Toby said, when they went into the closet-kitchenet to make coffee. "This is what broke up every one of my four romances."

Terry and Anthony were still talking when the two girls carried in the filled cups.

Beatrice thought, "Is this what he came for? To sit around, talk to Terry—and waste time?"

Her own resentment and sharp disappointment amazed her. She looked at Anthony's dark hair, rumpled as always, and the clean line of his jaw. Something stirred inside her. And then Anthony's eyes lifted. He smiled at her, and the smile was like a signal, above the heads of the others.

"How about you and I going out and leaving these people flat, Bee?"

Omemee Boys' Band Concludes Most Successful First Year

OMEMEE, April 9—(ENS). — The executive committee of the Omemee Boys' Band Association held its first annual meeting along with short band concert and dinner in Coronation Hall on Monday evening.

The program opened with Bandmaster Ormiston welcoming the parents and guests of the evening, followed by a short band concert.

The tables, with white covers, with decorated with Spring flowers, and a beautiful dinner was served by the mothers of the boys in the band. One hundred and twenty-five guests were present.

E. Faulkner, president, was chairman of the evening, and Mr. Ormiston told of the work of the band in the past year and of playing their first concert on April 26. Mr. Ormiston introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Leonard Richer, supervisor of music for the Ontario Department of Education.

Mr. Richer said, "I have not heard a better boys' band after one year's training, and the boys should be proud of their director. Six things to keep in mind always are: Attack, Tone, Tune, Phrasing, Expression and Rhythm."

Mr. Richer urged the parents that if the boys do well, let them know it. "Teach the boy to blow a horn; he is lest likely to blow a safe," he declared.

Rev. R. M. Patterson thanked Mr. Richer on behalf of the boys and committee.

Reports of the year were presented and the following officers were elected: President, E. W. Faulkner; vice-president, Walter Thurston; secretary, A. L. Williamson; treasurer, H. Burke. Advisory Committee.—Honorary members, Rev. R. M. Patterson; committee, Mrs. J. L. Brooks, Albert Carroll. Mrs. Fred Faulkner, G. Griffith, Harry Brown, W. Ormiston, S. Hart, W. Northey and David Weir.

Finance committee—H. Burke, David Weir and W. Northey.

The statement for the year ending February 28, showed:

Receipts.—Boys' dues, $544.00; donations and concert receipts, $542.-03; refunds from Mr. Ormiston, $15.50. Total, $1,101.53.

Disbursements. — Mr. Ormiston, for instruction, $560.50; music, $54.22; instruments, $257.00; other expenses, $164.58; balance in bank, $65.23. Total, $1.101.53.

Liabilities.—Owing to Bossey and Hawkes, Toronto. $188.00.

Assets.—One E-flat brass, value $293.00; two E-flat alto horns, value $192.00; 30 folding chairs, value $15.00. Total, $500.00; less 15% depreciation, $75.00; $425.00 excess of assets over liabilities, $237.00.

Radio Mechanics Needed By R.C.A.F.

Continuing the practice of recruiting for the Royal Canadian Air Force in Peterborough, a mobile recruiting unit will visit this city on Thursday, April 17. The greatest need at the present time is for recruits to undergo training as radio mechanics.

Recruiting will again be carried out in the committee rooms at the City Hall and full details will be given later in this column.

Many inter-American conferences are scheduled for this year.

Dental Survey Been Completed Among Separate School Children

"It is amazing how many of these children, and all of public school age, who have trouble with their teeth will require complete extraction." These were the words of Dr. L. A. Clarke, Medical Officer of Health, in speaking of the teeth of the pupils in Peterborough Separate Schools. A survey has recently been made, and the results suggest deplorable conditions exist.

The vital statistics listed in the monthly report for March include 72 live births, two still births, 30 deaths and 29 marriages. Heart conditions are still the most prevalent in death causes, and in March 13 deaths were due to this cause.

In the report, teeth of children was most under discussion, and the medical officer of health said it would be a conservative estimate to set the figure at $10,000 if all necessary repairs were made at the usual expense. There were 152 cases of German Measles in the city last month, and three of spinal meningitis. The reports of the findings of the travelling chest clinic has been encouraging, and no new cases were found in Peterborough in March.

Permission was granted H. J. McCannan by the Board, to install a septic tank to service three new houses on the sub-division south of Douglas avenue, and east on Monaghan road for a period of two years, within which time it is expected that sufficient houses will have been built to warrant the installation of proper sewage systems.

Dr. Clarke disclosed that registration of all parrots and similar birds in the city has begun, with a view to ensuring residents against the disease affecting Torontonians currently, and rising out of the keeping of infected birds. Only one bird in Peterborough is under suspicion, but it has been decided that the services of a veterinary be procured that all suspected birds may be examined and the dangerous ones destroyed. When asked by Chairman James Dutton if the situation required such steps, Dr. Clarke pointed to the death of a Toronto woman from this disease "the other day."

The salaries of two women employees of Queen Mary Isolation Hospital are to be adjusted at the discretion of the chairman of the Board, it was decided, and the bill against the Peterborough Fire Department, re attention to Electrician Joseph Astles has been stamped paid because of wiring he did while there.

He's Going Ahead FAST

He's found out how to keep in trim

THERE'S one handicap to success that no one can afford to ignore ...the tired, listless feeling that comes from a sluggish system. Yet thousands who have it could take steps to prevent it.

A Pleasant way to help prevent Sluggish System

Sluggish system may result from a lack of bulk in the diet. Such cases should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. They provide natural bulk to keep food wastes moving—to help prevent sluggishness.

So don't wait until you feel below par. Start now to eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly. They have a crisp, delicious, nut-like flavour. If this does not prevent constipation due to lack of bulk, see a physician.

Miss Muriel Curtis of Chatham is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Curtis, Park Hill Road.

Miss Shirley Heckman will spend the Easter week-end at Parry Sound, where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Harris.

Miss Marion Dinner, of Bracebridge, is celebrating her eighth birthday to-day at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. H. Lynch.

Commencing on Thursday, the Juvenile Department of the Public Library will be open from two until five p.m. in place of from three to six p.m., during the Easter vacation.

Miss Betty Darling of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, has recovered sufficiently from a recent operation at the Private Pavilion, Western Hospital, to return to her home.

Twenty-five tons of surplus Ontario fruit is being put to good use by the Ontario Women's Institute. It is being turned into jam for the Canadian soldiers overseas and for London relief purposes as well.

Mrs. Malcolm Fletcher and daughter Dianne of Weller Street are leaving to-day to spend several weeks at Debert, Nova Scotia, where Corporal Malcolm Fletcher of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders is stationed.

As is the annual custom during Holy Week, St. John's Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary attended the Monday evening service in a body. The April meeting was held after the service with the president, Mrs. W. Downer, in the chair. The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary is to be held in Toronto the first week in May, at which Mrs. Downer will represent the branch. Final arrangements were made for a tea to be held on Wednesday afternoon, April 23, at the home of Miss Ida Wesley, 539 George Street. It was decided to display the bale at this tea. The meeting closed with the Members' Prayer.

Miss Amy Curtis, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Curtis, is able to be out again after a long period of convalescence from a badly fractured leg.

F. E. Britnell, R.C.A.F., St. Thomas, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Britnell, 335 Rogers Street.

Miss Mary Ross, in charge of the local V.O. Branch, and Mrs. F. J. Lynch, member of the Board of Directors, have been appointed delegates to the annual convention of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada, which is to take place at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, on May 7.

Final arrangements for a tea and display of antiques at the home of Mrs. H. C. Scotcheran, 455 Gilmour street, were made at the monthly meeting of the Afternoon Branch of St. John's W.A., held Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. M. Cruthers in the chair. The Litany was read by Mrs. Cruthers in the absence of Canon W. P. Robertson. Letters of thanks were read from Stanley Jarvis, prayer partner, and his wife. Two members of the W.A. now living in Toronto are to be contacted in connection with the annual meeting of the group. Tea was served after the meeting.

Work Of W.M.S. Will Be Greater After War

Mrs. T. Taylor, Reid street, was hostess to the members and visitors of the Helen Roger Auxiliary for their Easter thank-offering meeting. Mrs. Howard Clegg presided. During the business period Mrs. D. Gourley gave an appropriate article on "Gardens of Friendliness." An appeal from the I.O.D.E. for new clothes and blankets was announced.

Mrs. Dan McRae had charge of the worship service, which she introduced with a suitable "Call to Worship." Assisting her were Mrs. A. Hutchinson, who offered prayers, and Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt, who presented the Bible reading on the theme "Following the Way of Love to Victory." Mrs. Zufelt exemplified three types of love, a mother's love; love of country such as has driven the heroic Greeks to victory over a foe vastly superior in numbers and equipment; and Christ's self-giving love, which led to victory even over death.

Mrs. Clegg introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. F. J. Harris, Presbyterial Community Friendship Secretary. Mrs. Harris opened her talk, "Getting Acquainted," by reading a challenging portion of the third chapter of Ezekiel. In her remarks she introduced several outstanding missionaries who are working in widely separated parts of the world, and gave interesting insights into the lives of these truly consecrated people. In commenting on the work of the W.M.S. in outlying parts of Northern Ontario and Western Canada, Mrs. Harris predicted that the task would be even greater at the conclusion of the present war, when large numbers of European immigrants will seek new homes in Canada. "We must therefore be ready to send them missionaries, and aid in making of them loyal new Canadians," she declared.

Mrs. Norman Hughes sang "One Holy Hour," and afterward tea was served during a short social period. The May meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. I. Oesch, 165 Stewart street.

Donald-Armstrong Vows Are Pledged

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9 (ENS)—A pretty wedding took place at Christ's Church rectory here Tuesday morning when Helen Irene Armstrong, youngest daughter of Sergt. and Mrs. E. H. Armstrong, Margaret street, became the bride of Pte. Stewart Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Donald, Wallace street. Rev. T. S. Gault officiated.

The bride wore a tailored pale blue crepe dress with matching hat and accessories, with a corsage of Sweetheart roses. Mrs. D. Flint, sister of the bride, was her only attendant and she also chose a pale blue ensemble with a corsage of Sweetheart roses. Pte. D. Flint assisted the groom. Following the ceremony Pte. and Mrs. Donald left on a wedding trip.

Salvage Campaign Soon To Open In Peterborough

His Worship the Mayor and Alderman Sullivan assured Mrs. R. J. Kearns, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the City War Service Council, that the City Council would give every assistance to the Auxiliary's promotion of a salvage campaign in the city and district at a special meeting held in the Council Chambers Tuesday afternoon to describe the purposes of the drive.

Plans were formulated to secure the Utilities yard as a centre for collected salvage, and announcement was made that posters and leaflets outlining the general plan of the organization, giving directions concerning co-operation between citizens and the local Auxiliary, and stating the material to be salvaged, are soon to be distributed. Chief Gimblett, chairman of the City War Service Council, was in the chair for the meeting.

The campaign is Government sponsored, and is to be undertaken by cities throughout the Dominion. Plans for the Peterborough collection are underway, and the part citizens can play in making the campaign a success will be announced in a few days.

The thought behind the plan is to help Canada's war effort by lowering the amount of materials that have to be imported into Canada for war activities, thus conserving foreign exchange.

Early April Wedding

Spring Tea Is Held By I.O.D.E.

A spring tea held by Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. at the home of Mrs. A. E. Edmonds, 191 Sherbrooke Street, was a delightful affair of Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. F. L. Robinson, regent, received with the hostess, and Mrs. W. A. Davern was tea convener in the absence of Mrs. A. E. Dryland, who is ill.

A low bowl of iris, snapdragon and daffodils centred the tea table, flanked by tall tapers in lavender and yellow. Mrs. Warren Darcy presided, Mrs. Robert Ross was living-room hostess, and assistants in the tea room were Mrs. F. W. Burnham, Mrs. Fred Mowry, Mrs. F. A. Archibald, Mrs. C. M. Cox.

Tickets on a cake draw, won by Mrs. G. A. Borland, were sold by Mrs. Arthur Robinson, and tickets on a quilt, for which the draw is to be made later, were in charge of Mrs. W. A. Davern. Mrs. Arthur Robinson was treasurer.

V.O. Staff Gives Attention To 91 Cases Duing March

Attention was given to 91 cases in need of treatment and skilled nursing care by staff members of the local branch of Victorian Order of Nurses, Miss Mary Ross, director of activity here, stated in her report for March, presented at the monthly meeting Wednesday night in the Board Room of the City Hall, Alderman James Dutton in the chair. Forty-nine of these cases were registered during the month. Of the total of 401 visits, 179 were made to medical and surgical cases, including 49 cancer calls.

"Cancer ranks second among the chief causes of death in Ontario," Miss Ross stated. "I think we are inclined to regard cancer as on the increase, but an article in the Canadian Public Health Journal says that no definite statement could be made as to whether cancer is increasing or not. Evidence suggests that the disease as a whole is not increasing. Early diagnosis is very important in the cure and control of cancer, and this is kept in mind by our nurses in their home visiting."

33 calls were made to expectant mothers in an effort to ensure safe motherhood and a healthy baby. "Best proof of the value of prenatal visits is in the fact that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company pays the Victorian Order for one call a month to policy holders," stated Miss Ross. 161 calls were to mothers and new-born babies for the purpose of nursing care and instruction. On these visits the nurse has a normal setting for the teaching of health habits in the home. It is during these visits that the need is stressed for regular medical supervision throughout the infant and pre-school period, so that a good foundation for health may be laid. Great stress has been placed on maintaining the "Home Front" since the outbreak of war, Miss Ross said.

Three soldiers' families were registered during the month, bringing the total to date to 16, with visits 91. Doctors were assisted with 4 operations in the home.

Night calls are limited to emergencies. The nurse works her usual day and is on call for any emergency after hours, and for that reason the branch is not able to give what might be termed a luxury service following the regular day's work. Any call which is requested by a doctor is answered, no matter what the hour. The feeling is that keeping more to regulations usually means less sickness on the staff and a better type of work, Miss Ross explained in reference to night calls, of which twelve have been answered to date. Sunday and holiday calls are limited to emergencies and acutely ill patients.

Of the sources of call, 19 were referred by doctors; 13 by family; 7 by M.L.I., 7 by P.W.N., 1 by a minister, and 2 by interested parties.

Request Made For More Helmet Caps

Wool was distributed for helmet caps following a special request from Provincial Headquarters I.O.D.E. at the monthly meeting of the Jeanette Scott Chapter, held at the home of Mrs. Lionel Sorby Monday evening. A large parcel of knitted goods is ready to be sent to Provincial Headquarters.

Tickets on the raffle in aid of the "Mary-Dorothy" Spitfire Fund were sold. Donations of food were arranged for the Primrose Tea to be given by the Local Council of Women on April 17. Plans were discussed for the annual garden party in June, and raffle tickets for war savings certificates distributed. A rummage sale will be held by the Chapter in the Bank of Montreal, George street, on April 19. An interesting paper on "New Order" was read by Mrs. W. B. Gordon.

The Stars Say . . .

For Thursday, April 10.

Events of unprecedented and unpredictable importance, affecting the whole future life and its fortunes, are among the major predictions for this day, memorable for surprising and stirring adventures. These may be precipitated with whirlwind force and prove radical, novel and breath-taking. New matters of enterprising and constructive character may be launched under greatly stimulated creative forces. This in business, invention, science and adventure as well as in intellectual and artistic modes of expression. It is a time to attack such with might and main, although with some discretion.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of suddenly precipitated events, with things happening with lightning strokes if not entirely uprooting force. Radical in nature but constructive in the final issues, there may be change of environs, associations and interests. In a word expect the unexpected but keep vigilant as to fraud and misrepresentation. But take advantage of highly stimulated energies, quickened faculties, greatly accelerated emotions and adventurous or romantic urges.

Fine Glazed Baked Ham Is Real Thing of Beauty

By MARY MOORE

The Easter season suggests a baked ham, and perhaps now is just as good a time as any to mention a secret or two about handling this choice cut—secrets you will treasure not only now but the year 'round.

The nice feature about this is that at the first trial by following our careful guidance you can turn out a ham that is a thing of beauty and joy to the palate.

The eye appeal of the ham itself is enhanced as you will agree by the apricot glaze—an attractive finish although we must say it is not really necessary when the ham is so perfectly succulent of itself. Still there never was a cook too good to be glad to advertise her wares.

We commend to your attention too the vegetables and desserts prescribed.

Better cut out and paste up this glazed baked ham recipe for we have given it to many a friend and are often asked for it again.

Emem's Glazed Baked Ham

To wash ham scrub in water with clean brush using a little soda to make it thoroughly clean. Cover ham with cold water, bring slowly to boiling point, and boil very gently for 4 hours if the ham weighs 8 pounds. If it weighs more add 20 minutes to the boiling time for each additional pound of ham. When done lift from water after it has cooled to about 140 degrees Fahr. so you can handle it, and remove skin. With sharp knife score skin diagonally to cover fat with "diamonds"—in each corner of the diamonds place a whole clove—this requires at least 2 tablespoons whole cloves for a 8-pound ham. Now make the gaze. You have soaked ¼ pound apricots overnight—make up the water in which they were soaked to 1 cup and cook slowly for 15 minutes, then press through sieve. Add ¼ cup sugar and mix well to melt sugar—add just enough water to make the glaze spread evenly over the ham without dislodging the cloves which should be stuck in firmly. Place in moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. and bake for 1¼ hours until glaze bubbles. This gives a delicious flavor to the meat if each slice has part of the glaze on its edge.

NOTE: The ham can be soaked overnight before boiling if preferred—this gives it a moister finish; or the ham may be cooled in the water in which it was boiled which also retains more moisture—if the ham is cold it is put in oven to give it its "finish" it requires at least 1½ hours to heat through.

NOTE NO. 2: When skin is removed from ham another "finish" is to mix together 1 teaspoon mustard, 1½ teaspoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, and 1 cup of stock in which ham was cooked. Baste the ham every 5 minutes with this liquid in the pan.

In the Fall the perfect vegetable accompaniment for this triumph in ham would be bright green Brussels Sprouts, but they are not seasonal for Easter. You can get fresh green peas—but if you've a family of six can the pocketbook stand the strain? If not, I think a happy compromise is this colorful dish of shredded green beans and carrots—not mixed but served together:

Entree Dish of Shredded Green Beans and Carrots with Drawn Butter

Purchase one pound of fresh green beans and shred them once lengthwise. Prepare one pound of carrots too in strips of the same size. Boil separately in just enough salted water to do them, until tender. Drain, reserving boiling liquor. Arrange vegetables in hot silver entree dish—the beans in one end, the carrots in the other, all lying crosswise. Pour over

Drawn Butter Sauce: Three tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of white pepper, 1 cup of liquid in which vegetables were cooked, 1 tablespoon very finely chopped parsley. Melt butter, add flour and salt and pepper and stir until blended, then add liquid in which vegetables were cooked and stir until thick, and just before pouring over vegetables in entree dish add parsley.

If you have a glass baking dish I suggest that you capitalize on the rosiness of rhubarb to finish off this colorful meal—by either baking it in a sugar syrup—Rosy Baked Rhubarb—or better still, Deep Dish Rhubarb Pie.

Deep Dish Rhubarb Pie

Four cups washed rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces—do not peel the rhubarb. Mix together 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, 1 cup sugar, and ¼ cup water, and stir over low heat until sugar is melted. Then stir this mix into the prepared rhubarb and put in deep glass baking dish which has been well buttered. Cover with rich plain paste—sprinkling top of paste with sugar half way through baking. Bake at 475 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 for another 15 minutes. A nice glaze on a deep dish pie is to brush top with egg yolk diluted with water about 5 minutes before baking is done—this may also be sprinkled with sugar, but is nicer if powdered sugar is dusted over the pie just before serving.

Rosy Baked Rhubarb

Make sugar syrup of 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water and cook for 5 minutes. Pour over rhubarb in glass baking dish, and sprinkle top of dish with sugar and 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind. Bake at 375 degr. Fahr. for about 25 minutes—until rhubarb is just tender—do not stir or rhubarb will break up. This is good served cold with cheese and crackers.

Neither soup, salad nor potatoes has been mentioned for the above Easter feast. Your first course could be hot consomme, or apple juice tinted pink; your salad could be a plate of hors d'oeuvres; radish roses celery sticks stuffed with cream cheese, and watercress—the potatoes could be pan roasted or you need not serve them—instead provide crusty rolls. A nice finishing touch would be mint wafers in assorted pastel shades.

Housewives of Buckingham, England, recently established 67 fruit preserving centres and produced more than 30 tons of jam.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY.
(Alternative Easter dinner).
Thin Cream of Asparagus Soup
Roast Leg of Lamb. Mint Jelly
(See note)
Parsley, New Potatoes
Halved Buttered Beets
Pineapple and Pear Fruit Salad with Baumert Cheese and Crackers
Coffee

NOTE.—This method of making mint jelly uses gelatine and can be made at a moment's notice—that is, if you have the mint. One tablespoon granulated gelatine, ¼ cup water, ½ cup hot vinegar, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup finely minced mint leaves. Soak gelatin in water 10 minutes. Heat mint leaves with vinegar, simmer 10 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth, add gelatin at once with seasonings. A little green coloring paste is nice to make it bright green. Let jell in flat dish in which it can be cut into squares for serving.

MONDAY (Hasty).
Hot Roast Lamb Sandwich with Gravy and Mashed Potatoes
Salad Bowl of Shredded Cabbage, Carrots and Chopped Parsley.
Mayonnaise
Sliced Bananas with Canned Peaches and Juice
Cookies Coffee

TUESDAY (Vegetarian)
Cream of Corn Soup
Potato Pancakes (See note)
Broccoli with Mock Hollandaise
Buttered Carrot Rings
Rhubarb Meringue Pie Coffee

Note on Tuesday's dinner: To ma' Potato Pancakes separate the yolks and whites of 3 eggs and beat the yolks and to them add 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, and 3 cups milk. Gradually add 2½ cups sifted flour, beating very well, then add 1 tablespoon cooking oil or melted shortening, beating. Stir in 3 cups grated raw potatoes and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake at once on greased hot griddle. Delicious with butter or canned gravy or hot chili sauce.

WEDNESDAY.
Smoked Finnan Haddie Poached in skim milk with Milk Gravy
Canned Buttered Beans
Mashed Potatoes
Sliced Oranges Coffee

THURSDAY.
Corn Fritters and Bacon
Scalloped Tomatoes
Celery Hearts or Shredded Lettuce with French Dressing

DIVORCEE SHOULD NEVER BE BURDEN ON PARENTS

When Married Ties Are Broken, Woman Shou'd Immediately Find Some Self-Supporting Employment.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a divorcee, 28 years old, with a child 2½ years old, and I am living with my parents. My father makes a fair salary, but with my baby and me to support, he and mother have to do without many things they could have if we were not here. I have had business training and experience, and I am anxious to go to a nearby city and get a job so I can be independent. My mother opposes this. She thinks I should stay at home with her and be happy about it. But I am not satisfied just sitting here doing nothing, waiting for some man to come along and marry me. What is your advice?—M. K. H.

ANSWER—I have often marveled at the sublime selfishness of women who dumped themselves and their children back on their poor old parents to be supported when they happened to lose their taste for their husbands, or when the found out they were married to men who were just mere ordinary mortals instead of romantic heroes. Yet we see tha done continually. We see Father's tired old back getting a little more bent every day under the burden of taking care of Mary and feeding and clothing and educating her brood. We see rheumatic old Mother turned into a nursemaid and hobbling painfully around after a 2-year-old child. And we think it would have been just as well for Mary to have stood a husband who bored her, or one who was grump, as it was for her to make her parents suffer for her matrimonial mistake.

So I am glad to hear of at least one divorcee who has enough backbone not to be willing to be a parasite on her father and mother. I heartily recommend your plan of getting a job by which you can support yourself and your child. There is every reason why you should do it and do it at once, because at 28 time gets to flying by very fast. Before you know it, you will be in the middle-age woman class, and they find it much harder to get a position in an office than young girls do. So hurry up.

Going On Your Own

There are many reasons why you should get back to work as soon as possible. One is, of course, that you will be far happier with something to do that will keep you busy and interested than you are being idle, to say nothing of the feeling of independence which is balm to the soul.

For another, your father is aging and you cannot depend for long upon his support, and your condition would be pitiful indeed, if 10 years from now he left you with no money, no job and small chance of getting any employment because you had gotten rusty in your old profession.

And as for depending on marrying to solve your problem, that is mere wishful thinking. Perhaps some man may come along who doesn't mind taking on a ready-made family, but most men feel that their own children are all that they can support, and they walk high, wide and handsome around widows with children.

SOME QUESTIONS FOR A HUSBAND

Dear Miss Dix—Here are a few questions that I would like to ask husbands: Do you sit at the two meals which you have at home with your face covered by a newspaper and answer you wife's questions with a grunt, or not at all? Do you rush from the table to sit before the radio and turn on the sport news, war news, prize fights, football games, knowing that your wife cares for none of them and without ever giving her a chance to hear a little music or an entertaining program?

Do you grab the morning paper and read it in the bathroom while four other members of the family, including the children, are waiting their turn? Do you insist on having one day a week off without having to drag the children along, and flatly refuse to give the same privilege to your wife who hasn't had a day off in 15 years, because you believe a mother shouldn't leave her children with a maid or nurse while she goes galivanting alone?

Do you give your wife enough money to run the house without having to scrimp and stretch and pull every dollar in order to get herself a permanent wave, while you gayly make out a check to buy a fish rod or a set of golf balls? Do you wait for your wife to ask you for more money to feed you and your offspring when you know perfectly well the price of food and she is no magician who can conjure up good meals out of the air?

Do you accuse your wife or trying to send you to the poorhouse every time she asks for an extra dollar for herself, but cheerfully give $5 to any deadbeat old friend who asks you for it?

Answer these questions please, gentlemen. There are so many wives who would like to know why their husbands do the way they do.—ONE OF THEM.

ANSWER — Information please, husbands. Don't all answer at once. The line forms on the left.

THERE ARE WAYS TO GET YOUR MAN

Dear Miss Dix—I met a man who lived in the same apartment house that I did, and at first sight I decided that he was exactly what I wanted in a husband.

I saw right away that ordinary methods were not going to attract him to me because he had a cynical prejudice against the modern young woman. So I set to work to emphasize the qualities in women that he admired—sincerity, charme, sense of humor—and then shut my eyes tight and prayed to God to please help me get my man. And I got him. Don't tell me a woman has to sit meekly on the sidelines and wait until some man takes pity on her and asks her to marry him. She can go out and get him I know.—R. E. F.

ANSWER—Perhaps your tactics were successful, because men are swinging back to the ideal of the old-fashioned girl, and because modesty and sweetness and gentleness in a girl have become so rare they are as piquant as dash and daring were at first.

Perhaps men are getting tired of women in shorts and britches, who smoke and drink and tell rough stories, and are turning back to the eternal feminine.

After all, the thing that attracts men to women is their being women, no imitation men.

Home and School Association News

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

Reasons why we educate our children, as outlined by Miss Brown, teacher at May's School, were given Tuesday evening at a meeting of Confederation Home and School Association. She stated that education "makes healthy citizens; helps children to make quick decisions; teaches them how to earn their living; how best to spend leisure time, and defined good citizens as individuals with a better understanding of life in general, including the intelligent management of food and money in order that the health of the family may be protected. Miss Brown's closing questions were a direct challenge to parents. "Is our home life happy?" she asked. "Have we a broad viewpoint; have we hobbies; do we live in the present or the past; do we do our work easily or make a mountain of it; do we get along with other people?"

Mrs. F. White was in the chair. Mrs. N. Monk, Mrs. A. Simms and Mrs C Crouter were appointed a nominating committee to present new officers at the May meeting. Mrs. Crouter was also appointed delegate to the Home and School convention.

Musical numbers included two solos by Mr. Jack Sexton, accompanied by Mr. W. R. Potter.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

Alderman M. J. Swanston commented briefly on the pictures, "The Call of the Kawarthas," photographed by Mr. F. L. Roy, which were presented Tuesday night at a large and successful Father's Night meeting of the King George Home and School Association. The pictures are excellent specimens of photography, and illustrate the beauty of Peterborough and district.

While a brief business meeting was conducted by the ladies with Mrs. W. Beggs presiding, fathers were taken on a tour of the class rooms. $40.00 for the British War Victims' Fund was realized by a paper collection undertaken by pupils of the school and sponsored by the Home and School Association, it was announced. Three layettes were on display, made by Association members. The attendance banner was won by Miss F. Bonnycastle's room.

Mr. Hurrie Dodds was in the chair for the "fathers" part in the program, which included solo and duet numbers by the "Singing Scots," Jack Smith and Bob Hendry. John Fowler, accompanied by Mrs. A. E. DeNure, sang "The Grey Watch" and "Keep on Hoping." Mr. F. E. Kerr, school principal, gave an interesting summary of current events. A vote of thanks on behalf of the men's committe to those assisting in the program was voiced by Alderman Floyd Curtis, and thanks on behalf of the Association to the gentlemen was expressed by Miss Ferne Rahmel.

Mrs. F. Watson and members of her committee served refreshments after the program.

Saguenay Saga

industry had come to be accepted for all local purposes of exchange of goods and work, and it is said that when Quebec joined the Canadian Confederacy the people of Chicoutimi were for a time dubious about the new Canadian money, but they felt sure about the soundness of the scrip which they were accustomed to use.

In the Empire of the Saguenay, also, he had noticed French Canadians who bore the unmistakable appearance and manner of Scottish paternal ancestry. They were the descendants of Scottish soldiers whose regiments had bn disbandd in Quebec. These men decided to remain in Canada and in Quebec, married into French families, and although some of their names still survived in that country they were today the names of Canadians who speak French.

Mr. McKenzie told of the methods by which the natural supply of pulpwood is maintained, and added eight acres of spruce are required to make the newsprint used in one day by a New York newspaper. He briefly mentioned the aluminum town of Arvida who obtains its electric power from the 500,000 horse power produced at a huge dam on the Saguenay, and he related some of the details by which the river had to be temporarily diverted to enable engineers to complete the dam. A somewhat similar engineering feat was adopted in the building of the barrier in the Abitibi canyon.

The address with its simple pictures told a fairly adequate and always interesting story of the great Empire of the Saguenay which has obviously left a deep impression in the memories of Mr. McKenzie.

Robert Ralson was chairman of the meeting, and the program included two songs by Mac Gordon, Lancashire recitations by James Sharpe and organ selections by W. R. Potter, organist of Knox

Gay Colonial Pillow Top You Will Have Fun Weaving

Made From Silk Odds and Ends

So homey-looking on your Colonial chair—this pretty pillow top woven of bright silk scraps! You make it easily on a simple "loom" just a hoop, really.

To start, "bandage" your hoop with a long strip of cloth. This and the other strips you use in weaving your pillow top should be cut on the bias, about three inches wide. Edges are folded in, making strips about one inch wide.

Now pin 4 strips across the hoop to form 8 spokes, as in diagram. Then for the ninth spoke! This will be a long one, several strips sewn together. Pin one end to hoop, beside any other spoke, and carry to centre.

Here you start to weave with the long end. Use your fingers and go over and under the spokes and round and round the centre.

At a 3-inch diameter you can't weave without more spokes. Add V-shaped ones in each section, as shown in diagram.

Sew the final row to the spoke edges and hem loose ends under. Your pillow top is completed!

In the same simple way you weave rugs. Our 32-page booklet tells how in greater detail. Explains other easy weaving methods by which you make lovely scarves, doilies, afghans, purses, many more items—attractive and inexpensive.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

COMBINE TWO COUPS

ALL OF the special coups to pick up a trick with a fancy finish to a hand are rather pretty things, including the trump coups to gain position over a defender's guarded honor, the lead-throwing end-plays of various types and the squeezes. But the most gaudy of all are those rare ones which combine two or more of the special plays, one of them to be used if a defender makes one play or discard and another if he chooses a different course. It requires a keen minded declarer to keep several such possibilities in his clear consciousness at the same time.

After the diamond 6 was led, South saw a possible loser in hearts and one in clubs, one of which must be prevented, also the chance of one in spades. To head off the trump menace, she first led to the spade A, which dropped the J, ending that worry. She led three more spades then, watching East's discards, which were a club and two hearts, North tossing a diamond on the last one. Three more diamonds were then run, West tossing off three hearts, and finally the last spade was led.

West was in a spot. With three clubs and two hearts, the latter could not be discarded, so he had to choose a club. He saw that, if he picked the 9 or 10, declarer could take the dummy's club A and throw him in the lead with the K, so he would have to lead hearts. So he discarded his K, hoping East had the Q. North thereupon shed his heart 7 from dummy and East threw off a heart. So South then led to the club A and led the J, which East won. East had nothing left but the club 7 and heart 10, either of which would have to lead into the dummy's club 8 and heart A, so the combination squeeze and end-play worked to make the contract.

Millbrook Tea And Sale Nets Over $60

MILLBROOK, April 9—(ENS). — The assembly hall of the Continuation school presented a most attractive appearance on Friday afternoon, when the M.C.S. Junior Red Cross entertained for its annual tea, and display of handicrafts, a handsome quilt, the work of the young folks' clever fingers, on which a large number of tickets had been sold, and the draw for which was made by Mrs. T. A. Campbell, president of the Senior Red Cross, being also a feature of the afternoon. The quilt was won by Mrs. Albert Tinney, of Cavan, with ticket number 258.

Receiving in the wide hallway were the staff of the school, Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., principal, Miss Shirley Buckingham, B.A., Miss Berry, B.A. and Dorothy Sisco and Betty Thornton.

Karl Fee acted as cashier, and at the table of home-made candy were Mary Muspratt and Marian McGill. The hostess in the tea room was Mary Dawson, president of the Junior Red Cross, and pouring tea at the hostess table, which was centred with a bowl of red tulips, were Mrs. Campbell and Miss B. M. Turner, secretary of the senior branch of the entertaining society.

The small tea tables were centred with bud vases of flowers, and the girls looking after the guests included, in groups of three: Wilda Harker, Elaine Argue and Lorraine Henderson; Bella Best, Maretta Elgar and Kathryn Elson; Vera Fallis, Margaret Foster and Lola Gardiner; Maretta Graham, Rhoda Gibson, Marguerite Murney; Marian Harkness, Viva Clarke and Mary Lawson; Mary Whittington, Patricia Moyles and Ruth Lewers; Audrey Wood, Ada Earle and Betty Lunn; Betty Smith, Henrietta Wood and David Fallis; Joy Howson, Gladys Coulter and Betty McConkey; Nan Fallis, Marguerite Powell, and Mary Seney; Martha Belch, Marjorie Sutton and Ruth Thorne; Betty Monorief, Isabelle Aiken and Francis Tickner.

Donald McKnight was in charge of the table of handicrafts, which included many novelty articles of leather-ware, and which netted approximately ten dollars. An entertaining program went on practically continuously during the tea hours, from 3 to 6 p.m., among the selections being: Violin solos by Allen Brown; piano duets by Audrey Wood and Robena Tate, who were the accompanists of the afternoon; vocal duets by Nan Fallis and Elaine Argue; an Irish jig gracefully danced by Betty Moncrief and Nan Fallis, and duets with violin and piano by Allen Brown and Robena Tate.

Over sixty dollars was cleared from the undertaking, $30.00 of this being from quilt tickets, $8.00 from the table of home-made candy, and the ten dollars already mentioned from the handicrafts' sale. Grade X won the prize offered for the Form selling the most tickets in advance, and the individual pupils who won the prizes offered by Miss Morgan for top place in ticket selling ahead of the event, and including those disposed of on the quilt, were Donald Edmunds and Bruce Stewart.

Officers of the Junior Red Cross, which was the hostess society on Friday, together with the M.C.S. Faculty, are: President, Mary Dawson; secretary, Jean Fisher; treasurer, Karl Fee. Rounding off the occasion, the scholars of the Continuation school enjoyed a dance in the evening.

Scuttled In Nazi Style When Peru Boarded Axis Ships

The German freighter S.S. Monserrate is shown burning and listing after the ship had been fired by her crew off Lima, Peru. The crew also opened the seacocks before abandoning the ship. Another German ship, the Leipzig, also was scuttled as Peruvian authorities began to follow the example set by the United States in seizing Axis ships in American waters. The Peruvian government also seized two Junkers airliners, hangars and workshops of the German Lufthansa airline at Lima.

Amateur Night Proves Jolly Havelock Event

HAVELOCK, April 9.—(ENS). — The amateur program, sponsored by the Havelock Red Cross society, on Friday evening proved a great success, with a good attendance, T. P. Lancaster acting as chairman. The judges were Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Glen Wright, and Mr. Booth.

The program was divided into five different groups, opening with Dorothy Ann and Shirley Holdcroft, dressed as little Dutch girls and singing two Dutch songs "The Big Fog Bell" and "The Secret." Included in the first group were Joan Paige, singing "Till the Lights of London Shine Again," Buddy Peters singing "Wish Me Luck" and "There'll Always Be An England," Donald Pollock a guitar solo, Kalvin McQuigge, a song, "My Name Is Ragged Pat," and a recitation, "If Easter Eggs Could Hatch," by Helen Andersoh. Second group: Duet, "March," by Nancy Curtis and Dorothy Ann Holdcroft; piano duet by Jack and Jim Scott of Preneveau; duet by Barbara and Don Pollock of Rush Point, "When You Wore a Tulip"; duet by Pauline Curry and Delores Stevenson, "I Saw Three Ships." Third group: Guitar solo by Jean Wilde; vocal solo by Garnet Brooks of Preneveau, "The Woodpecker's Song." Fourth group: Vocal duet, 'Come Back to Erin" by Betty Holdcroft and Elaine Isles; dance, Weary Willie and Tiny Tim, by Wallace and Wayne Young; tap dance by Iola Hartin and Marceline MacMillen of Preneveau; duet by the Quinn twins, Jean and Joan, as little soldierettes, sang "Good Luck and the Same to You." Fifth group: Chorus by six girls, Marieta Stevenson, Laurable Barrie, Pauline Gallagher, Jean Brown, Doreen Brown and Shirley Starke, of Donegal School, sang "Six Little Milkmaids," dressed in milkmaid costumes; playette, 'The New Maid," by the pupils in Mr. Gay's Class; chorus by the pupils of the Preneveau School, consisting of three numbers, Junior Red Cross Song, "From the Village Steeple Pealing" and "Spring is Around the Corner"; chorus by six girls of Miss Wing's class in the Havelock Public School, "The Robin."

During intermission, candy was sold by Mrs. Couch, Mrs. Sayers, Mrs. Sanderson, Miss Roberts, Mrs. Drinkwalter, and Miss Inez Morrison of the Surgical Department of the Red Cross Society, attractively dressed in Red Cross uniforms. While the judges were deciding on the winners, Mr. Gay, principal of the Public School, conducted a quiz which proved very entertaining. As a special request of the evening, young Barbara Pollock, dressed as a little Red Cross nurse, sang "Rose of No Man's Land."

Ten prizes were awarded, two to each group, in the first group the prizes were awarded to: 1, Buddy Peters; 2, Helen Anderson; second group: 1, Jean and Joan Quinn; 2, Jack and Jim Scott; third group: 1, Preneveau School; 2, Donegal School; fourth group: 1, Wallace and Wayne Young; 2. Iola Harton and Marcilline MacMullen; fifth group: 1, Garnet Brooks; 2, Jean Wildes. Money was given for the prizes, but Mr. Lancaster suggested that the money won might be used in buying War Savings Stamps. All contestants under 10 years of age who did not win a prize, were given an Easter egg.

FIG. 2
Cut rounded portion from the Thin (Flank) Side to provide a flat surface parallel to the Ham bone on which to stand Ham for carving.

● Without Ham for Easter Sunday, it would hardly seem like Easter. For in Canada, Ham is the traditional meat for the Easter Season. So, here's what we suggest:

● (1) You will wish to choose a Ham that is sure to be tender, of sweet flavour, and easy to cook (no parboiling).

ANSWER—Just ask your Butcher or Grocer for a 'Maple Leaf' TendersweeT Ham.

● (2) You may wish to learn how to carve it easily and economically.

ANSWER—A proven new method of carving is illustrated with directions in the panel below. Show it to the person in your home who does the carving. It may be the answer to the carver's problem.

● But first, be sure to choose a 'Maple Leaf' TENDERSWEET Ham. You will find it considerably more than just a Ham. You will find it plump and tender. You will find its delicate flavour distinctive. Its sweetness will make your mouth water. The new and scientific process by which TENDERSWEET Hams are cured and smoked assures all this and more—no soaking and no parboiling for a 'Maple Leaf' TENDERSWEET Ham. Perfect cooking is easy and simple. Directions are wrapped with every Ham.

Your dealer will be pleased to show you the Maple Leaf Brand on every TendersweeT Ham.

To be sure IT IS tender and sweet, say "TENDERSWEET"

* MAPLE LEAF TENDERSWEET HAMS ARE MADE BY CANADA PACKERS LIMITED

FIG. 3 Lay piece thus removed to one side of platter, later to be served cold. Makes tasty luncheon piece.

FIG. 4 Turn Ham over so that it stands firmly on the flat cut surface made in Fig. 2, preferably with garnished surface towards guests. Cut a small wedge-shaped piece from the shank end as illustrated above.

FIG. 5 Now begin to slice almost vertically through the cushion meat to the Ham bone. These slices will all be cut across the grain of the meat.

FIG. 6 Remove and serve the slices one or more at a time, by cutting along Ham bone as above.

FIG. 7 Repeat slicing as in Figs. 5 and 6 until you come to the aitch bone, which is about 2 inches from the round end of Ham.

FIG. 8 Now turn the Ham back to original position 1. Carve slices as above, starting at the shank end, finishing at the butt end. Loosen slices by running the knife along the bone as before.

Three British Generals Missing In Axis Libyan Desert Coup

LONDON ADMITS CAPTURE OF 2,000 MEN AS CLAIMED BY BERLIN IS "NOT IMPOSSIBLE" UNDER PRESENT TACTICS IN NORTH AFRICAN CAMPAIGN

LONDON, April 10—(CP)—The War Office announced today that one of three British generals whose whereabouts in Libya are unreported is Sir Nugent O'Connor, an outstanding tactician.

The two other general officers missing are Lt.-Gen. P. Neame, V.C., and Maj.-Gen. M. D. Gambier-Parry.

(The Germans claimed six generals, two colonels and 2,000 men had been captured at El Mechile, 50 miles southwest of Derna, by German-Italian forces) In a broadcast February 9 Prime Minister Churchill singled out Gen. O'Connor and Lt.-Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson as the two men responsible, under Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, for carrying out the offensive which drove the Italian forces of Marshal Graziani out of Egypt and Eastern Libya.

Gen. O'Connor, who commanded the 13th Corps, was made a Knight Commander of the Bath for his part in the drive.

The War Office said that enemy claims to the capture of 2,000 prisoners in Libya "would not be impossible under the conditions in which the encounters have been taking place.

Gen. Neame was formerly general officer commanding British forces in Palestine and before the fall of

Great Bosporus City Feels Threat As War Gets Close

ISTANBUL, April 10 — (AP). — The Turkish Government announced to-day that it "found it advisable" to withdraw a considerable portion of Istanbul's population.

The government offered to transport the people free into the interior.

The action was regarded as an indication of how seriously Turkey considers the threat of war to Istanbul, on the European side of the Bosphorus, less than 100 miles from the frontier of Bulgaria and about 150 miles from the eastern section of Greece, both occupied by Germany.

The city is feared particularly vulnerable to air attack. Its normal population is about 750,000.

The government's announcement said:

"It is found advisable that persons of the following categories living in Istanbul should be evacuated: orphans, aged persons receiving civil or military pensions and who are not engaged in defence industry; persons with occupation.

"These persons, with their families, will be sent by government trains and boats to any part of the nation with the following exceptions Thrace, Izmar, Ankara, Erzeroum.

"One hundred pounds of baggage per person may be carried.

"Those people living in Istanbul who wish to join relatives in Anatolia, with the exceptions of Izmir, Ankara and Erzeroum, will be allowed to do so on government trains and boats by application up to April 15."

80,000 Greek Prisoners?

BERLIN, April 10 — (AP). — A German military spokesman claimed to-day that Greek prisoners captured in Thrace numbered more than 80,000, but that the "final number will be much greater" since the count is not yet finished.

(Greek military sources declared in Athens that the Greek Army remains in act despite the trapping of some forces in north-eastern Greece.)

A commentary service declared the Germans are ready for preliminary aerial thrusts against the British Expeditionary Force on the Balkan Front.

Apparently Goering's air force will try to 'soften" the British forces before German ground troops tackle them at close quarters.

Dienst Aus Deutschland, commentary close to the Foreign Office, declared 'it is self-evident that the rail line on the east coast of Greece will be one of the principal objectives of German bombers."

This line runs from Piraeus, Port of Athens, to the northern area where the British-Greek troops are concentrated.

Our Army Will Strike At Right Time Is Word From Athens

ATHENS, April 10 — (AP).—The Greek Army remains intact "to deal a decisive blow at the German invader with Allied support," Greek military sources declared to-day, despite the entrapment of some Greek forces in north-eastern Greece.

The fate of the forces cut off by the swift Nazi drive to Salonika still was obscure, but they were reported holding out late last night.

"The main Greek Army will strike at the right time and the right place," the military informants reiterated confidently.

Although the Greeks asserted the remnants of their Macedonian army encircled by the Germans north of Salonika still were holding out in a fight to the death, it appeared that hopes for stemming the Nazi push hinged on the new defence line.

Reports from the front indicated that Yugoslavia would be compelled to fight a separate battle.

Italian dispatches early today claimed the German and Italian armies, driving into Southern Yugoslavia from opposite directions, were "on the point" of joining hands west of Skopije, strategic city at the head of the Vardar River Valley leading to Salonika.

German mechanized troops were reported last night to have reached Tetovo, about 23 miles west of Skopije and 15 miles from Italian advance elements at Brad, just inside the Yugoslav frontier.

The Yugoslavs, meanwhile, were making a desperate effort to cut through the Italian lines in Albania and join hands with the Greeks near Lake Ochrida, but they were said to be still some 50 miles from their objective.

One Yugoslav column, driving down along the Albanian coast, was reported attempting to force a cross-

500 Tons Of Goods Leaves Hendaye Daily For Germany

LONDON, April 10—(CP).—The British Broadcasting Corporation, quoting what it termed an official Madrid announcement, said today Britain has signed an agreement to lend Spain £2,500,000 for purchase of foodstuffs and raw materials.

The BBC said the agreement was signed in Madrid today by Sir Samuel Hoare, British Ambassador, and Spanish Foreign Minister Ramon Serrno Suner.

In London, the BBC said, the contract was viewed as a "further step in the policy of assisting Spain in her program of reconstruction."

Havoc Over Berlin

LONDON, April 10—(CP).—The Ministry of Information announced today that the United States - built Douglas DB-7, known as the "Havoc," was among the fighter planes taking part in last night's operations.

A number of the DB-7S, also known as the Boston twin - engined fighter-bomber, were ordered originally by the French Republic but later were taken over by Britain. They are reported to have a top speed of 320 miles an hour, with a range of 1,200 miles.

Unofficial sources said such a plane is considered useful for "offensive night patrols over German-occupied atrdromes."

Italy 'Abandons' Saboteurs Who Howl Threat

PHILADELPHIA, April 10—(AP)—Capt. Romano Tomicish, master of the sabotaged Italian freighter Belvedere, asserted to-day that his embassy and consul are 'abandoning me and my men."

Puzzled when no lawyers appeared in the office of the United States Marshal, where Tomicish and 13 other seamen were brought in answer to Federal indictments, the captain shouted:

"You tell the Consul and the Embassy I did what they told me to do, now they are abandoning me and my men. I'll make them remember me for this."

The men were placed in temporary detention cells pending disposition of their cases.

U.S. To Set Up Air Bases In Greenland

Danish Agreement Is Concluded To Protect Continent

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The United States will establish air bases in Greenland for the "Protection of Greenland" and "the protection of the Western Hemisphere" under an American-Danish agreement announced today.

The agreement was signed late yesterday by State Secretary Cordell Hull and Henri de Kauffman, Danish minister.

De Kauffman signed as the highest ranking Danish official, despite the fact that Denmark is occupied by German forces, since the Danish government cannot now exercise sovereign over territory within the scope of the Monroe doctrine.

The President said in a formal statement that the present plan, which in effect brings Greenland under the protection of the United States Government, "is a new proof of our continuing friendliness to Denmark."

An agreement to place the island within the scope of America's plans for co-operative defence of the Western Hemisphere was signed yesterday by the President and by the Danish Minister, Hendrik De Kauffman, who, Mr. Roosevelt said, acted on behalf of the Danish King.

In handing the President's statement to reporters, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said the United States "had received information that German planes have been flying over Greenland."

Greenland, he said, has been placed in exactly the same category as any other Atlantic islands owned

U.S. Moving Troops

WASHINGTON, April 10 —(AP).—The War Department disclosed today that all army passenger and freight transports had been diverted to move American troops and supplies between the United States and overseas possessions and bases.

Twenty-six combination passenger-cargo ships and freighters which comprised the army transport service have been shifted to the new assignment.

In addition, the War Department has chartered 10 freighters and Patterson said he had asked the Maritime Commission for more ships.

FDR Acts To Use Foreign Ships; Danes Won't Sell

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked the United States Congress to-day for broad statutory authority to take over any "foreign-owned vessels lying idle in our ports."

This authority, he said in a message to the legislators, should be subject to the payment of just compensation.

Although the President had asserted on Tuesday he would recommend legislation to permit the purchase or charter of 50 Danish vessels which have been taken into 'protective custody" by the coastguard, the language of his message to-day was not limited to the Danish ships.

The President cited a provision of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 which authorizes him to requisition or purchase any American-owned vessels in time of national emergency or when the national defence makes it advisable. The section provides for a method of compensation.

"There does not appear," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "to be any comparable provision with respect to foreign-owned vessels lying idle in our ports.

"In view of the growing shortage of available tonnage suited to our national needs, I am satisfied, after consultation with the heads of the interested departments and agencies of the Government, that we should statutory authority to take over any such vessels as our needs may require, subject, of course, to the payment of just compensation.

Hitler's Favorite, State Opera Is Completely Destroyed And Three Palaces Damaged

Smoke Pall Hovers Over City As British Leave, Castle Matsuoka Used One Target; 11 Raiders Downed As Birmingham Bombed

BERLIN, April 10 — (AP).—The magnificent German State Opera House, one of Hitler's favorite theatres, was destroyed and three palaces were damaged last night by British airmen in what the Nazi high command acknowledged to be the heaviest raid on Berlin since the war began. The usual claim was made that no military damage resulted and D.N.B., the news and propaganda agency, said there were only six deaths in Berlin.

Emden, Bremen and several other vital war centres in Northern Germany also were attacked, as well as Bellevue Castle in Berlin, guest house for foreign statesmen, the most recent of whom was Foreign iMinister Yusoke Matsuoka of Japan.

The State Opera House was burned out after a shower of incendiaries struck it. This morning a dense cloud of smoke hung over the centre of the city, attracting hundreds of the curious. Fire hose criss-crossed Under Den Linden and the area was roped off.

The former Crown Prince Palace, now a state gallery of modern art, also was hit.

The incendiaries, apparently coming down in bundle, fell on numerous other buildings along the avenue, including the historic Prussian State Libarary, where the attic was burned out.

Similarly burned out was the top floor of the Emperor William I Palace opposite the State Opera, and the right wing of the University across the street.

A number of office buildings toward the Brandenburg Gate suffered minor damage from incendiaries.

It was not learned immediately whether any of the State Library's approximately 3,000,000 volumes had been lost or damaged in the fire, which was said to have been brought quickly under control.

The State Opera Building offered a sad sight, however.

The fire there apparently started at the rear end of the stage house, whence the flames, finding rich food, blew through the roof and ate their way into the proscenium through the roof.

At 8 a.m. (2 a.m. EDT), masses of spectators could see through the building from Unter den Linden to LONDON, April 10 —(CP)—The Royal Air Force dropped "powerful high explosive bombs" in the centre of Berlin last night and started large fires, the air ministry announced today.

Overnight attacks also were made on an aluminum plant in German-occupied Norway and a radio station in Denmark.

Eight planes were lost in these operations and in daylight assaults yesterday on Brest and other targets.

But 11 German bombers were downed in attacks last night on the English Midlands and northeast.

(The Berlin radio claimed Birmingham and Newcastle were the chief targets of the Germain air raiders.)

It was the first British raid on Berlin since March 23. An informed source said that while the attack was not comparable in size with Monday's night assault on Kiel, "It would have been felt."

Smaller forces of British night raiders struck at Emden and Vegesack, near Hannover.

The 10 Nazi bombers shot down in moonlight last night brought to 28 the number destroyed in the last three nights.

BRITISH airplanes, operating from Greek bases, systematically machine-gunned with high casualties German motorized columns in the Kilkis-Polykastron area north of Salonika yesterday despite adverse conditions, Royal Air Force headquarters said today.

Two bombing attacks also were made against German motor transport concentrations and bridges near Axioupolis in northern Greece.

Despite intense anti-aircraft fire all the British planes returned to base.

War Delays Premier's US Trip

King Waits On Balkan Situation Before Visiting Roosevelt

OTTAWA, April 10—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's projected Easter visit with President Roosevelt "to talk over everything under the sun" has been postponed a few days because of the gravity of war news from the Balkans.

It is anticipated Mr. King will leave toward the end of the week to meet Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

Mr. King announced postponement of his departure yesterday at a press conference where he praised functioning of Canada's present Cabinet war committee of 10 Ministers and announced that Leighton McCarthy, K.C., of Toronto, has been raised from rank of acting to permanent Canadian Minister at Washington.

The Prime Minister first had planned to leave yesterday but said he "would not be happy away from Ottawa at this particular moment."

"We are at a time of great crisis," he said. "Events may move rapidly, not only in the Balkans but in other parts of the world. I think that the people of Canada will continue, as they have been, to perform their tasks calmly. That is the best way to carry on at this time...."

Mr. King said he was "hoping very much" that Mr. Roosevelt soon will visit Ottawa. "I invite him every time I see him," he said.

Unaccompanied by any of his Ministers, Mr. King will leave for the United States after receiving definite word from Washington regarding the date the President will leave for Warm Springs on his usual Easter holiday. If Mr. Roosevelt for any reason does not go to Warm Springs, Mr. King said he will visit him either at Washington or Hyde Park, N.Y.

"We will talk about everything under the sun," he said.

Postponement of his departure resulted from war news he had read in yesterday's newspapers, and not from any "inside information."

Freed Skipper Says Algiers Troops Wept At Being Left Behind

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, April 10—(CP).— For five months a prisoner in French Africa, Captain H. C. L. Phillips of Cardiff, Wales, still thinks the French soldiers are a pretty good lot who would join the British if they had a chance.

Victim of a Nazi submarine, Captain Phillips was landed here by a British warship that picked 38 people out of the Atlantic after they had been bobbing about in lifeboats for 36 hours.

It was in Algiers he was taken prisoner. The day France signed a separate peace with the Germans an armed party of Frenchmen climbed aboard an English freighter in the harbor there, and slapped him under lock and key.

Shipped far inland, the captain lived through five months of tropical heat and sandstorms in a crowded prison. Later he got back to England in a prisoner exchange, and was given another ship—the one he saw battered to bits not so long ago by two torpedoes.

"I am convinced," he said, "that were the soldiers, especially the French Foreign Legion, left to themselves, they would join the British cause against Germany and Italy."

He said that when he left Casa Blanca in French Morocco for Gibraltar, "French soldiers wept because they could not come with me."

Captain Phillips tossed aside all mention of his torpedoing experience as "routine stuff," and chief officer A. W. Ford, also of Cardiff, had to do the talking.

According to him, the Captain's "routine" experience would have ended tragically, if a "miracle" hadn't happened.

Ford said Phillips cooly directed the launching of the lifeboats even when bowled over by the shock of the two explosions, and only moved to save himself when the crew had

Greeks Clean Out Salonika

Burn, Dynamite Anything Of Military Value

ATHENS, April 10 (AP) — With torch and explosives the Greeks destroyed everything of military value in the port of Salonika before abandoning the city to German forces, Emanuel Spanakis, Associated Press correspondent, declared on his arrival here today.

Spanakis, the last newspaperman to leave the city before the Germans entered, declared:—

"Flames were roaring hundreds of feet into the air from blazing warehouses, oil tanks and airport facilities.

"Blasts from exploding dynamite roared across the deserted harbor as cranes and everything of military value were blown up.

"Hours later, the flames still could be seen from a distance of more than 60 miles."

Greek Army Is Battling Big Nazi Horde

ATHENS, Greece, April 10.—(AP).—Although cut off and left in a "difficult position" by the fall of Salonika, the eastern wing of the Greek army still was holding out yesterday afternoon, the Greek High Command announced early to-day.

A Greek government spokesman said this army was fighting without hope of help from western Greece.

Strong Greek defences in this area are situated along the Bulgarian frontier at Rupel Pass and further to the east on the Navrokop Plateau, all of which were sliced off by the Nazi drive down the Vardar from Yugoslavia to Salonika.

"Despite the difficult position which thereby was created for our troops in Eastern Macedonia, their resistance was unslackened and they maintained their lines, according to information received during the afternoon," a Greek army communique said.

"The possibility of a Yugoslav retreat as well as the cutting off of Greek forces in Macedonia and Thrace had been foreseen by the Greek command," the Athen radio declared. "The decisive battle will be given where strategic conditions demand it. The war goes on and will go on.

Athens Gets Alarm.

Athens was under an air raid alert for two hours and 10 minutes last night and the Greek Ministry of Home Security disclosed that German planes had dropped magnetic mines in Piraeus, Port of Athens, doubly-important as an entry point for British supplies now that Salonika has fallen, on Monday and Tuesday nights.

HOW TO BE A BOY AGAIN!

Robt. G. Jackson, M.D. Now in his 84th year.

At 83 I'm a youngster in spirit, heart and ambitious energy. I'm young because I obey the laws of Nature; others do not. It is hard to realise that I owe my youthfulness to foods and exercise, but I do. Yet I would not dare exercise as vigorously as I do at my age on conventional foods.

I gave up most of the foods you eat some 30 years ago. My diet is based on a free use of my three natural wholegrain cereals . . . Dr. Jackson Meal (formerly Roman Meal) Bekus-Puddy and Lishus; and a similar free use of milk, cheese, fresh vegetables and fruit; together with generous quantities of my delicious alkaline beverage Kofy Sub.

These foods enable me to take exercises that keep my muscles supple, elastic, flexible and resilient as any boy's. They keep me free from constipation and its debilitating evils. Thus I remain young and grow younger every day.

You don't believe me? Well, try my foods and exercise reasonably and you cannot doubt. If you are interested in this subject, send for my free booklet "A Glorious Achievement." Address, Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., 547 Vine Ave., Toronto.

Can God Help In Crisis People Ask

The series of Lenten services was continued in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening. Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr conducted the service, assisted by Rev. H. L. Roberts. John Anderson sang a suitable solo, and the choir of St. Paul's Church rendered an anthem.

Rev. Robert Moynan of Toronto continued his series of addresses on the unique things of the Gospel of Christ. His subject was the Unique Power of Prayer. It has been asked, he said, can God help us in our time of crisis? Is it really true that nothing can stop our enemy? Is his war machine invincible? Would it not be a good thing if our churches were organized for prayer? There are many cases in the Old Testament in which God intervened to save Israel. In the battle with Amalek, when Moses' hands were lifted up, symbolic of prayer, Joshua prevailed. In Israel's first national crisis when the people were hemmed in at the Red Sea, God opened up a way and Egypt's power was overthrown. In Elisha's time the Syrian army was round about the city, but there was an invisible army to protect Israel. At the siege of Samaria God made the enemy to hear the noise as of a great army, and the enemy fled.

In the pages of history there are many stories of Divine intervention. The Spanish Armada came in 1588. There did not then seem to be any human possibility of survival, but the storms of God wrecked the Armada. Napoleon had almost the whole world at his feet. There was a soft drizzle of rain on the night before the Battle of Waterloo, and Napoleon's artillery could not move until the ground had hardened. This gave time for the arrival of reinforcements for Wellington's army. Napoleon afterwards marched into Russia, but the Russian snows defeated him. When Germany launched her first gas attack on April 22, 1915, despite meteorological prediction the wind changed and blew the gas back into their faces.

On 116 occasions God used the wind in Biblical times to accomplish His purposes. Dunkirk was a Divine intervention after the King's call to prayer. There was a deathly calm on the English Channel. The attempted invasion last September was frustrated by God. The epic naval battle of the Ionian Sea was His work. We have no doubt that God can help us, but will He? It depends upon the fulfillment of the conditions in prayer and repentance, which means the forsaking of our sin. This Lenten period with its memories of the sufferings and death of Christ should bring us to our knees.

Hon. G. Hoadley Discusses National Health

"Each year 20,000 Canadian mothers endure childbirth without medical aid." THhese were among the words of Hon. George Hoadley, former Minister of Health and Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, in a lecture given in the Co-op Hall on Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Peterborough County Radio Forums. The discussion was centered around the national health, or lack of it, in the main, and the speaker held forth with ardent views of the subject.

Of 93,000 Canadian men of 21 years, 33 1-3 of them are unfit for military service and the speaker termed the national health, as a whole, a "disgrace." He was Minister of Health for Alberta for 14 years and as a member of one of the oldest families in that province. He was reared there, after settling in 1889, at a time when Indians were in sympathy with their natural surroundings, and he watched the pioneers arrive and carve a beautiful section of the Dominion out of wilderness that had been.

Singing loud praises of the medical set-up in his native province, he explained that he is now engaged in work with the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, which is headed by Sir Edward Beatty and is Dominion wide in its scope.

Describing the health of Alberta residents as being on a higher plain, as compared with other provinces, he told of the organization of the travelling clinics now operating in the Canadian west, and inaugurated through his efforts in 1924. He was defeated by the same stroke which elected Prime Minister Aberhart, but has never failed in his mission in the direction of more efficient health facilities for Canada.

Undernourished Children.

In a recent survey, it was discovered that this country has more than 460,000 improperly nourished children, and the speaker asked why so much attention should be paid to organizations designed to enlighten the suffering of those in other countries at the expense, perhaps, of Canadian children. Why not begin the good work at home, and then when that has been done, help supply the world at large.

A staunch supporter of health insurance idea, the systems now in vogue were descrirbed by the speaker, and the benefits arising extolled. In the matter of health regulations, the east may take a lesson from the west to advantage, and some of the better conducts be adopted.

The inability of the average human to appreciate the true meaning of the word co-operation was discussed, and it was decided by the speaker that the workers of the soil could show the way in this respect. He was one of the pioneers of the Federation of Agriculture, when he began work in the farmer movement before the beginning of the 20th century. He visited the Scandinavian countries in 1924 to study their agricultural facilities and practices, and brought home with him many new ideas, not a few of which have proved to be practicable in Canada as well as in their native lands. He urged that the people of the Dominion get behind the farmer movement, and said that mutual benefits would arise.

One of the greatest hazards the farmer faces to-day is the one arising out of the disadvantage at which he finds himself in the prediction of market conditions as they may apply to his produce. The merchant has the edge on the play in this regard, for his markets are not only more or less stable, but prices of farm articles are being pegged while many of the manufactured equipments are not.

The War Today

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

An imminent collision between British Imperial troops and German mechanized advance units in Greece appeared certain to-day as Greek troops, isolated in Macedonia by the German push to Salonika, fought on with little hope of aid.

Across the Greek peninsula from a point near Salonika on the Aegean to Chimara, Albania, on the Adriatic, the British expeditionary force was reported to have established a defence line along which it awaited the Germans.

British and Greek authorities apparently deecided days ago that Salonka was untenable against a land offensive launched, as the German one was, by mechanized forces dashing down the last few level miles of the Vardar Valley. The line, therefore, was established a little south of the city, chief Macedonian port, where the country is less even.

Number of British troops in Greece remained undisclosed, but persons who saw them go ashore said they were equipped wth gleaming new equipment and some reconditioned vehicles brought from the tough African campaign which has resulted in conquest of almost all Italy's empire.

Italy, with substantial German aid, apparently was seeking to recoup her shattered African fortunes by a counter-offensive in Libya where combined Italo-German advances across the desert were reported.

The fall of Massaua, chief Eritrean port, was said to have practically washed up the East African affair and it was assumed that forces hitherto engaging the Italians there would be available for reinforcing the Greek expeditionary troops or for a counter-blow against the Italo-German units operating in the desert.

House Winds Up On Call To Aid 'Great Crusade'

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP). — A plea that all devote themselves to the "great crusade" being carried on by th democracies was contained in the Speech from the Throne which marked the closing of the sixth session of the 20th Ontario Legislature. The speech was read by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews.

Prorogation took place last night, some seven weeks after the February 19 opening. A group of United States radio men, in Toronto in conjunction with the Government's plans to promote tourist trade this summer, watched the traditional closing ceremonies with interest.

all scrambled overboard.

"And it looked as though he moved too late," Ford continued. "His hands were numbed from exposure, and he couldn't untie the rope fastening the last life raft to the deck. The ship went down, but by some miracle the rope—a new one—broke, and the captain bobbed back to the surface, firmly holding onto the raft."

7 Escape Through France

Seven British soldiers who escaped from their German captors and made their way through France to safety in England, told newsmen here how they fooled the Nazis for the second time on the winter-lashed Atlantic.

They arrived aboard a British warship, but not because they started out on it, the spokesman said. Their journey commenced on a little freighter which was blown out of the water by torpedoes from a German sub. Three of the freighter's crew were killed by the explosions, but the soldiers and the remainder of the crew took to the lifeboats.

For 36 hours they floated about, unprotected from the icy water and freezing winds, before being picked up by the warship.

When France collapsed they were captured by the Germans and rushed across France to Germany. Just as they were crossing the border, the seven made a break for freedom by hiding in the underbrush along the road.

They went unnoticed and later some of them wandered through France for months disguised as peasants before they got a ship for Africa and finally England. One was in Paris when the Germans rolled into the city.

Other raiders fanned out over the west of England, the east and southeast coasts and other scattered sections. London had an alarm but there were no reports of bombs falling in the capital.

Rescue workers in the west Midlands town toiled amid a hail of bombs dropped by waves of raiders which kept up the assault for several hours. One Nazi plane shot down fell on a house, causing casualties.

Old Pumper Is Given To Aid Of War Victims

The old fire pumper, relic of the days when firefighting was clothed in glamor has been donated to the Peterborough British War Victims' Fund by the City Council, to be disposed of for scrap and the proceeds used to alleviate suffering in England.

A letter received by F. G. Mann this morning from the City Council advised him of the action of the council members and Mr. Mann will consult Fire Chief George Gimblett this week on the best method of disposing of the old piece of fire fighting equipment.

Today the local fund topped the $12,000 mark when the Women's Art Association sent in $17.50 and the C.G.E. Bowling banquet yielded $6.30. Members of the Prince of Wales Rangers sent along $5.80. The money donated by the Women's Art Association was realized from an entertainment staged by members of the association under the convenership of Mrs. F. Adrian Brock.

All returns for tickets on the canoe should be made by Saturday night or at the latest early Monday morning. The draw is to be made on Monday.

Donates Dinner Set

Tickets are now on sale for a 97-piece dinner set donated by Routley's China Store, and may be obtained at the Examiner office or at Routley's.

An interesting article that brings back memories of early pioneer days was handed over to the fund this morning. It is a hand forged logging chain made purposely to haul mast timbers out of the woods way back in the days when this section of the country produced some of the finest lots of timber in Ontario.

The old chain was found by the donor's father back in 1870 and while it should bring something for its scrap value, nevertheless it might have more value to a farmer or logger who would have a specific use for it, or perhaps anyone collecting souvenirs of early Peterborough county would be glad to add it to their collection. Anyone interested should see F. G. Mann.

Rawdon Woman Killed In Crash

BELLEVILLE, April 10 (Special). Mrs. Louisa Wilson, 69, of Rawdon Township, was killed, and Herbert Peters, 30, of Marmora, was injured seriously in a car crash thirty miles north of here last night. Peters was rushed to hospital here for treatment.

Motion Refused In Drover Case

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., reserved judgment for a week in police court this morning in the charge against Alex Leaitch, Asphodel drover, of the theft of five hogs from Leo Herr, Indian River, last August.

His Worship had reserved judgment until this morning on a motion by Defense Counsel T. J. Carley, K.C., for dismissal without calling upon the defense and today he said that he was satisfied that there was sufficient evidence to justify refusing the motion.

"I am not calling any defense," Mr. Carley stated.

Both he and Crown Attorney McElderry said they were satisfied to rest upon the argument they had submitted on the motion for dismissal and Magistrate Langley announced that he proposed to reserve judgment for a week, stating that it was a very important case, with a number of others hinging upon the judgment given.

In eight other similar charges against Lealtch and also in fifteen charges of false pretences there was also an adjournment until Thursday of next week.

72 Families Are Receiving Aid From City

Unemployment relief has descended to the position of one of the least of the city council's worries.

Only seventy-two heads of families are receiving assistance from the community, as compared with 295 in March last year, and the total number of persons listed by relief officer A. G. Metheral has dropped from 1,386 a year ago to 347 last month.

Mr. Metheral told the committee last night that there are no employable persons in the city getting any help. That number 347 is comprised of 72 heads of families, their dependents to the number of 207, also 21 single men and 47 single women.

Relief expenditure in March amounted to $2,560.87, and in the correesponding month last year it was $10,356.22. The per capita cost is also slightly less, only fourteen cents, from $7.56 a year ago to $7.44 last month.

Quarterly Account

A further indication of the broad improvement in employment is shown in Mr. Metheral's statement for the first three months of this year. The total expenditure was $9,873.72. The provincial government will rebate $5,984 and the Ontario Medical Association $398.25, a total of $6,382.84, leaving $3,490.88 to be paid out of the city treasury.

The city's appropriation for relief this year is $20,854.15, and the cost for three months has been $3,490.88, leaving $17,363.27 for the remaining nine months.

Alderman Sullivan presided last night, and with him were Aldermen Cotton, Dutton and Sands.

Continue Gardens

The committee decided to continue the community gardens of last year. All recipients of relief who are able to cultivate gardens must apply to Mr. Metheral for lots, and they must also make use of them. Other citizens to whom the products of a garden would be an economic benefit may be granted seeds, the distribution being left to Mr. Metheral's discretion.

Military circles said the Axis forces now operating in Libya are much farther from their bases than the British forces were at any time during the western offensive into Libya. If the enemy is now east of Derna, as is claimed in Berlin and Rome, he is well over 750 miles from Tripoli.

The British forces have concentrated east of Bengasi in "an area more adapted to future operations," today's Middle East communique said, adding that in a period of several days "we have inflicted considerable casualties on the enemy."

"We are without news of three senior officers, Lt.-Gen. P. Neame, V.C., Lt.-Gen. Sir Victor O'Connor and Maj.-Gen. M. D. Gambier-Parry," said the communique.

trade carried by rail between Spain and Germany was made possible by German occupation of a belt of the seacoast touching the Spanish border.

Each week from 60 to 70 carloads of Spanish oranges are shipped across the border to be consumed either by German soldier in France or sent directly to Germany.

In addition to oranges, large quantities of iron ore, nuts, dried fish, hides, cork and mercury are being moved across the border. It was estimated that the daily Spanish shipments to Germany total about 500 tons.

In return Germany has been sending dyes, paper pulp and medical supplies to Spain. Since the Civil War Spain has been desperately short of medical materials and has indicated it welcomed German medicines to combat a reported increase in disease, notably of tuberculosis.

Recently, Germany sent Spain 750 carloads of seed potatoes for spring planting of a crop which has been scarce since the Civil War. Reports at Hendaye said potatoes have been unavailable in a number of Spanish provinces for six months.

Germany also is shipping trucks into Spain where they compete with trucks from Italy, which long had believed she enjoyed an exclusive market there.

Direct shipment of goods from Spain is impossible due to differences in the gauges of the railway tracks. All goods must be transferred from freight cars of one system to those of the other at Hendaye. At present French colonial troops are providing much of the transfer labor.

agitation in some quarters for an "inner war cabinet," and said that he failed to see "how any other arrangement could function more satisfactorily" than the present war committee of himself, Mr. Crerar, Justice Minister Lapointe, Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power, Navy Minister Macdonald, Munitions Minister Howe, Finance Minister Ilsley, War Services Minister Gardiner and Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate.

"Personally, I believe in the collective rather than the single mind in times of crisis as in other times," he said. "It may not throw one man into the limelight, but it certainly saves a lot of mistakes."

Mr. King said the situation was different in Britain where there was a form of national government with Prime Minister Churchill "peculiarly fitted" by long experience to be the chief directing genius of the war effort.

News Flashes

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—D.N.B., German news and propaganda agency, reported today under a Zagreb dateline the formation of an "independent Croat state." Victory Dimes Boost War Savings

PORT HOPE, April 10 (ENS).—The weekly "Dimes for Victory" awards are not without human interest stories it is revealed following the winning of two five dollar certificates.

When W. Austin entered the Midland Loan on a recent occasion and found a ten cent piece on the floor the staff suggested he should place it in the "Dimes for Victory" box in the bank, saying it might start him on the road to riches. Mr. Austin obliged and was greatly surprised as were members of the bank staff when his name was drawn as the winner of a five dollar award.

On another occasion the Children's Aid Society received a five dollar certificate when a loose dime was found in the box in the Bank of Montreal. It was finally decided to make a charitable institution the beneficiary if the envelope in which it was placed was drawn. The same night the Society found itself wealthier by five dollars.

812 Radio Licenses In Northumberland

COBOURG, April 10 (ENS) - Radio license sale at Cobourg is reaching a new high according to W. W. Stephen, local vendor and the supervisor of Northumberland county for the issuance of permits.

Mr. Stephens stated that last year a gain of 700 was made in the sale of the printed slips for the users of the ether waves. This gain was for the county, while a gain of 112 for the town of Cobourg was experienced.

Mr. Stephens said that any radio licence purchased before April 1st 1941, was now void.

ClassContribute Sum Of $12.55 To War Services

PORT HOPE, April 10.—(ENS).—The local War Services Fund drive received a welcome contribution of $12.55 this morning when pupils of Room 4 at the Central Public school presented Captain F. Brightwell of the Salvation Army with a milk bottle of coppers, nickels and dimes. Taken by surprise Captain Brightwell was delighted to learn the spirit which had prompted the students to raise the funds from the sale of home-made candy. In the grade he learned the fathers or brothers of twelve students were represented.

The following letter, signed by members of the class was read:

"On Friday last, April 4, our room, No. 4, at the Central Public school held a home-made candy sale. We sold nearly 250 bags of candy and received the sum of $12.55.

"No less than 12 of our fathers and brothers are serving in Canadian armed forces and are at present away from home. Frequently they write and tell us of the wonderful work being done by the Salvation Army, both here and in Britain.

"We understand that you are one of the official canvassers of Canada's War Service Fund in Port Hope and so we ask you to kindly accept this sum of money as our part in helping out the drive for funds now being staged by these six organizations.

(Signed by the Class of 39 Pupils)

Winners In Junior Merchants Contest

Joan Margaret McCullagh (RIGHT) and Della Kathleen Robinson (LEFT) who won these dolls in the recent circulation contest sponsored by the Examiner in Cobourg. Della, who has three brothers in the Canadian Army and who lost an uncle when the Illustrious was sunk, has offered her doll in a raffle for the Peterborough and District War Victims' Fund.

Girl With Three Brothers In Army Offers Doll To War Victims' Fund

COBOURG, April 10 (ENS).—Two young "Examiner Merchants" have had a successful short career. The two are Joan Margaret McCullagh and Della Kathleen Robinson. Both girls are among the successful young candidates in the Examiner's subscription campaign. The beautiful dolls which both girls won as a result of their careers are (to use an idiom of the day) an eyeful. Interviewed at their homes both girls were enthusiastic over their prizes. Joan Margaret is but five year old and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCullagh, Ontario street. Joan's subscription hunting took only an hour and she is crazy about her beautiful prize, according to her mother. The other young merchant, Della Kathleen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robinson, Swayne street. Della Kathleen is twelve. She is imbued with the true patriotic spirit of the day. Della has decided to give her prize up and as a result of her decision a raffle, with the proceeds going to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund. The prize: her beautiful doll! so recently won. Della has relatives in England, a large part of her mother's family living there. In addition she has three brothers in the C.A.S., F. William now in England with an anti-aircraft unit which was recruited at the outset of hostilities and two brothers in the Midland Regiment now in Ottawa. They are Ernest and Arthur. On the tragic side Della's uncle was killed in the naval air action which centred around H.M.S. Illustrious, an aircraft carrier. He was a gunner aboard the carrier and was one of the 85 who paid the supreme sacrifice in that action.

Veterans Of First World War Honor Heroes Of Vimy Ridge

COBOURG, April 10.—(ENS). — For a few short hours Wednesday night veterans of the First World War and at least one veteran of this one went over again the stirring days of old.

The occasion was the Vimy anniversary dinner held at the Baltimore Hotel where over a hundred gathered to pay tribute to those who died in that glorious battle.

The guest speaker was Capt. Roy Wilmott who spoke of the great work performed by the Legion during the last 25 years of uneasy peace. The Legion also had its members in the present conflict, some in active service and others in the veterans' guard and auxiliary forces.

Force For Unity.

The Legion, he said, was a great force for unity of the Canadian people and one of the great forces in the present democracy.

It was hard to foresee the future in these tragic times but with the help of the United States, the British people would pursue this job to the finish and complete it this time.

The speaker told of the recent writing of an American who had penned words immortalizing the British crown in saying that though London bridge was being bombed and falling down Her Majesty the Queen had stayed in London town. This was the spirit of the British people at large and with this spirit they would carry on.

Capt. Wilmott spoke with admiration of the effort the Canadian people were making to finance this war, which had cost more in the first year than the whole of the last great struggle He paid tribute also to the morale displayed by the civilian population of Britain which was coming through hardships in stirling fashion.

Comrade Andy Anderson was called upon by the president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, James Rollings, who presided as chairman for the banquet.

Comrade Anderson thanked Captain Wilmott and then in a strong speech called for greater unity among the veterans, all those who were not now members of the Legion were invited to come to the meetings and help make this branch the strongest in Ontario.

Two present day members of the C.A.S.F., Dave Carr, a member of the 14th Battery who has already seen service overseas, being home on sick leave. The other, Pte. Willis Ward, is home on furlough from his unit, the 11th Tank Battalion, Ontario Regiment. Pte. Ward rendered a very much appreciated song.

The committee in charge were Comrades Ted Houghton, Vince Dawe, Dr. Harrington and President Rollings.

Parish Guild Group Hears Talk On Food

CAMPBELLFORD, April 10. — (ENS).—Close to two hundred attended the Parish Guild sponsored foods demonstration held in the Parish Hall Wednesday afternoon. The program which included a thirty-five minute educational film tracing the history of canning from the time of Napoleon to the present day, was introduced by the Guild president, Mrs. R. A. Linton. At the conclusion of this the ladies sampled a variety of soups and then were given a questionnaire on which they were asked for comments and suggestions as to how it could be improved. In addition to coupons entitling the bearer to a free tin of soup with two tins purchased, each lady was given a 16 oz. tin at the conclusion of the program.

A free draw was conducted with various products being the awards. Rose Price drew the lucky tickets and winners were Mrs. H. Beatty, Mrs. G. Morrison, Mrs Petherick, Mrs. D. Blake, Mrs. W. Dunk.

Fire Destroys Lacquer Dept.

COBOURG, April 10—(ENS). — Fire Wednesday gutted the interior of a building housing the lacquer department at the Edwards-Edwards Tannery at the north end of the town.

The blaze was discovered shortly before noontime, and the fire department was called. It was finally brought under control, but not before damage to the extent of $4,000 or more was done. The fire not only burned the interior and roof of the building, a frame structure, but destroyed a quantity of valuable chemicals used in the finishing end of the leather business. A booth which was valued at $1,800 was also destroyed by the fire.

Hockey equipment as well as clothes owned by Roy Black, one of the finishers employed, were also burned in the blaze.

Due to the highly explosive nature of the materials used, the small building is set apart from the main factory itself, and the blaze at no time was in danger of spreading to the other sections of the tannery.

The Edwards and Edwards tannery is one of the largest factories in Cobourg, and gives year around employment to over a hundred men. Their leather output is one of the biggest exporting businesses of its kind in the dominion. The head of the firm is W. Edwards, one of the original founders of the business.

When The News Is Bad

Admittedly the war news of recent days has not been good. It has been bad and no good purpose can be served in seeking to make it appear otherwise. Within recent weeks we have had good news, but in a war which is of such proportions as the present good news cannot possibly continue.

It is when we get bad news that our efforts must become greater, because it is then that the seriousness of the situation is driven home. It is no time for the defeatist to have his innings, nor can the undue optimist be invited to come to the front. We simply have to face an ugly situation and make the best of it. We have to take the long look and one more dedicate our efforts to nothing short of complete success.

Prime Minister Churchill did not mince matters when he addressed the House of Commons. He told them all there was to tell and he held back nothing. Months ago he had promised his people tears and blood and anguish, and he knows his people can stand up no matter how the tide of battle turns.

It is almost impossible to describe or understand in an intelligent way the exact moves which have been made by which the German army has been able to cut Greece in two. One well versed in military tactics could possibly appreciate all the moves which have been made, but to the laymen it means only that the German machine has been moved on when he had hoped it might have been stopped.

Some of the experts claim there was lack of unified planning between the three forces, Yugoslavia, Greece and Britain. Cetrainly there had been little time left for Yugoslavia to perfect plans of defence, because shortly after that little nation refused to lie flat while Germany rode over her the attack was launched, and Germany had been pouring men and machines into the Balkans for months, and all was ready and waiting for the word.

It does not mean that the war of the Balkans has been completed. Truth is it has only started, and the initial stages have resulted in success for the enemy. How many British troops are in that area has not been disclosed, but it is known they have not yet come in contact with the Germans.

Right now is the time when we should make our efforts greater. The individual in Canada can do one thing, and he can support the war aims of this country to a deeper and more effective extent than he has yet done. It may seem like remote participation, but the plain fact is it is the only effective way open to him to strengthen the arm of Britain.

No time for discouragement, no time for lamentations. But rather a season for the stiffening of the national and individual spine to the task which lies directly before us.

Not The Right Answer

A report by a grand jury made recently to Mr. Justice Hope was read (in part) in the Ontario Legislature, and it dealt with the conduct of some of the beverage rooms in Toronto where bouncers were alleged to have been employed. Part of the charge was that "in many cases they use unnecessary force which in some cases has resulted in injury and death to the victims."

Colonel Drew, the Conservative leader, suggested that such reports coming from a grand jury, might be one of the reasons why the Attorney-General desired to do away with grand juries. The reply to that was that the grand jury report was not based on evidence, and to this Premier Hepburn added that members of grand juries had to do something to justify their salaries.

But that hardly answers the question. We doubt whether any grand jury spends its time making up a colored report in order that it may appear its services are well worth while. Within recent weeks there was a case fully reported in Toronto papers where a man had been put out of a Toronto beverage room in such a way that he died from injuries received in a fall, and the name of the beverage room and the parties involved as well as the man who died were all included in the report. So it is hardly proper to raise the point that grand juries are likely to be talking of events which have not taken place.

Hitting War Profits

Apparently there are many cases waiting to be reviewed by the Board of Referees, and they have to do with settling claims and disputes regarding excess profits. With provincial taxes included the Government now takes 85 cents of every dollar of profit in excess of that which was made in the four-year pre-war period.

Finance Minister Ilsley has considered it necessary to serve warning that boards of directors or employers who plan for higher costs to cut down on what the Government would otherwise take as excess profits would be "regarded as guilty of serious misconduct."

He was not referring to reasonable increases of pay to those working in industrial or other establishments, but he was concerned about new and unusual bonuses and increases to the more highly paid executives, as such payments were plainly being made in an effort to keep the Government from securing the needed revenue through its excess profits form of taxation.

There was no charge made that the custom was widespread or general, but there must have been evidence that it was making itself felt otherwise there would have been no reason for referring to it.

It is just another way of pointing the finger at the rule that there is not to be money made out of the country's season of war agony, and we believe the great majority of our citizens have long since come to the conclusion that such rule and principle is the only right one to follow.

We have thousands of men who have gone into the active service forces, and they have not joined there for the money they are receiving but because they felt it was the place they ought to be. A great many of these men are not receiving in army pay and allowances as much as they had been making before. To them the war is at once a monetary loss and a vital risk, but they were —and are—willing to take it.

That being the case it is the part of good citizenship for those who remain at home to accept the same standard, and if Mr. Ilsley has reason to state he has found evidence of a desire to inflate costs for the evasion of the Excess Profits Tax then he is fully justified in making his warning plain.

As It Was On The Tenth

There was a spring meeting of doctors in New York, something in the nature of a clinic it seems, and of course there were addresses. One of them was on the enlightenment of the general public regarding the real aim of the medical profession. That may not have been the exact wording of the subject, but it was the general idea. The gist of the address was that as people became wiser they realized how helpless they were to doctor themselves, and how much better it was to visit the physician than to keep on tinkering with their own ailments. We take it that he meant they might be fiddling around with the liver when the real trouble was in the gall bladder.

Possibly such an address would get a good hearing at a gathering of medical men in New York, but it would have been a failure on the Tenth Concession. That we know. In the Spring there were a number of things which arrived about the same time, such as clucking hens, brown patches in the fall wheat, maple syrup, putting a new corn husk mat on the stoop beside the heel scraper, the coming of sulphur and molasses and the little bags of camphor for the younger members of the tribe to wear tied around the neck and reposing right close up against the epidermis, which we have been informed means the skin.

It was eight miles to the village where the nearest doctor lived and the roads in Spring were bad. The Tenth was awful in spots and the Broken Front Road was worse than that, and there were no telephones, so a person had to be ailing pretty bad before a doctor was called. That's why the Tenth did a good deal in the way of preventive medicine. It was never fully explained to us why we needed treatment in the Spring, but in a general way it was given out that the system had slipped down a few notches during the Winter and needed toning up in the Spring.

In all there must have been great quantities of sulphur and molasses consumed along the Tenth each and every Spring. No person was entitled to any sympathy in the taking of sulphur and molasses. The sulphur was inclined at times to stick around the gills a little but it wasn't bad. The one uncertain point was how much to take. The hired man held there was one sure way to know when sufficient had been put into the system. If the socks were shaken over the kitchen range and sparks could be seen from the sulphur content then it was time to quit.

Possibly the scientific world of today might be inclined to scoff at the little cheesecloth bags which contained the lumps of camphor. They were tied around the neck like the discs they give out now when one rents a bathing suit, and we were told that these little sacks were carrying on warfare against invisible enemies—the germs. Never had we seen germs, but we'd heard tell of them and understood they were bad stuff. How we managed to go without the camphor the rest of the season was never explained and we never stopped to ask.

As we understand the situation now these germs go popping from one place to another, and when people are gathered together in one place it is possible for a great interchanging of them to take place. At the school house on the Tenth there would be opportunity for germs to become unduly active. There was the tin cup chained to the pump and every child who attended school used that same tin cup. Thus the germs of a young McGregor were apt to be traded for those who had come along with a young scion from the house of McDougall.

And it was there that these little bags of camphor came in to perform the errand on which they had been sent. There was something in the camphor which went forth to do battle with the germs, and we suppose the McDougall germs would topple over when coming into contact with the McGregor camphor and vice versa. So it was that every Spring as it came saw the home practitioners at work. When we had been fortified and strengthened and somewhat purified by sulphur and molasses, and when the added protection of the little camphor bags had been added to our armor we could puddle along through the mud in the lane and the mud at the side of the Tenth and walk forth unafraid.

One Unwelcome Increase

The number of persons sentenced to prison in Ontario has almost doubled in the years between 1933 and 1939:

1933	14,538
1939	27,926

It is also a fact that we have possibly never had more organizations aimed at being of assistance and right guidance to young people. And for the most part those who are going to places of punishment and supposed correction are young.

Since the year 1934 there has been an annual increase in the number of convictions of between three and four thousand.

That figure for 1939—27,926—would be just about the same as though all the people in Peterborough and the township area close to it had been bundled off to reformatory or prison.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Prime Minister Menzies of Australia has stated he was much impressed by the views of Eamon de Valera of Eire, but he did not say what the views were.

The government of Saskatchewan intends to get along on about $28,000,000 for the fiscal year 1941-42. Possibly that province has not yet gone into the superhighway business.

The usual protest at the number of Quebec divorces going through Senate and Commons has been registered. The province of Quebec is not the offender as most of them come from the city of Montreal.

There was an item from Bowmanville on the wire the other day and it was considered necessary to explain that "Bowmanville is 41 miles east of Toronto." Shucks—why didn't they just say that Bowmanville is a place where George James prints a good newspaper?

DIFFERENT

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Some days there seems so much to do, that somehow hours appear too few, I'm busy as can be; I haven't time for play or fun, there's something more than can be done, it seems that way to me.

¶ And when I come on days like that, my temper gets uncommon flat, I'm like a bear at home; if people come to call I scowl, if they stay long I want to howl, I want to be alone.

¶ Well I was busy yesterday, and things were looking rather gray, I felt much like a wreck; I was behind six yards or so, and couldn't seem to make things go, with chores piled to my neck.

¶ 'Twas then that Jerry Scoon came in, and wore outside a friendly grin, that stretched toward his ears; for Jerry lived next door to me, it must have been in eighty-three, and that's nigh sixty years.

¶ We started visiting right then, we talked of where and how and when, of folk we used to know; of all the things we used to do, of how old friends were getting few, of spots we used to go.

¶ I clean forgot about each chore, the "busy" sign upon the door, his visit seemed just grand; I grinned some more when he went out, recalling things we'd talked about—and worked to beat the band.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THIS WEEK we are discussing Easter customs and observances, and we are reminded that this is Maundy Thursday. It is traditional that on this day the King of England should give alms to a number of poor people; the number is decided by the king's age, and for every year of his life an old man and an old woman receive from him the bounty which is called Maundy Money. The origin of the word Maundy is in some doubt. Some scholars think that it is derived from the Latin word 'mandate', meaning command, and that it refers to Christ's command to love one another. Others think that it is from the Anglo-Saxon 'maund', a word which means a basket, or any sort of gift. Herrick, the poet of whom I wrote some weeks ago, uses the word when he writes:

Behold, for us the naked graces stay
With maunds of roses, for to strew the way.

C & B

Whatever the origin of the word, the ceremony is well known. On Maundy Thursday the King and Queen, the Archbishop, the King's Almoner, and a few ladies and gentlemen go to the Chapel Royal for Evensong. When the Service is over a Yeoman of the Guard, or Beefeater, enters with a large gold dish balanced on his head. In the dish are beautiful little purses, each containin as many silver pennies as the king is year old. These coins are specially minted for this ceremony, and fetch a high price from collectors. The King and Queen then give out the purses to the old men and women; if the ceremony is carried out this year there will be ninety of these 'paupers' and they will receive forty-five silver pence each.

C & B

It was formerly the custom for the monarch to wash the feet of the paupers, as well as to give them money. This was to humble his earthly pride, and there can be little doubt that it did so. The royal party still carries nosegays on this occasion, a reminder of an earlier and somewhat dirtier day. When Queen Elizabeth (the Virgin Queen, and not the present one) was thirty-nine, she performed this ceremony, complete with the footwashing. She was attended by thirty-nine ladies and gentlemen; the feet of the beggars were first washed by the Yeoman of the Laundry, appropriately enough, with warm water and sweet herbs; next they were washed by the sub-almoner, and lastly by Fair Oriana herself. As she washed each beggar's foot she made the sign of the cross upon it and kissed it. The footwashing has now been abandoned, perhaps because kings are less subject to earthly pride than they used to be. The origin of the custom, of course, is in an imitation of Christ's humility when he washed the feet of his disciple, Peter.

C & B

This day used also to be called Shere Thursday, because it was the day when priests had their heads sheared and their beards shaved in preparation for Easter day. Although the clergy were traditionally supposed to keep themselves clean shaven they often became lax in this matter, in days when shaving was an uncomfortable business. They cleaned themselves up for the great festivals of the church, however.

C & B

TOMORROW being Good Friday all prudent housewives will have ordered their supply of hot-cross buns today. It is interesting that the cross on the top of a bun or loaf is not a distinctively Christian, but a Greek sign. In the ruins of Herculaneum loaves were found which were exactly like our modern Easter buns. We eat ours, however, as symbols of charity, for in medieval times buns such as these were made by the church out of the same dough as that used in the preparation of the communion bread, and were given to all who took communion on Easter Day, that is to say, virtually everybody.

C & B

Up until fifty years ago the selling of hot-cross buns on Good Friday morning was quite a feature of London life. Small boys, young girls, and old men were the usual vendors. They hastened through the streets with baskets, calling "Hot-cros buns: one-a-penny buns; two-a-penny buns; one-a-penny, two-a-penny, hot-cross buns!" at the tops of their voices. Sentimentalists who mourn for 'the good old days' and for the peace of city life before the advent of the motor car should remember these ear-splitting street-cries which began at six in the morning and went on all day.

C & B

One of the most impressive of Easter services in the church is that of Tenebrae, which means darkness. On the evening before Good Friday a candlestick with fifteen branches is set up on the altar; in fourteen of the candle holders yellow wax candles are placed, and in the central holder a white candle. The white candle represents Christ, and the yellow ones the eleven faithful disciples, the Virgin Mary, and the two women who were with her at the Crucifixion. Fourteen psalms are sung, and after each one a yellow candle is extinguished, until only the white one is left burning. It is then taken down and hidden under the altar. The extinction of the fourteen candles represents the flight and mourning of the disciples and the women, and the hiding of the white candle the death and burial of Christ. When all the candles are out the priests beat on their desks and on the floor, and the organ roars, to represent the earthquake and the splitting of the rocks after the Crucifixion. This is a most impressive service; it is performed at a few churches in Canada, notably at St. Mary Magadlene in Toronto, famous all over the continent for its beautiful revival of some of these half-forgotten medieval services.

Dorcas Supplies Keep Bethany WA Ladies Busy

BETHANY, April 10 (ENS)—The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Anglican church held their monthly session at the home of Mrs. Clara Armstrong with 20 members and two guests present.

Donations were viewed by the ladies and plans made by which they could be used.

A long discussion followed on choosing delegates to the convention, to be held in Toronto on April 29, and Mrs. Muckle, Mrs. Price and Mrs. Armstrong if it would be necessary to send an extra delegate, consented to fill the appointments.

Work was continued in Dorcas supplies for the remainder of the afternoon.

Quilts were brought in for the sale to be sent to the W.A. House in Toronto early in May. Several sales had been already noted of bazaar work and delivered. Other goods were bought for the apron department.

Rev. Mr. Mason resumed the reading of the study book on Conflict, and finished several interesting chapters.

A suggestion was put forward to have a place designated where hospital supplies may be sent as this association are members of the Centre Fellowship. The president decided to make the necessary arrangements.

The hostess served luncheon assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. W. Reynolds and Miss Emma Reynolds.

Mrs. Roy Jarvis invited the ladies to meet at her home for the May meeting.

Miss Lela Davis and Miss Winnie Nesbitt were visitors to Lindsay on Saturday.

Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Nesbitt and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds were visitors to Peterborough on Monday.

Mrs. Charles Reynolds was a visitor to Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Driver were visitors to Peterborough on Monday.

The Easter Choral Service will be held in the United church at 11 o'clock Sunday. By wish of a change by the Yelverton congregation Early Communion at 8.30 a.m. will be observed at St. Paul's Anglican church Easter Sunday, with Sermon and Evensong at 7 o'clock. Services will be conducted at both churches at 8 o'clock Good Friday evening.

Split Command Seen Flaw In Allied Fight

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP).—If Germany has captured Skoplje, as she claims, it will be a blow to British-Greek hopes of maintaining effective contact with the main Yugoslav armies. This Southern Yugoslav city is a key road and rail junction in the upper Vardar Valley.

In effect the British and Greek forces already are cut off from all except the southernmost wing of the Yugoslav defence forces. It is through those forces that the Nazis got to Skoplje, within some fifty miles of a junction with tottering Italian armies in Albania.

An official announcement from Athens of a Yugoslav "withdrawal" on the Greek left flank of the Struma defence line may prove even more menacing. It implies that a second and even more dangerous Nazi spearhead is pointed up the valley of the Struma River to turn the Greek-British flank and seize control of the lower Vardar Valley and the best gateway to Salonika.

The sudden and adverse developments suggest som confusion in British-Greek-Yugoslav operations, if nothing worse.

Allied armies always labor under the handicap of divided councils. There has been no hint so far that the Greeks, British and Yugoslavs have worked out a single command or selected a supreme commander. Yet they are faced by an expertly staffed German war machine geared to a single purpose under a single command system. The loss of Skoplje might be attributable to just that allied disadvantage.

Changes Italian Picture.

There are hints from Berlin that the drive on Skoplje was the first strategic purpose of the German attack on Yugoslavia and Greece. If the fifty-mile gap between the Germans and the Italian forces in Albania can be closed quickly and a wide enough corridor carved through rugged country for transit of heavy German forces to Italian aid, the whole war picture for Italy will be reversed.

If a separate and powerful Nazi thrust up the valley of the Struma River from Bulgaria into the lower Vardar Valley is in progress it is a deadly menace to the whole Greek-British defence position covering Salonika and Eastern Greece. A general Allied retirement westward might be forced quickly to escape encirclement.

But there are still elements in the situation favorable to the British-Greek allies and to Yugoslav forces in the south not caught in a Nazi trap.

A German march southward down the Vardar from Skoplje would encounter serious natural obstacles. The "Iron Gate" of the Vardar lies fifty miles down river. It is a narrow ten-mile gorge through towering mountain country, easily defensible by far inferior forces. The fifty miles still separating the German forces reported in Skoplje and the Italians in Albania is all mountain terrain. It represents tough going against continued Serb resistance certain to be encountered. The Serbs have stood in those mountains many times against overwhelming odds.

Positions Prepared.

But for the reported Yugoslav withdrawal in the Struma area, perilously close to the lower Vardar Valley and its prime gateway to Salonika, the loss of Skoplje to the Germans would be a serious but not necessarily critical development for the Greek-British allies. If the lower Vardar Valley is also seized, however, there seems small hope that they can escape a general retreat westward.

In the meantime, no hint has come of British-Greek battle dispositions beyond the defence of the Struma line. Neutral witnesses say the British forces are deploying into prepared positions in Greece or possibly in the lower Vardar region of Yugoslavia. A pitched battle between Nazi and British troops seems certain to develop for the first time since the fighting in Flanders.

Mt. Pleasant WI Reviews Year

MOUNT PLEASANT, April 10. —(ENS).—The annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant Branch of Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Graham on Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. T. E. Morden was in the chair.

Mrs. Morden reported that Group No. 1 had purchased material and made a pretty quilt in the Daisy Pinwheel design, which will be sold and the proceeds go to the British war victims. The president expressed sorrow in losing one of the charter members of the local branch in the person of Mrs. John Handley, who passed away during the past month.

The secretary's report revealed that eleven meetings were held during the year, with an attendance of 108 members and 21 visitors, with 17 members on the roll. During the year the members co-operated with the members of the W.A., and did Red Cross work for the Mount Pleasant unit of Millbrook Red Cross.

Cards were sent to the sick and shut-ins; one floral spray, a quilt was made a donation from a past member. During the year Hydro was installed in the W.I. community hall through the generosity of many well-wishers for the community.

Social evenings in the form of progressive euchre and crokinole were held during the winter and from these a donation of $25 was sent to the British war victims.

A quilt was made and donated by Mrs. William Windrem, and the members of Group No. 3, of which Mrs. Vincent Jomes is convener, helped to quilt the quilt which was sold for $10. A donation of $15 was sent to the Red Cross during the year. A W.I. community hall fund was established, with contributions amounting to $56.85; this money to be used for repair of the hall.

The treasurer's report revealed the receipts of the year amounting to $156.83, with the expenditures $82.51, leaving a balance of $74.32.

Mrs. Morden vacated the chair for the election of officers, and Mrs. Thomas Graham conducted the election, which resulted in the following officers being re-elected:

Honorary president, Mrs. Ira Lowe; president, Mrs. T. C. Morden; vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Graham; secretary, Mrs. J. Lawson; treasurer, Mrs. M. Handley; district director, Mrs. G. Shield.

The following committees were appointed: Flower committee, Mrs. W. H. Lowes, Mrs. T. E. Morden. Visiting Sick committee, Mrs. Harry Tully, Mrs. Ira Lowe, Mrs. Thomas Graham. Hall committee, Mrs. W. H. Lowes, Mrs. T. C. Morden. Mrs. G. Shield, Mrs. G. Ruth. Auditors, Mrs. W. H. Lowes and Mrs. Ira Lowe.

A suggestion was adopted that the lunch for the meeting consist only of sandwich and cake, with the hostess providing tea, cream and sugar.

Correspondence included a letter of appreciation from Mrs. Brenton for a message of cheer sent her during illness.

A letter from Mrs. Ira Lowe, expressing thanks and appreciation for sympathy and flowers received in her recent bereavement.

A report of the W. I. Convention, held in Toronto, in November, was given by Mrs. Shield.

The president suggested that a prayer for Peace be said at the beginning of meetings for the duration, and Mrs. W. H. Lowes was appointed in charge of this.

The program included reading, "The Spring is in the Country," by Mrs. Thomas Graham; "A Cloved Apple for a Clothes Closet," by Mrs. G. Ruth.

During the social half-hour, Mrs. Morden and Mrs. W. H. Lowes assisted the hostess in the service of refreshments.

Lakefield Girls Honor Muriel Bullock

LAKEFIELD, April 10—(ENS).—In honor of her approaching marriage Miss Muriel Bullock, Lakefield, was the recipient of gifts from the members of the Lakefield United Church and church organizations on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darling.

The bride and groom-to-be were given seats of honor in the living-room, after which Mrs. G. F. Kelly, in a few words, extended the best wishes of the Young People's Union, and presented Miss Bullock with a pyrex set.

Mrs. Oscar Calberry, on behalf of the church members, read an appropriate address, after which the presentation of an occasional chair was made by Miss Merle Payne and Miss Minnie Chalton.

Miss Zelma Darling, a member of the J.O.Y. Sunday School Class, of which Miss Bullock was a faithful member, in her address expressed the hope that Miss Bullock would remember her co-workers and sometimes be enabled to visit her class. A beautiful glass set made by the Nepheline Company was then presented to the guest of honor by Mrs. W. Hunter.

A gracious reply of thanks was made by Miss Bullock.

Rev. G. F. Kelly also expressed his regrets in losing Miss Bullock, who was always a willing worker in the church, but extended best wishes for her future married life.

A few words of thanks were expressed by the groom-to-be, Hilligrd Ray.

Games, singing, and the serving of candy brought a happy evening to a close.

Admiral Scheer Kept On The Run

SINGAPORE, April 10—(CP).—Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, Commander of the China Station of the Royal Navy, declared yesterday Singapore could accommodate "any part of the American fleet, tomorrow if the occasion demanded," but said if trouble arose he would get "powerful naval reinforcements and get them quickly, regardless of whether the United States comes in with us."

Admiral Layton, who commands Britain's naval defences from Ceylon to the Bering Strait, said an emergency would bring units from the Middle East and Indian Ocean quickly. He estimated, however, it would take two months for a full battle fleet to reach Singapore.

The Admiral toured the base to inspect troops who have arrived since last August and the fighter planes and bombers which have added power and speed to the Fleet Air Arm.

Admiral Layton said several commerce raiders had been "eliminated" in the Indian and Pacific Oceans, but indicated that the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer is operating somewhere in those seas. British sea and air patrols, he said, are forcing it to operate far at sea.

A TIP FOR ECONOMY—

"WASHED CLOTHES SO WHITE

I could scarcely believe it... and it's grand to get rid of all that hard scrubbing!"

TIME minute you switch to new High-Test OXYDOL, you'll join the thousands of women who, with Mrs. Annes, have said good-bye forever to washday torture.

For there's an amazing new ingredient in Oxydol... and here's what this "wonder soap" can do:

(1) It simply soaks out dirt in ten minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. Even grimy collar bands come clean with a few quick rubs, a good douse and a rinse. (2) It washes white clothes as much as 9 to 11 Tintometer shades whiter. (3) And cup for cup, it gives up to 3 times the suds... suds that stand up as much as 2 to 3 times longer! This isn't idle talk... it has all been proved in our scientific laboratory tests against less efficient soaps.

Now before you say, "What about colors?"... just listen to this—gay cotton prints, given the equal of a whole year's washing in our laboratory, stayed looking as bright as new! That's how SAFE Oxydol is.

With all these advantages, High-Test Oxydol is a money-saver, too. Penny for penny, it goes up to 25% farther than less economical soaps. Get a package of OXYDOL today.

Rangers Paste Quakers 3-1 In Third Game

WINNIPEG, April 10 — (CP). — Winnipeg Rangers handed 4,000 howling home fans a farewell gift last night—a 3-1 victory over Saskatoon Quakers in the third game of the best-of-seven final series for the Western Canada Junior Hockey Championship.

The Rangers' win in their final game on home ice this season gave them a 2-1 edge over Quakers in the series, which will be completed at Saskatoon. The fourth game will be played there Saturday, with the other games Monday, Wednesday and Friday of next week as necessary.

Spotting Quakers a goal by Dave Livingstone in the first period, Rangers swung to the offensive shortly after the second opened. Only three minutes of the period had elapsed when Les Hickey, shifty winger, equalized.

Just 41 seconds after he got the first goal, Hickey battled his way close to Saskatoon's net, slipped the rubber to Centre Bill Robinson and the latter beat Dertell again.

With little more than half of the last period gone, blonde Bill Mortimer deserted his Ranger defence position, grabbed the puck and smashed into the clear. He tore in on Dertell, skidded past the Quaker goalie, then slipped the puck into the net behind him with a short backhand.

Tony Leswick, Quaker forward, travelled fast both ways throughout the game. It was his pass which Livingstone shoved behind Thompson and his backchecking broke up many threatening Ranger plays.

Meet Mr. Peek

STEVE PEEK

Stephen George Peek, an ace pitcher in the International league last year, is one of the many hurlers being given a chance by the Yanks this year.

With Newark last year, Peek won 14 games while losing but four.

Before playing with Newark, Peek saw service with Akron and Binghampton.

A native of Springfield, Mass., Peek went to St. Lawrence university, majoring in psychology.

Office Bowlers Lead Parade With 3167 Score

With Westclox Office leading the parade with 3167 the six teams from the East Side factory buried the Auto Workers under an avalanche of pins in the final night of challenge bowling. When the final count was made Westclox lead by 1598 pins.

The Auto League were definitely off form having made a close fight the first night and were only down by 63 pins starting the final night.

Les Hunt with 744 was high for the night with Joe Weir's 732, R. Hayden's 720 and Mike Duffus' 706 next in order. Hunt also had the single of 328 with Sid Craig tossing in a 306 count.

The series, rolled at the Duffus' Alleys provided a lot of lively competition for the boys. We understand the loss will cost the Automotive boys a dinner.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Thursday, April 10.—The Newman Sterns team of Cleveland defeated Edmonton Grads 13-8 in the final match for the girls' international basketball championship at New York 13 years ago tonight. The victory was the third in four starts for the United States team, which won the series 72-60. Grads disbanded last year after taking every women's basketball title available.

Tris Speaker, one of baseball's greatest outfielders whose 21-year big-league batting average was .344, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries in a 20-foot fall at Cleveland four years ago today. The "Spoke" fell from a window of his home and 100 stitches were necessary to close an eye-to-neck wound. He recovered.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Now that a movement has been launched to establish a Hall of Fame for American golfers, similar in nature to baseball's Hall of Fame, with a suitable shrine provided and a membership built up by the addition of two famous golfers selected this year by a committee the proposal made some time ago that hockey should similarly honor its great players of the past should gain headway. There is no reason in the world why hockey, one of the greatest games in the realm of sport should not have a Hall of Fame where the famous players who added lustre to the game years ago can be fittingly commemorated. George Vezina, Newsy Lalonde, Harvey Pulford, Cyclone Taylor, Scotty Davidson and scores of others flash in mind as worthy of being selected for lasting fame as the famous stars of baseball and golf are being honored across the border.

Two former Peterborough youngsters, now living in St. Catharines have been cutting a swathe in school hockey circles in St. Kitts during the past winter. They are Bill and Don Frick, sons of Ab Frick, formerly of Peterborough and both of them have had the honor of playing on unbeaten school hockey teams this season. Don has been playing with the midget team of the Alexandra School in St. Catharines which won that division in the St. Catharines Public School League and Bill has been performing in the nets for the bantam team of the same school which also cleaned up in its class. Neither the bantam nor midget outfits lost a game during the entire season. A Saskatoon kid, now living in St. Catharines, Eric Unger, was young enough to play bantam and good enough for midget competition so he played on both the championship teams—an unusual feat.

Frankie Boucher, coach of the New York Rangers, follows the announcement of the sale of Dutch Hiller to the Detroit Red Wings with the statement that a player shakeup is planned for the Rangers next season, although nothing definite has been decided upon yet. The Boucher declaration will occasion no surprise. A shakeup was the almost inevitable penalty for the failure of the Rangers to come through as expected during the National Hockey League campaign. Patrick stood pat with his Stanley Cup team of last season and nobody could blame him for that. They had come through like champions the previous season, the team was in the main composed of young players and it looked plenty good enough to repeat. But like the Detroit Red Wings when Jack Adams made no changes in the season following a cup triumph the New Yorkers have bogged down and although they did manage to finish fourth they were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs. Rumors have it that the Rangers are none too highly paid. Perhaps the pay-roll will supply the answer as to their failure this season.

The Skiiers Good Year

The Peterborough Ski Club has completed arrangements for its annual banquet which will be staged at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night and promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the club. It should be that to serve as a fitting climax to a season that has been well above the average, as regards weather and snow conditons, enthusiasm, keen competition and recreation. Financially too we understand that the season just closed has been most successful. Receipts were higher than during the previous year with a substantial jump in the revenue from Bethany guest fees and the expenditures have been lighter notwithstanding a $20 contribution to the Community Chest Fund and the purchase of $40 worth of war saving stamps. The net result is a credit balance of over $300 on the season's operations or over three times the balance recorded at the end of the 1940 season.

Bill Walshe has the following in the Kingston Whig-Standard: "Hockey fans may wonder why the Combines have played such erratic hockey all season, looking like world beaters in one game and just as bad in another, but there is a reason as most of the boys are engaged in serious studies at the university, many of them plugging for final year examinations, and it is rather difficult for a player to concentrate on college courses as well as sports. When there is a chance to relax all the extra efforts are devoted to studies but in the pinch, when wins are needed, the Combines have always come through as their season's record shows. University players on the Combines want to win the championship just as much as the other members of the team and the officials of the club and with the chips down in the seventh and deciding game of the finals in Owen Sound, Kingston can count on the club going all out. Hopes for the group leadership seemed remote during the schedule but the Combines went into Belleville to trim the Quintes after losing to the same force at home. In the group semi-finals Kingston crushed Whitby after losing in the scheduled play while in the Eastern Ontario finals the Combines went into Peterborough's pill box and took two wins for the group title. Again in the playoffs Hamilton held Kingston to two ties but when a win was needed to avoid elimination the Combines came through, just as they hope to do in Owen Sound."

* * * * * *

The Kingston scribe also makes the following reference to Mel Williamson, star centre of the Kingston outfit: "The Combines are sure of having Mel Williamson, their brilliant play-making centre for the finals. He has no further concerns about examinations as he has been granted his science degree to take up important work at the Aluminum Co., where he started Monday. His splendid scholastic record since he started at Queen's and his value on war work qualified him for graduation and Kingston hockey fans will join in extending him congratulations and hope that he makes his home here. He would fit into suggested plans for Senior A hockey next season and also for other major sports."

Tough On The Bull Ring

Stop and shed a tear, stranger, for the boys who try to make a little money out of hockey by guessing the results of important games and backing their fancy with dabs of coin of the realm. This year, has been marked by the craziest, maddest hockey season in many a moon and the birds who like a wager must be fit to be tied by this time. Last night for example the "bull ring" at Maple Leaf Gardens made the Oshawa Generals 5 to 2 favorites to defeat the Montreal Royals. On the strength of Oshawa's overwhelming 10 to 2 win Monday night the odds were not unreasonable but the Royals made them look screwy by going out and trimming Tracey Shaw's outfit 7 goals to 4 and taking the lead in the best of five series 2 games to 1. You can't just naturally dope out reversals of form like that. They have been happening all season in both amateur and pro hockey. Form has been tossed out of the window time after time and the bettors don't know what to make of the whole thing.

* * * * * *

Incidentally last night was a great night for the senior Royals as well for they succeeded in stopping the speedy Sydney Millionaires 2 goals to 0 in a great battle at Montreal and thus have a commanding lead in their series for the Eastern Canadian honors and the right to meet the Western winners for the Allan Cup. Johnny Acheson and Pete Morin were the goal-scorers for the winners, getting their two markers in the middle frame. Both Durnan in the winners' net and Bill Dickie the Sydney goalie performer sensationally to keep the score down. They foiled the attackers time after time.

Indians, Yankees Deadlocked In Pennant Race

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP).—To the sports scribes who are accustomed to living out on a limb, the American League pennant race looks like a dead heat between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees.

Seventy-nine of the 83 writers in major league cities who participated in the annual Associated Press check-up tabbed one or the other of these teams to finish first.

Not even an expert could sum up the experts' conclusions any closer than that, however.

Forty chose Cleveland to come out on top and 39 liked the Yankees, but on the basis of 8 points for first place, 7 for second, 6 for third, etc., New York wound up one point ahead, 612 to 611.

It would only be fair to the average fans around the country to point out that these same experts, when canvassed last spring, voted 66 to 11 that the Yankees would win their fourth straight pennant and even these hardy dissenters could envisage nothing worse than second for the Bronx bombers.

This year all but eight writers conceded the Yankees at least would finish second and the others spotted them third. One scribe, perhaps with a longer memory than the others, put the Indians down for fourth. But otherwise everybody agreed they would land one-two-three.

Put Tigers Third.

Some of the boys might have felt a little more certain about a ticket for the Tigers if they could have known Hank Greenberg's draft status, but failing this Detroit was picked everywhere from first to sixth place. The consensus was third.

The White Sox were considered for all stops between first and seventh, except second, and the Browns were rated from first to last, except second and third.

The only club that wasn't named for four or more different positions was the Philadelphia Athletics, which received votes only for the last three niches and ended in the cellar two points under the Washington Senators.

For the first time in years the Boston Red Sox not only were not mentioned for the pennant, but were beaten out of a first division rating by the White Sox, 377 to 363.

Oscar Pearson Coming Home For Army Sports

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 10.—(CP).— Stocky, good-natured Oscar Pearson of Toronto is going back to Canada — a loss to Canadian troops in England but a break for the boys in khaki back home.

As Y.M.C.A. sports supervisor in the 1st Division Pearson did a super job arranging for everything from hockey to table tennis. He probably is the most popular auxiliary services official with the overseas troops. On his return to the Dominion, he will be assigned to sports in camps there.

Starting from scratch more than a year ago, he worked energetically in the camps here, seeing that every unit in the division had a chance to share in some athletic competition.

Soccer schedules were run off, softball leagues completed, cross-country races held, boxing shows staged and several other sport events directed by Pearson, with help of divisional headquarters officers and other auxiliary service officials.

His activities helped to keep up the troops' spirits during the dreary winter months and he laid the basis for the spring and summer sports activities, as the general staff placed emphasis on athletics to toughen up the troops.

Pearson's crowning achievement, however, was winter hockey and skating for the troops. From his office in the rink, he made arrangements that allowed thousands of soldiers to don skates and for scores of regimental teams to play through eliminataions until the Canadian corps championship finally was won by a Western Quebec regiment.

Basketball

CHARLESTON, W.Va.—Bill Terry held a meeting of the New York Giants before yesterday's game with the Indians and told his men they couldn't possibly be as bad as they had been looking. This lecture coupled with the two home runs Hank Danning hit to celebrate his return to catching brought a 6-3 triumph over Cleveland.

OKLAHOMA CITY. — Porter Vaughn, whose wildness had Connie Mack worried earlier this spring, apparently is shaping up as the veteran manager of the A's predicted. He pitched winning ball against the Pirates this week and teammates say he not only has regained his control but his self-confidence.

Chile has voted an additional $5,000,000 to rebuild earthquake areas.

38 Nominated 82nd Running Of King's Plate

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP). — The 82nd running of the King's Plate at Woodbine Park here on May 17 loomed to-day on release of nominations as the usual wide-open event, with the early book favoring two black geldings and a chestnut filly for the King's 50 Guineas and the Ontario Jockey Club's $5,500.

Thirty-eight thoroughbreds were nominated for the $8,000-added event, won last year by W. F. Morrissey's wide-running Willie the Kid. Three—Undisturbed, Warrigan, and Depositor—have been favored in the winter books. But the triumph of the little-favored Willie the Kid in last year's classic is hearty indication of how little the form-charts count.

Undisturbed is a black gelding owned by H. Giddings of Oakville. He has been favored in the winter books mainly because of his victory in the Clarendon Plate last year, but may be pressed in the odds closer to race-time by another black gelding, Parkwood Stables' Warrigan, winner of Canada's richest two-year-old event, Mrs. Orpen's Cup and Saucer, over the King's Plate distance, a mile and one-eighth, last year.

Depositor, a chestnut filly owned by the Medway stable of London, Ont., is ranked well off her triumph in the Coronation Stakes here last year.

The Plate, established in 1860 as the Queen's Plate and changed in 1902 to the King's Plate, was raised $500 to $8,000-added this year and in addition, carries with it, for the winner, the equivalent of 50 guineas donated by the King. Conditions limit the event to three-year-olds which have been foaled, raised and trained in Ontario and have never won other than a Juvenile race.

Most of Ontario's better-known stables are represented on the list of nominations. James Fair of Cainville, Ont., near Brantford, has four nominees, the largest number of any stable. George M. Hendrie's Hamilton stable has three, with similar groups from the Medway stables and R. S. McLaughlin's Parkwood stables of Oshawa. Other well-known stables repersented include the Cosgrave stable of Toronto, and well-known owners with nominees include J. Frowde Seagram of Waterloo; H. C. Hatch of Toronto, and W. F. Morrissey of Toronto.

Regina Rangers Leading Series With Lethbridge

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 10—(CP)—Criticism of officiating and charges of poor ice conditions hummed through the hotel corridors here today as the West's best two senior hockey teams, Regina Rangers and Lethbridge Maple Leafs prepared to leave for Calgary and renewal of the best-of-five Western championship series.

The storm of complaints came up shortly after Rangers, aiming for their first Patton Cup victory since 1922, last night eked out a 4-2 victory to take a 2-1 lead in the series. Fourth game will be Saturday and the fifth, if necessary, Monday in Calgary.

Manager Herman Thole of Leafs said Rangers were in position to know the ice in the arena would become soft as play progressed. Further, he said, the ice was "full of holes, handicapping Maple Leafs."

MONTREAL ROYALS OUTPLAY GENERALS IN THIRD GAME BY 7-4

Bob Carraghen, Morrison Spark Winners

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP). — Hockey coaches as a whole are a strange tribe, and one of the strangest of the lot is Lorne White, who bids fair to be a nervous wreck by the time his Montreal Royals have completed their best-of-five game series with Oshawa Generals for the Eastern Canadian Junior Championship.

Three games have been played so far, with Royal leading the once-favored Generals 2-1 by virtue of a 7-4 victory here last night before a slim crowd of 3,000 fans. To date his 'teen age players have gone through the series with a sang-froid befitting experienced pros. The only one excited about the whole thing is White.

Short, dapper and 32 he walks miles behind the bench during a game. A favorite habit is to whirl around on one heel when his team scores.

White had to go home on business after Monday night's game, which the Generals won 10-2, and he returned early last night by plane from Montreal.

Pacing his club last night, as they have done since the start of the season, were Bob Carragher, Bud Farmer and Grant Morrison. In the first game, which Royals also won 7-4, they accounted for all the goals and had 13 to the 14 scoring points. Last night they combined for five goals and an 11 point total.

Carragher and Morrison each scored twice, while Farmer got one. The other Royals scores went to Ken Mosdell and Jimmy Planche. Ron Nelson of the Generals was top man in a goal-getting way for the night, with three tallies, while Norm McAtee scored the other Oshawa goal.

Barons Favored Over Hershey

CLEVELAND, April 10—(AP). — The Cleveland Barons, fighting for their third title in 12 years of professional hockey, are favored over a crippled band of Hershey Bears tonight in the final playoff game for the American League championship.

Cleveland won the first two games of the series here by scores of 4-3 and 3-1, and the Bears took the next two on their home ice, 4-0, and 4-3.

The final victory in Pennsylvania cost the Bears the services of Defenceman Jack Shewchuk and Left Winger Gordon Bruce, two of the team's sparkplugs. Shewchuck suffered a skate cut and Bruce a charley horse, thus reducing the Hershey squad to only 12 players.

Hershey hopes to get along with three defence men—Hank Lauzon, Roger Jenkins and Orville Roulston, who still wears a brace on an injured knee.

Cleveland recorded its first title in 1929-30, and its second in 1938-39. Hershey never has won a professional championship.

Sox Star Hurt

A broken bone in one ankle will keep big Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, on the baseball sidelines for some weeks, and may puncture the Red Sox hopes for a fast start in the coming flag race. The break was revealed by x-ray plates. Williams suffered the injury in sliding into base during an exhibition game.

BASEBALL

WICHITA, Kas., April 10 (AP)—The fact that the rival Chicago clubs are in the midst of a battle of home runs holds no terror for Dizzy Dean. He expected to try to last the full nine innings today for the Cubs against the White Sox. In the last five games the Cubs have blasted 19 homers and the Sox 13. Bill Herman of the Cubs hit three yesterday for the second time.

GREENVILLE, S.C.—A month ago the Detroit Tigers were lamenting that Tucker Stainback had the best throwing arm of any of their outfielders but couldn't hit. Now he's flaunting a super .500 average in the Grapefruit League and is the only bright spot in a club batting slump.

GOLDSBORO, N.C. — Bill Nagel, whom the Phillies acquired from the Athletics, is proving a sparkplug to Doc Prothro's aggregation. He has provided extra base hits in the last four games, three of them home runs.

Montreal Shades Sydney 2-0 For Game Lead

MONTREAL, April 10—(CP). — One game away from a berth in the Allan Cup final, Montreal Royals reigned heavy favorites to-day to wind up their series with Sydney Millionaires on Saturday and carry the East's standard against the Western senior hackey champion for the second time in three years.

Backed brilliantl by Goalie Bill Durnan, the Royals never looked more impressive than in their 2-0 victory over the Maritime champions goals—scored by Johnny Acheson and little Pete Morin—came in a quick second-period thrust, they appeared in full command of play all the way.

The victory left the Quebec champions actually needing only a draw in the fifth match of the best-of-five series here on Saturday. With one match a 3-3 draw, Royals lead 2-1 in games and it would take a Sydney victory in the next clash to force the series to a sixth game.

Sydney Lacks Punch.

Bogged down by the fleet Royals' close-checking tactics, Sydney showed little of the drive that featured their 5-3 victory at Ottawa on Monday. Goalie Bill Dickie was continually harassed in the Millionaire nets and had to be better to keep the score down than did Durnan for his shutout.

It was the second scoreless session in 30 Montreal playoff games for Durnan, backstay of Kirkland Lake Blue Devils in their Allan Cup drive last season. The big netminder is the only important addition to the Royals, whose lineup is otherwise practically unchanged from that which bowed to the Blue Devils in last year's Eastern final.

Sparkplug of the Royals' forward division was Morin, little left winger who has a habit of shining in pay-off games. Morin almost single-handed kept the Royals in the running in their losing battle against Port Arthur two years ago in the Dominion final and has been hitting the same form in the Sydney series.

Wings Uneasy Over Mowers

DETROIT, April 10—(AP).—The onrushing Boston Bruins, National Hockey League champions, prepared once again to turn loose their speed against the Detroit Red Wings tonight, seeking an overwhelming lead in the final Stanley Cup playoffs.

Already leading by two games to none in a best-of-seven series, the Bruins were aware of the fact they would face a desperate squad of Red Wings on Detroit's home ice.

Except for Bill Cowley, league high point scorer, the Boston lineup will be intact. Other Bruins are nursing cuts and sore leg muscles, none of which appear serious enough to keep them out of service. Cowley, who injured his knee in the Toronto series, did not make the Detroit trip.

Red Wing Manager Jack Adams, who called his players for a council of war today, said his biggest worry was Goalie Johnny Mowers, who has an injured thigh muscle. Mowers insisted he would be ready for the opening whistle.

To bolster the defence, Adams said he would shift veteran Alex Motter from centre to Defenceman Harold Jackson's post. Jackson, a rookie called from Indianapolis to replace the injured Captain Ebbie Goodfellow, will be benched.

Bruneteau will fill in for Eddie Wares, whose injured shoulder has failed to round into shape.

General Manager Fred L. Haner of Olympia said a crowd of more than 10,000 would see tonight's game. The fourth game of the series will be played here Saturday night.

Scores Weighing Of Cheese At Montreal

TORONTO, April 10.—(CP).—The practice of weighing cheese at Montreal for export was condemned in the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

George Challies (Cons. Grenville-Dundas) told of an instance where a producer in his constituency had to pay storage on cheese which had missed being shipped because of the necessity of making out innumerable forms that followed the weighing of his cheese at Montreal. After the cheese was stored for seven day, this producer had to have it re-weighed before he could place it on board the boat.

Mr. Challies protested against the fact that Ontario has no representative on the Dairy Products Board. This province, he said, produces 75 per cent. of the cheese manufactured in Canada and was entitled to representation.

Agriculture Minister P. W. Dewan said he had a ready protested against the regulations that call for weighing cheese at Montreal and he agreed that Ontario should have a member on the Dairy Products Board.

To clear up the matter that had been the subject of previous inquiries, Mr. Dewan said that Prescott country had the highest cheese production in 1940 with 8,391,195 pounds.

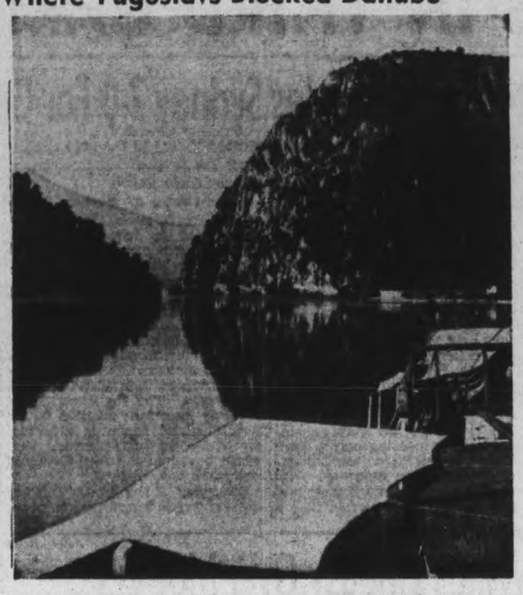
Hastings with 7,840,485 pounds; Glengarry 7,493,987 pounds; Leeds 7,493,402 pounds; Stormont 7,469,907 pounds and Oxford 7,174,350 pounds followed in that order.

No Appeal Due

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP).—The Ottawa Citizen said today that it had been intimated in official circles that the Government would not enter an appeal from the decision of Magistrate G. Strike last Wednesday, acquitting The Citizen Publishing Company of two charges under Defence of Canada regulations.

The charges were laid following publication of an editorial January 11. "At The Business End of The Bren."

Where Yugoslavs Blocked Danube



Picturesque as it may be, this narrowing of the Danube between two mountains occurs at a point where the river flows between Rumania, now in control of the Nazi army, and Yugoslavia, now defending herself from invasion. Yugoslavia sank several large barges loaded with cement at this strategic point, thereby blocking traffic on the Danube.

YPS Convention On April 18

HASTINGS, April 10—(ENS). — The regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Trinity Church was in charge of Earl Darling, citizenship convener.

A worship period opened the meeting, with Scripture by Miss Elleda Buck and a commentary on the reading by Mr. Earl Darling.

The spring convention of the Young People's Society of the Presbytery will be held in St. James' United Church, Peterborough, on April 18.

Plans were made for the society to purchase four War Savings Certificates.

The closing meeting of the season will be held on May 5.

The program included the singing of the hymn, "There is a Green Hill Far Away"; a reading, "A Tribute to a Teacher," by Miss Bessie Turner; a saxophone solo by Mr. W. W. Knight; a reading, "The Writers of Lillies are at Work," by Mrs. I. Bonds; a piano solo by Miss Margery Scriver, and a reading, "Easter Customs," by Mr. Grant Sine.

General Rate In Smith Is Set At 22.9

The Council of the Township of Smith met at the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday, all members present, with Reeve Mann presiding.

Communications were read from the Department of Highways giving approval to road expenditure by-law of $8,000; from Department of Municipal Afairs giving notice that the province will pay the municipality 1 mill subsidy again this year.

The road liability insurance was placed with Lloyds through their agent S. Darling, and policy covering employers' liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act was renewed with Lloyds through their agents, Hill, Weddell & Hills.

Road accounts as certified by the road superintendent totalling $468.42 were passed far payment.

J. A. Middleton was appointed tax collector for 1941.

Bell Newlyweds Are Honored By Young's Point Friends

YOUNG'S POINT, April 10. — (ENS).—About 200 friends and neighbors of this vicinity, Warsaw, Dummer and Peterborough gathered in St. Aidan's parish hall last Friday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bell with a miscellaneous shower.

About eleven o'clock the bride and groom were asked to come forward, and Mr. Robert Northey in a few humorous words presented the gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Bell thanked everyone very kindly for the beautiful presents, also those who assisted in helping with their shower. A most bountiful lunch was then served. Music for dancing was furnished by Wright's orchestra of Warsaw.

Mrs. William Bland of Toronto, is the guest of Rev. E. C. and Mrs. Moore for a few days and also visiting with other friends in the village.

Mr. J. Sweeting of Selwyn is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. C. Bullock.

Little Miss Faye Darling spent the week-end with her ex-schoolmate, Joyce Brown in Lakefield.

Mrs. Cecil Pelton has been visiting in Toronto for the past week and while there attended a family re-union.

Friends of Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald are very pleased to hear she is able to be home again, after being confined to bed at the home of her sister, Mrs. P. Stenner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merrill, also baby Charles, of Oshawa, spent the week-end in the village.

Gunner P. Nicholls of Debert, N.S., who underwent a tonsil operation, has bee n spending his sick leave at the home of Mr. Will Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Tedford and son, of Peterborough, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Spence Jaques of Windsor are having a short vacation with their parents, Rev. E. C. and Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. E. Johnston, Mrs. J. N. Brown, Mrs. P. Stenner and Mrs. L. Wilson represented the local Red Cross group at the Canadian salvage campaign meeting in Peterborough Tuesday afternoon.

Everyone is extending best wishes to Paul Ayotte, who has joined up for active service and is stationed at Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson and Leonard are spending the Easter vacation at Windsor and Detroit.

The committee of St. Mary's church held a meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Victor Young, and final arrangements were made for an Easter party on April 17.

The men of the Community Social Club entertained the ladies on Tuesday evening to very educational moving pictures. After the serving of coffee, plans were discussed for the club's closing event.

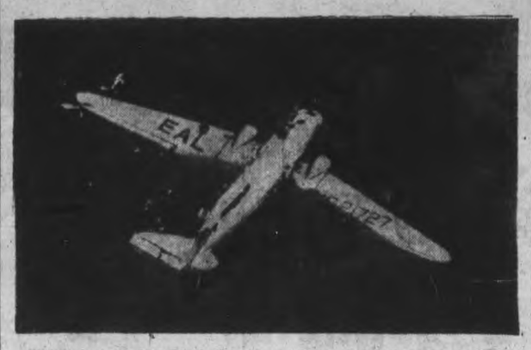
Airliner Lies In Florida Marsh



Like a wounded bird, this giant Miami-to-New York Eastern Air Lines' plane lies in a swamp near Vero Beach, Fla., after the pilot made a forced landing on April 3. Thirteen passengers and three crew members were injured after an electrical storm forced the plane down. The motors, torn from their moorings, lie partly submerbed near the upper left wing tip.

Easter Pageant Presented By Mission Circle

HASTINGS, April 10.—(ENS)—"Sunrise at Sunset," a beautiful Easter pageant was presented on Sunday evening in Trinity United Church, before a large congregation, which filled the church, many attending from Westwood, Norwood, ad Morganston. The religious drama presented by the Mission Circle, assisted by the Mission Band, was capably directed by Mrs. J. E. Glover.

The pageant was enacted from the front of the church, the altar of which was transformed into a beautiful garden, with artificial flowers, trees, potted plants and a trellis entwined with bright vines and flowers. Sun rays extended from the ceiling to the scene below. Six small girls of the Mission Band, Margaret Scriver, Clarine Scriver, Lola Nelson, Doris Oliver, Alma Scriver and Lucy Mae Scriver assisted throughout as little sunrays.

Splendid Acting

Mrs. Iden Bonds, dressed in evening gown, portrayed the part of Christian, and while seated in the beautiful garden was approached by Questioner, portrayed by Mrs. Arthur Orr. She was surrounded by six young ladies, Doreen Fleming, Muriel Oliver, Bessie Turner, Helen Collins, Elleda Buck, and Ona Hoard, gowned in black and portraying fear, grief, sorrow, unrest, indifference and unbelief. After hearing the Easter story read by Christian, six ladies, Mrs. Arthur Beamish, Mrs. C. Scrvier, Mrs. L. Humphries, Mrs. W. Dodd, Mrs. M. Scriver and Mrs. C. Oliver as shadows deepened around the cross, appeared as Joy, Love, Peace, Truth, Hope and Faith.

The three Marys who came to the empty tomb at sunrise were portrayed by Mrs. G. Sine, Miss Jessie Lamb and Mrs. W. Hubbel, and the two angels seated by the tomb were portrayed by Mrs. W. Peck and Mrs. H. Fairman.

Miss Claudine Hoard as "Service" appeared as a conclusion to the pageant.

The drama was interspersed with a duet, 'In the Garden," by Mrs. E. Hess and Mrs. C. Baker, and a solo, "Sunrise at Sunset" by Mrs. C. M. Baker; an anthem by the choir, "Lead Me To Calvary" and an anthem, "Hosanna" by the Mission Band.

Omemee Y.P.U. Meets

OMEMEE, April 10 — (ENS). — Trinity Young People's Union met in the basement Monday evening with Miss Eleanor Sherin, Fellowship convener, in charge.

Miss Verna Gardiner, vice president, conducted the business period.

Quiet music opened the call to worship, and prayer by the leader.

Model For Big U.S. Tank Order

This tank is one of the "pilot models" which went through their paces at the U.S. army's proving grounds at Aberdeen, Maryland, fore-runner of tank fleets that will soon begin to roll off production lines on orders totalling more than $250,000,000. John D. Biggers, director of the production division of the office for production management, is looking over the metal monster. Mass production methods developed for the U.S. auto industry will be adapted to rearmament for this tank order.

Ten Per Cent More Cheese Must Be Produced This Years Says William Newman

CAMPBELLFORD, April 10 (ENS)—Addressing a mass meeting of milk producers in the Masonic Temple auditorium here on Monday night, William Newman, vice-chairman of the Ontario Marketing Board, made an urgent plea for increased cheese production. Mr. Newman was the chief speaker of the meeting arranged under the direction of the Northumberland Cheese Producers Association, called for the purpose of inspiring intensified efforts to up the production of cheese in this leading dairy section of Ontario. In addition a number of the leading figures in the dairy industry also addressed the meeting including Mr. S. Joss, the secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association; the president of the Northumberland Cheese Producers Association, Mr. W. H. Nelson; District Agricultural Representative, Ian McLeod of Brighton; and District Dairy Instructor, J. A. Murray. In his remarks Mr. Newman stated that ten per cent more milk would have to be produced this year over last in order that the cheese production be stepped up at least 15 million pounds, to meet the demands of the domestic and export market. According to the speaker one hundred million pounds of cheese was sold through the export market to Britain in 1940. This year Britain calls for one hundred and twelve million pounds and as much more as the country can supply, necessitating an increase of twelve million pounds to take care of the domestic market and an additional two or three million pounds for the other Empire countries. "This," said he, "can be produced by getting to work with a patriotic will, as you have it to produce."

Population Increase

Canada, he claimed, would need more cheese with the increase in population made by the German prisoners who have been sent here to camps, and in addition to this he said "we are the air training centre for the British Empire. The loss in shipping he maintained was great during the last three weeks, some three or four hundred thousand tons of merchandise was lost at sea, further proving the necessity of this increase. To emphasize to the milk producers their great responsibility, Mr. Newman turned to the problem of how to insure this gigantic increase. He suggested three methods: First, "plan"; second, "pasture; third, "production." Each one of these he claimed must depend upon the individual's own particular needs, although there is a shortage in farm labor he believed that school children could be trained to help by barnyard clean it of all manure and burn all cornstalks. For feed and pasture he maintained oats, Sudan grass and red clover to be most satisfactroy. He told of how this sudan grass could be successfully grown, first test the soil it is to be grown on before planting as it needs the best land and plenty of warmth. He also urged the planting of plenty of corn for feed.

More Corn Required

Mr. S. Joss in addressing the meeting spoke on the brief presented to the London conference which he had helped prepare, and of the justification for asking 19 cents a pound for cheese.

"Corn should be the featured crop this year and we should make every effort to clean up old corn fields not later than the 20th of May to kill the wintering larvae, this should be a community effort, "declared Ian McLeod in his remarks. Mr. J. A. Murphy spoke briefly of his opinion of Seymour farmers, and it was his belief that they would do their utmost to help in the increased production.

The meeting was interspersed with musical program including a solo by Miss Monica DeCarrol, tap dance by Misses Rhea and Rheta Patrick, male quartette by Mr. Murray Meiklejohn, Mr. Howard Hutcheon, Mr. John Coggins and Mitchell Rannie. Reading by Miss Dorothy Curle and musical selection by the Elites.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.

To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Lindsay Kiwanis Hear Ace Bailey

LINDSAY, April 10—(ENS).—Ace Bailey, former professional hockey star and a former member of the Peterborough champion O.H.A. senior team, was the guest speaker at the local Kiwanis luncheon on Tuesday. He brought to the guests a vivid resume of his career in the athletic field, commencing with his youth, when one pair of skates had to be shared by four boys in the family. Mr. Bailey pointed out to the hockey players present that a member of a professional hockey team must always be in first-class condition, both physically and mentally. He informed the boys that in his opinion the line of Jackson, Connacher and Primeau was the finest in hockey history.

Two C.N.A. water service men while employed Wednesday in investigating the stoppage of water in the big tank at the station, made an interesting discovery. It was found that a carp had plugged the pipe leading from the storage tank and become entangled with the standpipe mechanism. It is believed that the full length of the fish must have been sixteen inches. This particular pipe has been cleaned out regularly for the past sixteen years.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Green, town, has quite a military record. Although a veteran of two wars, Mr. Green said that he would not be content until he is again accepted by His Majesty's Forces. Two sons, Richard and Kitchener, are in the 45th Battery at Petawawa, Albert is attached to the Ordinance Corps in England and William is a gunner in the R.C.A.F. at Calgary. Henry, aged 18, has his application in for R.C.A.F. training. Mr. Green saw service in both the South African and the Great Wars.

Tweed Farmer Hurt In Runaway

TWEED, April 10.—(ENS)—Mr. Albert Baker narrowly escaped serious injury Wednesday, when his team of horses ran away while loading hay. Mr. Baker was thrown from the wagon receiving several cuts and bruises, while the horses raced off.

The fire brigade was called to the home of Mr. H. Leitch Tuesday afternoon and fought a stuborn grass fire. Mrs. Leitch started a fire to clean her yard and a gust of wind took the flames into the bushes.

Newlywed Pair Hailed Home

BONARLAW, April 10—(ENS).—Mr. Ralph Wellman and his bride returned to their home at Bonarlaw on Monday, and were greeted by a large number of the neighbors in the form of an old-fashioned chivaree.

Tin pans, cow bells, horns and shot guns made for considerable hilarity for the beautiful spring night as Ralph and Betty greeted their friends and invited them into the house, where a bountiful lunch of cake, sandwiches and coffee was served.

Mr. Jason Baker acted as captain and he and some more of the boys motored out to the grocery store and returned with a treat of candies. Mr. Ken Bain called order and spoke a few words to the young couple, and Mr. Baker then presented them with a beautiful pair of flannelette blankets.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellman thanked their friends for their lovely gift, and all joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McKeown, at Campbellford Hospital, on April 4, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wellman, Charlie and Fae, Pte. Dave Wellman, also Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wellman, motored to Toronto on Thursday and attended the Kew-Wellman nuptials. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Dr. M. Wellman at Whitby.

Mt. Julian Euchre Enjoyable Event

MOUNT JULIAN, April 10.—(ENS)—At Mr. and Mrs. John Northey's euchre last week four tables of cards were played.

The travelling prizes went to Stanley Northey and Mrs. Perce McFadden. Prizes for the most lone hands went to Miss Bertha O'Connor (who played as gentlemen) and Miss Isabel Reid.

There will be no more euchre parties here until April 25 when Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson will open their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Perce McFadden of Lakefield attended last week's euchre here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Northey visited relatives in Peterborough on Sunday.

Messrs. Warne and Fred Northey and James Reid attended the wedding reception at Young's Point on Friday night.

Dairy Director Lauds Marmora Cheese Expert

MAROMRA, April 10 (ENS)—Hes' Cheesemaker for over half a century, G. Wesley Henderson, resident of Marmora for the past two years, recently received his first class certificate as a cheesemaker for 1941 with a congratulatory letter from C. E. Lackner, director of dairying.

The certificate draws attention to the fact that Mr. Henderson had previously received 14 first certificates. Last season, Mr. Henderson left his county to take a factory at Woodlawn in the Ottawa district. Here with an ordinary curing room, Mr. Henderson succeeded in obtaining his certificate which reads:

Average score, 93.160 out of a possible 100.0. Score for workmanship, 97.80 points out of a possible 100.00.

Mr. Henderson before taking the Woodlawn factory made cheese at Foxboro for 18 years and completed 19 years at Mountain View before moving to Foxboro. His brother, Joseph D. Henderson, is instructor at Spencerville and his son is the cheesemaker at the Bloomfield factory. Mr. Henderson is re-engaged as maker at the Woodlawn factory for the coming season.

ing of the Mati River, about 31 miles north of the Albanian capital of Tirana, capturing Scutari and Alessio in a 35-mile advance.

Military observers expressed belief, however, that the British Navy must act quickly to force a passage of the Straits of Otranto between Italy and Albania and open a sea lane to Yugoslavia if military aid and United States war material is to reach her before she may be overwhelmed.

There was no indication of the number of Greek troops still holding out against the Germans in isolated Macedonia.

It was estimated the Greeks had concentrated some 300,000 men along the Bulgarian frontier some time ago but Greek reports indicated a large number of these had been withdrawn in time to avoid being cut off.

An Athens broadcast last night declared "the possibility of a Yugoslav retreat (exposing the Greek left flank) as well as the cutting off of Greek forces in Macedonia and Thrace had been foreseen by the Greek high command."

Fight Till Victory

The broadcast added:—

"The decisive battle will be given where strategic conditions demand it. The war goes on and will go on. We know how to fight and will not be influenced by unfavorable turns. Nothing can shake us until final victory."

The Nazi thrust into Thrace and Macedonia, however, effectively severed overland communications between Greece and Turkey, Britain's thus-far passive ally.

Some dispatches from Turkey raised the possibility that the British Royal Air Force and fleet might seek the use of bases in Turkey for operations against Thrace.

It appeared that the British defence line in Greece was anchored in the east at Kitros, on the Bay of Salonika.

British troops and supply ships were reported bringing fresh reinforcements from Africa into southern Greek ports, and battalions of British flame-throwers, tanks and armored cars were said to be rushing northward from Piraeus, port of Athens, to the new battlefront.

The Greeks said German bombers had attacked Piraeus Monday and Tuesday nights, dropping magnetic mines in the waters around the port. No casualties or damage were reported, however.

Thirteen British bombers were claimed to have been shot down by night fighters and anti-aircraft guns on their approach and the Germans said they believed more were caught on their way back.

The radio informed Berlin residents that performances at the State Opera would be "temporarily" suspended.

Germans Slaughtered

The Yugoslav Legation here reported that Yugoslav troops pushing south from Scutari, in Northern Albania, had crossed the Drin River and they appeared to be co-operating with Greek forces further south in an attempt to squeeze out the Italians before the Nazis can complete their westward dash to join their Axis ally.

The Greek Command said heavy losses were inflicted on Italians in Albania yesterday during local actions.

In the Struma Valley, a Greek spokesman said, a large number of Germans appeared before Greek forts on Tuesday in the mistaken belief the defenders had been driven out, only to be mowed down by the Greek fire.

"The Nazis retreated in confusion," he said, leaving large numbers of dead and wounded and abandoned material, consisting mainly of hand grenades and portable wireless transmitters."

The Athens radio took the view that the loss of Salonika "without fighting, as a result of the retreat of the Serbian Army, does not constitute defeat for our soldiers."

"The heroic defenders of Greek soil will continue the epic struggle and face both invaders efectively," it said.

let us all in the coming months devote ourselves in whatever ways we can to the great crusade in which the free democracies of the world are joined, and in the end, under Divine Providence, victory will be ours," Speech fro mthe Throne said.

The final piece of legislation enacted was a Government motion to pay full indemnities to those members on active service and to those members unavoidably absent through illness. The indemnities of Major Colin Campbell and Lieut. David Croll, both overseas, will be paid to their wives.

Drew Motion Lost.

The last diivsion was a 46-22 vote which defeated Conservative Leader George Drew's motion to set up a commission, similar to that of the Hydro Commission, to administer the timber resources of the province. Mayor Charles Cox, Liberal member of Port Arthur, voted with the Conservatives.

A recommendation for the establishment of such a commission was made in the minority report of the Conservative members of the Select Committee which investigated the administration of the timber resources. A majority report, signed by the Liberal members, declared there was "no justification" for such a commission. Both reports were tabled on Tuesday night.

Motion by Public Works Minister Farquhar Oliver for the appointment of a commission to survey Hydro with a view to establishing a flat rate in the province was not called. Mr. Oliver said he believed it would be dealt with in the special session which is to be convened later to discuss ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway agreement.

Heenan's Stand.

Lands Minister Peter Heenan, closing out the debate on C. Drew's motion, said that to appoint a commission as suggested would remove from the control of "the elected representatives" the administration of these vast resources.

"To adopt this motion would mean that no one in public life is honest or capable enough to administer these resources," he declared. "It would also be an indictment of all previous administrations, even back to the time of Sir John A. MacDonald."

Mayor Cox said that to be consistent he was compelled to vote for the motion and in his opinion "any kind of an administration is better than the one we ave at present."

Col. Drew contended that if Canada's timber wealth was utilized in the same manner as that of Sweden's employment could be made available to 4,000,000 men and "there won't be any need to worry about employment or demobilized soldiers or munition workers after the war."

OBITUARIES

MRS. ERNEST TAYLOR

Mrs. Ernest Taylor, Belleville (nee Anne Long) passed away in Nicholls Hospital, Wednesday noon, after a lengthy illness.

She was born in England and came to Canada at an early age, making her home with Mr. T. D. Chamberlain of Otonabee township prior to entering Nicholls Hospital as a nurse-in-training. She did private nursing for a time, then was public health nurse under the Peterborough Health Association until her marriage in 1927.

Four years later, her husband was transferred by the Canadian National Railways to Belleville, where they have since resided.

She leaves her husband and three small children to mourn the passing of a loving wife and mother; also a brother, Mr. Ed. Long of Otonabee and a brother and a sister in England.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 2.30 p.m. E.D.T. from Comstock Funeral Home, with Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United Church officiating. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

MISS MINNIE GUIRY

DOWNEYVILLE, April 10—(ENS)—Miss Minnie Guiry, well known native of Downeyville died at her brother's home in Trout Creek last night.

The late Miss Miss Guiry was born in Downeyville 65 years ago and lived there until 18 years of age when she moved to Lindsay and has made her home in that town ever since. She had been in fair health and had gone to Trout Creek to spend Easter with her brother, Herbert, and she was stricken suddenly.

She is survived by four brothers, Rev. Father James Guiry of Port Hope, Herbert of Trout Creek, John and Joseph of Downeyville, and four sisters, Rev. Sister Mary of Victory, Peterborough, Rev. Sister St. Clement of Almonte, Miss Alice Guiry, Reg. N. of Lindsay and Miss Ada Guiry also of Lindsay.

TIMOTHY CROWLEY.

HASTINGS, April 10—(ENS). —The funeral of the late Timothy Crowley, who passed away in Peterborough, was held on Tuesday at 9 a.m. from McEachnie & Tedford's funeral parlor to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Hastings.

The late Mr. Crowley, well known to many in the Hastings district, was born in Otonabee 89 years ago, and for many years was engaged as a lumberman.

The funeral was attended by many relatives and friends and requiem high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Carrol of Norwood.

Pall-bearers were: T. A. Walsh, Ed. Lynch, Thomas Lynch, Fred Lynch, William McCarthy, and James Lamey.

Interment was in the Mount Carmel Cemetery, Hastings.

Stewart Hall W.M.S. Has Busy Session

STEWART HALL, April 10 (ENS) —The Women's Missionary Society held its April meeting on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. William Chambers conducted the session, which took the form of an Easter meeting. Miss Edith Thorne read a poem, "Touch of the Master Hand. Mrs. George Chambers read "Three Days Apart," and Miss Marion Patterson sang "The Old Rugged Cross." A missionary story entitled "Easter Lilies" was given by Mrs. F. Savigny, and "What Easter Means" by Mrs. G. Savigny. Roll call given by Miss Gertrude Thompson and a financial report stated that $30 had already been raised this year.

It was decided to hold a Sunday evening service the Sunday following Easter. A committee was appointed to get a speaker and special music for the evening.

The ladies spent the afternoon quilting, after which refreshments were served.

The Red Cross Society met at the Hall on Tuesday afternoon with a very good attendance. Two quilts were the object of the afternoon's work.

The Y.P.S. of Stewart Hall were the guests of Coldsprings Young People on Thursday evening, and a very enjoyable time was reported.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NO WOOL THIS WEEK.

Distribution of wool from the Red Cross quarters at the Public Library will not be made this week. Wool day in the Red Cross workers' week is on Friday, but this week it is Good Friday.

BANK CLEARINGS

A decided increase in the bank clearings for the past week ending this Thursday as compared with the same period one year ago was reported today. Clearings for the past week totalled $605,525, while a ear ago the total was $414,282.

MANY RECRUITS.

Up to Wednesday night, 43 recruits had been accepted for the light anti-aircraft battery to be supplied from M.D. 3. Recruiting will probably continue at a later date, and applicants are to apply to the Peterborough Armory, 4th Field Battery orderly room.

LENTEN SERVICE

The Lenten Service this evening conducted under the auspices of the Ministerial Association with the Rev. Robert Moynan of Toronto preaching, will be held in Knox United church, and on Good Friday in St. Andrew's United church at 10.30 a communion service will be held.

MONDAY AT POST OFFICE

On Easter Monday the service at the post office will be as follows:—Public lobby will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 8.00 p.m. General delivery, registration, postage stamp, money order and savings bank wickets will be open from 8.00 a.m. to 7.00 p.m. The regular morning letter carrier delivery will be given. The usual rural route deliveries will be made and all street letter box collections will be as usual. All mails will be despatched as usual.

MAILS LOST.

Canadian citizens expecting mail from soldiers or friends in England, mailed during the period, 14th to 23rd March last, are advised that there may be considerable delay or perhaps loss, according to a statement released by Postmaster-General William P. Mulock. Word has just been reecived that a steamer carrying mail is overdue. The ship was supposed to have left the other side during the last week of March, and was due in Canada around the firt week of April. The steamer was carrying 4,261 bags of mail, including 3,855 bags of letters and 403 bags o' parcels. The Canadian Post Office Department is at all times anxious to provide a safe and expeditious mail service between citizens of Canada and military forces and friends in Great Britain, but the above is an example of one of the unavoidable situations which from time to time confront the postal service.

VISITED SUGAR BUSH

Mac Gordon arranged a fine treat for his Sunday school class of Trinity Church the other evening, an outing to James Hawthorne's sugar bush in Dummer township.

ANOTHER SIGN.

George Street boasts still another neon sign. A new one has been installed a tthe optical parlor of A. Ward Smith, just north of Hunter Street.

THE FAMILY IS GROWING.

Irven Lyons, game overseer, will be taking three raccoons and several pheasants back into the County Game Preserve during the next few weeks, where they will be set loose.

NO NUMBER PLATE.

Driving a commercial vehicle on the Warsaw-Stoney Lake road without the required number plate L. Lymburner was fined $10.00, and $3.50 costs, when a written plea of guilty was entered in Police Court to-day.

A FAMILY HEIRLOOM.

Mrs. Richard Anglesey of Young's Point, who observed her 91st birthday this week, has a bed which belonged to her mother and which is in excellent condition. The bed is a four-poster model and has the old-fashioned rope springs, and it was purchased from a furniture dealer in Peterborough 85 years ago.

AS A THIRD OFFENDER.

Ernest Redmond was charged in Police Court this morning as a third offender on a drunk charge, and when he requested an adjournment was remanded until Tuesday next. He will have to get bail to get out until then. Another man, a first offender, was more fortunate. He managed to get an adjournment until Tuesday.

PARTRIDGE SURVIVING.

Charlie Kingan reported to-day that workmen at the Canadian Nepheline Mines at the head of Stoney Lake are feeding the Chukar partridge which were placed in the County Game Preserve last year. According to the report the birds are thriving and they make quite a noise in the early morning. Several of the birds were shot by a poacher last fall.

HAS NEW PATROL CAR

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd A. McClure is swanking around today in a new highway patrol car, issued to traffic officers to replace the motor cycles long used by the traffic squad. The new patrol vehicle, equipped with a big red light on the top to use at night and also with first aid kit, a fire extinguisher, a fire axe and other articles likely to be needed in an emergency.

SAY SEASON ENDING

Mark Burnham reports the maple syrup season is coming to an abrupt end. Abbreviating factors are no frost in the ground, warm days and also warm nights. The trickle of sap these last few days is likely to be followed almost immediately by the lifting of the pails in the woods and drawing the fire in the evaporator.

GEESE IN MONAGHAN

Migrant wild geese arrived this week at the pond opposite Robert A. Dobbin's house in North Monaghan. They announced their coming early Tuesday morning, and the next day many others joined them. The pond is south of the Peterborough-Port Hope highway a short distance beyond the "fox-farm" road intersection. A number of men from Peterborough take corn and other grain out there in the day time, goodwill greeting to the geese on their temporary resting here in their northbound flights. Three of the geese Wednesday evening were white.

GARBAGE COLLECTION

Friday, April 11, being Good Friday, there will be no garbage collection made on that day.

Definite Policy Tree Planting Sought For City

Spring time brings to citizens, singly and collectively, thoughts and action of planting. Representing community wishes the council the other night appointed Aldermen Roy and Dutton and City Engineer Parsons to buy trees to be planted in parks and along boulevards.

From the Men of the Trees the council has obtained two hundred trees at a cost of fifty cents each, merely transport charge.

As chairman of the Board of Works, Alderman Dutton is urging the council to set apart a section of the city's property at the sewage plant for a tree nursery.

In the discussion Monday night it seemed that there is no definite policy in regard to the planting and caring for trees, and also for their removal

If a suggestion may be permitted in the news columns it would be simply this, that the council decide upon a tree policy and make City Engineer Parsons its director.

Nothing Ever Done.

One of the council of years ago conceived some such plan as that. They asked Mr. Parsons to prepare a report recommending the kinds of trees to be planted in Peterboro, and so on. That report is still somewhere around the city hall, and from all accounts nothing was ever done about it.

Peterboro's tree policy changes from year to year with each council and at best its a nebulous undertaking. During Walter Stocker's time as chairma of the parks committee there had been some proposals about beginning a tree nursery, but nothing was done about it. The deficiency was made up by buying trees of from eight to twelve feet from the trade nurseries

The suggestion is made that a policy should be drafted and should be related to a permanent officer of the city like Mr. Parsons, and that he be given every encouragement to build up a productive source of supply to be owned by the city. The chairman of the Board of Works and Parks committee are both interested in this work and should be continously connected with it by some arrangement of agreement. Plans should include the removal of old trees, and their replacement.

County's Forest.

Meanwhile Peterboro county has come into possession of an extensive forest, and it is more than a possibility that the city council will be invited to go down and see it some afternoon this season. They were inivted some time ago but they could not all get away together and the outing was abandoned.

Incidentally, Kiwanis Club was at one time mildly interested in a municipal forest, and something was said in the city council about it, but evidently this is a project that requires some George to do it. The county has W A. Anderson of Otonabee to give leadership to its reforestation committee and absorb some of the worries, and as a result the county is going to have a valuable property on its hands some day, if these present councils will simply be patient in their knowledge that trees are slow-growing things.

With all the city's good intentions and wel-wishing during a period of many years, it has so far failed to develop a clear and vigorous t ee policy. In regard to the proposed municipal forest it was suggesterd that some of the border-line employables might have been given work in a city woods, but that too, was only a passing notion. Members of the council undoubtedly wish to get something started, but year after year more important questions intrude with result that a permanenr tree program has not made any headway. So far it has been shuffled about from year to year, gets some passing attention, and is then pushed aside.

Militia Men Visit Kiwanis

The weekly meeting of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club was advanced to Thursday this week, when it went military in theme. Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, oficer commanding the Morrow Park Training Camp, and his senior officers, were guests of the club as were Lt.-Col. M. H. Park and the senior officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers. All of the officers present were introduced by Lt. Ralph Standish, who is also an officer of the club.

President John Troke spoke words of welcome to the visitors, and Col. Keeler replied, inviting all of them to his mess at their convenience.

Robert Hardie, Peterborough magician, entertained the members and guests with sleight-of-hand tricks to the enjoyment of all.

President Troke read a letter he has received from a fellow-president of a Kiwanis club in Montana. That club has collected a sum of money from its members, and is desirous of sending it to the Peterborough club to be added to the money subscribed for the lightening of the sufferings of child war victims.

VICHY, France, April 10 (AP)—Prince Michel Obolensky, 63, Russian exile, died April 5 in Nice.

Bags Three Wolves In Harvey

Here is one for Charlie Kingan and his wolf hunters like Ike Lyons, fish and game overseer. Wednesday night just by error we tipped Messrs. Kingan and Company off that three wolves had been shot, but right ABOVE is the proof. Howard Baptie of Alexander Avenue is shown here with the hides of three wolves which he shot with his 44-40 rifle last week. He bagged them near Nogie's Creek in Harvey township all in one day. The bounty will amount to $75, and the largest wolf weighed 75 pounds.

Rangers And 4th Battery Need Support Of Citizens

THE local units of the Canadian Army are now entering another phase in their varied careers and although still upon a non-active footing continue to carry on activities of which the public as a whole know very little.

The commencement of 1941 training finds the Prince of Wales Rangers (M.G.), the 4th Field Battery, R.C.A. and the 32nd Infantry Reserve Coy. of the Veterans Home Guard promoting a mammoth bingo game, to be held in the Armoury on Tuesday, April 15.

What is the object of this drive for funds, earmarked according to the tickets being sold in their hundreds, for regimental purposes?

It is a notorious fact that memories generally are short and that past performance counts for little, particularly when in an emergency efforts are demanded which surpass in their scope, anything that has been done previously.

The old Non-Permanent Active Militia was for years a starved organization, that is, starved of everything except enthusiasm, and particularly was it fortunate in having in its officer and non-commissioned officer personnel those men who were willing to devote both time and energy to the maintenance of some semblance of military formation and intelligence in their regiments.

Training in peace time, particularly during the years 1921 to 1936 was a hazardous business. Paucity of public funds kept training grants to a minimum and commanding officers of units were hard pressed to retain their formations upon an active footing. Of course it would have been an easy way out to throw up the sponge and allow the unit to become a mere entry in the militia list, but an officer who had battled his way through the various ranks of the militia was not the type of man who quit when the going was hard, and it is because of this tenacity of purpose that we have an army today, the old NPAM is the backbone of the present Canadian Army.

The money required to carry a unit and train adequate number in the past came out of the pockets of all ranks in the regiment. For ten years the old Peterborough Rangers pooled all pay for regimental purposes and as a full slate of officers was always carried as a nucleus, the proportion of officers pay pooled was unduly large. An officer in addition did not draw a uniform from the quartermasters stores so consequently had an added financial burden. Training grants in the years mentioned were usually ten or twelve days pay for a maximum of 225 all ranks. When a surplus of pooled pay accrued it was spent on the unit in the form of a treat, such as the well remembered week-end trips to Perth and Midland, when the regiment provided the townspeople with a military display in return for their local hospitality.

Why did the regiments pool their pay? To provide the public with a skeleton defence force! To maintain a band to provide music in local parks during lanquid summer evenings! To maintain an organization to march down the street and put a little pep into a local effort! In fact to do all those things that were expected of the militia as a matter of course.

IN TIME OF WAR

The scene has changed, there is a war on and money for training flows a little more freely. Today the Prince of Wales Rangers can train its complete war establishment and draw 30 days pay for all ranks. Of course many, particularly officers and NCO's will spend many more days than the authorized 30 in training but they will not draw any pay for time officially not recognized.

All ranks of the regiment handed back 2 days pay in 1940, one day out of camp pay and one day out of pay for local headquarters training. This money is used entirely for regimental purposes and has nothing to do with Officers' or Sergeants' Messes which are maintained entirely by fees paid by officers and sergeants only.

All ranks of the regiment will be given complete details of the manner in which regimental funds are dispersed, such items as $250 for office supplies and $60 for training manuals will convince them that the money has to come from some source. A commanding officer does not have an expense account, but he has to account for hundreds of dollars worth of government property and has to provide the funds to make good any shortages.

When Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders were mobilized in Peterborough, the officers and non-commissioned officers were largely taken from the ranks of the Prince of Wales Rangers and for good measure the old regiment, to help the newly mobilized regiment on its long pilgrimage, gave half their Regimental and Officers' Mess funds to enable them to start financially solvent. These gifts in all amounted to $750.00.

The regiment hopes to eliminate the necessity of pooling pay for regimental purposes by organizing and promoting such spectacles as the Tattoo held at the Exhibition Camp last summer and the present mammoth bingo game. The public get value for their money and the regiment is indebted especially to those people who so generously donated some of the prizes.

Canadian Honored

LONDON, April 10 (CP Cable)—Lieut. Robert Welland, Royal Canadian Navy, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross at a recent investiture in Buckingham Palace. Lieut. Welland, of McReary, Man., was decorated for "courage and enterprise in action against enemy submarines."

$25 GIFT TO "EX."

Tom Brown, president of the Peterborough Exhibition, reported this morning a contribution of $25 from Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., to help defray the cost of continuing this year the Junior Farmers' department of the Exhibition. Mr. Brown said he has hopes that the junior farmers of Central Ontario may be permitted to use the eastern section of Morrow Park.

Mrs. Jas. Crough Gives Birth To Her 23rd Child

Twin babies, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. James Crough of Otonabee Township in St. Joseph's Hospital at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening. Both were premature, and the girl died a few hours after midnight, but the boy is still alive and has every chance of surviving. Each weighed two pounds four ounces.

This family stands alone as the largest in Peterborough County and perhaps in all Ontario, with the exception of the Massie family in Huron County.

There are 11 boys and 8 girls living, including the twin boy born last night. The twin girl that died and another baby that died last summer brings the total to 21. Then back about nine years ago twin boys were still-born, bringing the total of births, both live and dead, to 23. Mr. and Mrs. Crough were married in June, 1916, and will not celebrate their 23rd wedding aniversary until June of this year.

Mrs. Crough is 43 years of age and her husband is 46. The husband, James Crough, is employed on construction at the Canadian General Electric Company along with his two oldest boys, and the two oldest girls are engaged in housework in this city. Six children are attending school.

The family lives on No. 7 Highway about three miles east of the city, but for many ears their home was in Ennismore, a short distance from the shore of Lake Chemong.

The attending doctor was Dr. Robert Young for the birth of the twins, but to-day he could not be reached for a statement on the chances which the surviving twin has.

Mrs. Crough is a young-looking woman, and when visited by an Examiner reporter shortly after noon to-day said she was feeling fine.

Drunken Driver Given Ten Days

Ten days' imprisonment was the sentence meted out by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to Garnet Walker after the latter had been convicted on a charge of having been in charge of a motor vehicle on March 7 while intoxicated.

In view of the fact that the accused had to drive a motor vehicle in the course of his business, the magistrate did not suspend his license.

Walker was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and the prosecution was in the hands of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

The case arose out of an altercation near the home of Police Inspector James F. Reid on Murray street, on the night of March 7.

According to the evidence of the crown witnesses, Fred Stinson who had Walter Cox in his car with him drove along Murray street that night. The snow was piled high on each side of the street, leaving only a narrow passage. As the Stinson car came along, it was found that a bread truck was blocking the way, and an altercation followed which finally resulted in Inspector Reid arriving on the scene and arresting Walker and another man who was with him.

The two civilian witnesses, Inspector Reid and Constable Naples and Murphy who brought the accused to the police station all swore that Walker was intoxicated.

Mr. Gordon did not call any defence, and Magistrate Langley found the accused guilty on the testimony of the crown witnesses.

Progress On Highway

VICTORIA, April 10 (CP)—The joint Canadian-United States Commission on the proposed Alaska Highway may make its report at Ottawa and Washington in about six weeks, Arthur Dixon, deputy minister of public works for British Columbia and a member of the Canadian section of the Commission, said here yesterday.

Cat Adopts Rats

LOS ANGELES, April 10 (AP)—A feed plant's cat killed a mother rat and carried its six young, one by one, to the nest of her three kittens. The cat began nursing kittens and rodents alike.

Oakley Retires From C.P.R. Post

The retirement of L. D. Oakley, Winnipeg, line auditor with the Canadian Pacific Express Company, for 29 years, is reported in the company's staff bulletin of April 5. His western connection with the C.P.R. extended over forty years. At one time he was the agent in Peterborough of the Canadian Pacific Express Company.

Mr. Oakley was the guest at a company dinner in the Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg, on the occasion of his retirement, and was presented with a "comfortable chair."

Milton H. Menore, pensioned C.P.R. agent, died at Bowmanville, March 14. He entered the service of the C.P.R. as operator at Pontypool, September 25, 1892, was promoted to agent in 1904, and was transferred to Norwood in the same capacity in October, 1931. Subsequent appointments were to Bowmanville in May, 1924 and to Cobourg in 1934. He was pensioned July 1, 1938.

Plowing Starts On High Lands

Agriculture along the borders of Peterboro is beginning to stir into action with the preparatory movements and work of new season of planting and production.

W. Westman began plowing his land out on No. 28 highway on the slope of the water trough hill on Monday, although it was mainly for the purpose of putting in a garden, and Herb McFarlane of Mather's Corners reported that the furrows were being filled in on the Roberts farm east of the city. This detail of filling furrows is agriculturally technical to a mere urban reporter, but apparently it has to do with finishing off the plowing that was done last fall.

Another report from Westwood indicates eagerness to get on the land. Torrance Lillico of North Monaghan intimates similar "champing at the bit" as the land dried rapidly this week, but the law of averages is beginning to run against continuing sunshine. Farmers feel that long overdue rains are likely to arrive with any of these recent east winds, halting operations just about the time they would be getting under way.

At any rate, throughout the county the land on the knolls has dried out rapidly under the sunshine and warm winds of the last ten days, and the fields are calling to farmers to swing into action.

Farmers know this season that their industry is essential to the nation's war program, contrasting with ordinary springtime when morale was mostly a personal and domestic concern, and national authorities were not worrying about how productive would be the fields and flocks and herds.

Roy H. Parsons 28 Years City Engineer

Roy H. Parsons began this morning his twenty-ninth year as Peterborough's City Engineer.

W. H. Bradburn was mayor that year and W. H. Buller was chairman of the Board of Works.

The city's only paved street was Chambers street. It was surfaced with concrete as an experiment to ascertain for direct local information how it would stand up under the traffic of that bypath.

Even George street was only a ravel or macadam road. Water carts patrolled it to lay the dust, but in spite of that dampening service it often trailed behind the effects of sun and wind, with complaints of dust by main street merchants.

Many of the streets were watered, but dust was a general nuisance until road oil came into use about the time permanent pavements were laid.

The automobile was a new and doubtful invention, cumbrous and angular in its lines, as compared with the curvelinear shapes of todays ultra-graceful models. Probably no one foresaw the effects of its establishment as a new agency of transportation, especially the paved roads through town and country.

Snow removal has been another refinement of urban transport which the motor cars have virtually demanded, and the paving, oiling and flushing of streets, together with snow-plowing and sanding have all added expenditure to the Board of Works department that would have shocked the first council for which Mr. Parsons worked.

Leather scraps will be converted into cardboard in Hungary.

Honoring Miss Dorothy I. Freeman and Mr. Carlos H. Palmer, whose marriage is to take place at seven o'clock this evening in St. James' Church, a dinner party was held at the Mayfair, and a presentation made. Attending were Miss Florence Outram, Miss Mildred White, Miss Betty Watson, Miss Jean Kerr, Miss Mary Sisson, Miss Phyllis Hill, Miss Rose Ronco, Mr. Sidney Townsend, Mr. Lew Barrie, Mr. Ken and Mr. Fred Watson, Mr. Don Menzies, Mr. Douglas Weir, Mr. Cecil Thompson.

Miss Greta LeBarr is arriving from Toronto tonight to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. LeBarr, 203 King street.

Mr. William Gunn has returned to his home at 70 Lansdowne street from the Isolation Hospital, and is convalescing satisfactorily.

Mrs. Melville McIntyre, 235 Prince street, was hostess to members of the Excelsior Bible Class of St. James Church for the April meeting, at which a fitting Easter program was presented. Mrs. H. Turner and Mrs. R. Moynes were guest soloists. Mrs. B. Thompson, 481 Bolivar street, will be hostess at the May meeting. Present were Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. E. Williamson, Mrs. J. Huggins, Mrs. C. Wainman, Mrs. W. Mantell, Mrs. B. Thompson, the Misses Jessie Martin, Alma Welch, Lottie Leggett, Grace Kimble.

Ray—Bullock

LAKEFIELD, April 10.—(ENS)—An arch of evergreens and carnations with tall baskets of pussywillows decorated Lakefield United Church on Wednesday at 2 p.m. for the marriage of Muriel Alice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bullock, Lakefield, to Hilliard Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burritt Ray, Warsaw. Rev. G. F. Kelly officiated and the wedding music was played by Mrs. (Dr.) H. E. Moore.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white chiffon georgette, fashioned on simple lines, floor-length, with full sleeves. Her finger tip veil of silk net was made in cap shape and caught with small white flowers. She carried a white leather bound Bible from which hung white streamers with lily of the valley and evergreen.

Miss Ethel Blakely was bridesmaid dressed in gown or aqua blue sheer with matching veil, shoulder-length and caught with a wreath of small pink and blue flowers. She also carried a white leather Bible with blue streamers and small pink and blue flowers.

The flower bearers were Jean Bullock, small cousin of the bride, dressed in a dainty pink frock and Bernard Ray, nephew of the groom. They carried a basket of sweet peas and snapdragons.

Morley Bullock, brother of the bride, was groomsman and the ushers were Braden Bullock and Harold Ray.

During the signing of the register Miss Una Archer, Toronto, sang "My World."

Following the ceremony a reception for about thirty-five friends was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Bullock received the guests dressed in navy crepe modernne. The groom's mother was attired in a frock of dusk rose crepe.

Assisting at the reception were a number of the bride's girl friends, the Misses Eva Higgins, Allene Miles, Doreen Kidd, Jean Garbutt, Minnie Charlton and Marjorie Frankish.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Ray left amid showers of confetti for a motor trip to Western Ontario, the bride donning a becoming royal blue dress with rust coat, navy hat and accessories.

On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Dummer.

Wellman—Kew

BONARLAW, April 10.—Victoria Presbyterian Church, Toronto, was the setting for a pretty Spring wedding on April 3, at 11.30 a.m., when Olwen Betty, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kew, Indian road, Toronto, became the bride of Ralph, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Wellman, Bonarlaw.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the Wedding March, played by Mr. Charles Kilgour, B.A., of Galt, Ont. She was smartly dressed in a navy blue tailored suit, with a pretty blue, flowered hat and matching blouse; her corsage was Rouge Mallerire roses and friesia. She was attended by her sister, Miss Megan Kew who wore a grey tailored suit with rose accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Charles Wellman, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Ronold Kew, brother of the bride, was usher.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. C. McKay, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the banquet room of the Alps Restaurant.

The Rev. McKay proposed the toast to the bride, and Dr. Marvin Wellman, Whitby, to the bridesmaid.

The tables were decorated with tall vases of sweet peas and fresia. A handsome wedding cake formed the centrepiece for the head table. The bride's mother wore wine velvet dress and hat, and a corsage of primroses; the groom's mother wore a blue figured dress, blue hat and a corsage of sweet peas.

The happy couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Fort Erie and Hamilton; the bride traveling in her wedding suit. Upon their return, they will reside at Bonarlaw.

Out-of-town guests included Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Wellman, Whitby; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wellman, Bonarlaw; Pte. Dave Wellman, Ottawa; Mr. Charles Kilgour, Galt; Miss Betty Buckley, Belleville.

Sapper and Mrs. V. Bertrand

Spr. Victor Bertrand, R.C.E., 3rd Field Park Company, Debert, Nova Scotia, and his bride, the former Pearl Kincaid, daughter of Mrs. Laura Kincaid of Cavan, who were married April 6 at George Street Parsonage, Rev. H. L. Roberts officiating. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bertrand of Gatineau Point, Quebec.

I.O.D.E. Sponsor "Bundles For Britain" Boxes

Over fifty members were present Wednesday afternoon when the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E. held its April meeting in the Armouries. Mrs. A. W. Turner, regent, presided. An enjoyable and inspiring talk was given by Mrs. James Turnbull on Empire study and the early history of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

The following members offered their services in connection with the Penny Sale, which takes place May 16 under the auspices of the Nicholls Hospital Women's Auxiliary: Mrs. R. E. Clarke, Mrs. E. Birdsall, Mrs. B. McLeod, Mrs. I. Roberts, Miss M. McIntyre. Reports were given by various conveners showing splendid progress. During the afternoon a collection was taken among members for the Marys of Canada fund, amounting to $6.30.

A drawing took place for two handbags, won by Mrs. T. D. Miller and Miss H. Wade. It was decided that the chapter would place a new flag in the cemetery in memory of first Great War victims and ex-chapter memebrs.

Mrs. Turner stated that a sum of money donated by the Kiwanis Club has been divided among the five Peterborough Chapters of I.O.D.E. to buy blankets for the British War Victims. These, along with many other articles of new bedding and clothing, will be placed in the I.O.D.O. "Bundles for Britain" boxes at the Imperial Oil stations. Anyone wishing to contribute new articles of wearing apparel, etc., may do so by leaving donations at any of the three local stations, it was announced.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, April 11

A rather happy and progressive day may be presaged although it may be that the mind and energies are predisposed to the higher, finer and less sordid and gainful things of life rather than the purely material and commonplace. The cultural, artistic, and ultra intellectual expressions may predominate, although social, pleasure-seeking and humane urges may be a factor for much success and happiness. Superiors may not be co-operative and there may be some private annoyances of trivial import.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which the finer, more advanced, intellectual and cultural vocations and avocations may be to the fore, with the commonplace and utilitarian relegated to the background. The humane, social, and romantic urges may bring pleasure and profit, although there may be lack of support from high personages and also there may be minor duplicities and annoyances.

A child born on this day may be endowed with many cultural and social graces fitting it for a recognized place in advancing human welfare and lofty ideals and objectives.

For Saturday, April 12

A rather depressing and unsatisfactory day, despite much activity and excitement, judging by the lunar and mutual transits. Under pressure and trying to force issues in an effort to launch new enterprises, it is possible that impetuosity, friction and reckless measures may bring to a head rather aggressive and hostile reactions in connection with public, group or fraternal organizations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a lively and enterprising year, although matters may not always move in harmonious grooves. Impetuosity, strife, rash and forceful tactics may be defeating factors, whereas finesse, compromise and stratagem would overcome opposition.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, impetuous and quarrelsome, wayward and headstrong, although not lacking in ability to compromise or yield if necessary.

Pearl McCarthy Has Plan For Red Cross Fund

Pearl McCarthy, author of a column in a Toronto paper, and her husband, Colin A. Sabiston, who is widely known in journalistic circles, have an interesting idea for raising money for the Red Cross Society.

Their home, "Cormac Downs House," is four miles east of Hespeler on the Aberfoyle trail, and they have planned five "Country Evenings" when they will provide a half-hour discussion on such topics as "Intellectual and Political Minorities," "Periods of Intense Urbanization," "Financial Health," "Problems for Canadians," and "The Dark Ages." They will all bear on the theme, "Forces on the Home Front," Pearl McCarthy discussing the subject from the cultural angle and Colin Sabiston from the political or business angle. There will also be old-time instrumental music for relaxation and a cup of coffee.

Miss McCarthy was guest speaker this season at a meeting of the Lyceum Club, Women's Art Association, and gave a clever and thoughtful address on the "Changing Art of Domestic Living."

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

The April meeting of Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association, held on Wednesday evening, was in the form of a musical entertainment presented by the school pupils under the direction of Mr. R. B. Harle, music teacher of the school, and was enjoyed by a large number of parents and friends. The pupils were assisted by Miss Thelma Zavitz, gifted young pianist, who delighted the audience with two piano solos, and Mr. T. Parker, who sang several comic songs to his own guitar accompaniment.

The pupils' program consisted of the following numbers: Chorus by the primary girls, "I Went to Visit My Friend One Day"; folk dance by eight junior pupils; piano duet by Sheila Smith and Marjorie Brown; song by junior boys, "Soldier Boy"; Easter song by intermediate girls; musical contest; two songs by senior girls.

An interesting article was read by Mrs. W. Rome on the system of music teaching as followed by Norman Wilkes. The president, Mrs. O. Deyell, was in the chair, and reports were given by Mrs. N. Austin and Mrs. T. Davies. Mrs. R. Batten and Mrs. Fairbairn moved a vote of thanks to those assisting in the program. A social half hour was spent afterward, with lunch served by the social committee, Mrs. J. Johnston and Mrs. W. Frise.

CONSTIPATION
A LIFELONG STRUGGLE
Relief Found at Last

With perfect frankness a woman correspondent writes:—"I have suffered from constipation as long as I can remember, and taken all sorts of things—which in some cases seemed to do good at first, but afterwards to have no effect. Then I thought I would try Kruschen in my tea every morning, and I have done so for over a year. I am pleased to say after the first month I had no more trouble with constipation and I have felt very fit."—(Mrs.) G. M. S.

Kruschen helps to maintain a condition of internal cleanliness. The several salts in Kruschen stimulate the organs of elimination to smooth, gentle action. Your system is thus kept clear of clogging waste and poisonous impurities.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Bee is excited and thrilled over her date with Mr. Bradley. She hardly knows how she will manage with Terry, Vera and Toby in the small apartment. But everything turns out well. At last Anthony suggests they leave.

A KISS AND NEW LOVE

CHAPTER XIV

TOBY cried, "Good for you, Anthony! You've got more sense than any of the dimwits who came up here to see me. They let Terry monopolize them!"

"Monopolize?" Terry asked, aggrievedly. "I was just being polite and sociable, putting the guy at ease."

Vera turned on the radio. "You can put me at ease, smartie. I want to dance."

Beatrice went to get her coat. The burst of music followed her into the bedroom. Her feet danced. She looked at herself in the mirror. Her eyes were shining, her lips were curved into a smile. She was eager, expectant, different.

"And all because I'm going to be alone with Anthony Bradley. I see him every day in the store. But—but something's changed."

"Don't take my hat by mistake, Bradley," Terry was saying. "It's a good hat and filled with memories."

"I'll leave the door on the latch for you, Bee," Toby said. "Bye."

Anthony touched Beatrice's arm as they went down the stairs. "They're nice," he said. "Lots of fun. But I couldn't wait to shake them."

"I was wondering if you ever would," she confessed.

"Were you??" His eyes above her were shining almost the way her own eyes, in the mirror, had shone. Beatrice felt suddenly breathless.

They were out in the cold, sweet air. She was small beside Anthony's height, she had to skip to keep up with his great stride. "Slow down," she laughed, pulling at his sleeve. "My heart's going like a steam engine now."

Anthony stopped, right there on the sidewalk. "So is mine," he said quietly.

AN ecstasy, a strange magic, rose between them. Real and tangible and suddenly full grown, it quivered from Beatrice's heart to his, and from Anthony's to hers. She felt herself swaying toward him. His arm slipped around her, steadying her.

"Bee," he whispered huskily. "Bee."

"But this is silly," she managed to say. "It can't be happening. Not so soon."

"Yes, it can. Oh, Bee!"

"I wanted to be alone with you," she said. "But that's not a sure sign, is it? I've got to think, Anthony. I—I'm bowled over. I never had a thing like this happen to me before. Maybe it's just a mood. A passing fancy?"

She tried to laugh, but her voice broke. "Anthony, we'd better be careful. People should look about and consider everything before they—before they—"

"Fall in love," completed Anthony. "Because that's it. I'm in love with you, Bee. And there wasn't time to examine or think or be cautious."

They were standing in the middle of the sidewalk, not far from a street lamp. A man loitered in the doorway of an apartment house only a few feet away. Yet Anthony's head bent above her own, and Beatrice was lifting her face, as if without her own volition.

It wasn't what she had meant to do at all. A swift pang of doubt assailed her. So shameless, so cheap, here on the sidewalk..... Like a shopgirl and her sweetheart!

But wasn't she a shopgirl. And Anthony—her lips were quivering—Anthony was her sweetheart.

He was suddenly more dear, more familiar, than Clarence, to whom she'd been engaged, had ever been. The shape of his face, and the way his hair grew on his forehead, and the firm, young cut of his mouth were so deeply engraved in her memory that she could close her eyes, here with his face above her, and see them still. She knew the tone of his voice, and the touch of his hands. Never before had she experienced this sweep of feeling, this deep-down sense of intimacy and belonging.

There was an aura of vitality about Anthony; a sense of strength and youth and fitness that was sharply masculine. Beatrice heard herself gasp, and then Anthony was kissing her. His lips on hers were firm and strong; hungry and possessive. She felt the beat of response in herself, a warming tenderness melting inside her.

"Bee," he whispered huskily. "Oh, Darling!"

She clung to him. "Anthony, Anthony."

DIMLY, some far part of her mind remembered that she had never clung to Clarence. Never clung to any of those light, pleasure-seeking young men whom she had kissed. Kissing had been a light game, then. A bantering exchange, meaningless as a handshake. "This is no game."

The man in the doorway coughed. Their moment shattered into bits. They drew apart, slowly. But his hand took hers. They walked on toward where the dark trees were massed against the sky. The park. The miracle of their kiss was still with them, holding them speechless and enthralled.

After a while, when they were walking down a gravel path, Anthony said, "I was sure it would be this way. At first, I was afraid of you. But then, I—I began to think it would have to be like this. Because you do something to me. You make me forget every other girl I've ever known."

"You make me forget every man I've ever known, too."

"Your hair smells good. Like perfume."

She knew she should move away. His shoulder was so close to hers! But she couldn't. Her lips still tingled from the touch of his.

"Look, here's a playground. Swings!" Anthony's stride quickened. "Gosh, I feel so happy. Let's go in and swing. I want to fly. But swinging's the closest we can manage."

LAUGHING like children, they ran into the playground. They squeezed into a swing together, and Anthony showed her how to sit with her legs out before her, to aid their momentum after he started them off. The wind whipped at them as they went forward, and her hair blew across her face as they slipped back.

"It's wonderful, Anthony. Swing us higher!"

The lights of the city were twinkling stars behind the trees. Overhead the sky was dark, and they were alone beneath its canopy. "I've never been so happy. I want to sing. It's like being born all over again."

"I'll get down. I'll push you. Then you'll swing right up to the sky."

"No, don't! I want you close!"

"Wait. You'll love it!" He laughed. He got behind her, grasped the seat of the swing, and sent it flying from him.

"O-oh!" The clean, cool wind swept past her more strongly. She locked up at the sky as she soared toward it.

"It's a new world, Anthony. Our own world."

SHE had never thought of that before. But people did create their own world. Here with Anthony, in this magic darkness, they had made a little world of laughter and a brave world, aspiring to the stars, with no thought of the drab store where they both worked, no thought of the hard, hurting problems of being poor.

"Clarence couldn't make a world for himself, or for me," she thought. "Everything, with him, depended on external things."

She had let him take her up in the powerful airplane, only a few weeks ago. "But this swing thrills me more. This simple swing, in a public park."

DOROTHY DIX

If You Are Hunting Wife, Select One Who Can Cook. There Are Many Things Young Men Should Avoid—Real Love and Culinary Ability are Best Assets.

Boys, if you want to be happy though married: DON'T marry until you are ready to marry. Don't let any girl float you to the altar on her tears, or jockey you into taking that fateful trip by her pleadings and protestations of affection, or bluff you into facing the person by her threats. Wait until you are prepared to take the responsibility of supporting a family. The boy who gives up his profession to marry in his teens always regrets it. So does his wife. The trouble of marrying on a shoestring is that it nearly always breaks.

DON'T marry for beauty. That is bound to be a losing bet because no woman can escape the ravages of time. Bad health, a few years of just the ordinary routine of living, child-bearing and rearing, and work and worry, and the roses have faded on the fairest cheek, gray has crept into the most golden hair, the most lissom figure has lost its allure. Then, if there was nothing but a pretty face to start with, if there was no character nor intelligence, what have you?

DON'T marry for money. The hardest way any man ever makes a dollar is by marrying it, for he has to earn it by walking the dog, running errands, taking orders and doing the things his boss wants him to do instead of the things he wants to do himself.

DON'T marry for anything but love. Marriage means a life sentence at hard labor for most men. It means giving up their personal liberty. It means adapting themselves to a woman's whims and peculiarities. It means spending the money they earn by the sweat of their brows on beauty parlors and satin slippers and party dresses and baby doctors and schools and colleges instead of on fishing trips and fine rods and vacations for themselves. And nothing but loving someone better than you do yourself makes it worthwhile.

Don't Marry a Bosser

DON'T marry a girl who doesn't come of good, honest stock. Think as much of the pedigree of your children as you do that of your dog. There is just as much difference between thoroughbred people and scrubs as there is between that of other animals.

DON'T marry a bosser. If you want to avoid getting a wife who will make you say "yes ma'am" to her, watch her in her own home. If she runs that, you can be very certain she would run yours. If her mother and father are afraid of her and her little brothers and sisters jump when she speaks, there isn't a chance that her husband won't be one of the meek little henpecked men who always walk about two yards behind their wives and sit where they tell them to.

DON'T marry a girl who hasn't a load of good, hard, horse sense. If a girl has that, she will take all the knocks of married life and come up smiling. You will never hear her complaining about the monotony of domesticity and being tied down by children. She will make the kind of a wife that a husband can depend upon to play with him through good times and fight at his side through bad times.

DON'T marry a cutie just because she rolls her eyes at you and asks adorably silly questions. If a girl is a little nitwit before marriage, she will be a bigger nitwit after marriage, and it won't be so funny when she doesn't know any of the things she should know. The only woman who is utterly hopeless as a wife is the fool.

Beware the Reformer

DON'T marry a reformer. If a girl shows a passion for changing the ways of the heathen, walk high, wide and handsome around her. If you marry her, you will be the next victim. She'll go in for home missionary work.

DON'T marry any girl with whom you can't carry on a conversation about general topics of human interests. Husbands and wives can't spend 30 or 40 years asking each other "Oose dovie is oo." They have to be able to talk about books, world events, politics, 100 different subjects, or else they bore each other to tears. It is wives with a conversational range that only runs from the kitchen to the nursery who set husbands roaming.

DON'T marry Mother's pet. She will expect you to be a slave to her, and the first time you treat her as if she were an adult woman she will go back to mother and sue you for divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty.

Finally, boys, DON'T marry any girl who doesn't know how to cook and keep house. No matter how beautiful a girl is, no matter how talented, no matter how sweet and amiable, you won't be happy with her if you marry her unless she feeds you well.

WE . . . NOTICED

...There are three things to do about Easter that can't be wrong—jewelry, neckwear and flowers. These are delightful feminine accents that are necessities for Easter, 1941. Of course, one could do a little box of all three and make it a perfect Easter gift—a jabot, a lapel decoration and an orchid.

...It's strange that it took the jabot so long to emerge and now that it's here, it's "terrific." Collars and cuffs are no longer modest violets, they are great magnolia blossoms—sailor collars—round collars—pointed collars and fichus.

...Pink, pale blue and yellow organdie frills and collars and cuffs. Cascades for fronts, backs, sides and sleves—a veritable Niagara of falls—and all as fine as spray or mist, giving to the wearer a radiance that only white neck details can give. Whether the Easter costume is a new suit—dress or coat—or last year's freshly cleaned and pressed—the 1941 Badge of Easter will be sparkling white neckwear in great large splashes.

WHY NOT HAVE BABY SLEEP THROUGH NIGHT

YOU and your baby both need sleep. There is a sure and easy way to get it. Let Mrs. B—, Jr., of Winona, Ontario, tell you in her own words: "Night after night, as soon as we would get settled in bed, 'Baby' would start crying.... Baby's Own Tablets changed all this. What a blessed relief."

In no sense are these "sleeping" tablets. They contain no opiates or stupefying drugs and are absolutely harmless. But they promote healthful sleep by promptly making the ill baby well. The well baby sleeps soundly.

Baby's Own Tablets bring quick relief from teething troubles, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic, simple croup and colds. Try them. 25 cents. Your money refunded if they are not effective.

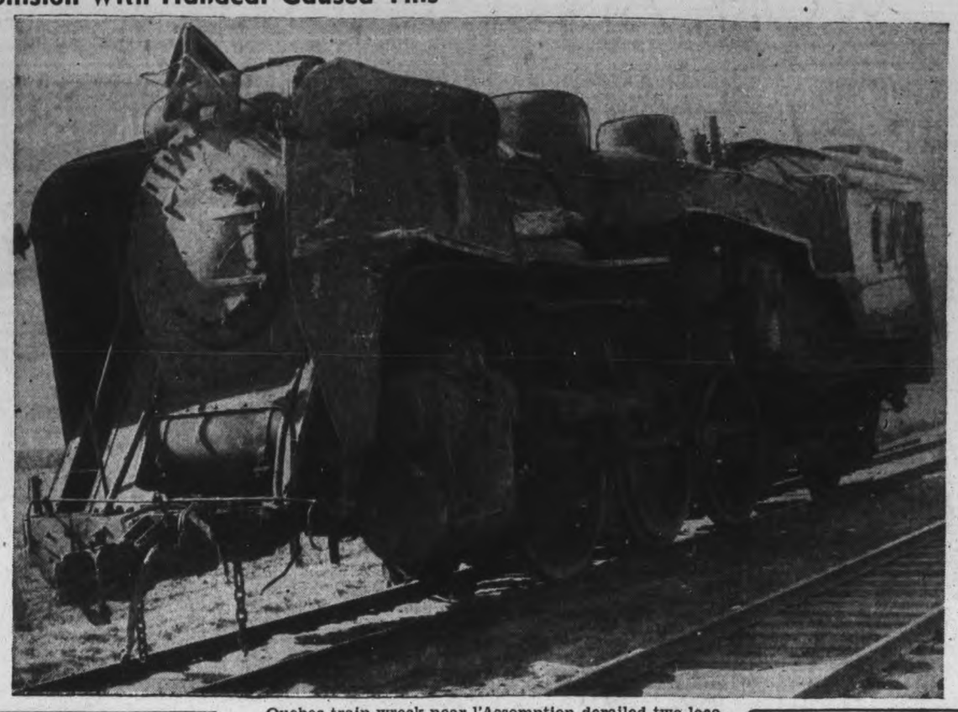
Collision With Handcar Caused This



Quebec train wreck near l'Assomption derailed two locomotives, two tenders and three express cars. The train hit a hardcar, reports said. This locomotive "took a beating," as evidenced by bent and twisted steel. No one was injured in the Quebec collision of the 10-car passenger train and the track was cleared in 90 minutes.

Special Service At Centreville

CENTREVILLE, April 10—(ENS). —On Sunday morning Centreville congregation enjoyed a very inspirational pre-Easter service. It took the form of a resurrection story program conducted by the minister, Rev. A. R. Gibson. There was no sermon.

During the service, passages of scripture telling the story of the resurrection of Christ were read by Robena Tate, Muriel Whittington, Ernest Breckenridge, Jack Greer, Gerald Anderson, and Iva Campbell.

Interspersed among the readings were hymns, and selections by the choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wood rendered a splendid duet, "It Was For Me." Miss Vivian Jennings, soloist of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Port Hope, sang a delightful solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple." Mr. Gillard Darling, soloist in the United Church, Port Hope, sang an appropriate selection, "What Will You Do With Jesus?". A much-enjoyed duet, entitled "Nailed To The Cross," was rendered by Miss Jennings and Mr. Darling. The service was closed with the benediction, by Rev. D. A. McKenzie.

Mr. Dayman was pianist for Port Hope singers, and Miss Vera Bradshaw for Centreville congregation.

The Young People's Society of the Presbyterian Church met on Monday night at the home of Mr. Dawson Rutherford. Rev. R. Raeburn Gibson gave an address on the Book of Joshua.

Fellowship convener, Vera Bradshaw, presided for the program. Scripture reading, Muriel Whittington; Topic, "Prayer Weaklings," by Vera Bradshaw. Readings by Marian Ray and Mary Whittington.

The convener conducted a quiz period which consisted of questions on "How Bright Are You ", with suitable prizes, followed by a surprize game for the girls and a balance test for the boys. Lunch was served.

Sunday dinners guests at the home of Mr. William Bradshaw were Misses Vivian and Norma Jennings, Mrs. Dayman, Messrs. Elwin Quantril and Walter Clarke of Port Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling of Port Hope visited at the home of Mr. Lewis Moore on Sunday.

Rev. A. Raeburn and Mrs. Gibson of Millbrook spent the tea hour Monday at the Manse, with Rev. D. A. McKenzie and Mrs. John McKague.

Parties Enjoyed At Fairview

FAIRVIEW, April 10.—(ENS). — Master Russell Boyce entertained very charmingly a number of his little school chums at a jolly birthday party in honor of his seventh birthday Saturday afternoon.

After enjoying games and a lot of fun, Russell's mother, Mrs. Stanley Boyce, served supper from a prettily decorated table centred by the birthday cake with lighted candles. Mrs. Boyce was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Gerald Northey. Russell received many lovely gifts. Among guests present were Mary Milburn, Bobby, Betty and Mary Cockburn, Ross and Ronald Wetherup, Bobby Oliver, Willis Trude, Ronald Mahood, Allan and Helen Patton, Russell, Bobby, Donnie and Kenneth Boyce.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fowler entertained twenty-five friends and neighbors on Monday evening at a most delightful suprise party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fowler, who were celebrating their twentieth wedding anniversary. Five tables of progressive peanut euchre were played, after which the hostess served a sumptuous lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and children of Orillia are visiting for a few days at the home of Mrs. Jones' sister, Mrs. Wm. Fowler.

Mrs. Clare Price New Head Of Havelock W.I.

HAVELOCK, April 10 — (ENS).—The April meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Council Chamber on Monday afternoon with an attendance of eleven members, under the president, Mrs. Claire Price. Mrs. Robert Jones acted as pianist in the absence of Mrs. Robert McCutcheon. Moved by Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Hoffman, that bills amounting to $17.03 be paid. A letter was read from the district secretary, Trent River, advising the branch of the annual district executive meeting to be held in Warsaw on Wednesday, April 30. A letter was also received from the head office with forms and asking that the annual yearly report be made out ready for the convention in May, also asking that a war time activities report be sent.

Mrs. Claire Price was appointed to attend the district convention at Warsaw as district director of this branch. Mrs. Annie Anderson sent in her resignation as assistant librarian, which was accepted, and Mrs. Covert and Mrs. Hoffman moved that Miss Eliza Wright act as assistant librarian.

The yearly report was presented by the secretary, Mrs. Woodbeck: "We have successfully closed another year's activities in our branch. During the year we have held 12 regular meetings and two executive meetings. We have a total membership of 42, with an average of 25. Our meetings have all been instructive, educational and interesting, with a social half-hour spent at the close of each meeting. We have given printed programs to each of our members and have endeavored to have each member take some part, no matter how small. On May 28 we entertained the district annual meeting, the meeting in the United Church, the same evening the executive met to arrange a membership contest with the first and second vice-presidents as captains. The usual short course was not taken this year owing to war activities. We have given our full support during the year to the Red Cross and several of our members have had card parties, teas, and given donations to this worthy cause.

"At our May meeting it was passed we co-operate with the district in getting a public speaking contest started. This meant a lot of work for our committee, but they were well paid for it with the wonderful results, and we all hope the custom will be kept up during the following years. Our work of beautifying the cemetery was kept up with this year with good results. Two of our members attended the short course taken at Lakefield on the preservation of fruit and in October the Havelock branch entertained the district to a summary day to the short course. This proved very educational, a 25c supper was served after the program. In September we held our regular tag day in aid of the Children's Aid Society, with $24.53 collected. We entertained the Belmont Institute at our September meeting. Their branch put on the program. We also had a display of home-grown flowers. The regular Hallowe'en dance was held in the Town Hall and $58.45 was received at the door and $10.00 from the lunch.

"At Christmas 13 boxes and baskets were sent out to the children and shut-ins. New books have been added to our library shelves and some of our books have been given to South Lake School. Convalescent and sympathy cards have been sent out during the year. We thank the members of the Junior Institute for a gift of money, also dishes, tea towels, etc., but are sorry that they could not carry on."

The treasurer then gave her report for 1940-1941: Receipts for the ear $148.94, expenditures for the year $130.00. The secretary-treasurer of the Red Cross Fund reported having in the bank the sum of $46.91.

All reports showed splendid work during the year, much of the credit going to the president, Mrs. Claire Price. Following the reading of the reports, the election of officers took place, with Miss Eliza Wright taking charge. Officers for the new year are as follows:

President, Mrs. Claire Price; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Robert Jones; 2nd vice-president, Miss Eliza Wright; secretary, Mrs. William Woodbeck; treasurer, Mrs. William Rice; pianist, Mrs. Robert McCutcheon; district director, Mrs. Robert Jones; press reporter, Mrs. R. F. Covert; auditors, Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke, Mrs. G. Chiles; directors, Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, Mrs. H. W. Roche, and Mrs. H. Horde.

Mrs. Price, elected for the third consecutive time as president, expressed her thanks and asked for the co-operation of the members, and hoped they would stand by her. The following committees were then formed: Sick Committee, Mrs. White, Mrs. McMullen, and Miss Mary Seeney; Relief Committee, Mrs. John Armstrong, with Miss Eliza Wright as assistant; Property Committee, Mrs. Little, assisted by Mrs. Rice; Current Events, Mrs. McKenzie and Miss Margaret Voyer.

Refreshments were served, with Mrs. Robert Jones as convener, and a social half-hour spent.

Births Marriages In Memoriam Cards of Thanks Deaths

DIED

GUIRY.—Miss Mary Agnes (Minnie) Guiry, eldest sister of Rev. J. J. Guiry of Port Hope, died at her home, 75 Lindsay street, in Lindsay, on April 9. Funeral announcements later.

TAYLOR, Mrs. Ernest R.—In Peterborough, on Wednesday, April 9, 1941, Annie Long, beloved wife of Ernest R. Taylor, of Belleville, Ontario. Remains resting at the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street. Funeral, Friday, April 11, at 2.30 p.m. D.S.T., with Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United Church officiating. Interment, Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

CRAIG.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Eliza Jane Craig, who went to rest April 11, 1939.
In her grave softly sleeping,
Where the trees gently wave,
Lies the one I loved so dearly,
The one I could not save.
Deep in my heart lies a picture
More precious than silver or gold.
It's a picture of you, dearest mother,
Whose memory will never grow old.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Irene.

GASH.—In loving memory of Corporal A. J. Gash, who passed away April 10, 1936.
With tears we watched you sinking,
We watched you pass away,
We tended you with loving care
But could not make you stay.
We watched beside your bedside
As the lonely hours passed
And how our hearts were broken
When we saw you breathe your last.
My lips cannot tell how I miss him,
My heart cannot tell what to say,
No one knows how I miss him
In a home that is lonesome to-day.
—Ever remembered by Wife, Daughter and Son-in-law, Mr and Mrs. N. Thompson.

GASH.—In memory of Corporal A. J. Gash, who passed away April 10, 1936.
Memory often wanders as twilight shadows fall,
Back to the days of happiness,
Days beyond recall.
And a vision comes before us,
So calm, so dear, so sweet,
Of those lips that now are silent,
And whose lids are closed in sleep.
—Sadly missed by brother Dennie, Wife and Family.

New Booklet Guide to Commercial Art Field

How To Make Your Talent Pay

Have you a knack for art, a special ambition to learn advertising design?

You may be on the right track, for there's a continuous demand for such work as dramatic posters, smart packaging, booklets.

You may learn much about this commercial art field at home. Study and practice show you how to develop ideas, use principles of design to create an effect.

Perhaps you wish to draw an airplane poster that will give a thrilling effect of speed, action! Then you may base your drawing on oblique lines as in our sketch.

But if you want to show how relaxing air travel can be, you use horizontal lines, restful tones and colors. Or, in picturing the company itself as being dignified and dependable, you'd use vertical lines, strong values.

You enjoy, too, learning how differently the same picture can be drawn with pen, pencil, crayon or brush.

Finally you learn how to present your sketch to the client! Our new 32-page booklet explains the most important phases of the commercial art field. Describes and illustrates principles of design, techniques. Tells how to sell art work.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T DOUBLE SLAMS

IN RUBBER bridge there is nothing more foolish than doubling a hostile slam contract, which you expect to set a trick or two, unless your holding is such that you are absolutely certain to beat it, regardless of what declarer does. By means of your double, you increase the points gained by your side, if you do set it, by a very small amount. Against this is the fact that your double stands to increase the declarer's score by much more if he makes the contract. But more important still is the help your double gives him in showing him how to play the hand. If you use the double of a slam as a lead-director, of course that is a different proposition.

North, who knew the opposing pair pretty well, and likewise his own partner, played a great game of possum by waiting as he did before speaking at all. He knew his very conservative partner had a pile of strong cards and distribution to stick in that "reverse" bid of hearts at the four level over the 3-Spades. By letting that go by until the opponents overcalled in their own suit, and then calling hearts, he made it possible for himself later to bid the small slam in clubs and give his partner the option between the two suits without increasing the contract.

It would have been pretty hard for East to resist the temptation to double this, especially since he expected also to double hearts because of his honors in what would then become the declarer's side suit, plus his other high cards. But later he was sorry he did it, since it enabled the declarer to make his contract.

West decided to lead the diamond J, won by the dummy's K. South then led the club J from dummy, and when East ducked he let it ride, dropping the 10. His club A next disposed of the K, and he gave up one trick. Without the double, natural play would have been to play the A on the first round of trumps, which would have lost the contract.

If West leads the club 3 to East's K and the declarer ducks the trick, what should East return in an effort to prevent an overtrick at 4-Spades?

Lovely Perennial Border a Joy for Many Summers

Requires Only Ordinary Care

A well-planned border, bursting with beauty! You'll never tire of looking at it when summer comes!

If you have a space along your house or before a clump of shrubbery, the arrangement is perfect. Keeping the heights of the flowers in mind, plant blue delphiniums to stand tall behind masses of pink and white phlox, in front of them gay scarlet gaillardia and—littlest of all—the rich-hued viola.

These perennials demand only ordinary care. Best to prepare the soil well, for you'll not replant for years perhaps, and for fertility dig in a little manure or commercial humus just before planting.

Take care, too, that storms don't break the taller stems. Surround them with twiggy brush; support the delphiniums with tall sticks. As for watering, hold off as long as possible, then do it thoroughly.

And your lawn? Your shrubbery? Will they, too, be a joy to see? Our 32-page booklet describes planting and care of lawns and trees. Tells how to raise shrubbery, vines, perennials, annuals, roses, bulbs, hedges, herbs. Explains fertilizers, soils, how to prevent plant diseases.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO PLANT AND CARE FOR YOUR GARDEN to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

BRILLIANCY ON DEFENSE

AMONG THE rarest jewels in all of bridge is beautiful defensive play which can be recognized as such. One of the neatest moves to beat an opponent's contract is the Deschapelles Coup, whereby a player deliberately sacrifices a high card in order to knock out an entry—using up a high card so placed that it seemed otherwise to be a trick winner ultimately. But one of the rarest of the rare is a double Deschapelles Coup, in which the same player makes the same maneuver twice to beat a contract or prevent overtricks.

That same contract was reached, by only slightly different bidding, at all tables of the duplicate tournament where this hand was dealt. Most of the declarers made an overtrick, including those where the club 3 was lead, but one of them was held to his bare contract, after that lead, by the most superlative kind of defense.

East came up with the K on the club lead, and South let it hold, so he could be in position for a quick ruff on his third club if East repeated the suit. Where that was done, South won with the A, but then worked the diamond finesse, played the diamond A for a heart discard, ruffed a diamond with his spade 8, ruffed the club 8 with the Q and led the spade 5 from dummy. With the diamonds now set up and hearts for entries, it made no difference what East did. The contract was safe, plus an overtrick.

East's brilliant work, at another table, came right upon his winning that first trick with the club K. He immediately led the heart J to the Q to knock out entries. South entered his own hand with the spade 5 to the J, finessed the diamond Q, laid down the diamond A, ruffed a diamond to set up the suit, then led the spade K. East took this with his A and led back his heart K—second Deschapelles Coup of the hand. This took the heart A out of dummy, while East still had his trump 7 to block the run of the suit, so South never was able to discard his last club. He therefore lost two tricks in clubs and one in spades, and barely made his contract.

Red Cross Group Finishes 2 More Quilts

HAVELOCK, April 10 (ENS).—The weekly meeting of the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross Society was held this week on Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chamber with an attendance of 26.

Two quilts were finished during the afternoon; the surgical department making 200 wipes, besides the cutting committee was kept very busy cutting out pyjamas ready to be made. Secretary Mrs. Couch informed the meeting, that she had seen Mr. Wilson of town in regard to procuring leather for the new mitts now on order. Mr. Wilson gladly offered to give them a special price on leather and very kindly offered to sew the leather with machine. The Red Cross Society is indeed grateful for his kind offer.

Bills, amounting to $2.05 were ordered to be paid. Mrs. Robert Jones, convener of Social committee, announced that proceeds from the Amateur Night concert, held on Friday night last amounted to $58.75, which was considered a splendid success.

Mrs. McLauchlin spoke of a Home Nursing Course, and asked the secretary to write for full information regarding this. It was also announced that the salvage collection will be made on Saturday, April 19, and asked all to have everything ready.

A donation of $5.18 was received from the Business Men's Association to be added to the treasury, also donation of $1 received from Mrs. Rorke.

At 4 o'clock the meeting was called to order for the war-time prayer, after which work was cantinued. The meeting next week will also be held on Tuesday.

Fireman Saves 6, Then Collapses

TORONTO, April 10 (CP).—Fireman Jack Lacide saved six children from flames on the third floor of their blazing home here early today, and collapsed himself as he carried the last two from the burning dwelling. They were children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Whetley.

Origin of the blaze was not known, and an estimate of the damage was not given. Inhalators were used to revive Lacide and the six children, all of whom were under 10 years of age.

District fire chief Charles Baker credited a dog with awakening a family across the street who turned in the alarm.

The dog is Dopey, a three-year-old black terrier which Mrs. W. C. Thompson found abandoned Dopey barked and awakened her. When she saw the house blazing she telephoned the alarm.

Home Is Levelled At Burnt River

LINDSAY, April 10—(ENS).—On Monday morning fire of an unknown origin totally destroyed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dudman, of Burnt River. Mr. Dudman had started the morning fires and went out to the barn to work. Later when he returned to the house he went upstairs to inquire of Mrs. Dudman, who was ill, when he found the apartments full of fire and smoke. He rescued her and then sent in a call to the neighbors. The fire had gained considerable headway and could not be checked. Part of the furniture downstairs was saved. There was very little insurance.

At a meeting of the town council Monday night Alderman Butler gave notice that he would introduce a motion at the next council meeting to bring daylight saving into effect during 1941. He also gave notice that he would introduce a motion rescinding the hour parking paragraph of the town's traffic bylaw.

Lindsay ratepayers will also be asked to vote on three questions relative to the local water services at an early date:—Shall the water service be carried on as at present by a Water Commission? Shall the water service be amalgamated with the Hydro to form a Public Utilities Commission? Shall the water service be placed under the direct control of the town council?

The council granted an increase of $100 a year to Constables J. Nesbitt and E. Reeves. This move is retroactive to January 1. The eleven members of the volunteer fire brigade received increases of $10.00 per year and will be given individual phones instead of party lines.

Obituaries

MRS. ROBERT MOORE

WARSAW, April 9.—(ENS)—The funeral service for the late Mrs. Robert Moore was held from the family residence on Sunday afternoon with the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson in charge assisted by Rev. M. I. Robinson of Norwood. The funeral was largely attended as Mrs Moore was widely-known and loved by a great circle of friends.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hamblin she took a keen interest in Sunday School work all her life and for years taught a class. Fifty years ago last March 3 she married Robert Moore and to this union were born ten children, eight of whom survive.

In ill health for some time she had been confined to her room since early in the year but on the celebration of her golden wedding she was able to come downstairs.

Interment was made in St. Mark's cemetery.

Pall bearers were: Geordie Cooper, Percy Cooper, Wilbert Cooper, Walter Gallagher, Hilliard Gallagher, Everette Gallagher.

Flower bearers were: Stanley Thompson, Keith Thompson, Eric Gallagher, Ralph Moore, Sherwood Moore, Hartley Moore.

Flowers were sent by: Sons and daughters, a double spray; grandchildren, wreath; sisters and brothers, a spray; George and Hazel Moore, a spray; Joe and Pat Gallagher, a spray; Warsaw United Church Bible Class, a spray; Warsaw Women's Institute, a spray; Cottesloe Sunday School, a spray; Mrs. Russel, Beulah and Gordon, a spray; Grace and Ted Chant, a spray; Stanley and Keith Thompson, a spray; and the Oake family, a spray.

JOHN JOSEPH DOYLE

The funeral of John J. Doyle whose death occurred on Saturday evening was held from his late residence, 17 Park street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart where Rev. Dr. Grant sang requiem mass and also delivered an eloquent address to the exceptionally large gathering of friends present. The profusion of floral and spiritual tokens as well as the vast number who visited the home over the week-end bespoke of the esteem and friendship of the deceased and his family in the community, where they have been resident for the past twenty years.

Mr. Doyle had been an employee of the C.G.E. for many years and as a mark of appreciation for his faithful services a representative gathering from the company was present at the funeral and assisted at the servcies. Also present in the sanctuary were Rev. K. Malane of Lakefield, Dr. J. V. Masterson, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, and Rev. J. Houlihan of Sacred Heart Church.

The flag-draped casket, bearing the body of Mr. Doyle, was borne to its last resting place in St. Peter's Cemetery by fellow employees and close friends were John Pilling, Arthur Primeau, Harry Taylor, Milo Heath, William Neck and Ernest Murphy. Services at the graveside were conducted by Rev. J. F. Houlihan.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Peples Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know it.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Few Weeks On Syntona Made Big Difference To This Woman

Stomach Felt Better After First Few Doses. Continued Treatment Brought Relief From Dizzy Spells and Muscular Pains. Nerves Are Calmed; Sleeps Better and Whole System Feels Improved.

MRS. JOSEPHINE PETERSON

"Because of the grand results I got by taking a short treatment of Syntona, I will be only too glad to recommend this fine medicine," said Mrs. Josephine Peterson, 36 Stinson St., Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"In the last two years I suffered terribly with my stomach. Although my appetite was proor, at times I would get a craving for something to eat, particularly at night. Then, if I ate anyhing, my stomach became so upset that I couldn't keep the food down. There would be a sour, burning feeling in my stomach and I would get so bloated with gas that I would feel short of breath. I often felt dizzy and nauseated. More recently, pains developed in my arms and limbs and I felt constantly tired out and nervous.

"Right from the first few doses of Syntona my stomach felt better, and as I continued with it, I soon got so I could eat regular meals without all that stomach distress. Then the pains left my arms and limbs and my nerves became relaxed so I could sleep better. I am subject to attacks of bronchial asthma, so I suffer greatly when my system becomes rundown. But I have found Syntona a great tonic and I intend to keep it constantly on hand."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from pure herbal extracts that aid in the proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and in ridding the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter.

Go to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage or stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

NAZIS CONTACT BRITISH AS BIG FIGHT STARTS

F.D.R.'s Red Sea and Greenland Declarations Displease Nazis

GUY RHODES, CANADIAN PRESS STAFF WRITER OF "THE WAR TODAY," FINDS "EUROPEAN MUNROE DOCTRINE" SOMETHING INVENTED BY NAZIS TO AID GERMANY

Germany, one of the nations which conducted extensive "explorations" in Greenland, expressed considerable displeasure today over the action of President Roosevelt in declaring the huge island an American protectorate for the duration of the war—with the consent of the Danish Minister to the United States.

The Germans, hot under the collar because their aircraft had been sighted flying around Greenland, authorized their spokesman to say:

"That Roosevelt shrinks from no violation of law is well known. According to information we have his arrangement with the Danish Minister is illegal."

Greenland has a double lure for legitimate explorers. It has a climate that varies from salubrious to fierce and it has long been suggested as a bridge in a top-of-the-world air route between North America and Europe.

The Nazis, distressed over Greenland, which might have given them jump-off points for bombings of Canadian and United States Atlantic points, also gagged on President Roosevelt's action in opening the Red Sea to United States shipping.

Such a move, said a German spokesman, constituted "the first open intervention F. D. R.

40 Nazi Raiders Destroyed In Week's Heavy Bombing Of British Cities At Night

Severe Damage And Many Fires Started In Attacks On West And South Coasts Waves Of Raiders Blast Bristol Hard

LONDON, April 12—(CP).—German air raiders did severe damage and started many fires last night in attacks confined almost entirely to the west, south and southwest coasts, the Government said today.

(The Germans claimed Portsmouth was one of the principal targets.

Waves of German raiders battered their way through intense ground and air defences at Bristol, subjecting that southwestern English port to "a very heavy raid."

The Nazis unleashed their slashing attack by the light of a full moon and used a "hit-twice" technique, following up early bombings with a fierce final attack.

John Winant, the United States Ambassador, arrived here this morning a few hours after the raid, looked over the town, and commented:

"The courage and fortitude of the wounded and other victims of the raid is the most remarkable thing I ever have seen."

The assault was described as particularly severe in the west, and a communique said casualties there were "rather heavy." The number killed and wounded elsewhere, however, was comparatively mall.

Two of the raiders were reported officially to have been downed, bringing to 40 the number destroyed since Monday.

General Wilson Commander Army In Greece

LONDON, April 12—(CP). — Lt.-Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, a six-foot Etonian with 40 years' army service, first man to command a completely mechanized unit in the British army, is in command of the British forces strung along the British-Greek defence line, now in contact with the invading Germans.

A terse announcement from the Ministry of Information last night divulged this fact but gave no other details, except to say that Gen. Wilson is acting under the Greek commander-in-chief, Gen. Papagos.

Only a few weeks ago Prime Minister Churchill paid tribute to him as "one of our finest tacticians."

Gen. de Wiart is a veteran of the first Great War, in which he was wounded eight times, losing an eye and an arm. (London has not as yet confirmed this report).

German Planes In Waves Raze Piraeus

ATHENS, April 12—(AP)— The German air force sent 16 waves of bombs over the Port of Piracus in a four-hour raid last night. Defenders shot down two Nazi bombers and a third was believed to have fallen into the sea, the Greeks said. A small steamer was sunk by dive bombers.

The Ministry of Information in London reported that a British armored car patrol yesterday "successfully shot up" a German infantry unit which was unloading from buses in the Bitolj (Monastir) area. The ministry said the British patrol suffered no casualties.

Churchill Visits Bristol Scene Of Night Bombing

BRISTOL, England, April 12 — (CP).—Prime Minister Churchill said today that "Australian and New Zealand troops may be in contact with the enemy today in the classic land of Greece, fighting with the sons of Britain and playing an important part in the universal drama."

He spoke in bombed-scarred University of Bristol, where, as Chancellor, he invested the United States Ambassador, John Winant, and the Australian Prime Minister, R. G. Menzies, with honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws. A similar degree was conferred in absentia on President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University. Despite last night's severe air raid, a large crowd assembled for the ceremony.

"It is indeed a marvellous fact," Mr. Churchill said, "that Australia and New Zealand, who are separated from us in Europe with its passions and quarrels, by great ocean spaces, should send their manhood and scatter their wealth upon this world cause under no law or constitution, bond or treaty, with thoroughness and efficiency which is not to be gained by the harsh and rigid methods upon which other empires have been constructed."

The Prime Minister toured bombed areas before the ceremony.

Give It Back to Them

Shaking hands with many grimy civil defence workers worn by an all-night fight against air raiders, Mr. Churchill told them, "God bless you all. We will give it back to them."

In his speech conferring the degrees the Prime Minister said:

"I go about the country whenever I can escape for a few hours or days from my duty at headquarters and I see damage done by the enemy's attacks, but I also see, side by side with the devastation and amid the ruins, glad, confident, bright and smiling eyes, gleaming with consciousness of being associated with a movement finer, higher, wider than any human or personal issues.

20,000 Captured

LISBON, Portugal, April 12—(AP).—Dispatches from Nozambique, Portuguese East Africa, today said more than 20,000 Italian war prisoners had reached the Union of South Africa and been put to work at their peacetime trades.

Four thousand prisoners are employed in opening a new road between Cape Town and Worcester, with the British Government paying their maintenance expenses, the reports said.

Greek Forces Reached Free Territory

LONDON, April 12.—(CP).—Reuters News Agency reported from Athens to-day a statement by a semi-official Athens news agency branding as "most exaggerated" reports that the number of Greeks troops cut off and captured east of the Vardar river exceeded 80,000.

"Greek forces in this area were much smaller than this and furthermore, thousands of them were able to withdraw in time and reach free Greek territory," the report sadi.

(A German military spokesman claimed Thursday that Greek prisoners captured in Thrace numbered more than 80,000 and that the "final number will be much greater," since the count was not finished.)

"Foreign broadcast stations have announced Greek forces which were cut off to the east of Vardar river and capitulated exceeded 80,000," the Athens dispatch carried by the British agency said.

"Authorized circles here state these reports are most exaggerated and were given for tendentious reasons.

"It is pointed out that in every way Greek troops who were operating in this region carried out their duty and are worthy of universal admiration.

Desert Force Meets Axis Near Tobruk

Troops In Contact With Enemy British Announces

CAIRO, Egypt, April 12 —(AP)— British desert troops in Libya, reinforced by a flood of battle-wise veterans of the ebbing East African campaign, were reported engaged west of Tobruk today with the Axis divisions which Prime Minister Churchill has termed a threat to Egypt.

Throughout the 400-mile advance of Axis forces in the past three weeks the British have insisted they were merely withdrawing light covering forces to a concentration point where they could fight with "assurance of success."

Today it appeared this second battle of Cirenaica would be fought on the rolling tableland between Tobruk and the Gebel El Achdar range —"home grounds" for the British who know every water hole and gully in the area.

Beyond a terse official announcement that "our troops are in contact with the enemy west of Tobruk," no details of the British operations were disclosed, however. Tobruk is only 80 miles from the Egyptian border.

The German-Italian mechanized columns, now more than 800 miles from their base in Tripoli, were said to include several German armored divisions, strongly supported by aircraft.

British sources gave no indication of the volume of troop movements from East Africa to Libya.

Of East Africa, a British communique last night said that imperial troops were driving southward in Eritrea in pursuit of scattered Ital-

ATHENS, Greece, April 12 — (AP). — Nazi panzer units, clashing with Greek forces on the west flank of the Allied Hellenic defence line and thrusting steadily toward the east flank appeared to-day to be forcing a climatic struggle in the battle for Greece.

The Greek High Command announced that German forces, smashing through from Bitolj, Yugoslavia, had reached the Greek lines in the Phlorina sector on the west flank, while on the east flank, an Athens Government spokesman said, Nazi troops "have penetrated further" but without reaching the main defences.

With the land forces poised for the big battle, the Royal Air Force announced its bombers had kept up a steady pounding of the Germans in Southern Yugoslavia and Northern Greece.

Particularly heavy attacks were reported against the South Yugoslav towns of Veles and Prilep and the village of Kilkis, in Northern Greece.

Despite bad weather, the R.A.F. made repeated low-level attacks on the Germans on Thursday and yesterday between Bitolj and Prilep, the communique said, resulting in the destruction of seven tanks and a number of lorries set afire.

Germans advancing in darkness towards Kilkis and in the Galikos area were both bombed and machine-gunned and were thrown into "great confusion," it added. At Polykastron an important road bridge was reported blown up.

Two R. A. F. planes were lost.

Delayed reports from the front said advance units of the German army had encountered British patrols between Gianitsa (Yanitza)—48 miles north of Mount Olympus, eastern anchor of the defence line—and the Aegean coast, in the first contact between the Nazis and the British Expeditionary Force in Greece.

Details of the engagement were meagre, but the British earlier had acknowledged that Gianitsa was in German hands.

Theologos Nicoloudis, Greek Press Minister, informed the residents of German-occupied Macedonia and Thrace last night that:

"Within a few hours there will start—if it has not started already—one of the most stubborn and best battles in history between the Greeks and British on one hand and the Germans on the other.

"We shall win this battle," he declared.

He urged them, in a radio address, to stand firm in "passive endurance" during the struggle and added that any failure to do so would "be treason against the Greek soldiers."

Hurled Italian Back.

The clash in the Phlorina sector, occurring within a few miles of where the Greeks hurled back an Italian onslaught five months ago was the first Greek report of fighting against the Germans since the fall of Salonika Wednesday and apparently followed a weakening of Yugoslav resistance.

Phlorina, 20 miles south of Bitolj, is the Greek terminus of a road leading to Koritza, Albania, scene of the Greeks' first big victory in their war against the Italians.

The Greek high command communique on the situation said merely: "German motorized elements coming from the direction of Bitolj came in contact with our forces in the Phlorina district.

"On the Albanian front," it added, "there was restricted activity of patrols and artillery."

The German air force, meanwhile, continued its steady pounding of the port of Piraeus in a four-hour raid during the night. A small steamer was said to have been sunk but the Greeks said two Nazi bombers, and possibly a third, were shot down.

Ford Workers Will Return To Jobs Monday

DETROIT, April 12. — (AP).— Acting swiftly after the end of a 10-day C.I.O. strike, Ford Motor Company officials started to-day to pump the life blood of production back into the industrial plant whose key unit is the world's largest factory.

More than 5,000 of the 85,000 production workers at Ford's great Rouge plant were expected to return to their jobs Monday; others will be recalled as needed.

The strike settlement yesterday was hailed by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan as an "historic step in establishing peaceful relations."

Token Message to Canadians

Londoners Surprised At Erroneous Impressions Life In Britain

Surprised by erroneous impressions Canadian correspondents have expressed about household life in wartime England, a London woman submitted the following article as a "token message to Canadian women."

(Written for The Canadian Press By MRS. MILDRED PUGH.)

LONDON, April 12 (CP)—Life is a bit of a picnic in London at present.

If anyone could peel into my home any evening this week they would agree. I am quite certain they would chuckle with us at the antics we cut and the things we do. For war, with all its horror, brings also so much that is really comical, and thank goodness we in Britain have a flair for seeing anything of that sort.

What makes life so merry in my household is the fact that we have visitors, an elderly dentist, his wife and their student son. Where their home used to be is only a crater. My family consists of my husband and self and two daughters who refused to leave London when things began to hum. They are 17 and 19 respectively and just bubbling over with life.

Now that you've met the crowd, come and look at our sleeping quarters. None of the five bedrooms is used as such. Upper floors are neither fashionable nor comfortable any more. The girls sleep in the shelter dug into the foundations of the house; my husband and I share the mattress behind the drawing room settee and our visitors have mattresses on the floor of the dining room.

What was once a kitchen for a couple of maids is now a very pleasant dining room, but it is a bit of a crush to get seven chairs round the table. The big problem, of course, is how to avoid cracking our heads together when we hear that "swish" which comes as a prelude to the bang of a bomb. The yell goes up "duck!" and duck we do.

Seven heads come together like a veritable bouquet under the table. What is to happen to our rear portions in the event of a calamity we don't stop to think.

Disorganization, Debts, Poverty And Suffering

MONTREAL, April 12 — (CP).— President N. A. M. MacKenzie of University of New Brunswick told the First National Young Men's Conference yesterday that he believed there would be "no great or revolutionary changes in the world after the war."

Almost 200 delegates from the Maritimes to British Columbia attended the conference, sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Speaking of the post-war world, Professor MacKenzie said there would be "disorganization and debts and poverty and suffering, but that is the price we pay for the luxury of war. Industry and finance and

Planes Coming Together At 575 Miles An Hour Described

By DEVON FRANCIS
(Associated Press Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, April 12—(AP)—Head-on attacks by British fighter planes to break up German bomber formations—a new attack method in which enemy planes race toward each other at a combined speed of more than 575 miles an hour—are described by a Royal Canadian aircraft pilot.

Flt.-Lt. Hartland de M. Molson of Montreal, who was shot down in a dog fight over England last October, said this form of assault, or one from the beam, was more effective than shooting from the rear.

"A head-on attack in modern aircraft," he said in a talk here before a university club, "is quite a frightening affair. Judging from our feelings, I think it must shake the Germans pretty thoroughly.

"If you can picture, let's say, 24 bombers in a formation of threes in a sort of 'V' each stepped up behind the one in front, travelling at 275 miles an hour, and then fighters also in threes coming in head-on probably over 300 miles an hour, you can imagine just how much time you have to think about what you had for lunch."

This is the way Lieut. Molson described the fight in which he was shot down, wounded:

Usually At 20,000 Feet

His squadron was sent up to intercept some Messerschmitt fighters. Such fights usually occur at around 20,000 feet.

A brief fight resulted. Then the aircraft around him seemed to vanish.

"Well to the south near the coast, I saw a large, milling mass of aircraft, like bees around a jam pot. A number of Messerschmitt 110's (twin-engine fighters) stood out distinctly, so it was obviously a real party."

Above a flock of single-engine German fighters hovered "in the sun" to pounce on any British

Oshawa Unions Endorse Hosiery Strike

OSHAWA, April 12.—Officials of the Canadian Hosiery Workers' Union, representing striking employees of the Schofield Woollen Company, engaged on defense contracts, Friday defined their proposals for a settlement. Alex Welch, national secretary of the union, stated that the workers' proposals, setting forth their willingness to negotiate with the company, have been endorsed by every other union local in Oshawa.

M. S. Campbell, Federal conciliation officer at Ottawa, has been given the proposed terms and has also been informed that "the union committee is seeking an appointment with the company Saturday for presentation of the adopted conditions," Welch stated.

Meanwhile, differences between company officals and employees of Coulter Manufacturing Limited, have been settled through negotiations, George Burt, regional director in Canada for the U.A.W.A., C.I.O. affiliate, revealed Friday. A strike at the Coulter plant last month resulted in establishment of a Board of Conciliation, but the agreement was reached in direct negotiation between union and company at the suggestion of the board.

The agreement, signed by both parties, includes the right of collective bargaining, union recogniton, pay increases, seniority, and levelling off of wages in cases where two men are working together at differing wages. The increases provide five cents an hour more for the majority of employees and a minimum hiring rate of 27½ cents per hour for girl workers, Burt stated.

Plans are going ahead for the mass union parade Saturday afternoon and delegations of hosiery workers 'unions from Toronto, Hamilton and London have notifed the Oshawa local that they will attend. Other groups in the parade will include Local 222 U.A.W.A., steelworkers, typographical, printing pressmen, bakers and milk drivers, and the U.A.W.A. Ladies' Auxiliary.

The union's proposal is that: "The Schofield Woollen Company enter into a written agreement with the Canadian Hosiery Workers' Union, Local 18, Oshawa, and with the Minister of Labor of the Dominion Government, that if (the company) will be bound by the findings of a board of conciliation and investigation which will be set up immediately, that the Federal Department of Labor and the Minister of Labor will give their written assurance that should such board recommend wage increases in excess of 5 per cent; then, and in that event, the Department of Labor or the Minister will not overrule such findings—that the findings of the board make the wage increases it recommends retroactive to the date when the employees return to work."

F. J. Ainsoorough, conciliation officer in the Department's Toronto office, had tried to adjust the dispute on April 3 and informed the strikers that he could not go beyond the provisions of the order-in-council, P.C. 7440. This order-in-council stipulates that should a conciliation board find for an increase of more than five per cent on the cost of living figure set by the Department for the locality in which the strike takes place the Department can nullify the board's findings and appoint a new board.

In an answer to a telegram to Ottawa asking information on penalties under the Industrial Disputes and Investigation Act, conciliation officer Campoell wired back that under the act "any employee who goes on strike contrary to the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each day or part of a day that the employee is on strike and that any person who incites, encourages or aids in any manner any employer to declare or continue on strike contrary to the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars."

In his telegram Campbell stated that "Ainsborough advises he did not say that the Department would forbid the company paying higher than previous rates. He does agree, however that he as mediator in attempting to bring about direct settlement made it clear that he could not go beyond provisions of P.C. 7440. He was endeavouring to obtain settlement on a basis which would grant employees a substantial cost of living bonus."

15 Acclamations Expected In Manitoba

WINNIPEG, April 12—(CP). — More than 100 candidates were expected to be officially nominated by 1 p.m. C.S.T. (3 p.m., EDT) today to send the Manitoba election campaign on the 10-day home-stretch, ending April 22, voting day. At least 15 acclamations, all supporters of Premier Bracken's Coalition government, were anticipated.

A few hours before the nomination deadline only one candidate was definitely in the field in each of 19 of the 45 single-member constituencieso. In the 46th, Winnipeg, which elects 10 members, 28 persons had announced their candidature, including two former mayors of Winnipeg and the present mayor, John Queen.

The election is the first test of Premier Bracken's Coalition Government formed last November by Liberal-Progressives, Conservatives, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and Social Credit groups. The last election in 1936 returned a Liberal-Progressive Government.

The Premier's Coalition Liberal-Progressives, who held 21 seats in the last Legislature, were unopposed early today in 12 constituencies, Coalition Conservatives in four, and Coalition C.C.F. and Coalition Social Credit in one each. There was a possibility the anti-Coalition Social Credit League might contest some of these seats.

Defended Desert.

Gen. Wilson became general officer commanding in chief of the British troops in Egypt in 1939 and was responsible, the Information Ministry said, for the defence of the western desert frontier during the "difficult months after the collapse of France and the entry of Italy into the war."

In 1935 he succeeded Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, now commander of British forces in the Middle East, as commander of the Sixth Infantry Brigade and whipped it into a high-speed striking force of one machine-gun battalion and three rifle battalions—the first completely mechanized unit in the British army.

Gen. Wilson is known among his fellow officers as a man of exceptional initiative. He won the Queen's Medal with two clasps and the King's Medal with one clasp in the South African campaign, while in the first Great War, during which he served as a regimental staff officer, he was mentioned three times in dispatches and awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

U.S. Demands Send Hog Prices Higher

TORONTO, April 12 — (CP). — Steers and heifers on the cattle division of the Toronto Live Stock Market were cleared at prices 15 cents or more higher this week while cows declined 25 cents. Calves were steady to strong while hogs gained 15 to 20 cents a cwt. and lambs held steady at last week's decline. Sheep also were steady.

A keen demand for steers and heifers, particularly hand weights, brought an active market at higher prices. Weighty steers sold at $9.50 for tops with others from $9.35 downward to $8.25. Butcher steers sold at $7.75 to $9.10 and butcher heifers at $7.50 to $8.75. Butcher cows sold at $4.50 to $6.50, with canners and cutters at $3.00 to $4.25. Bulls sold steady at $5.00 to $6.50. Fed calves were at $8.75 to $10 a cwt. and light western stock calves sold at $7.50 to $8.00, with heavier stockers downward to $6.00. Good milkers and springers sold steady at $80 to $90 each.

Calves were strong at $11 to $12 for choice, with a few koshers up to $13. Common lights sold at $6.00 to $8.00 a cwt.

Sharp advances in the United States sent Toronto hog prices higher and the close was at $11.35 to $11.50 dressed for stock yards and packing plants. Live sales on the yards closed at $8.50. Sows were $7.25 to $7.75 dressed.

Sheep and lamb supplies included $2,530 Westerns. The lamb run was too heavy and daily holdovers were frequent. A clearance was made on Wednesday at $9.50 to $10.50 for the Westerns. Better quality Western lambs sold on Monday and Tuesday at $10.65 to $10.75 a cwt. Sheep were steady at $3 to $6 a cwt. according to quality. Spring lambs sold at from $11.00 to $13.50 each for the weights of 60 to 80 pounds, with lighter lambs downward to $9.00 each.

"That we should be assembled here, and gathered in this way, is such a mark of fortitude and phelgm, of a courage, of a detachment from material facts worthy of all that we have learned to believe of ancient Rome or of modern Greece."

Of Mr. Winant, the Prime Minister observed:

"He is a man whose whole life has been a preparation for a cause which he is now called upon, in a position of great responsibility and influence, to sustain.

"I must assure all of the strong feeling of uplift and encouragement, the strong feeling of the grandeur and imperishable character of our cause which association with him raises in my breast.

"He is interpreter of the great republic to us and he is our interpreter and friend sending back his messages across the ocean to them."

Of Mr. Menzies, the Prime Minister said:

"He brings with him strong assurances of the democracy of the Australian Commonwealth that they will with us go through this long, fierce, dire struggle to a victorious end.

"It is indeed a marvellous fact that Australia and New Zealand, who are separated from us in Europe, with its passions and quarrels, by the great ocean spaces, send their manhood and scatter their wealth upon this world cause without any law, any bond, nor treaty obliging them to spend a shilling or a man. Yet the whole force and strength of those communities moves with an efficiency, with a thoroughness, with an alacrity which is not to be contained in the harsh and rigid methods upon which other empires have been constructed."

After receiving his degree, Mr. Winant said, "I shall always think first of the patience and character and courage of the people of Bristol."

Mr. Menzies declared people of Britain are fighting magnificently not only in battle but in their homes.

It was equally true, he said, "that in this war Britain had had prepared for her by years of political diversity a spokesman and leader who had expressed more perfectly than anyone could ever have hoped all the longings, fortitude and courage, determination and passionate faith of the people whom he led."

Describing the ambassador as "a great human being" Mr. Menzies said: "The true bond with the American people is not a bond that springs from treaty and great things, but is in truth the bond of a simple common humanity. This is humanity's war and it will go down in history as one in which the cause of humanity as espoused by the common people of many countries and of the two great democracies of the world."

Bancroft Pays Last Tribute Pilot Officer

BANCROFT, April 12.—(Special) One of the largest funerals to have been conducted in Bancroft for a number of years took place Wednesday afternoon when the remains of the late Pilot Officer Leslie Allen Broad of the R.C.A.F. of Trenton, killed in an air crash near Wooler Monday afternoon, was conveyed from the Martin Funeral home in Belleville to the community hall in Bancroft.

The pupils of Bancroft public and continuation school formed a guard of honor for the funeral cortege which arrived in town shortly after noon escorted by several cars of close friends and relatives.

Members of Bancroft Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 482 of which the deceased was a member, also several past masters and the pall bearer met the procession, the bearers conveying the remains into the hall. Following a short Masonic service two Masonic guards of honor were stationed, being released at intervals until the main service commenced at three o'clock p.m.

Over sixty members of the local lodge marched from their hall to the community hall forming in a body after entering. Several members of the Air Force from Trenton were in attendance, also a detachment of "A" Company, Bancroft, 2nd Battalion of H. & P.E. Regiment Reserve Army. These together with a capacity audience stood while the sorrowing relative entered the hall.

The exceptional large display of floral tributes exemplified the esteem in which the late Leslie A. Broad was held in this community.

The service was conducted by N. R. Flower of Bancroft United Church assisted by Dr. J. Semple of Bridge Street United Church of Belleville, Flight Lieutenant E. C. McCullach of Trenton Airport, Rev. W. J. Davis of Cannifton United Church and the Rev. G. A. Gordier of St. John's Anglican Church, Bancroft

The choir of St Paul's United Church was in attendance assisted by Miss Jessie Colling, organist, and Miss M. Marson, soloist, who sang 'The Old Rugged Cross."

Following the close of the service the procession led by the lodge and local militia proceeded to Mount Pleasant Cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Mr. Flower. Immediately following the worshipful master took charge of the Masonic portion of the burial service assisted by the officers and brethern of the lodge and visiting brethern.

The Masonic pall-bearers were Bro. E. Manuel, Bro. Robert Kellar, Bro. Collie Stringer, Bro. Walter Mullett, Wor. Bro. Reginald Wiggins, and Wro Bro. John Wiggins.

The late Leslie A. Broad was survived by his parents and his ten-year-old son, Eugene; three brothers, Clifford of Bancroft, George of Rouyn, Quebec, and Alex of Belleville.

Fire Epidemic Blamed On Small Boys

COBOURG, April 12.—(ENS). — For the fifth straight day burning grass called the fire department out as two fires were extinguished Friday.

The first of these occurred on a vacant lot east of Mrs. Purser's on the corner of Chapel and Walton street.

The second, another grass fire, broke out back of the Presbyterian church on Burke street and the firemen once more were forced to use brooms and shovels to conquer the blaze.

The fires were due to warm summer weather which has made the Easter week-end such a joy to well dressed strollers.

Old men say this is the earliest spring they have seen in their history.

However the aged weather prophets are not too optimistic regarding the future weather for April at least. The last of the month may witness some late winter weather if their predictions run true to form. They believe the early summer warmth too good and too early to last.

All Cobourg Churches Plan Special Services

COBOURG, April 12—(ENS)—There will be special Easter services in all the churches both morning and evening Sunday. At St. Peter's there will be Holy Communion at 7, 8, 10, 11 a.m. Sermon "He Is Risen" will be delivered by Rev. Dean Armitage at the 11 o'clock service. Guest soloist, Miss Isobel Lloyd. Special music by the choir at the evening service.

St. Andrew's will have Y.P.S. Sunrise Service at 8 o'clock. At 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. there will be special music by both choirs. Rev. W. O. Nugent will preach.

At Trinity United there will be a special Easter sermon by Rev. W. P. Woodger. Easter music by the choir. Soloists, Miss Muriel Cooper, Dorothy Hughes, Olive Page and Mrs. A. R. Richards.

The choir will present special Easter music at Baptist church and a sermon appropriate to the day will be preached by Rev. Dr. MacLean.

Bicyclist Suffers Injury To His Leg

Pat Harte-Maxwell, 110 Simcoe street, sustained a bruised leg and shock Thursday night when he was spilled from his bicycle at Hunter and George streets in a collision between the bicycle he was riding and an automobile.

The car was driven by L. R. Gibson, R.R. 2, Millbrock, who was driving east on Hunter street and made a left hand turn to go north on George street. As he did so the lad on the bicycle, travelling west on Hunter street, crossed the intersection and the car and wheel came into contact. The boy was thrown off and one wheel of his bicycle buckled.

Gibson took the injured lad to the office of Dr. J. M. O'Brien for treatment and then drove him to his home.

Two Cars Damaged

Extensive damage was done to two motor vehicles when a taxi cab collided with a parked automobile on George street, north of Dublin street at 5.15 o'clock this morning.

A car belonging to John H. Morrison, 631 George street, was parked outside of that address when Jack Finnie, 19 Dennistoun avenue, driving a taxi belonging to Harry Finniet, south of George street smashed into the motion vehicle.

Morrison's car was virtually demolished by the impact and the taxi machine suffered considerable damage to its left front wheel, fender, bumper and headlights.

Finnie told police that the accident happened when he had to pull suddenly to the right to avoid hitting a north bound car travelling without lights.

Religious Drama Presented

The religious drama presented by the Young People's Union of George Street United Church on the evening of Good Friday marks the sixth year of similar presentations arranged by members to bring home the deep religious significance of the Easter season. Last evening's presentation of "The Alabaster Box," directed by Miss Betty O'Brian and depicting three scenes, the first the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus on Good Friday; the second on Easter Eve, and the third on Eastern morn, was portrayed by each member of the cast with a full appreciation of the character to be interpreted. The stage-setting and the flowing costumes typical of robes worn by Eastern people, added to the impressiveness of the drama.

Rev. H. L. Roberts was chairman, and between scenes vocal solos were given by Miss Loretta McDougal with Mr. Max Parnall at the piano.

Miss Mary Walker was script girl; Mrs. J. Burnham and Miss Norma Rennie were in charge of costumes; Miss Wilda Saunders, Miss Olive Mason, Miss Helen Wellman in charge of make-up, and Mr. Jake Burnham, Mr. Eric Mason, Mr. Dave Metcalfe, Mr. John Blair in charge of stage setting. The cast was as follows: Martha, Miss Margaret Edmison; Mary, Miss Mary Duncan; Lazarus, Orville Wainman; Bartimaeus, Harold Barnard; Simon, Kenneth Burnham; John Mark, Donald Anderson; Judith, Robt. Parnall.

Mother Is Slain By Son Aged 23

SEATTLE, April 12.—(AP)—The puzzling death of a mother and son in the bathroom of their home here was listed as a slaying and suicide today by Detective Captain Marshall Scrafford and Coroner Otto H. Mittelstadt.

The officers said Roy Terence Lamb, 23, apparently fatally stabbed his mother, Mrs. Laura Lamb, 43, and left her, clothed, in the partially-filled bathtub, then plunged a stiletto-like weapon into his own chest. A neighbor found the bodies yesterday after having noticed radio and lights on for two days and nights.

Scrafford said neighbors told investigating officers that on several occasions the son had remarked concerning his mother than if she didn't stop talking so much about her private affairs he would "bump her off."

The officers said Mrs. Lamb, who formerly lived at New Westminster, B.C., had talked incessantly to neighbors about a Canadian friend of 20 years ago, now a Royal Air Force officer in Egypt.

The coroner and detective captain expressed belief that two notes they found written by Mrs. Lamb were in anticipation of going away rather than of suicide and the son became angered when he found them. The officers said one note was addressed to her husband, Harry Lamb, 49, now in Chicago, and the other to the flier.

TORONTO, April 12 — (CP). — Wholesale poultry prices were unchanged here today.

War Is Not Lost

not bring them back Graziani's lost armies. Or Ethiopia, or Eritrea. Or put their submarines under the Red Sea again.

And what's happened in Greece and Yugoslavia? No one expected either Thrace or Croatia to be held. The Serbian and the British Armies have retreated, but as everyone knew they would have to retreat—being outnumbered and out-equipped — into the mountains.

It all happened a little quicker than we expected. It's bad news all right. But is it as bad as this city seems to be moaning? I can't remember when I've seen this town take the nose dive into the dumps that New York has taken in the last 48 hours.

A couple of weeks ago we were resigned to the old Yugoslavian government's sell-out — to more conquest by telephone. Would that have been better?

What in the world did we expect to have happen The unprepared Greeks and a coupe of mechanized British divisions—and the Greeks with three fronts to man—chopping up a carefully planned Blitz with 500,000 men behind it? Go on! We hoped —But what did we expect? Nonsense.

We knew it wouldn't be good and we also knew, however bad it was, it was better than Yugoslavia being sold up the Danube without a gun fired against the Nazis.

Take it easy. A battle in the Balkans can't lose the war for anyone but Hitler. There's no evidence yet that it hasn't been managed smartly by our side, that the British and their Allies haven't made the best of a bad setup.

This in the spring of 1941 when we knew we had bad news coming to us — when the offensives the Nazis had been planning all winter would be launched. But it is also the spring in which every month sees the U.S.A. stronger and able to help. Boy—if there was ever a time of which it could accurately be said: "We haven't begun to fight," this is it!

Mary Magdalene Comforted By Her Risen Lord

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus saith unto Mary: Touch Me not—go to My brethren.
St. John 20; 17.

"Jesus knew what was in man" is the confident statement of His best friend, St. John, the beloved disciple. To Thomas He says: "Reach hither thy finger and behold My hands". The Master shows Himself to be the wise physician in the things of the spirit. The out-spoken Thomas demands physical proof of the resurrection. He is so satisfied and convinced that he utters the shortest and greatest creed of this Gospel: "My Lord and my God".

The temperamental and highly sensitive Mary Magadalene is commanded to go and tell His brethren the good news: "Say unto them, I ascend unto My Father and Your Father; and to My God and your God". Why? Her mind is absorbed in her personal trouble. She has lost her Teacher—Rabboni. She is to learn that He is now more than her Teacher of the old days.

Do you remember that great, overwhelming sorrow? The next day the cares and responsibilities of home or business called for attention. The Teacher said to you: "Go". The work had to be done and in doing it you recovered both your mental and spiritual balance. Your duties took your mind off yourself. You were in grave danger of becoming self centred in your sorrow.

I am not yet ascended to My Father, says the Lord Jesus. His deepest longing is to look upon the Face of His Father. His human Soul longs for the beautific vision of God. He is risen from the dead and living on a spiritual plane. Mary Magdalene is to learn that His return from the grave is not like that of Lazarus, who must die once more. He is alive for ever more. He ever liveth. His Body is the spiritual Body transfigured for His spiritual life. A glimpse of that Body was seen by the Apostles in Our Lord's transfiguration on the Mount.

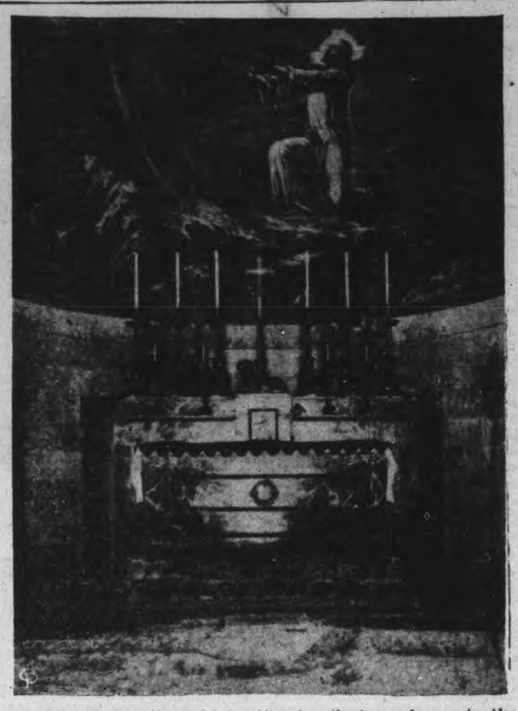
Our Lord risen from the grave was living on a spiritual plane. That is why He could not reveal Himself to the High Priest or Pontius Pilate. They were blind spiritually. In the days of His ministry they could not see His beauty and goodness. They are still the same. An unmusical man cannot enjoy a great symphony concert. To him it is a noise. For the same reason spiritual things are spiritually discerned.

She, supposing Him to be the gardener. St. Augustine quaintly comments that He is the true gardener of her soul. He is sowing in her heart the grain of mustard seed which some day will grow and develop and multitudes will learn to touch Him with the finger of faith and discover Him to be their true teacher; for He is a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief and is full of compassion.

I am not yet ascended to My Father. He will take with Him His glorified human body. For the first time since creation the Father will look upon Man Who is indeed in the image of God. God will look upon Him and say: "He is very Good".

Touch Me not. Mary is to be taught that she must not touch Him because she lacks the spirit of reverence. There is a hint in the words: "I am not yet ascended unto My Father". She has no thought of worshipping Him as God: There are many Christians who have to learn this lesson. They speak of Him so carelessly and familiarly that you would never assume that they were speaking of the God-Man, Jesus Christ. "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us".

I AM THAT LIVETH, AND WAS DEAD: AND, BEHOLD, I AM ALIVE FOR EVERMORE.



One of the sites which attracts pilgrims who go to the Holy City to attend the Easter services. It is a view of the Bare Rock in front of the main altar in the Basilica church at Gethsemane, believed to be that on which Jesus Christ and His disciples rested. Above the altar is a beautiful mosaic of Christ praying, "Let This Cup Pass From Me."

Christ Shows Himself Alive After Rising From The Tomb

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 13 is Luke 24:1-43, the Golden Text being Rev. 1:18, "I was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore.")

MATTHEW, Mark, Luke and John all have accounts of the ressurrection of our Lord, which differ in minor points, as is natural when different persons tell the same story. The variations are not very important.

Christ was crucified on Friday, Saturday was the Jewish Sabbath, when all rested and refrained from all but necessary work. So the first days of the new week, Sunday, St. Luke tells us, Mary Magdalene, Joanna and Mary the mother of James, and other women, went to the tomb, taking with them the spices and ointments which they had procured on Friday, to anoint the body.

The sepulchre had been sealed, as the enemies of Jesus thought some of His disciples might try to take away the body. A huge stone was placed in front of it. This stone was rolled away when the women came to the tomb, and as they entered they saw the body was not there. Turning, they beheld two men clad in shining garments, and when, frightened, the women bowed themselves to the earth, the men asked, "Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen: remember how He spake unto you, when He was yet in Galilee, saying, The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again. And they remembered His words."

Women Not Believed

The women ran from the tomb and told the disciples. "And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not."

Mark tells us that Mary Magdalene was the first one to whom Jesus disclosed Himself. Matthew also says He made Himself manifest to Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary," and that they "held His feet and worshipped Him before running to tell the disciples."

Luke tells us that after hearing the woman's story, Peter went to the tomb and found the linen clothes that had wrapped Jesus, laid aside, and that he went away "wondering in himself at that which was come to pass."
